Paragraph Opinions . . .

THE SENSIBLE THING—

The Mayor and Town Council have done the sensible thing that many other citizens are doing. They have realized that the only way to stop setting off fireworks, is to stop the sale of them, and they expect to pass such an ordinance as soon as it is drawn up properly.

Each year the number of injuries and deaths increases where there are no restrictions. It is ironic that so many people must suffer for the celebration of our independence.

Banning the sale of fireworks will go far in making next Fourth of July and succeeding ones really safe and sane.

That is as it should be.

New Telephone Directories Are Being Distributed

Important changes in the new Garrett County telephone directory that is being delivered, which it is believed will make it more useful and easier to read, have been announced by Manager W. R. Pancake, of the telephone company.

In the past telephone subscribers were listed under their exchange, but with this issue all names are published in one alphabetical list and the exchange is shown after each name.

In addition the forthcoming directory will have a new cover featuring a symbolic figure, "The Spirit of Communication," which since 1916 has crowned the tower of the headquarters building of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in New York City. It will also be set in a new type especially designed for Bell System telephone directories which is clearer and easier to read than the type formerly used.

In addition to Oakland, Avilton, Blaine and Kitzmiller, this directory will include the listings of subscribers at Accident and Friendsville.

Subscribers are requested by Mr. Pancake to be careful and remove all personal papers from their directories before discarding them. He also urges that old directories be destroyed when the new book is delivered, because there have been many changes in telephone numbers. Approximately 850 directories are being distributed in this county.

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Life in Washington for the most part is a deadly serious but frequently it is made highly pleasant by flashes of humor. Of course it is the unconscious humor which gives the most joy—and there has been a great deal of that kind of humor coming from New Dealers in recent months.

For instance, there was the declaration of Attorney General Frank Murphy, made in his most solemn and pious manner, the great need of the hour was the reduction of the payrolls of Federal, State and local governments by one million persons and $1,000,000,000 annually. Mr. Murphy was quite right about it but he is the last man in the world who should have made such a statement. It was as ludicrous as though Stalin had denounced terrorism.

In the first place, the Roosevelt Administration, of which Mr. Murphy is a part, is responsible for adding several hundred thousand jobholders to the public payroll. In the second place, he has 120 special assistants, who receive better than $600,000 yearly, chiefly because of their political drag. In the third place, the Hon. Murphy, when Governor of Michigan, loaded up the payrolls of that State with several thousand additional jobholders.

Even New Dealers Laughed

Is it any wonder that even intimates of the White House burst into uproarious laughter when they read the Murphy pronouncement? And the laughter became louder when it was learned that at the very time the statement was made the unctuous Attorney General was engaged in finding a job in his department for the lame duck Thomas J. Heflin, the Alabama buffoon of a few years ago.

Even more humorous than the Murphy incident were the simulated indignation and anguish of the New Dealers, from the President down, when the Senate undertook to end his discretionary and dangerous authority to tinker with the value of the dollar. Instead of retrieving a power which properly belongs to Congress, one would have thought that the Senate had sought to abolish the Presidency, so loudly and fiercely did Mr. Roosevelt cry out.

The entire corps of New Deal propagandists went to work on that one. It will be recalled that the move to end the President's power to devalue the dollar was brought about by a coalition of Republicans and Democrats, who also banned the purchase of foreign silver by the Treasury but fixed the Treasury price for newly-mined domestic silver at 77½ cents an ounce.

Lindley Becames Hysterical

Why, cried the New Deal propagandists, it was awful for Republicans to join in any such "deal." Even the usually intelligent and calm Ernest K. Lindley, who writes the most sensible syndicated column in behalf of the New Deal, became hysterical. The Senate Republicans, he said, "have voted for a chunk of legalized graft for the domestic producers of silver."

What makes this so ludicrous is that when the Treasury, by proclamation of the President, was paying the domestic silver producers 77½ cents an ounce back in 1935, 1936 and 1937, neiter Mr. Lindley nor any of the other New Deal apologists called it "legalized graft." Nor did they brand as "legalized graft" the millions of American dollars which went into the pockets of foreign speculators under the Roosevelt foreign silver purchase program. All this, they said, was necessary to assure the "more abundant life."

Nor did Mr. Lindley scream "legalized graft" a few days later when the New Deal leaders in Congress, in an effort to save the President's devaluation powers, made a "deal" with the silver bloc to fix by law the price of domestic silver at 70 cents an ounce.

Oh no! Such "deals" are quite all right when the New Dealers engage in them. But it is awful—it is "legalized graft"—when the Republicans, in an effort to wipe out a much greater evil, namely, the President's power to tinker with the dollar, agree to give the domestic silver producers a subsidy of approximately $7,000,000 annually above the current Treasury subsidy.

Typical New Deal Attitude

Mr. Lindley failed to become excited when his New Deal friends last year paid out $223,500,000 for the purchase of foreign silver. But that, of course, is a typical New Deal attitude—it is quite all right to spend hundreds of millions on foreign silver—is quite in order for the President to laud the merit of Argentine canned beef to the detriment of the American product—but it is "legalized graft" to give American silver producers an extra $7,000,000 a year.

Indeed, Mr. Lindley became so unnerved about the incident he cried out that "the record of Congress as a whole during the last six months is enough to try the faith of the most zealous believer in our form of government." Mr. Lindley apparently believes that under "our form of government" Congress should on all occasions knuckle to the President, meekly obeying his every whim and wish.

Subservience to the Chief Executive, thank Heaven, is not a part of our form of government. Indeed, the record of Congress during the last six months has been such as to renew the faith of Americans in the preservation of the form of government which has served this country so well for 150 years. It is too bad Mr. Lindley and his New Deal friends are upset—but most people are quite jubilant about it. They have become weary and somewhat fearful over the constant lodging of discretionary power in the President. The reversal of that trend is all to the good.

BIG STATE FOREST IS GIVEN MARYLAND BY UNCLE SAM

32,000 Acres are Located in Garrett County Adjoining Savage River State Forest

Marylanders had two new playgrounds of nearly 40,000 acres today, in opposite ends of the state. The larger playground by far is in Garrett county.

The state forestry department took over 38,200 acres of land from the federal government under a 99-year lease which stipulates the state shall administer the land and take all the receipts from it.

Of the total, 32,000 acres are in the Western Maryland mountains, adjoining the Savage River state forest. The other 6,200 acres are in the tidewater area of the Eastern Shore, near the Pocomoke state forest.

Patrols Only Extra Cost

Assistant Forester Karl W. Pfeiffer said the only extra cost to the state probably would be extra patrols. He said present supervisors of the two forests could care for the new acreage, submarginal land bought for the federal government to get it out of cultivation.

The state would receive the income from sale of timber and from permits for camping in the area, he added. The forestry department "hopes", he said, that the income will be greater than the extra expense.

The areas were purchased by the federal government during the past four years under the nation-wide land utilization program. The purchased lands have been developed for forestry, wildlife conservation, and recreation.

The state department of forestry will continue the forestry program involving reforestration of open, formerly cultivated tracts, fire protection, and management of the areas in accordance with sound forestry principles. The wildlife program, including the planting of shrubs and other types of vegetation that furnish food and cover for birds and animals, will also be carried forward by the state. Recreational facilities will be maintained for the public.

Miss Marjorie Friend is spending the week in Oakland with her sister, Mrs. Elwood Hinebaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Rotruck, of Greenland Gap, spent Wednesday at the Noah Schrock home at Gortner.

Dr. and Mrs. James I. Boyd and family, of Washington, D. C., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kley from Monday until Wednesday.

These maps were made last year from an airplane at an altitude of 15,000 feet, and are to be used in connection with the three-A program in checking the compliance of farmers cooperating with the program.

There will be 200 maps when completed and will show the entire county. Maps will be available to citizens, if wanted. Some of the maps cost $1.99 each.

BEAUTY CONTEST AND BOAT REGATTA ATTRACTS 12,000

Second Annual Event Is Won By Miss Marjorie Railey, Deep Creek; Frosthurg Girl Second

ONLY ONE CAR ACCIDENT

The second annual bathing beauty contest and boat regatta held at Deep Creek Lake on Sunday attracted a crowd estimated by State Police between 10,000 and 12,000.

Selection of Miss Marjorie Railey, of Deep Creek Lake, as winner of the bathing beauty contest featured the afternoon program. Miss Railey won out in a close contest over Miss Marjorie Sluss, of Frostburg. Entrants in the contest totaled 22.

Boat races, swimming and diving events, band concert by the Oakland Boys' Band, and fireworks provided other entertainment throughout the day.

The men's sailboat race was won by Deany II, piloted by Fred Steiding with the owner, William Sluss, Frostburg, as crew. The boat captured the Cabin Lodge trophy. Second was John Steiding's Aloha, while Mrs. H. W. Tolson was third in Windward Ho.

Miss Bonnie Jane Muma, assisted by Miss Fannie Wilson, garnered the Liberty Tavern trophy in the woman's sailboat race.

There was also a four-mile motorboat parade, headed by Frank M. Wilson, of the Deep Creek Yacht club. Some thirty craft participated.

Other features included surf-board feats by William Heid, Perryville, Pa., and a life-saving demonstration by a group from Luke. Winners of swimming events were announced as follows:

Lydia Kingsbury, Gibson Island, junior girl 25-yard free style; Anne Smith, Cumberland, senior girl 50-yard free style and 25-yard backstroke; Bill Campbell, Pittsburgh, junior 25-yard free style and senior boys 50-yard free style; Billy Lynch, Cumberland, senior boy 25-yard breast stroke; Charles Spiker, Saverna Lick, junior boy 25-yard backstroke; Bill Moore, Pittsburgh, senior boy 25-yard backstroke.

Judges in the bathing beauty contest included William R. Offutt, Gorman Thayer and Raymond D. Houck, Oakland; Henry M. Speicher, Accident; Walter W. Wittig, Frostburg; John J. Tipton, William M. Somerville, Ralph Thomas and Fulcher P. Smith, Cumberland; and Raymond Schultz, Clarksburg, W. Va.

Traffic moved slowly between Rainbow Inn and Deep Creek bridge, hundreds of cars being parked almost the entire way and in nearby lots at both Cabin Lodge and Stone Tavern.

The only accident to mar the celebration Sunday occurred about 6 p. m. at Red House. Joseph Cruthers, 39, Cumberland, traveling south on route 219, crashed into a machine driven by Andrew T. Everly, of Washington, D. C., traveling east on route 50. Occupants of both cars escaped injury, except a young lady riding in Cruthers' vehicle. She suffered a sprained left foot.

Corporal Thomas Currie, who investigated, said Cruthers and his companion were returning to Cumberland after spending the day at the Lake. Cruthers was charged with failing to stop at a stop sign.

JOHNSTOWN SYMPHONY TO BE AT THE PARK JULY 29-30

To Present Two Programs In Amphitheatre There

The Johnstown Symphony Orchestra of 80 pieces can be heard for twenty-five cents in the Amphitheatre at Mt. Lake Park, Md., on Saturday evening, July 29, at 7:45 p. m., and Sunday afternoon, July 30, at 2:45 p. m. The local management desires that this unique opportunity to hear a Symphony orchestra be within purchase range of the general public, but 2500 tickets must be sold to make expenses. Organizations are being asked to have their entire group there in a body.

This will be the first time a symphony orchestra has ever appeared in this section. The conductor is Theodore Koerner, formerly of Germany, who has been in this country for 12 years.

This is the seventh season for the Johnstown Symphony. A suitable program is being specially rehearsed for these concerts. Apart from symphonic music there will be solos and a string quartet. The local management is suggesting that everyone who is interested in the success of this venture telephone at least ten friends.

MT. LAKE PARK RESIDENT MISSING FROM HIS HOME

Noah Gnegy, 56, Stonemason, Disappeared Over A Week Ago And Cannot Be Located

SEARCH WOODS NEAR HOME

County officers and police of two States have been searching for more than a week now, but have failed to locate Noah Gnegy, 56, of Mountain Lake Park, who has been missing since between one and two o'clock a. m., last Wednesday, July 12.

Mr. Gengy, a stonemason by occupation, has been employed at the Swallow Falls CCC camp. Relatives could give no reason why he should leave his home, according to Sheriff J. William Owens. A search has been made in the woods about the Park by CCC enrollees and the county officers.

Both Maryland and West Virginia State police are also on the look-out for him. Two reports about Oakland were found to be unfounded. One report was that he had been seen in Cumberland and another that his body had been discovered in a standpipe at the Park.

The missing man is said to have returned to his home after midnight on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Gnegy retired and has stated that her husband said he would sleep in a room on the lower floor of the home, as he was feeling ill. Another member of the family, returning home about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning said Mr. Gnegy was not in the house.

Sheriff Owens reported that the missing man weighs between 147 and 155 pounds; has black hair, heavily sprinkled with grey; grey eyes; a thin smooth face and wore a faded brown shirt with brown and white paint spots on it; a grey felt hat; light wash trousers and new black oxfords.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner Named New Member Of City Council

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner was elected as a member of the City Council at a special meeting of that organization held Monday evening. He will fill the vacancy created when Irvin R. Rudy resigned as a member of council following his Federal appointment as acting postmaster of the Oakland postoffice. No other names were presented for the vacancy.

The council also granted a permit to Corporal Thomas Currie to erect a home on his property recently purchased from Ray Teets, on Center street, between Second and Third.

Making Tests Of Town's Water System

W. L. Stephenson, engineer for the Middle Department Rating Association, Philadelphia, Pa., was in Oakland yesterday making tests of the city water system and a survey of the fire department and its equipment.

With the addition of a water line on Third street, providing for two service lines through which water may reach all parts of East Oakland, there is a possibility that the fire insurance rate in Oakland will be lowered.

Mr. Stephenson will make his report to his company and the results will not be known for several weeks.

PLAN TO PUT SELF HELP SCHOOL ON PAYING BASIS

Dr. Homer E. Cooper Is Named President—Set-up Calls For Forty Paying Students

JUNIOR COLLEGE IS AIM

A reorganization of the Self-Help School at Mountain Lake Park has resulted in the election by the Board of Directors, of Homer E. Cooper, Ph.D., late of the West Liberty State Teachers' College, as its president.

Dr. Cooper was formerly on the faculty of Westminster college and the University of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Cooper, also a Ph.D. from Columbia university, New York, will have a place on the teaching staff. She was for five years the psychologist at the Horace Mann School in New York City.

Mr. U. G. Palmer, of Verona, Pa., former superintendent of schools of this county, and a retired educational man, is assisting in the reorganization plan in an advisory capacity. Mr. Palmer said the "set-up" for school the coming year contemplates the reconditioning of Hamilton Hall, to be used as a dormitory for both boys and girls, two years' instruction, junior college grade, fifteen hours of work per week and the payment of $225 per year per student. Of this amount $180 is to provide food, utilities, etc., and $15 for administration, with a limit of 40 resident students for the present.

A limited number of scholarships of $100 each is being provided to assist those who cannot pay more than $125 per year. Provision will be made, Mr. Palmer said, for the accommodation of a few day students, graduates of the local high schools, to do the first two years of college work at a very nominal cost.

"I hope the local communities fully realize what an asset it will be to have a two-year junior college of 100 full time students operating permanently here on a sound educational and financial basis," Mr. Palmer said. "It will stabilize real estate values, business men will operate in the black and firmly establish the whole section on a high moral, spiritual and educational basis. This conclusion comes from my personal knowledge of the situation in small college towns in Western Pennsylvania such as Waynesburg, Grove City, New Wilmington, Washington, California, Indiana, Edinboro, Clarion, etc.," he concluded.

The appointment of Dr. Cooper and the plans for reorganization were made at a meeting of the Board last week, but no announcement was made until Dr. Cooper had arrived at the Park. The Board includes Earl D. Ford, Salem, W. Va.; Miss Frances Miller, D. L. Reed, C. C. Gnegy and Blair Simmons, all of Mt. Lake Park. H. M. Weeks, of the Park, is treasurer for the Board.

Purpose Is To Provide Youths With Training For Private Work

That the present total of fifty employes of the National Youth Administration in Garrett county would be doubled or tripled in the next two weeks, was announced by Carlton C. Schuller, district supervisor, at the Hagerstown office.

Getty, residence, Grantsville, week days, 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.; Arthur Scrogum, residence, Accident, week days, 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.; Mrs. Velma Steyer, residence, Kempton, week days, 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Chauncey E. Ellithorp, Bittinger resident for more than half a century, was a business visitor in Oakland on Tuesday.

ASA: A LIFE OF TRUST

LESSON TEXT—II Chronicles 14:2-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Help us, O Lord our God; for we rest on thee.—II Chronicles 14:11.

"In God we trust."

These are the words which appear on many of our United States coins. Do we believe them? The lesson for today reveals how real trust in God operates in the life of a nation. The divine principles which were in effect 900 B.C. are just as valid in A.D. 1900. A prayerful consideration of them in the Bible schools of our land today and the application of them to our national life may mean more for our country's welfare than the deliberation of statesmen or the operation of governmental agencies.

The story of the reign of Asa (one of the few godly sovereigns of the nation of Judah) reveals that trust in God calls for an upright life, for intelligent preparation, prayer, and faith. If we trust God we shall

I. Make the Life Right (vv. 2-5).

Asa "did that which was good and right in the eyes of the Lord." Only such a man or such a nation can really trust God and count on Him for guidance and blessing. Asa destroyed the idols and places of heathen worship (vv. 3, 5), but he also turned his people to the true God (v. 4).

Many are praying that America may have such a revival, which will result in the putting away of sin, which is becoming such a blatant commonplace in our land, and a turning to the true God in repentant and righteous living.

II. Prepare With Care (vv. 6-10).

Asa trusted God but he also made every possible preparation for that which his nation might face. In time of peace he fortified cities and trained his army. This was intelligent faith.

We need not pray that God will keep us warm, if we do not gather and conserve the fuel which He has provided. We must plant, harvest, and store the grain if we are to eat when winter comes. A proper preparation for the defense of our country should precede our prayers for God's protection.

In and through all it is God that works, but at the same time He expects us to do what we can as He enables us to serve Him. The work of the Church of Christ would make great strides forward if His followers would recognize that fact. "We have no right to look for divine co-operation until we have done our best; we are not to sit with folded hands and expect a complete salvation to be wrought for us, and then to continue as idle spectators of God's redemption of mankind. We are to tax our resources to the utmost, gather our hundreds of soldiers; we are to work out our 'own salvation with fear and trembling, for it is God which worketh in us both to will and to do of his good pleasure'" (W. H. Bennett).

III. Pray With Assurance (v. 11).

The Ethiopian host facing Asa's army was so great that humanly speaking his distinction was hopeless, but "one man with God at his back is always a majority." Take courage, Christian friends, trust God. Only be certain that you are on His side and that your life is right, and then be assured that He will give the victory.

The secret of Asa's victorious prayer was that he put no trust in himself, but did believe in God. Says Alexander Maclaren: "My consciousness of need is my opening the door for God to come in. Just as you always find the lakes in the hollows, so you will always find the grace of God coming into men's hearts to strengthen them and make them victorious when there has been the preparation of the lowered estimate of one's self. Hollow out your heart by self-distrust, and God will fill it with the flashing waters of His strength bestowed."

IV. Act in Faith (v. 12).

Asa went out to meet the Ethiopians, but he knew that God went before him, and therefore he saw God smite them.

Right living, proper preparation, and the prayer of faith must culminate in an act of faith. If we believe that God is for us, let us act as though we believed it and step out with confidence to do His will, come what may. God honors that kind of faith, whether it be on the part of a king, leading his nation into battle, or on the part of the humblest believer, seeking to bear testimony for Him.

Consecration

Consecration is not wrapping one's self in a holy web in the sanctuary; it is going into the world and using every power for God's glory. —Henry Ward Beecher.

A God of Justice

No one can exaggerate the goodness of God, save when he robs God of His justice and might, and paints Him as a benevolent but weak grandfather.

Paragraph Opinions . . .

Not Needed Here-

Dr. Riley. State Health director, has given us a hot weather tip. When feeling exhausted from excess perspiration on hot, muggy days, he suggests a pinch of salt in water.

The remedy may be all right.

A much better remedy, to our mind, is a vacation trip to Garrett county, where there aren't any "hot, muggy days."

They could even be a little warmer, judging from the cool breezes of last Sunday.

A list of salaries of WPA employes in Maryland, released by the Associated Press in Washington, gives rise to some interesting thoughts.

The list shows one hundred and twenty-six administrative workers who receive more than $100 monthly, 23 of them being more than $200 monthly.

Adding together the entire list it is learned that the monthly salaries total $19,753, almost $20,000. This would make a quarter of million dollars annually. This does not include those who might make less than $100, and doesn't include the traveling expenses of several of those in the list.

One gets as high at $666 monthly, another $400, two $350, and so on down the line.

Bear in mind also that these people are WPA administrators only. Not included are the many other forms of relief, welfare boards, etc.

All in all, administration costs for all agencies certainly reach a high figure. That much money would feed many hundreds of hungry mouths—if there were that many hungry mouths to feed. If not—reducing the salaries and jobs to a minimum would cut the relief expenses mightily.

Meanest Thief—An editorial in the Baltimore Sun on Tuesday called the person the meanest thief in Baltimore who broke into the office of the Maryland League for Crippled Children and took $150 from a desk. The money was to have sent twelve youngsters to a summer camp.

A criminal as contemptible as this should not long remain at liberty. His twin might he found in this county. Last week the meanest man in Garrett county took a truck into the Boy Scout camp and stole lumber which was being used to build a kitchen and dining hall. Money to pay for the lumber had been donated by citizens of Oakland. It certainly takes a lowsy person to steal from such organizations. Such a person is lower than a "snake's tummy."

Liquor Ailments—

When prohibition came to an end and it became legal again to sell whiskey in certain parts of the United States, it was the contention of dealers and others interested that proper regulations would make the liquor industry law abiding, and the country better morally and financially.

There was that same contention here when it became lawful to sell beer. But the apparent freedom with which whiskey is being sold today in Garrett county doesn't bear out that contention and is leading many to believe that before long there will be another turning toward a dry county. The beer and liquor industry will be the ones responsible, in the main, for not obeying the laws.

This doesn't mean every one who has license to sell beer is a violator, for no doubt there are a number who strictly adhere to the law. But it is the ones who break over—who think they aren't making money fast enough and who begin to sell whiskey on the sly—they are the ones who will be the cause of it.

Another responsibility could very well be laid at the door of the violators, if anyone can be held responsible for another's actions.

There are several in this community to whom liquor is a constant curse. They are unable, apparently, to separate themselves from its use and are therefore constantly under its influence. While in this state they become melancholy and depressed. At the present time there are four or five of these persons who have threatened for the past two or three months to take their own life in some manner, drowning, shooting, or in some other way.

These people should be denied whiskey by those who have it, but in order to make another nickel, or another dollar, they sell. Legally they aren't responsible for murder, but morally they are aiding and abetting. Authorities should make all efforts possible to round up those who are disregarding our liquor laws.

HOW LONG?

How long has it been since you bought a new automobile?

How long has it been since mother had a new winter coat?

How long has it been since you have been able to think seriously of buying that new and better radio?

How long has it been since you have had the financial nerve to think of a new rug for the living room?

Have you given up hope entirely of ever moving to that house down the street with the extra room for Junior because the rent is just a bit too high?

We agree, it's been too long—far too long.

The answer: NEW DEAL TAXATION.

At the same time that the New Deal has paraded itself as the saviour of the working man and the American family, it has added tax after tax—mostly hidden—to every article that same home must have and that same working man must pay for.

Do you earn $150 a month? Then you probably pay 12 per cent of every dollar—12 cents out of every dollar—of that in hidden taxes. In other words, you pay the government about $228.60 every year out of your earnings.

Did we mention a new automobile? That $230 would make a pretty good difference to pay with your old car for a new one, wouldn't it?

Did we mention a new winter coat for mother? That $230 would buy a pretty nice one and then some, wouldn't it, and then look how sweet mother looks in it as she wends her way to church on Sunday morning.

Did we mention anew rug for the living room floor? That $230 would buy one and a rug for every other room in the house, wouldn't it. It would even make that bigger house possible!

There's your New Deal for you!

And the sad part of it is, this New Deal, which says it stands for security in the home, hasn't even begun to pay the bills it has run up—don't forget that amazing national debt that has to be paid—and more taxes is the only answer.

New rug? New car? New coat? New radio? New home?

A RAW NEW DEAL

The sickening thing to me is to see applicants for relief told that they cannot get jobs because there is no money with which to pay them. They are told, "We cannot put you on WPA today because we are out of funds." Then we can look back and see the salary increases which have been given. That process is going on continually. One man in my State was receiving $3,200 per year, which was more than he ever received before in his life, but his salary was increased to $6,000. I shall not make a long statement, but simply for the information of the Senate I wish to say that I found in the State of West Virginia—and again I say it is a small State—170 individuals who received salary increases from $60 to $240 a year; 70 who received salary increases of from $300 to $600 a year; 20 who received salary increases of from $600 to $960 a year, and 11 who received salary increases of over $1,000 a year. Of the 538 administrative employes the WPA claim they have, 1 found 210 salary increases. At the same time it is said that there is no money at all to be used for relief.—Senator Rush D. Holt (D.), West Va., Congressional Record.

MARYLAND DISTINGUISHED FOR 3 IMPORTANT "FIRSTS"

Modern Dentistry Stresses Prevention of Many Diseases

Three of the "firsts" for which the State of Maryland is distinguished—the first journal of dentistry, the first dental society and the first school of dentistry—celebrate the hundredth anniversary of their establishment next year. All of these forerunners of the world-wide dental health service of today were started in Baltimore in 1839 and 1840. Next March the centennial of these events will be commemorated by a meetmg in Baltimore that will be participated in by leading members of the dental profession from every part of the world.

Speaking of the dental services now available in comparison with those of a hundred years ago, Dr. Richard C. Leonard, Chief of the Division of Oral Hygiene of the State Department of Health, said, "Modern dentistry had its beginnings here in Maryland. The service a hundred years ago was unique in its ingenuity and was remarkably developed considering the total lack of dental schools, literature and dental organizations, but it was crude in contrast with the comprehensive service available today. Anesthetics, local and general, were unknown; fillings at the best were usually preliminary to eventual extraction, and 'plates' of false teeth or what we speak of now as 'dentures', were cumbersome and were poor substitutes for normal teeth.

"The hundred years since the establishment of the first dental journal, the first dental school and the first dental society have been characterized not only by important developments in the mechanical aspects of dental practice, but particularly by significant advances in the scientific approach to the prevention of dental ailments.

"As in the field of medicine, attention in dentistry was of necessity originally focussed on the correction of conditions due to accident, injury or disease. Today, with corrective measures, constantly improving, special emphasis is placed on prevention and on the relation of mouth health to the general health.

"Instruction as to proper diet as an aid in forming and maintaining strong teeth and advice as to thorough cleanliness of the mouth as a safeguard against decay, are as much a part of a dentist's practice today as are his training and skill in the use of dental instruments in the correction of dental ailments.

"The hundredth anniversary of the beginning of modern dentistry will, of curse, be properly celebrated by the dental profession. Elaborate plans are well under way for the commemoration of the event. But it is the general public that has benefited by this century of growth and development and the occasion belongs to them as well as to the dental profession. It would be an excellent idea if each individual would celebrate it by giving special thought to his own dental needs. Have you had a dental examination recently? If not, this is a good time to do so."

The British Government is being urged to consider means of boosting the nation's birth rate after the example of Adolf Hitler in Germany and Mussoline, in Italy.

The bridge connecting Maryland and West Virginia, at Shepherdstown, was opened last Saturday. A replica of James Rumsey's steamboat, invented 152 years ago, had a trial run while Governor Holt and many others lined the banks.

Japanese military headquarters report Soviet Russia warplanes bombed a railway point in a before-dawn raid, in Manchoukuo, a Japanese controlled country.

Except in a few communities in Minnesota and Pennsylvania, the WPA strike appears to be at an end.

Garrett, Four Other Counties, Face Road Fund Deficit

Although $357,000 in excess lateral gasoline tax funds recently was distributed among the counties, a State Ronds Commission financial report Monday showed that five counties, Garrett among them, face deficits totaling $119,597 in their accounts at the end of the fiscal year. Garrett county will be in the red $13,907, according to the report.

The last Legislature authorized the commission to distribute the excess funds, which had accumulated over a two-year period. William A. Todd, chief auditor of the highway commission, said that after all bills incurred by the counties up to May 31 had been paid, and after anticipated revenue from all sources had been taken into account, these counties would have deficits by September 30, Allegany, Garrett, Kent, Washington, and Prince George's.

The eighteen remaining counties will have credit balances totaling $413,616 at the end of the fiscal year.

Garrett County Has Escaped The Japanese Beetle Pest Thus Far This Year

The Department of Entomology of the University of Maryland has reported that large numbers of Japanese beetles are now emerging in infested sections of Maryland and that hundreds of people are inquiring about control.

John H. Carter, County Agent in Oakland, declared yesterday that as yet the Japanese beetle has not made its appearance in this county, altho there are a few in Allegany county.

"Should the area become infested, however, it will cost the people of the county a considerable amount of cash in trying to control the pests," he said. Mr. Carter advises that farmers become acquainted with the appearance of the beetle and that the appearance of any in the county be reported immediately.

An exhibit of a beetle, under glass, is at each high school in the county and at the County Agent's office in Oakland for anyone who desires to make an inspection.

There are four ways of control—the trap, spray, treatment of lawns and planting of flowers and shrubs that the beetle does not feed upon.

Last year 40,000 traps were operated in Maryland and more than 615 barrels, or sixteen tons, of beetles were trapped and destroyed. This year there are 100,000 Japanese beetle traps in the State. The trapping is supplemented by parasite colonizations on spraying, dusting, lawn treatments and agricultural adjustment work.

Aside from general routine business they also formulated plans for both Mountain and National district meetings and also for the regional convention to be held at Washingotn in July, 1940.

SAVAGE DAM IS ASSURED AGAIN AFTERCONFERENCE

Action In Washington All That Is Needed For "Go Ahead" Signal

Assurrances of approval of the Savage river dam project have been given by William D. Byron, Congressional representative from this district.

A newspaper dispatch from Washington on Monday quoted Mr. Byron as declarng after a conference with President Roosevelt that he had assurances of approval for construction of the $2,800,000 impounding dam by the Works Progress Administration. Final approval of the project has been pending for several weeks. It has already been approved by F. W. Springer, Frederick, area representative of WPA, and it is understood that the Budget Bureau has also placed its stamp of approval on it. Repeated assurances have been received in Cumberland from time to time that the project would go through.

Action in Washington is all that is needed for the "go ahead" signal on the dam which will give employment to nearly 1,000 jobless and on its completion furnish an adequate water supply for industrial operation. The dam would be constructed in Garrett county.

Approximately two thirds of the cost is to be borne by the federal government, that portion representing labor costs. Allegany county, which has approved a $1,000,000 bond issue to pay its share of the cost, is to supply the supervision, supplies and material. The project is scheduled to be completed within thirty-five months after work begins.

FOLK MUSIC FESTIVAL AT PARK IS COLORFUL AFFAIR

Many Take Part—Quilt Display Is Big Feature of Event

Over a hundred boys and girls, and older men and women participated in a program of folk music and art last Saturday afternoon and evening at the Bashford amphitheatre, Mt. Lake Park, under the direction of Miss Sara B. Huff, while a fair-sized audience looked on to discover that folk music was not "moutain music" but something vastly different.

There was square dancing and a contest of mountain music, but in addition there were folk dances of foreign countries portrayed by Oakland Elementary students, picturized songs, and dramatization of poems and music in which many took part.

A feature of the program was a quilt display which attracted many entries and many beautiful designs, according to Miss Huff. Awards in this display included Mrs. Jamie Elliott, crocheted; Mrs. C. W. McIntyre, of Shallmar, appliqued; Mrs. Della Moomaw, Mt. Lake, crazy quilt; Mrs. C. W. Burk, Mt. Lake, lone star; Mrs. Carrie Wingfield, Swanton, double wedding ring; and Mrs. B. H. Sincell, oldest quilt. A number of others were given special mention.

Special recognition was given to the youngest and oldest participant, they being John Faher Hanst, aged 4, and Dr. John G. Robinson, both of Oakland.

Miss Huff stated she was delighted with the cooperation of the many who participated. Already she is making plans for an agricultural day, to be held in the amphitheatre about the middle of August.

Motorists On Vacation Urged To Be Careful

While many people are using their cars for vacation trips, drives to places of amusement, etc., W. Lee Elgin, commissioner of motor vehicles is urging all to allow enough time to reach their destination safely and not to try to make time by speeding or cutting in and out of traffic.

Records of the safety department reveal that the first six months ended with 15 more deaths than the corresponding period of 1938. There were nine more deaths for June this year, over the same months of 1938. Thirty-four percent killed were pedestrains. Thirty-seven percent were passengers.

Over Thirty Scouts To Leave Monday For Annual Camp

More than thirty scouts of Oakland Troop No. 1, with their leaders, will leave next Monday morning for their camp on Deep Creek Lake for their annual two weeks' outing.

The camp will be in charge of Bernard I. Gonder, Jr., assistant scoutmaster, as the scoutmaster, H. C. Riggs, will be unable to attend. Mr. Gonder will be assisted by Kenneth Lawtan, Guy W. Hinebaugh, and William W. Grant, all former members of the troop. Members of the Troop Committee will also spend several nights in camp.

Herman F. Schell, of Gormania, W. Va., has been secured this year as camp cook.

Camping conditions will be much improved this year over previous years, as a combined kitchen and dining room has been constructed and a floor placed in the sleeping quarters. This was made possible by donations of citizens, about $300 having been raised for this purpose.

During their two weeks' stay the scouts will concentrate upon learning their requirements for passing tests and merit badges and also have ample time for recreation. The camp is located in the Paradise Heights section of the lake, about 3½ miles from Sand Flat, and the address of the camp is Deer Park.

At a meeting of the Court of Honor held Monday evening the following scouts were awarded merit badges as follows: Robert Stevenson, public health; Linn Grant, first aid to animals, first aid, physical development; Allen Naylor, personal health.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS . . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Neutrality And 1940

The sound and unexpectedly mild nature of the President's and Secretary Hull's latest appeal for action on their neutrality proposal makes worth while an analysis of the motives of those Senators who are opposing them on this issue and who are responsible for the present unpleasant situation.

* * *

The vote in Congress showed 12 against and 11 for the action demanded, which probably means that in the Senate as a whole there is not far from a majority, as things stand now, who will not take the Administration view. At least thirty-four Senators have agreed among themselves to oppose to the limit the restoration of those features of the Bloom bill eliminated by the House, chief of which is the provision permitting the sale of arms and munitions to belligerent nations.

* * *

So far as motives are concerned, these Senators may be divided into three groups. First, there are the con- three groups. First, there are the conson. Nye and LaFollette, who are convinced isolationists, opposed to any form of international cooperation. Second, there are the Senators, mostly from Middle Western States, who reflect—or, at least, think they do—the feeling of their people. Third, there are the Senators who dislike and distrust Mr. Roosevelt, who feel that with such a law as he wants he could—and would—promptly put us into war; that this would fit into his political strategy and might make him the first third-term President.

* * *

As to the first group—the convinced isolationists—nothing can be done with them. They are not susceptible to reason on this subject, and it is a waste of time to try. As to the second class, there is a chance that something could be done to make them realize their mistake. It is true the sentiment of their constituents is overwhelmingly pacifist, but it is also true that if the embargo, which they insist upon continuing, is not raised before war comes, public sentiment would properly compel its lifting once war came, and that would involve us in the conflict far more certainly than if the change were made during a period of peace.

* * *

The support given this view and given the President and Mr. Hull on the embargo issue by some of the most important Republicans in the country ought to convince some of these Western Senators that the course they favor is not in the interests of peace but rather the reverse. The latest of these Republicans to take a position on this point is Mr. William R. Castle, former Ambassador to Japan, Under Secretary of State in the Hoover Administration, and a very strong anti-New Dealer, indeed. Yet, in a recent speech at the University of Virginia, while strongly opposing giving the President power to define combat areas, Mr. Castle unreservedly ranged himself behind the President and Mr. Hull on the main issue—to-wit, raising the embargo against shipping to belligerents. He urged that this was sure to be forced by public sentiment once war came and that it would vastly enhance our staying out if it were done before.

* * *

Now, as to that third group of Senatorial opponents—those who suspect that Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy is linked with his domestic political purposes and believe him capable of using the one to promote the other—something can be done to modify their opposition, but it can be done only by Mr. Roosevelt himself—and it is at least doubtful that he will try. This writer believes it shockingly unjust to infer that Mr. Roosevelt is capable of plunging this country into war in order to promote his political ambitions, whatever they may be. That would imply an unthinkable degree of viciousness. No one not wholly blinded by prejudice will believe that the President would calculatingly do such a thing.

* * *

Nevertheless, the fact that the 1940 Presidential campaign is close at hand; that with his acquiescence and approval, Mr. Roosevelt's intimate friends are feverishly promoting a third-term movement; that the recent appointment to the important post of Federal Security Administrator of Mr. Paul McNutt, the Indiana politician who is running for President, but promises to support Mr. Roosevelt if he runs, shows that Mr. Roosevelt is playing 1940 politics as hard as he knows how—these and other things tend to weaken his position on a question which should be wholly free from politics.

* * *

As Mr. Mark Sullivan points out, Mr. Roosevelt has the antidote for this condition in his own hand. He could cure it in five minutes if he really wants and, by leaving no room for suspicion in the mind of any Senator, in all probability he could insure success of his neutrality fight. He could do this by a simple, clear, unequivocal declaration that he will not, under any circumstances, accept a renomination. Mr. Roosevelt is notoriously reluctant to accept any suggestion that does not come from one of his own circle of intimate adherents. However, it is so clear that he could win this particular fight this way that it seems impossible he should not see it. Failure to make such a statement makes the inference reasonable that he would rather lose his neutrality bill than completely close the third-term door.

Homemakers' Column

Edited by Miss Mildred Barton, Home Demonstration Agent, Oakland.

CANNING

Vegetable canning time the country over invariably brings up troubling questions. There's a recollection of something that didn't turn out so well last season—or a doubt about the correct method for putting up a product that's never been tried before.

While solutions to all these problems are "in the back of the book" somewhere, the homemaker so perplexed may find the simple answer to her particular question in the following questionaire. In this, specialists of the Bureau of Home Economics answer some of the more common queries about canning vegetables.

Equipment

Q. What kind of a canner is needed for putting up green peas and beans?

A. Peas and beans, like practically all vegetables but tomatoes, are non-acid foods. Non-acid foods, if canned, should be processed in a steam pressure canner. Only with one of these is it possible to get temperatures of from 240 to 250 degrees Fahrenheit—the heat necessary to sterilize the vegetables with in a reasonable length of time. It is unsafe to can non-acid vegetables in a water bath or an oven canner, or in a steam canner without pressure, because the temperature in them never gets above the boiling point of water. At that temperature it is impossible to kill the dangerous botulinus beeteria that may be in the vegetables unless containers are processed 6 to 10 hours, or even longer. If allowed to live, these bacteria may produce a toxin in the food.

Q. Does it make any difference what size of container is used for canning vegetables?

A. For most vegetables, pint or quart glass jars and number 2 or 3 tin cans are the best sizes. Pint jars and number 2 cans are best for tender, green peas, because they will become overcooked and mushy with the longer processing needed for larger containers. If corn is canned in quart jars or number 3 cans it should be put up whole grain style—cut from the cob without scraping. It's well to keep the containers small because heat penetrates thick cream-style corn very slowly.

Q. Is it advisable to can corn or red-colored vegetables in tin cans?

A. Yes; practically all vegetables that may be canned may be canned in tin. Different types of cans have been developed for certain vegetables. There are special C-enamel tins for corn, succotash, lima and red kidney beans. For red-colored vegetables—beets pimientos—and for pumpkin and squash, use R-enamel cans. These vegetables, if canned in plain tin, may react chemically with the metal. Some change colors and others corrode the metal. These changes, although they may not affect the wholesomeness of the food, do detract from the appearance. Pickled beets should be canned in glass.

Q. Is it all right to use rubber rings a second time.

A. No; the best policy is to buy the rings new each year. They should be of good quality to withstand the temperature of processing. A simple test is to double the ring together and press the fold with the fingers. The rubber should not crack. A good rubber ring will also stretch to twice its length and snap back into shape.

PINCH OF SALT ADVISED TO PREVENT EXHAUSTION

Hot Weather Tip Suggested By Dr. Riley, State Health Director

Here is a bit of hot weather advice from Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health:

"On these hot muggy days," he said, "when you perspire a lot and begin to feel exhausted, drop a pinch of table salt in a glass of cool water—cool, not ice-cold—and drink it slowly. You can repeat this as often as you please. It is a reliable pick-up against heat exhaustion.

"There is good scientific basis for the use of salt—ordinary table salt—both as a corrective and a preventive of heat exhausion. When we perspire profusely—as we usually do in intense heat—the system loses a great deal of salt. The salt solution helps to replace it.

"Physiologists have always known that excessive perspiration drains the system of some of the salt that is so necessary to comfort and well-being. The dizziness, prostration, muscular cramps, and other systemic disturbances associated with heat exhaustion, frequently suffered by workers employed in industries under conditions of intense heat, have long been matters of concern to employers and health authorities. The brillian idea occurred to somebody to try the salt-solution as a first aid measure in some of these cases of heat prostration. It worked. And the next step was to put it into regular use as a preventive.

"For the convenience of persons who object to the taste of the salted drinking water, it is now possible to obtain the salt in the form of tablets—usually five to seven grain tablets, combined with a small amount of dextrose. Automatic dispensing machines similar to those used for candy, have been installed close to the drinking fountains in many industries. You press a button and a tablet drops out. The tablet is easy to swallow, and any left-over taste disappears after taking a drink of water.

"Industries in which the salt is supplied and used as a matter of routine, report a marked decrease in the cases of heat prostration among their employes. The remedy is so simple that it can be readily used in any threatened case of heat exhaustion. The amount of salt in the tablets would just about cover the tip of a spoon—literally just a pinch. Try it, the next time we strike a heat wave."

Body Removed At Grantsville After Ninety-six Years

The remains of James Barnes, of Barnesville, O., which for ninety-six years have occupied a grave in the Grantsville cemetery, have been removed to the town which he is supposed to have founded.

Records show that in 1843, at the age of seventy-five, Mr. Barnes dropped dead at Little Crossings. His grave in the Grantsville cemetery is one of the oldest, according to the markers. Mr. Barnes' wife, who died two years previous, in 1841, was buried at Barnesville. Whether Mr. Barnes was living at Grantsville at the time of his death or just passing through is not known.

The city of Barnesville is planning a memorial service in August in honor of its founder. F. C. Hubbard, chairman of the Founders State Committee, of Barnesville, was in Grantsville on Saturday and Sunday, obtaining a permit to remove the remains, which was effected on Sunday.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Mary Fazenbaker et al. vs. Helen B. Creasy, et al.

No. 3522 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this bill is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate situate in Garrett County, Maryland.

SUMMER MISSIONS SCHOOL CLOSES SUCCESSFUL YEAR

NEW OFFICERS SELECTED

The Summer School of Missions, conducted at Mountain Lake Park each year for the past twenty-three years, considered by many as the highlight of the summer program from the standpoint of education and inspiration, closed its sessions on Tuesday evening with an address by Bishop Ralph Ward, who gave a graphic description of the suffering, determination and fath of Chinese Christians and others in the present crisis, which he termed "one of the major wars of history." He declared "the end is not yet," and that the "United States in buying goods from Japan furnishes fifty per cent of their fighting capital and therefore is the major ally against the Chinese Christian generals."

An account of the work of the Mission School is given below by one of those who had charge of the program:

The opening addres on Wednesday evening, July 19, by Mr. Eric Muggeridge, a native of England, who spent the last three years salvaging war orphans, described "the crucifixion of Spain" in horrifying verbal pictures. He entered that country soon after the outbreak of hostilities and remained there to see Spain overthrown, by what he said, was not an internal revolution, but a clandestine invasion of Fascism and Naziism to gain a foothold in western Europe, the dangers of which are unknown in democratic countries.

The highlight surprise in the unexpected and incomprehensible came from Dr. F. I. Johnson in his description of the "Lost City." He told of the city of the Khymers, abandoned for six hundred years. This city covers forty square miles and contains temples of such grandeu and magnitude as to stagger the imagination. The temples of stone were fitted together so neatly mortar was not needed and stones are of such size that they would tax the ingenuity of modern engineers to handle them. Nothing is known of the inhabitants or builders, where they came from or why they left.

The illustrated lectures on the Bible by Dr. J. E. Hartzler each morning, were a rare privilege, and the impression he left and his address on "Unfinished Temples," left on the young and

Further Plans Made For Annual County Picnic August 9

Further plans for the annual county picnic, to be held at the Bittinger Recreation area on Wednesday, August 9, were announced yesterday by Miss Mildred Barton, home demonstration agent.

The Oakland Community choir, under direction of Rev. Felix G. Robinson, will sing several numbers and the group singing is to be led by Miss Sara B. Huff, director of summer programs at Mountain Lake Park.

There will be games and recreation in the morning with the program being presented in the afternoon. Dr. H. H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, will speak.

All persons attending the picnic will have with them basket lunches, and large tables are available for the various groups throughout the county. This will be the third annual county picnic.

Last Week Was Wet One, But Not Like That Of Year Ago

Last week was a wet one, rain falling every day up to Sunday, but a glance at the records shows that it was nothing compared to a year ago.

It was on July 23, 1938, that water flooded the business section of Oakland to a depth of five feet following a cloudburst that morning, preceded by several days of almost continuous rain. On that Saturday a year ago there was 3.76 inches of rainfall between four o'clock in the morning and one o'clock in the afternoon, making a total of eight inches for the month up to that time.

Last week's rainfall up to and including Saturday was 2.33 inches, and the total for the entire month up to and including Saturday was approximately four inches.

PLAYERS OF FOUR STATES TO COMPETE IN TOURNEY

Will Participate In 20th Annual Western Maryland Tennis Tilt

The twentieth annual Western Maryland Tennis Championship will be played on the five clay courts at Mt. Lake Park August 14 to 19, with players from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia and Maryland competing. Competitors from all four states have frequently come through with victory in the finals.

A three-year challenge cup is in play for men and a three-year bowl for women. Last year these trophies were won by Robert N. Brown, Elkins, W. Va., and Joy Hartman, Pittsburgh, Pa. The men's singles was won by Red Brown in five sets from Alex Keiles, of Baltimore. The women's trophy was won in three sets by Miss Hartman from Grace Parker, Baltimore. The women's doubles went to Miss Parker, Baltimore; and Miss Dolly Harris, Pittsburgh, winning from Miss Hartman and Mrs. Herman Goldberg, Baltimore.

The men's doubles were won by Frank G. Roberts and Alex Keiles, Baltimore, from John R. Brown, of Pittsburgh, and Elmer Rudy, Baltimore. The mixed doubles went to Adrian and Joy Hartman, who won from Dr. and Mrs. Goldberg.

Besides the tennis matches the players have a full week of social activities. The social committee of the Women's Civic club, under whose auspices the tournament is conducted, is under the management of Mrs. Haymond Rapp, Clarksburg, W. Va.

Several of the members moved into camp on Sunday afternoon to prepare the buildings and grounds for the remainder of the troop.

Scouts are in charge of Bernard I. Gonder, Jr., assistant scoutmaster; Kenneth Lawton, Guy Hinebaugh and William Grant, former members, assisted by William Sharps, James Darby, Arthur Naylor, Jr., and Stanley Stahl, older troop members.

Others in camp include Harold Ashby, Arlie Breedlove, Robert Bittle, DeCoursey Bolden, Samuel Butt, James Durst, John Fitzwater, Ronald Friend, Michael Kildow, Foster Mann, Charles McIntire, Lawrence Riley, Kenneth Ridder, Shirley Ramsey, Robert Rudy, Robert Stevenson, William Shirer, Frederick Sharps, Robert Sincell, William Stahl, Tommy Thayer, William Welch, Allen Naylor, James Lake, John Grant, Lewis Naylor.

The morning is devoted to work and study periods, with the afternoon free for recreation, concluding with a camp fire program in the evening.

Forty-five girls from clubs in different parts of the county are preparing to be present at the camp during the period.

There will be classes in nature study, foods and various kinds of handicrafts, with recreations and games during the afternoon of each day.

Miss Pauline Woodford, of the Home Service Department of the West Maryland Power Company, will also attend camp several days.

Mrs. Samuel Cole will be the camp nurse and Edwin Darby will be in charge of swimming.

R. A. Jehle, plant pathologist of the University of Maryland Extension Service, College Park, will be in Garrett county the week of July 31, it has been announced by John H. Carter, county agent.

Mr. Jehle will make his first inspection of late potatoes and the second inspection of early and medium varieties.

JOHNSTOWN SYMPHONY TO RENDER DOUBLE PROGRAM

Saturday Evening Presentation Will Differ From That of Sunday

Two entirely different programs will be presented this week-end by the Johnstown Symphony Orchestra when they appear at the amphitheatre, in Mountain Lake Park, on Saturday evening, July 29, and Sunday afternoon, July 30, it has been announced.

The first program Saturday evening, will begin at 7:45 o'clock and the symphony will play: Overture to Egmont, Beethoven; symphony in B minor, by Franz Schubert, violin solo by Louis Sicilliano, concert-master; Wedding Day by Troldhaugen, Grieg, Syvia Ballet Suite, Delibes, and Finlandia, Sibelius.

On Sunday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock the orchestra will play prelude to Hansel and Gretel, Humperdinck; the Andante Cantabile (from fifth symphony) by Tschaikowsky; Symphony No. 13 in G major, by Haydn; Grand Fantasy, from "Faust" by Gounod, and Overture to Die Fledermaus, by Strauss. A string quartet will also play. The concerts are under the direction of Prof. Theodore Koerner.

Both programs are of equal interest, according to the local management. Those in charge locally are hoping that the public is planning to attend both concerts. Children's tickets (those 12 years or under), have been set at 15 cents. Other tickets are 35 cents, but may be procured in sets of four for 25 cents each, or $1 for the set.

WPA Employes, On Rolls 18 Months, to be Dropped in August

WPA workers who have been employed for more than eighteen consecutive months in Maryland will be dropped gradually in August, Harry D. Williar, Jr., deputy State administrator, announced yesterday.

These workers were ordered removed from WPA poy rolls not later than August 31 under a relief bill passed recently by Congress. Thirty days must expire before these relief workers are eligible again for WPA employment. Meanwhile, they must be recertified as to their need for work.

Mr. Williar said a survey being conducted to ascertain how many WPA workers have been employed eighteen months or more would be completed about August 1. Dismissals would begin as soon as this information is available.

At the local WPA office this morning it was stated that the number of WPA employes affected in this county was not known.

Statistics compiled by the WPA reveals that 14,468 persons are now on the WPA rolls in Maryland. Of the total now working 11,975 are engaged on State projects and the remainder on Federal projects.

Truck Runs Wild Down Big Savage Mountain And Turns Over

A tractor and three-ton trailer, loaded with potatoes and driven by Earl C. Bittner, 28, of the Potomac Hotel, Hagerstown, got out of control last Saturday morning while descending the west slope of Big Savage Mountain, Route 40, in this county, and after racing down the hill overturned after crossing the stone bridge at the foot of the mountain and starting up Little Savage.

The truck, owned by Amos E. Bear, Hagerstown, was badly damaged. The potatoes were consigned to Brownsville, Pa. The potatoes, neatly sacked, were transferred from the damaged trailer to other trucks and taken to Cumberland.

The driver of the tractor stuck to the wheel all the way down the mountain and escaped unhurt. He said the brakes refused to hold shortly after the truck started down Big Savage.

Pre-School Round-Up

The Health Department announces a summer round-up of pre-school children to be held at the Friendsville school on Friday, August 4. No other clinics for pre-school children are scheduled for the Friendsville area and parents of children who will enter rural schools in this area may bring their children to the Friendsville clinic for vaccination against smallpox and immunization against diphtheria.

Kamp Family Reunion

The annual Kamp family reunion will be held at the New Germany Recreation Center on Sunday, August 6.

BODY OF NOAH GNEGY IS FOUND FLOATING IN LAKE

Four Fishermen Find Him Near Shore Above Glendale Bridge—Evidently Jumped To His Death

MISSING SINCE JULY 12

Noah F. Gnegy, 55, of Mt. Lake Park, who had been missing since between one and two o'clock a. m., Wednesday, July 12, was found Monday evening in Deep Creek Lake by four fishermen from Barton, about two hundred feet from Glendale bridge, indicating he was the second man since the first of June to take his life by jumping from the bridge.

Gnegy, a stonemason, had been employed at the Swallow Falls CCC camp near here. Relatives could give no reason why he should leave his home, according to Sheriff J. W. Owens. A continuous search in the vicinity of his home had been made since his disappearance by CCC enrollees, county officers and neighbors.

Gnegy was found by William C. Andrews, Howard Broadwater, James O'Rourke and Harrison Kyle, of Barton, who were fishing along the west bank of the lake in the Narrows section of the lake when they discovered the body floating face downward. Sheriff Owens and Neil C. Fraley, State's Attorney, were notified and they had the body brought to Oakland where it was identified by a son, Clyde Gnegy, from the clothes he wore. His body was in a bad state of preservation and almost unrecognizable. Dr. N. I. Broadwater, county medical examiner, gave a verdict of suicide by drowning, after conducting an examination of the body in front of Owens and Fraley. Dr. Broadwater said there were no marks of possible foul play. A watch in his pocket pointed to 4:54, indicating that he had left his home sometime between one and two o'clock and had walked to the Lake, a distance of about nine miles, jumping from the bridge at that time.

The missing man was said to have returned to his home after midnight on Tuesday night, July 11. Mrs. Gnegy told officers that she retired and said her husband said he would sleep in a room on the lower floor of the home as he had been feeling ill all day. Another member of the family returning home about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning from the pea cannery, said Mr. Gnegy was not in the house.

Gnegy is the second man since June to jump from the bridge, Elwood Hinebaugh, 38, having taken his life in this manner on June 8. His body was not recovered until June 29, in 50 feet of water, right near the middle pier.

William R. Harvey, civil engineer, of Frostburg, jumped into the lake from the bridge April 4, 1930, his body being recovered April 29, 500 yards above the bridge.

Autopsy Performed

At the request of relatives of the deceased, fearing there was a possibility of foul play, an autopsy was performed upon the body of Mr. Gnegy on Tuesday morning. No signs of any poison were discovered in the stomach and a reexamination of the skull showed no bruises or fractures. The result of the autopsy was satisfactory to those who questioned the cause of his death, according to Mr. Fraley.

Had Large Family

Mr. Gnegy is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Gnegy, of near Red House; his widow, Mrs. Ellen Moomaw Gnegy, and ten children, Mrs. Thelma Poling, Mrs. Erma Edmonds, Mrs. Gladys Speiler, all of Washington, D. C.; Wilbur Gnegy, Florence, S. C.; Mrs. Olive Pritts, Kitzmiller; Clyde Gnegy, Mt. Lake Park; Delbert Gnegy, Fairmont, W. Va.; and Nina, Gordon and Edward, at home; also three brothers and two sisters, Mrs. Laura Ross, Cairo, W. Va.; Mrs. Ella Hardesty, Washington, D. C.; Jesse Gnegy, Eglon, W. Va.; Ray Gnegy, Pleasant Valley, and Dewey Gnegy, of Red House.

Funeral services were conducted on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock from the Pleasant Valley Methodist church, Rev. Harold Gamblin, of Mt. Lake Park, officiating. Interment was in the Pleasant Valley cemetery.

The deceased was born in Chase county, Kansas, December 22, 1883, but had resided in this county for many years. He was married December 9, 1905.

Mrs. Carroll Myers and niece, Miss Florence Heckrotte, of Baltimore, are visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Joseph Cogley, this week.

City Council Met In Special Session Monday Evening

At a special meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland on Monday evening Dr. E. I. Baumgartner was sworn in as a member of Council, thus completing the membership of six. He fills the vacancy created when I. R. Rudy, acting postmaster, resigned. The appointment of Dr. Baumgartner had been made at a previous meeting of Council held the week before.

Council also took steps to widen Third street, between Alder and Oak streets by planning to narrow the sidewalk approximately three feet on the west side. This would make the street and sidewalk in that block the same as those in the block between Green and Alder streets, and according to members of Council would eliminate traffic congestion at the corner of Third and Alder streets.

All property owners along this part of Third street have agreed that the proposed change in the sidewalk width be made, it was stated. For this work Council has planned a WPA project.

FEDERAL AGENTS NAB BIG STILL NEAR COUNTY LINE

Arrest Three Men; Two Men Also Arrested Near Keyser's Ridge

Three men were arrested and a 65-gallon still was confiscated yesterday as federal agents swooped down on a plant in the woods near Frostburg, but in this county.

The men arrested were booked at the Allegany county jail as Elmer Garlitz, 55; his brother, Esco Garlitz, 23; and Dallas McKenzie, 28. They are scheduled to be given a hearing today before United States Commissioner James A. Avirett, on charges of illicit manufacture and possession of whiskey.

Federal Alcohol Tax Unit Agents Charles E. Cushwa and David H. Walker and United States Deputy Marshal Howard P. Loughrie said the still had been operating for more than a year. It was located in an isolated valley near Savage river, about six miles west of Forstburg, they reported, and was running "full blast" when they raided it. It was more than three miles off U. S. route 40, according to the agents.

In addition to destroying the still the federal men confiscated eight barrels of mash and twelve gallons of liquor. Deputy Marshal Loughrie had to execute a "flying tackle" to prevent young Garlitz from escaping, it was said.

Emory E. Nail, of Keyser's Ridge, and Harry F. Starner, of Frederick, visiting Mr. Nail, were nabbed by the agents Monday night and turned over to Garrett county authorities. They were charged with illegal sale and possession of liquor. Brought before Magistrate C. F. White they were held for action of the Grand Jury. The charges were brought by David H. Walker.

More Pupils Attend School In 1938-39 Than In Previous Year

A comparison of the number of pupils enrolled in the schools of Garrett county shows that although the elementary schools had fewer pupils enrolled than during the previous year, the high school attendance was such that the total attendance (elementary and high) showed an increase.

During 1937-38 there were 4121 pupils enrolled in the elementary schools, 1065 in the high schools, for a total of 5186. The term recently closed, there were 4013 elementary pupils and 1189 high school pupils, or a total of 5202.

There were fewer pupils entered late in 1938-39, 136 to 91, but more withdrawals, 146 to 154. The percentage of attendance in 1937-38 was 92.4 per cent, and in 1938-39, 93.4 per cent.

More pupils were transported last year than in the year previous—2104 to 1955. More pupils were also promoted—4351 this past June to 4298 in June, 1938.

The third annual Huss School of Musical Ideals will be held in the Mountain Lake Hotel, at the Park, beginning on Monday, July 31, it has been announced. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holden Huss, of New York City, conduct this school and will arrive at the Park this week-end to attend the concerts of the Johnstown Symphony orchestra.

The school will teach piano and voice and will continue until August 15.

FRIENDSVILLE HIGH WILL KEEP ITS TEACHING STAFF

Special Committee Appointed At Citizens' Meeting There Makes Request Of School Board

BOARD MEETS YESTERDAY

Following a meeting of the Board of Education yesterday afternoon, it was announced that Foster O. Speicher, social studies, Miss Jean Young, art, and Mrs. Evangeline Glenn, music, would be retained on the teaching staff of Friendsville High school. This decision was made after a request had been submitted from a special committee appointed at a public meeting of citizens held in Friendsville on July 21.

The new arrangement is to prevail during the coming school year only and is contingent upon the number of pupils in attendance to the school and the interest of the committee in securing the larger number of pupils in the Friendsville High school, F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, stated. The committee is composed of R. O. McCullough, chairman; H. J. Black, Mrs. L. L. Friend, J. W. Holman, and Dorsey Guard, all of the Friendsville community.

A falling off in attendance at the Friendsville High school in recent years made the reducton in the teaching staff advisable when the appointments were made, according to Mr. Rathbun. At that time the only appointments were W. J. Glenn, principal, Raymond McCullough, Ethel Grove and Charley B. Miller. Miss Grove recently resigned and Miss Elizabeth Shunk was appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Speicher had received an appointment in Kitzmiller High school, for the coming school term, when it was decided to reduce the teaching staff at Friendsville.

The resignation of Miss Beulah Loughridge as assistant teacher in the Oakland Elementary school was accepted, effective immediately.

Plan to Close School

The Board discussed further the plans for closing the Cherry Creek school and transporting the pupils to the Oakland Elementary school, beginning in September. Mr. Rathbun stated the school had an attendance the past year of about 15 pupils. Mr. kathbun was requested to submit to the Board at its next meeting any objections that might be filed against the closing.

The Board received bids for insurance upon busses used for transporting children for the coming school year, but no contracts were awarded.

Two Teachers Named

Abel DeWitt, Oakland, graduate of Oakland High school and West Virginia University, was appointed to the staff of Kitzmiller High and will teach social studies.

William East, Friendsville, who was graduated from Oakland High school and Western Maryland college, will teach social studies and English in Oakland High school, it was also announced.

Mr. athbun also announced that Mrs. Merne W. Kloss, recently appointed special teacher in the first three grades of the Oakland Elementary school, left this week to attend the post-session of the University of Pittsburgh, where she received her master's degree in 1937, in preparation for this work. Mrs. Kloss will also attend classes at the Byron W. King School of Oratory in speech development in choric verse speaking.

Mr. Rathbun stated that the matter of signs and stop signal devices for school busses as required under the new State law had been discussed with Mr. Elgin, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. The Commissioner stated that any equipment which has the two red stop lights on the rear and two amber stop lights to the front will be approved, provided the lenses are at least four inches in diameter. Semaphores will also be approved. The superintendent also stated that a number of school boards are requiring the words "State Law" on the rear of their school busses immediately under the usual lettering. "Stop—School Bus". The words "State Law" are painted in large letters, usually at least eight inches or more in height. Mr. Elgin has approved this plan.

All members of the Board were present at yesterday's meeting, W. W. Dawson, president W. W. Savage and Stuart F. Hamill.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Pew, Kitzmiller, and Mrs. Sue Long, of Keyser, W. Va., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Jackson, Oak street, on Tuesday.

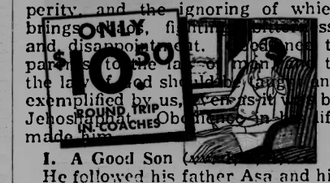
JEHOSHAPHAT: A LIFE OF OBEDIENCE

LESSON TEXT—II Chronicles 17:1-6, 9-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—But seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness.—Matthew 6:33.

Obedience is one of the old-fashioned virtues which has been pushed aside in our present mad rush of self-expression. It needs to be revived if we are to have a happy, contented, and useful people. The lesson for today affords an excellent opportunity to give class members a right perspective. Many regard obedience as something which is exacted by those who desire to have authority over us, but as a matter of fact it is a principle established by God for the right and orderly conduct of life, the observation of which results in blessing and prosperity, and the ignoring of which brings sin, suffering, distress, and disappointment. [illegible] to parents to the law of man [illegible] to the law of God she yields, [illegible] and exemplified by us, as [illegible] by Jehoshaphat. Obedience in [illegible] life made him



I. A Good Son (vv. [illegible]).

He followed his father Asa and his forefather David insofar as they had followed God. Apart from God and the influence of the Christian faith, the tendency is quite the other way. Frequently we see that a father who came up from poverty by his own diligence and ability will have a wastrel son who amounts to nothing, or even worse, one that ruins himself and others. Blessed is the son who [illegible] has s[illegible]ps in obedience to God.

II. A Capable Administrator (vv. 2, 5, 12).

Jehoshaphat faced real problems. The nation was prospering, but there were many difficult questions of foreign relations and in domestic affairs. Especially was he concerned about their fellowship with the sister nation of Israel. Idolatry was still common in the land, new territory had to be consolidated and fortified.

The man who is obedient to God's law and whose heart is lifted up to[illegible] kings and national leaders, but of each one of us. If we trust in God and are obedient to His guidance, He will bring about astonishing results in the lives of any one of us.

III. A True Worshiper (vv. 3, 6).

He walked in the ways of his forefathers in his obedience to God. A man does not need to be a blind worshiper of the good old days to realize that America could profit by walking in the ways of those of our forefathers who daily walked with God.

Note also that Jehoshaphat had a real personal spiritual experience of his own. "His heart was lifted up in the ways of the Lord" (v. 6). Spiritual exaltation makes a man better fitted to live in the daily round of life where he must keep his feet on the ground. There is a dearth of new personal spiritual experiences in our time. How long is it since you and I have felt our souls strangely warmed? God is ready and willing to do this for us now, as He was in the days of Jehoshaphat.

IV. A Wise Educator (v. 9).

Here was a real program of religious education. A wise teacher knows that it is not enough to remove the bad, he must replace it with the good. Jehoshaphat tore down the places of heathen worship, but he substituted the teaching of the Word of God. That kind of a program of nation-wide Christian education would be tremendously worth-while in this year of our Lord 1939 and within the confines of our own beloved country.

Read verses 7 and 8 and you will note that most of the leaders in this teaching campaign were laymen. The priests were evidently for the most part not interested. This has all too often been so, but let not that deter the layman from going ahead in God's name.

V. A Respected Ruler (vv. 5, 10, 11).

His own people gave him the recognition of love and loyalty (v. 5). The jealous nations around him were afraid of him, for they knew that God was with him (v. 10). This was what would be in our day regarded as a rather unusual means of national defense, but note that it was tremendously effective. Would that America were a nation united in loving obedience to God's law. Then would our enemies be afraid because God's hand would be upon us for good.

Wise In All

I know God is wise in all; wonderful in what we conceive, but far more in what we comprehend not.—Sir Thomas Browne.

One can say many good things in the paper every week and nobody ever compliments the editor or his associates.

But just print something that somebody takes exception to or doesn't like, and you hear about it from all sides.

Hardly a week has gone by where Deep Creek Lake, Garrett county's summer climate and its pure atmosphere hasn't been boosted in these columns. We gave more space to the bathing beauty contest and boat regatta the week previous than any other story in the paper and carried two pictures of the winners and runners-up following the affair.

And yet in another part of the paper in this column there was a sentence or two that somebody didn't like and they accuse us of "running down" the Lake and of not being fair.

One women even got so worked up she asked for her bill and cancelled her subscription—a very foolish and futile display, which spites the person herself and not the newspaper, for he or she will now go to the trouble of borrowing somebody's paper, just to get the news. And stopping a subscription over a matter of this character never did upset an editor, for it [illegible] son stops the paper, two or more always come in and subscribe, which was the case last Friday.

At least that is one way to find out if the column is read. Just print something that somebody else thinks should not have been printed.

People have become advanced in many things. New inventions are almost continuous, which tend to make living more enjoyable. All the discoveries of science have made man the master of many things. But no matter how advanced they become they must still depend upon a Greater Force than their own. Man can't stop the rain or make the sun to shine. He must depend upon God for this.

Man has learned methods which make crops grow better, but there is no substitute for sun and rain, cold and heat. They are necessary for a successful harvest.

In this territory rain ha[illegible]n quite abundant—almost too mu[illegible], especially [illegible]k. And so [illegible]ope for [illegible]e.

In the New England S[illegible]s there has been almost no rainfa[illegible]st clear and sunshiny days. The p[illegible]e there, of course, look for rain. C[illegible] in both sections depend upon bo[illegible]ain and sun, and we can't do anyth[illegible]about it ourselves. We must look [illegible] Higher Power than our own for[illegible]. Many people forget this Suprem[illegible]wer until they are reminded eve[illegible]ow and then.

Last week's travels bro[illegible]ne to a place in the county for th[illegible]st time. The place itself had bee[illegible]re long enough for me to have [illegible] it before. In fact, it is the ol[illegible]town in the county—Selbysport.

They have a picturesqu[illegible]ethodist church there and althoug[illegible]became too dark to inspect the ent[illegible]ommunity, some citizen told m[illegible]at they were also proud of their [illegible]olhouse; how the school yard had b[illegible]changed in the several years that [illegible]s Jennie Timney had been there fr[illegible]mudhole to a lovely lawn with ma[illegible]owers.

The railroad station, [illegible] an impressive building of its [illegible] was a dilapidated looking affair, [illegible]t is now off the beaten track for [illegible] kind of transportation, but in f[illegible]ng and community matters the e[illegible]ns there were evidently keeping [illegible]with the rest of the county. Perha[illegible]he railto a community building for these [illegible]ple, that would even make for mo[illegible]erest in community affairs.

Contrary to wha[illegible] thought [illegible] previously the f[illegible]re must have come up the Youghi[illegible]y River from Pennsylvania. Here's a Good Idea

Many of us cannot get away from our desks and our jobs for any extended period of time, and some don't even get away for that long.

So in the midst of work, keeping one's mind calm and serene, working without tension, facing each day with enthusiasm and hope, routing fear and worry, are things for which to strive. If we all can learn the trick that Ruth Smeltzer writes about in her poem, we'd all be better off. She says:

I find it quite impossible
To hie away and rest;
Away from cares and troubles,
To distant mountain crest.

So I shall stay at home this year
And send my cares away
Upon a long vacation,
While I enjoy each day!

• • •

So, no matter what I've said this week. If it's something that somebody else doesn't like, don't bother to call me up, because I'm not going to bother with it. I'll send it on a long vacation.

SICKNESS IN MARYLAND FROMNOTIFIABLEDISEASES

Responsible For More Than 97 Per Cent of Total Illnesses

Three groups of diseases—measles and other so-called children's diseases; the respiratory diseases—influenza, tuberculosis and the pneumonias; and the venereal diseases—were responsible for over 97 per cent of the total sickness from the "catching" diseases reported to the State Department of Health during the first six months of the current year. The rest was scattered among the fifty or more other diseases on the reportable list.

The report as summarized by Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the Department, follows: "From January 1 to June 30, inclusive, of this year, 33,928 cases of communicable diseases were reported to the Department; 23,408 from Baltimore City and 10,520 from the counties. During the same period of 1938, there were 22,927 cases reported; 13,146 from Baltimore City, and 9,681 from the counties. The measles epidemic of last winter was responsible for this year's high total.

"There were 14,147 cases of measles reported during the first six months of the year in comparison with 1,645 during the same period of 1938. Scarlet fever with 916 cases, whooping cough 521, diphtheria 88, chickenpox, German measles and mumps with a combined total of over 3,800 cases, brought the total for the so-called children's diseases for the half year, up to nearly 20,000 cases.

"Over 5,000 cases of the respiratory diseases were reported—1,098 of influenza; 1,563 of tuberculosis; and 2,009 of the pneumonias, in comparison with 373 of influenza; 1,614 of tuberculosis and 2,129 of the pneumonias, during the corresponding period of 1938. The venereal diseases were charged with over 8,000 cases; 6,447 of syphilis and 1,610 of gonorrhea in comparison with 6,625 cases of syphilis and 1,710 of gonorrhea durng the first six months of 1938.

"Typhoid fever, with only 35 cases reported since the first of the year, reached a new 'low' for that disease. There were also 33 cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever (tick-bite fever), and 25 of undulant fever which is usually contracted through the use of unpasteurized milk from infected cattle, in comparison with 55 of typhoid, 20 of Rocky Mountain spotted fever, and 23 of undulant fever, during the first half of 1938.

The total for the first six months of 1939 also included 52 cases of Vincent's angina ("trench mouth"), 2 of malaria and 12 of pellagra. The record for poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) is entirely blank. No cases of that disease have been reported so far, this year.

"Practicing physicians are asked to report all cases of communicable diseases they attend or that are brought to their attention, to the nearest city or county health officer, or to the State Department of Health, in order that the necessary measures for prevention or control may be gotten under way without delay. The completeness of the reporting depends, of course, upon the interest and willingness of the physicians to cooperate. As our records indicate, the health authorities in Maryland have had such cooperation to a marked degree."

CANNING—Continued

Method:

Q. How nearly full should the containers be packed?

A. Allow a little room at the top—head space—for expansion of food during processing. Measured from a straight edge laid across the top of a glass jar, their needs to be about ½ inch for all vegetables except corn, peas and lima beans. For these starchy vegetables, which expand more, allow one inch. In No. 2 cans 5-16 inch head space is enough for most foods. For No. 3 cans allow ⅜ to ½ inch. Always cover the vegetables with hot liquid.

Q. If much canning liquid is lost from the jars during processing, is it all right to replace some of this liquid with water?

A. Jars should not be opened after processing until it's time to use the vegetables. When they are opened they are no longer sterile and must be reprocessed in order to keep. Some liquid will always be lost from glass jars, but this can be kept to a minimum by careful control of the temperature. Maintain a constant pressure. At the end of the processing period take the canner off the fire and let it cool gradually until the pressure gauge reads "zero." Then immediately open the petcock—gradually so that there is no sudden rushing out of the steam.

Miscellaneous

Q. Is it possible to can every kind of vegetable at home?

A. It is not recommended that vegetables of th ecabbage family—broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, turnips, cauliflower, kohlradi—be canned. These vegetables contain sulphur compounds that break down during processing and give the food a disagreeable taste and odor, and unsatisfactory color and texture. When egg plant is processed under steam pressure, as it must be to make it keep is has an unattractive color and flavor. Also it is impossible to can corn on the cob without special equipment.

Q. Do vegetables lose any food value during ordinary home canning?

A. There will be some loss of vitamin C and vitamin B—both of which are destroyed by heat. If vegetables are blanced before canning there will he losses of all the water soluble vitamins—B, C, G, and the pellagra-preventing factor.

Tomatoes, however, because of their acid, lose practically none of their vitamin C value when canned at home in the right way. They may lose from one-third to one-half of it when stored for six months or longer at ordinary room temperature. But even then, they are a good source of vitamin C in the diet.

To best preserve vitamins, can vegetables as soon as possible after they are gathered. Serve the cooking liquor because in it will be dissolved some of the water-soluble vitamins and minerals, originally in the vegetables..

Q. How long will canned foods keep?

A. Indefinitely, if they've been handled properly, processed correctly, and stored in a cool place. Quality is better the first year. So, unless there's a big surplus on hand, it's better to can only one year's supply at a time.

Diminishing Returns

The more the government taxes the people the LESS the government has.

That is not a clever paradox, but a plain FACT found in a statement of the United States Treasury.

The figures just issued by Secretary Morgenthau confess that total revenues for the fiscal year 1939 were $477, 099, 876 LESS than in the previous year.

There was a decline in tax collections from corporations, individuals, excess profits, payrolls, and from ALL OTHER sources.

What does that mean?

It means that during the year the INCOME POWER of the wealth-producers of the nation declined to a dangerous degree.

That is, all the people were EARNING LESS.

Corporations were earning less.

The less the workers and the corporations earned the less they had to pay in taxes.

The less they pay in taxes the greater grows the public DEBT and the national treasury DEFICIT.

BUT the LESS the government receives in revenue the MORE it spends'

That is not another clever paradox.

It is a cold FACT.

The national budget is so completely out of whack that President Roosevelt now proposes that his administration be permitted to spend $2,600,000,000.00 more OUTSIDE OF THE BUDGET.

That is not only one of the most dangerous propositions ever made—because it means irresponsible PERSONAL squandering of the taxpayers' money—but it is a confession that the New Deal is financially as well as economically and morally A FAILURE.

No such ghastly rigmarole of financial incompetence, as you will find in the picture presented above, was ever before revealed in any administration in the history of our country!

More taxes—less revenue! The less the receipts the more the expenses!

And, finally, SUPER-BUDGETARY spending is proposed to bring us prosperity!

If an individual ran his business on such principles his relatives would apply to a board of lunacy to call a halt.

Perhaps the American public should take similar action with regard to their government.—Sun Tele.

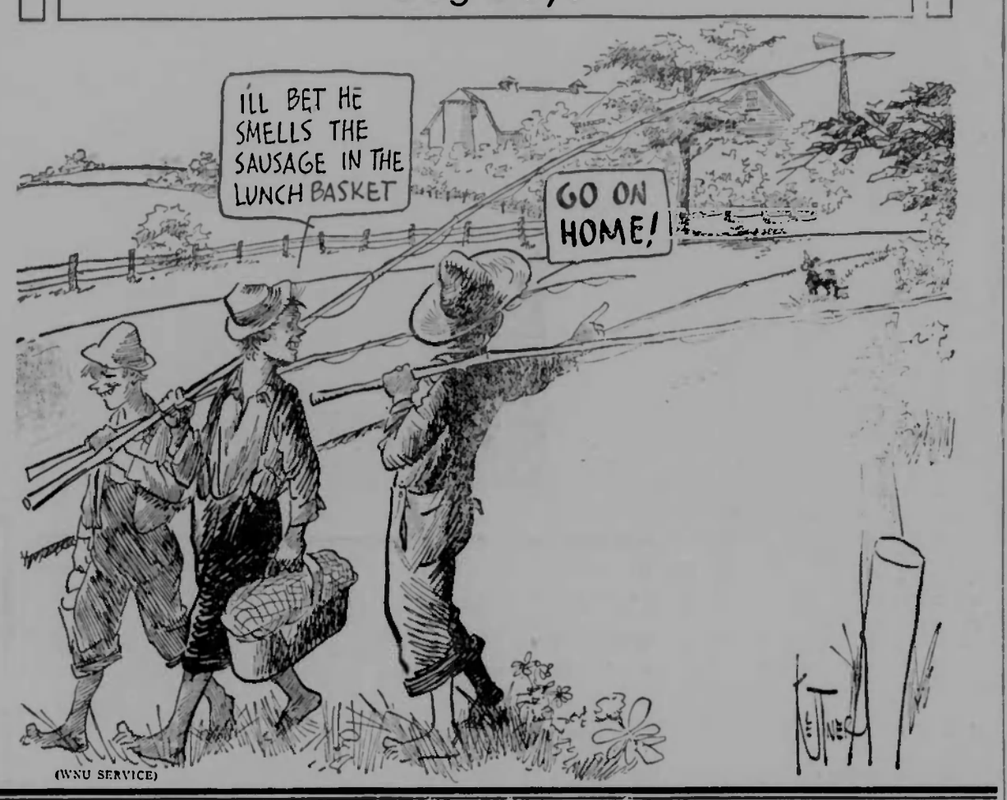
INCOMPARABLE RECORD

The young Democrats of Des Moines made much of the "incomparable record of the Roosevelt administration", and indorsed him for a third term "if he makes himself available." TheJournal hastens to accord Mr. Roosevelt all the honors (?) so justly due him on this incomparable record. For instance:

1. He is the greatest spender in recorded history.
2. He has the greatest record of unredeemed political and economic promises.
3. He has fooled more people more times than any demagogue in history.
4. He is the most expensive and persistent fisherman in all the world.
5. He and his family have commercialized the White House to a greater extent than any President in history.
6. He has created the gretest, national debt in American history.
7. His policies have been responsible for the most politically corrupt period of American history.
8. He has sought and acquired more political and economic power than any peace-time President.
9. He has done more to destroy the confidence of Americans in themselves and their form of government than any ten Presidents.
10. He has created more business uncertainty, class hatred, visionary Utopias and popular unrest than all his predecessors combined.
11. To cap the climax of his "incomparable record" he is the only American President ever to receive the unqualified indorsement and support of the Communist Party of America.

Yes, it is without question an "incomparable record" — Incomparably bad.—Knoxville (Ia.) Journal.

Dog Days



THE BUILDER WINS!

An old Hindu proverb says:"Help thy brother's boat across and lo! thine own has reached the shore." This is sound psychology. It is nothing more than our old friend—the law of compensation. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall be also reap."

You can't escape the law of cause and effect, therefore, why not have it on your side? This law applies with telling force to business. If more young business folks understood it, there would be more successes and fewer failures. The young man or young woman who renders more service and better service than he or she is paid to perform, will find a larger check in the pay envelope sooner or later. Employers are looking for builders.

The employe who always helps when the opportunity presents itself will find that his employer will help him. The builder—the man or woman who is positive and constructive—will win.

The destroyer—the man who gives as little as he can, who begrudges his employer a fair day's work, who is jealous of his fellow employes and tries to retard their progress, will destroy himself just as surely as the sun rises in the east and sets in the west.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS . . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Indorsed By Mr. Jones

Washington, July 22.

The recent spectacle of Mr. Jesse Jones, accompanied by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, going before the House committee and solemnly indorsing the latest and largest New Deal pump-priming proposal, contained in the pending three-billion-dollar bill, naturally grieves those who have held that at least these two Administration figures have their feet on the ground and are not deluded by the silly "self-liquidating" propaganda with which the measure is so heavily coated. It is since their indorsement that those words were eliminated from the title.

* * *

However, there is an explanation for both these gentlemen. First, take Mr. Morgenthau. His case is simple and slightly pathetic. Fundamentally, he is a saver, not a spender. He worries about the debt and the deficits. He, of course, has had little to do with molding the fiscal policy of the New Deal, and it pains him to have the Federal finances out of control. Last winter, when he believed Mr. Roosevelt was with him in a tax-revision program designed to remove the worst handicaps to business, he became relatively a happy man. This made his misery the more acute when the President, without warning, withdrew his support and left his unfortunate aide out on a limb.

* * *

Finally, yielding to the blunt declaration of Senator Harrison that revision would go through whether he wanted it or not, the President arranged to extricate Mr. Morgenthau from a position where he could not hold on to his dearly cherished job and even a remnant of self-respect, too. The relief of Mr. Morgenthau when he found himself able to crawl off the limb, was very great, indeed. He became almost absurdly grateful. Not long ago a statement was made in print that support of the new spending program was a condition of the great face-saving performance.

* * *

That may or may not be true, but it is true that so great is Mr. Morgenthau's desire to preserve harmony and so anxious is he not again to feel estranged from his Chief, that, conscientious man as he is, he had no difficulty in swallowing the self-liquidating stuff. Actually, he has worked himself up to the point where he seriously believes that he is "enthusiastic" for the plan, though it violates every basic fiscal conviction he has.

* * *

With Mr. Jones it is different. Mr. Jones is a clear-headed, very able, unemotional business man who never fools himself and knows vastly more about money than all the New Deal wizards combined. For one thing, he has accumulated personally a great deal more than any twenty of them. It is not too much to say he knows as much about the Federal finances as either Mr. Morgenthau or his earnest young aide, Mr. John Hanes, who recently put himself mentioned in connection with the President's nomination—for what reason it is a little hard to see, unless it is in recognition of the great things he thought he was going to accomplish but didn't.

* * *

Of course, no one who really knows Mr. Jones believes that he, like Mr. Morgenthau, has swallowed either the self-nullifying hooey of the "outside the budget" theory evolved by the Harks school of economists for the purposes of concealing the additional debt. His indorsement is explainable on the ground that Mr. Jones in the past seven years has had to accept—or learn to accept—a good many things which neither his mind nor his heart did accept. No more moral turpitude is involved in that than in, for example, the President's denial that there was any politics in the McNutt appointment. There are times in the lives of all public officials when it becomes expedient not to be too rigid about principle.

* * *

Since Mr. Jones has been head of the RFC there have been several such occasions. Unquestionably, indorsement of the new bill is one and it must be admitted that he is not without adequate excuses. One is that it is practically certain that only a small part of the hill will pass at this session. Another is that even if the total amount were authorized not more than $500,000,000 possibly could be put out before the end of Mr. Roosevelt's term. A third is that both the spending and the lending—such as it is—will be under the control and direction of Mr. Jones himself. A fourth is that Mr. Jones had been pointedly asked to do what he could for the bill and it is not expedient for him to go high-minded and refuse. Mr. Jones does not operate that way.

* * *

He has more influence with Democratic Senators than any other member of the Administration. This is partly because he is their kind of Democrat and they like him, and partly because as head of the RFC with unlimited funds he has been in position to do these Senators many favors since 1933, and there is not one who has not asked things of him. An example of his influence in Congress is the conceded fact that the Reorganization bill would not have passed this year had it not been made plain in advance that Mr. Jones would be the head of the newly created powerful Federal Lending Administration.

* * *

It is quite clear that if any part of this bill is to go through at this session Mr. Jones' influence is essential. Called upon, Mr. Jones responds. He is not particularly congenial to the President, and the Neo-New Dealers dislike him very much. But when they get into legislative jam they turn to him for help. That's what they did this time, but the fact that he is helping does not mean that he does not recognize this hill for what it is—a political pump-priming proposition which will be much emasculated before it gets through and which won't work, anyhow.

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Efforts of the Senate to recover Congress' power over the country's monetary system by ending the President's authority to devalue the dollar further brought out in strong and distince lines the very worst fentures of Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal. In that one episode were displayed the Roosevelt Administration's greed for power, its cunning, its suspicion of the democratic process, its tendency to misrepresent and mislead and its contempt for legal and orderly procedure.

Angered by the Senate's action, Mr. Roosevelt stooped to the levels of the soap box demagogue and attempted to stir up class and sectional prejudices and hatreds by hauling out of its grave the old bugaboo of Wall Street and the international bankers. Not only was his outburst like that of a child fearing loss of a stick of candy, but it clearly indicated his distrust of all save his own wisdom.

But through it all Mr. Roosevelt doggedly kept away from the most important aspect of his dollar devaluation power, namely: the effect on prices of his 1934 action in cutting the gold content of the dollar down to 59 cents. He remained silent on that question because it constitntes one of the New Deal's outstanding failures. Let's go back and see what prompted the enactment of the temporary devaluation power in 1934.

Bankers Not Mentioned Then

Mr. Roosevelt knew, of course, that the international bankers were not having a field day when he asked for and was given the power to devalue the dollar. In asking for that power, he did not give as a reason that he wanted to end gambling in foreign exchange by international bankers. In fact, he didn't mention them at all. He would have known if they controlled foreign exchange operations. As president of United European Investors, Ltd., which played with German marks in 1922, he knew all about that game.

Oh, no! When he asked for the devaluation power back in 1933, he said what troubled him was that there was no control of international exchange at all. In his fireside chat on October 23, 1933, he told the American people:

"Because of conditions in this country and because of events beyond our control in other parts of the world, it becomes increasingly important to develop and apply the further measure which may be necessary from time to time to control the gold value of our dollar at home.

"Our dollar is now altogether too greatly influenced hy the accidents of international trade, by the internal policies of other nations and hy political disturbance in other continents. Therefore the United States must take firmly in its own hands the control of the gold value of the dollar. This is necessary in order to prevent the dollar disturbances from swinging us away from our ultimate goal, namely, the continued recovery of our commodity prices."

Sought Price Rises

Note that the thing which disturbed Mr. Roosevelt was not gambler control of our doller but the absence of any kind of control so that it was influenced by "accidents of international trade." And note the real objective,, "continued recovery of our commodity prices."

Of course, Mr. Roosevelt doesn't want to say anything about that price objective now, which was, in truth, the milk in the coconut of his devaluation plans. Why? Because it was one of the most ghastly of the endless New Deal flops. He got his power to devalue the dollar. He devalued it 59.6 per cent. What happened? Here is what the minority House Committee report stated on the basis of its study of the proposed extension of the President's powers:

Five years have elapsed since the dollar was devalued, five years in which prices could have risen as promised. Reference to the wholesale commodity price index, however, shows that the wholesale price of all commodities as of February, 1939, is only 76.9 per cent of the 1926 level as against 72.2 per cent in January, 1934, the last month before the dollar was officially devalued, an increase of but 6.5 per cent. Prices of farm products during the same period increased from 58.7 to only 67.2. Essentially the same situation is true with respect to raw materials, semi-finished and finished products. * * This is far below the 69 per cent rise which it was confidently asserted would be brought about through devaluation."

That's why Mr. Roosevelt said nothing about the real objective he sought through dollar devaluation. No wonder he had to try to play upon the emotions of the American people and to try to stir up passion and fear—fear of Wall Street and some mysterious enemy nation.

His Pretense False

Mr. Roosevelt knew how false and hollow was his pretense that taking the dollar valuation from him would be to return it to the international bankers. He understood full well that what was proposed was merely to restore it to Congress. That, indeed, back in 1934, before he had become intoxicated with power, was his own objective. In a note which he penned at a later date to explain his devaluation proclamation of January 31, 1934, and which appears in his "Public Papers and Addresses", he stated this purpose as follows:

"To make more effective the control of our monetary system and of the metallic reserves of gold and silver used as its base; AND TO MAKE CLEAR THAT IT BELONGS WHERE THE CONSTITUTION SAYS T DOES — IN THE CONGRESS RATHER THAN IN THE HANDS OF THE BANKERS AND THE SPECULATORS".

But now, apparently, Mr. Roosevelt places no faith in the wisdom of Congress or trust in working of democracy. He paints what to him is a nightmarish picture of Congress in an emergency struggling with the dollar devaluation. Well, that may be awful for a political leader with a Messianic complex who believes all wisdom begins and ends in him, but the picture of Congress attending to its own duties instead of delegating them to the executive branch of the Government is an inspiring sight for the American people. They do not fancy "I am the law" attitude in the New Dealer leadership any more than they fancy it in the case of Mayor Frank Hague.

GLIMPSE OF SHORT COURSE GIVEN BY ONE ATTENDING

Resume of Program And Work Done Observed By Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty

So that all homemakers in the county might know of the Rural Women's Short Course, conducted recently at College Park, Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, who is president of the Garrett County Council of Homemakers Clubs, and a member of the Bittiuger group, has written an account of the activities at College Park. Her impressions follow:

WIDER HORIZONS

By Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty

"No man when he hath lighted a candle putteth it in a secret place, neither under a bushel, but on a candle-stick, that they that come in may see the light."—Luke.

These words were written at the top of our programs for Rural Women's Short Course this year. The theme, "Wider Horizons," was chosen with the idea of widening and enlarging our thinking. The program was planned with that in mind.

On Monday evening at College Park vesper services were conducted by the Rev. Orris Robinson, of Washington. There, on the beautiful campus, as night was falling, over six hundred women heard an inspiring message and took part in a devotional service.

"Homemade Religion" was his text, with one outstanding thought: The Home is the most powerful force in our nation today. There our children's ideals are formed, and their standards of living are molded. No forces of school or church are so powerful. Christian standards must be taught there if our children are to have any.

On Tuesday, regular classes began. My choice was "Child training and parental education." We were given, during our week there, many new ideas and much information concerning children. Rule for small children: "Keep the child happy and not too clean". Mrs. McDowell pointed out our many advantages in rural life for children, the beauties of nature and how this can be used to teach a child reverence and worship. Problems of training are more simple in rural life than in congested places.

Life, says Mrs. McDowell is more complex and difficult for our children and intelligent parents must be on the alert in the guiding and inspiring of youth as to life's professions, and later marriage. Most of all we need to be patient, understanding, and fair to our children, seeing them not only as our children, but as individuals with personalities of their own.

My other subject, "Music Appreciation", was a delightful subject. "Music, a spiritual force in a material world", was our theme. Mr. Randall showed us how closely music is connected with living. Rhythm, a part of music, is also a part of nature. The relation of the earth, the stars in their places, the return of the seasons, the rising and setting of the sun, are all a part of the rhythm of our Creator's plan for us.

Music is a spiritual force. It is a form of human expression of joy, pain and sorrow. The knowledge of it brings to us a fullness of life and a beauty.

Practical thoughts in music for home, club, and church were given and the singing of songs for the joy of it.

In our regular assembly periods we heard many speakers of national note. Roy Brooks, State Grange Master, and heads of other farm organizations brought greetings to us.

On Tuesday the Maryland State Council of Homemakers Clubs held its meeting, Mrs. Randall Spoerlein, president, presiding.

Reports were given by Mrs. Spoerlein of the Rural Women's Day, held at the World's Fair, and of the delegates who went to London for a World Conference in June.

District chairmen gave reports from various counties throughout the state, showing progress being made in Homemakers clubs.

Judge Lois Mary McBride, of Allegheny county, Pittsburgh, spoke on "The Rural Woman's Part in a National and International Program." Her topic was based largely on marriage laws. Many states are taking forward steps in regard to those laws, requiring a higher age limit, physical and mental examinations, and some a Wassarman blood test for social diseases. She is hoping that some day marriage laws throughout the states will be uniform.

Dr. Esther L. Richards, psychiatrist from Johns Hopkins hospital, spoke on "Nerves—what they are and why we have them."

Among other things Dr. Richards told us that sixty percent of the women who come to her for treatment have nothing organic wrong with them. Nothing hut nerves!

A flower arrangement demonstration was given to the entire group on two different days.

Mrs. Howard, lecturer on current topics, spoke on "World Events." Having traveled in Europe recently she gave a picture of the seething turmoil of nations there, their hatred of each other, and the fate of the common people who have seen their freedom taken from them by pagan dictators.

Mrs. Evens, Jr., spoke on "Interesting Personalities in Washington."

A concert was held on Wednesday evening and on Thursday evening a concert was given by the Baltimore county chorus.

Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, a writer of national fame for many years, spoke on "Consumer's Problems." She pointed out to us that in her work of investigating the practices of American business men and manufacturers she has found they are essentially honest, trying to give to the public a good product at a fair price.

As an example, she gave some history of the development of rayon fabrics, how years of research and study have made such a fine product, and that even now they are producing a synthetic silk hose with all the fine qualities of silk, which will probably sell for a few cents a pair. Several testings are to be made before putting it on the market. She says American business men deserve the public's greatest confidence.

Mrs. Enochs, who went as a reporter to the Pan-American conference at Lima, Peru, spoke of her trip. Because of her ability to speak several languages she was chosen to go with the American delegation and she gave us a first-hand picture of the conference.

Dr. Diosdado M. Yap, of the Philippines, spoke on the subject, "The Philippines in world affairs." He spoke of our friendly relations with the Philippines and how, since our flag has been flying from their islands, there has come religious liberty, tolerance, culture, education, and all things worth while, including a democratic form of government.

Who was the most popular speaker? Judging from the applause, I would say Dr. Yap. He went straight to our hearts with his wholesome sincerity. Scarcely more than a boy, with a slight foreign accent, he gave us a new picture of the privileges which our nation enjoys, and says that today the world is looking to us for leadership—Christian leadership.

What was the greatest thrill? I would say hearing the women sing "The Star Spangled Banner." After hearing of conditions of the world, it would seem that our own beloved flag held a new meaning, and that Old Glory fiying in the breeze on the campus, was not just another flag, but a symhol—A symbol of liberty, justice, and freedom for all. They sang as tho it was a precious thing—this "Star Spangled Banner."

I am sure every woman came home with a new love for our great country. I believe in American Democracy! May God help us to preserve it always.

A sight seeing trip into Washington, to the art gallery, building of Arts and Science, and Pan-American building, was enjoyed on Friday. Lunch was served in Rock Creek Park in the evening. It was a most lovely trip.

Graduating exercises were held on Friday, with Rev. Blackwelder, Lutheran minister, of Washington, as speaker. Two graduates were from Garrett county: Mrs. Silas Beachy, from Bittinger; and Miss Cora Hochman, from Grantsville.

Rev. Blackwelder's thoughts could be summed up in this little poem, "My Prayer," by Helena Laughton:

"When I pass on
It would delight my soul
To feel that I had done
Some little thing
For someone other than myself;
That by a look, or word, or deed,
I might have helped some weary soul
To bear a burden that I felt was Greater than my own.
This is my prayer; God grant is so to be
When I pass on!"

Friendship, inspiration, information, and recreation were at the University's school for farm women. If you wish to broaden your horizon go to Rural Women's Short Course.

MT. LAKE PARK

Becoming "Park Conscious"

One of the best signs we have seen on Mountain Lake Park for a very long time is that the people are becoming "Park conscious". Plans are being formulated to reorganize the beautification group. A few years ago this group was formed and accomplished many civic projects. Then, somehow, they grew discouraged. Their flower plots were destroyed, their trees uprooted, and much of their work came to naught. Now they are going to tackle it again. Civic pride has come to the front again. More power to them. They have courage—this small group of men and women.

A meeting is planned and called for one week from today, Thursday, August 3rd, at 7:00 o'clock in Assembly Hall. Everyone in the Park is invited and urged to attend and give their support and cooperation to this movement.

SANG RUN

Among the guests present at the birthday festivities held in Mrs. M. L. Savage's honor at her home here on Sunday were: Mrs. Eva Duckworth, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Mason Browning and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Browning and daughters Lorraine and Josephine, all of West Leisenring, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Paugh, Deer Park; Mrs. Asa B. Friend and son Hubert, Hoyes; Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Litman and family, also Billy O'Hearn of Uniontown; Mrs. A. C. Englehart and family and Miss Ethel Pasquel, Meyersdale, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. James Rush, Accident; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Custer, Hoyes, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Browning and granddaughter Mary Jane, Oakland. Twelve nieces and nephews of the hospitable hostess were present, as were all brothers and sisters with the exception of Mrs. John H. Hoffman, Uniontown. Serious illness, having unexpectedly developed just a few days prior to the planned birthday celebration here, made it impossible for Mrs. Hoffman to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. George Nordeck and baby daughter, Parsons, W. Va., spent Sunday here with Mrs. Nordeck's father, Ralph Hoye.

Mr. Stephen DeWitt, Accident, was a dinner guest Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert N. Savage.

Mrs. J. A. Friend spent last week in Oakland with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Hinebaugh.

Mr. Richard Dessance, Masontown, Pa., and Misses Josephine and Lorraine Browning, West Loisenring, Pa., called on Mrs. Mary L. and Miss Louise Savage Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carr and children were guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeWitt.

Mrs. Everett VanSickle, Cranesville, West Va., spent last week here with her parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Fred and Miss Margaret Hoye.

After a violent disturbance on Monday among Mrs. W. N. Savage's flock of white Leghorn chickens, Mrs. Savage began investigating immediately. The search, however, revealed nothing except one of her roosters practically dead near a small clump of bushes a few rods from the henhouse. Mrs. Savage did not see, scarcely a yard away, concealed beneath the bush clump, the deadly, coiled reason for the death of her prize member of the poultry family.

A thorough search, that included the mowing of some weeds and bushes a few minutes later by Mrs. Savage's father-in-law, Martin L. Savage, disclosed, ready to fight, and angry, buzzing rattlesnake. Mrs. Savage had stepped within less than a yard of the vicious serpent while Mr. Savage narrowly escaped stepping directly on it.

The three-foot snake, having eight rattles, was quickly disposed of by Mr. Savage who thought the chickens had been frightened by a weasel or some other rodent.

The Savage home was erected in an ideal location midst pine and laurel more than seventeen years ago, but this is the first rattler ever killed on the property. To my knowledge, this is the only farm fowl ever to be bitten in this section by a rattler. After the poisonous snake had bitten the spring-hatched rooster in the lower part of the neck it lived less than four minutes. Incidentally, it is estimated that one full grown rattlesnake carries enough venom to kill approximately thirty adult people before the contents of the venom sac would be exhausted.

the old, will afford inspiration for years to come.

Equally inspirational were the daily talks of Dr. Rebecca Parish, who gave impersonated devotions morning and evening, as she has used them in her missionary work in the Philippine Islands, where as a physician, she has given a life of service. She has also established the Mary I. Johnson Hospital there.

Mrs. Alvin Sherbine, State Director of Child Welfare of the W. C. T. U., gave talks on alcohol education, methods and materials.

On Sunday afternoon the Communion service, conducted by Dr. J. M. Knight, of Charleston, W. Va., was a refreshing time of quiet meditation and prayer. Included in this service was a brief memorial service held for Miss Ida King, a valued member and friend of the school, who died during the past year.

The Mission study classes were conducted by Mrs. F. I. Johnson teaching the foreign book, "Women in the Way," and Mrs. C. E. Timberlake the Home Mission book, "Homeland Harvest." These were both outstanding teachers.

The school has been very forunate in having as the general chairman Mrs. F. I. Johnson, who is internationally known as a teacher and leader. She brought evidence of her work and experiences that gave an outstanding background and atmosphere to the program.

Mrs. Harry L. Goedke, member of the National Council of Women's Church organizations, gave a splendid message on cooperation. This subject is uppermost in the minds of the churches today.

The work of Camp Gleam, the junior organization, which is a most important part of the school, will be lasting and far reaching in its influence. We covet a girl from each and every home to come under the influence of this camp. Mrs. Irene Lovett, of Chester, is our camp leader, assisted by Misses Frances and Emily Miller, and with Miss Helen Knight at the piano, they gave inspiration in music.

Miss Mary Johnson, teacher of methods, gave to the girls enthusiasm and zeal to go forth to be workers.

Miss Ruth Juram gave many fine ideas in program building.

The camp closed with a consecration service under the direction of Mrs. Lovett.

Two pageants were enjoyed during the week. One was given by Dr. Parish, assisted by the girls; the other by Mrs. Paul Nayler, assisted by the choir of the Oakland Methodist church.

A delightful social event of the week was a tea given at the hospitable home of our own Dr. and Mrs. Logan Carr. It was attended by nearly one hundred members of the School of Missions, Camp Gleam and other friends.

The nominating committee submitted the following names as officers for the ensuing year:

General chairman, Mrs. F. I. Johnson; associate chairman, Mrs. J. M. Knight; local chairman, Mrs. Wm. Bitzer; associate, Mrs. B. H. Sincell; secretary, Mrs. W. E. Love; treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Brock; publicity, Mrs. L. H. Paulgler, Mrs. Harry Goedke, Mrs. M. S. Collins; registrar, Mrs. G. Bleakly; secretary literature, Miss Della Sherman, courtesy committee, Mrs. Logan Carr; decorations, Mrs. E. L. Winchell; advisory board, Mrs. Ross Davis, Mrs. A. A. Richards, Mrs. E. L. Davidson, Mrs. W. J. Baughman, Mrs. J. Wayne Martin, Mrs. C. F. White, Mrs. E. H. Canon, Mrs. Samuel Cole, Mrs. Saunders; music, Miss Frances Miller, Miss Emily Miller, Miss Helen Knight.

THE REPUBLICAN

FINAL APPROVAL IS GIVEN FOR SAVAGE RIVER DAM

President Approves Measure To Insure Almost Immediate Construction of Project

SITE IS IN THIS COUNTY

The three-million dollar Savage River Dam project was approved last Friday by President Roosevelt The approval insures almost immediate construction of the huge water-impounding project which will provide industries in Cumberland area with ample year-around water supply, and give employment to more than 1,100 persons over a 30-month period. The dam is to be constructed in Garrett county and is calculated to help in solving the relief problem in this and adjoining Allegany county.

The dam will also provide a measure of flood control and abate pollution in the Potomac river by providing an even flow during dry summer months.

Plans for actual start of work are to be made this week at a conference between Francis H. Dryden, State WPA Administrator, and members of the three-man commission which consists of George W. Legge, Owen E. Hitchens, of Cumberland, and George Warnick, of Bloomington and Oakland.

The site selected is on Savage river, tributary of the Potomac, about six miles northeast of Luke. At this point will be built a dam nearly a quarter of a mile long and 175 feet above the stream bed, or as tall as an 18-story building. The dam will stretch 1,050 feet across the river and its thickness at the top will be 25 feet. The structure will be of earth and stone mixed and will be Maryland's largest earthen dam.

Plans call for digging of a tunnel around the dam to divert the water during construction and to provide a steady flow of water in the lower part of the river when the lake behind the dam is not high enough to flow over the top. The huge structure will impound in the neighborhood of six and one-half billion gallons of water. Such an amount is estimated necessary by engineers to provide an even flow during drought periods. This would provide sixty million gallons a day when needed during a dry spell.

Cost of the project is estimated at $2,870,990, of which the federal government, through WPA, will furnish $1,882,200. The remaining $987,790 will be provided by the county commissioners of Allegany county.

Of the 1,135 persons to be employed, WPA will pay the wages and salaries of 1,090; Allegany county, of 45. Total wages and salaries to be paid on the project during the thirty months estimated necessary to complete it amount to $1,870,310, of which Allegany county will pay $218,200; WPA, $1,652,110. Labor costs are broken down as follows: unskilled, $1,140,480; intermediates, $231,000; skilled, $275,560; superintendency, $223,300.

Mr. Legge stated steps would be taken immediately to obtain rights-of-way and easements needed. Most of the land required is already owned by the state and federal governments, but negotiations will be entered into immediately for the purchase of about ten privately-owned farms at the dam site. The commission has authority to condemn land.

Labor Day Picnic Committees Are Named by Pythians

Committees have been appointed by the Knights of Pythias Lodge for the 20th annual Labor Day picnic, which will be held this year on Monday, September 1, and preliminary plans are already being made for the affair, it was announced this week by Wade H. CAMP MEETING SERVICES CONTINUE AT THE PARK

Second in Series of Musical Sermons Scheduled Saturday

The second in the series of musical sermons entitled "The Ninety and Nine," will be presented Saturday evening in the Bashford amphitheatre, Mt. Lake Park, at 7:30, by the Oliver E. Williams musical ensemble of Pittsburgh, known as the "radio sky pilots." The presentation will be directed by J. Roy MacMurray, instrumentalist. Mr. MacMurray will play and sing several numbers and will be assisted by Mrs. Williams, soprano soloist. Solos, duets and trios will comprise the program. Mr. Maring Swart, pianist and soloist, will accompany Mr. MacMurray at the piano and be heard in various solos. Mrs. Nada Swart, soprano, will also sing. Fourteen musical instruments including the electric vibra-harp, will be used.

The services began last Sunday evening, and will continupe for two weeks, closing on August 13. Assisting Dr. Williams are Dr. Frank N. Lynch, and Rev. James Ellenberger. Weekday services are being held in the auditorium, and the musical sermons Saturday night and Sunday services in the amphitheatre. Dr. Williams has charge of an "Upper room" service daily at 2:30 besides his 7:30 services.

Johnstown Symphony Pleases in Week-end Concerts

A symphony orchestra appearing in this section for the first time in history drew an audience of about 1,600 at two performances given last Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon in the Bashford amphitheatre at Mt. Lake Park. This was the largest attendance of the season for programs sponsored by the Mt. Choir Festival association but was still short of the goal desired.

Those who did attend both concerts, however, appeared to be the most appreciative groups of any, and gave hearty response at the conclusion of each number. About 500 attended Saturday evening and over 1,100 Sunday afternoon.

It was the second appearance for the Johnstown symphony outside of their own city, and indications are that the 80-piece orchestra will return to the Park next year. Members of the orchestra are all amateurs and their director, Theodore Koerner, is paid by the city of Johnstown.

Music by Beethoven, Schubert, Grieg, and Sibelius were played during the Saturday evening performance with Louis Sicilliano presenting special violin selections during intermission. On Sunday afternoon selections from the music Humperdinck, Tschaikowsky, Haydn, Gounod and Strauss were played with a double string quartet playing special numbers. Finlandia, by Sibelius, was repeated Sunday afternoon by special request.

Crashes Into Threshing Machine

Miss Ruth Beckman, of near Thayerville, was painfully but not seriously injured last Friday evening about 10 o'clock when the car which she was driving crashed into the rear of a threshing machine, on the Sand Flat-Deer Park highway.

The threshing machine was owned by Phillip Filsinger. Both the machine and the automobile were badly damaged. Miss Beckman sustained numerous cuts and bruises on her face and body.

Corporal Thomas Currie of the State police is investigating the accident. He said a hearing would be held.

Bible School Closes

The Daily Vacation Bible school, conducted in St. John's Lutheran church, Red House, for two weeks, closed Sunday evening with a special program by the pupils and an address by Rev. A. B. Leamer, D. D., pastor of St. Mark's church, Oakland.

There were 122 enrolled with an average daily attendance of 117. A missionary offering of $14.00 was contributed during the school. No fee was charged. The school was supervised by Rev. A. K. Jones, pastor, and Mrs. Jones. There were fourteen teachers and associates including Miss Grace Filer, Red House school principal, and Sister Virginia Wolfe, deaconness.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraklin E. Rathbun left Oakland yesterday for the New York World's Fair. On Saturday they will take the S.S. Lancastria for a coast-wise vacation cruise to Nassau, in the Bahama Islands, the cruise lasting about a week.

SCHOOL BOARD AWARDS BUS INSURANCE CONTRACT

Westminster Girl Is Named To Faculty of Oakland High School

Awarding of insurance contracts for school busses, appointment of another teacher for Oakland High school, and other matters were taken up at a meeting of the Board of Education held at its office in the Court house on Tuesday morning. All members of the Board were present.

The Board placed the insurance upon school busses and cars transporting pupils with the Harleysville Mutual Casualty Company. B. I. Gonder is local agent.

Plans were advanced to the Board for closing the Sunnyside school and transporting pupils to Oakland but no definite action was taken, but F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, stated that attention would be given to the situation later as conditions would permit. Mr. Rathbun said that nothing had been filed in the office by any person advising against closing the Cherry Creek school and that nothing had been filed with any member of the Board. The Cherry Creek pupils would be transferred to the Oakland Elementary school.

Barbara Ann Fogelsanger, Westminster, graduate of Western Maryland college, 1939, was appointed by the Board as teacher of French and social studies in Oakland High school. Mr. Rathbun said Miss Fogelsanger is also prepared to assist in directing dramatics, athletics, and an orchestra.

A letter was presented to the Board from the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles of Maryland, relative to interpretations and application of the new State School Bus Law, in regarding to wording and stop lights, etc., necessary on all busses.

There will be a uniform method of warning the motorists of the new stop law. The Maryland Penitentiary is making signs reading "State Law-Traffic must STOP both ways while loading and unloading." This sign is to be attached to the rear of every school bus and to the front also, if construction of the bus permits.

Firemen's Celebration Closes At Grantsville With Big Parade

Fifteen fire companies participating in a parade at Grantsville last Friday evening brought to a close the Firemen's Week celebration in that town.

Meyersdale's new squad car headed the procession, followed by the Meyersdale band and fire company. Others in the line of march included Oakland, Hyndman, Rockwood band and fire company, Confluence, Salisbury band and fire company, K. of P. lodge, Lonaconing band, Westernport, Keyser High band and city fire company, Bloomington, Friendsville, Berlin fife and drum corps and fire company, Kingwood, Barton, Tunnelton and Grantsville. Members of twenty-four companies attended the celebration.

Riding in the Grantsville truck was T. S. Preston, of Frostburg. Mr. Preston, 87, is the oldest living member of any fire company in Maryland. He has belonged to the organization for sixty-one years and four months, having joined on March 12, 1878. He also holds honorary membership in the Chapel Hill fire company, Cumberland; the Westernport fire company and the Oakland volunteer fire company.

This was the third annual convention the Grantsville firemen have sponsored and various activities were featured during the week.

Deer Park Man Held In Allegany County On Bad Check Charge

A 41-year-old canvasser was ordered held for action of the October grand jury in Allegany county when arraigned Monday in the Trial Magistrate's court on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Harry Mosser, of Deer Park, was charged with obtaining $77.40 on July 20 from the Citizens National Bank at Westernport. He is alleged to have passed a worthless check, authorities said.

Mosser was arrested at Fairmont, West Va., at the request of State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, Allegany county, and he was committed to jail in default of $250 bond.

C. C. Taylor, West Virginia trooper, making a routine inspection of prisoners in the Fairmont jail last Saturday recognized Mosser who was being held there on a minor charge. He waived extradition and agreed to return to his home State to answer the charge preferred against him.

GARRETT COUNTY TRACT TRANSFERRED TO U. OF M.

University Is Given New Laboratory Comprising 1800 Acres Located Near Bittinger

IS USABLE FOR RESEARCH

An agreement has been signed transferring for use and management by the University of Maryland an 1800-acre tract of the Garrett County land-utilization project, it is announced by Dr. H. H. Bennett, Chief of the Soil Conservation Service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The University of Maryland is to use the tract for a period of 99 years as an outdoor laboratory for research, investigation and demonstration in the biological sciences, engineering, forestry and wildlife conservation.

The Garrett county project—a combined area of 35,635 acres—was established in 1935 as a part of the nation-wide program for the development of sub-marginal land for non-farm use. The 1800-acre tract has been developed as a field laboratory and a group camp was constructed to house extension service workers, 4-H club members and others interested in group study of conservation methods. Some erosion control work has been carried on to demonstrate effective methods of soil conservation. Improvements were made with the cooperation of the Works Progress Administration. The area is known locally as the Cunningham tract, near Bittinger, now in use as a recreational center.

This is the second transfer of Garrett county project lands for use and management by the agencies of the State of Maryland. Recently a 33,835-acre tract was made available to the State Forestry Department of the University of Maryland.

Frostburg Rotarians Hear About Oakland Golf Course

Frostburg Rotarians heard the story of the Oakland Municipal Golf course at their regular meeting on Monday evening at the Big Savage Hotel near that city, when Delbert Davis, Oakland Rotarian and president of the City Council, was guest speaker.

Mr. Davis gave a detailed account of how Oakland secured a golf course through the cooperation of the Rotary Club, the City Council and the WPA. The course was built at an approximate cost of $31,590.99, and Mr. Davis pointed out to the Frostburgers that a majority of the citizens of Oakland considered it a decided community asset.

He listed Oakland's share of the cost as follows: 1937-38, $2,990.26 for construction; 1938-39, $3,464.08 for construction and equipment; and 1939, $854.85 for seeding and fertilizer, a total of approximately $7,308.99. The amount spent by the WPA was about $24,282. The course is being managed this year by the Oakland Golf Club for the City Council, with a guarantee of 6 per cent on its investment.

Mr. Davis was of the opinion that the golf idea was taking hold on Oakland and that scores of visiting golf players were contributing to the profits of retail business men who in some instances were reciprocating by making cash donations to the golf course management.

Mr. Davis was accompanied to the meeting by Walter W. Dawson, another Rotarian.

4-H Club Boys End Camp At Bittinger

Sixty-one boys from Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties attended Camp Algawa at Bittinger July 23-29, with ten counselors. Counselors were provided for activities such as swimming, rifle marksmanship, metalcraft, leathercraft, woodcraft, building of toy electric motors, light demonstrations, which was offered in the mornings. The afternoons were devoted to recreation.

The camp was in charge of John H. Carter, County Agent, Oakland, and H. W. Beggs, assistant county agent of Washington and Allegany counties. They were assisted by E. G. Jenkins, State boys' club agent; J. A. Conover and A. V. Krewatch, College Park; J. R. Martin, of West Maryland Power Company; Bill McGrath, Washington, D. C.; Bill Telmeco, Mountain Lake Park; Charles Llewellyn, Allegany county, and Rev. Shelankey, of Washington county.

Legionaires Elect Shaffer As Post Commander

At a meeting of Proctor Kildow Post, No. 71, American Legion, held on Monday evening, the following were elected as officers for the coming year: F. R. Shaffer, post commander; Elza Bray, 1st vice-commander; Earl Selders, 2nd vice-commander; Edward P. Kahl, adjutant; Emory Devers, sergeant-at-arms; James Fazzalari, finance officer; H. C. Riggs, chaplain; Delbert Davis, historian.

Delegates selected to attend the State convention to be held in Baltimore, September 24-27, were Stanley S. Stahl and Alex. G. Hosen. The next meeting of the post will be held on August 7, when the newly elected officers will be installed.

Following the business meeting last Monday the members spent a social evening as guests of Lewis H. Cornish, at the Manhattan Hotel.

Automobile Deal Is A Bust; $100 Check Declared Forged

What appeared to be an unusually favorable business deal last Friday for C. E. Sharps, Chevrolet dealer, turned out to be not so favorable when Burrell Dawson, aged about 18 years, of near Aurora, who purchased an automobile and made partial payment with a check supposedly signed by W. E. Roth, of Aurora, was arrested and charged with forgery.

Mr. Roth is the father of Sheriff Roth, of Preston county, W. Va., and when the check was presented at the bank at Terra Alta for payment it was found that Mr. Roth's signature on the check was not genuine.

Authorities here were notified and young Dawson was apprehended near Wheeling, W. Va., Monday, brought to the Oakland Jail and was given a preliminary hearing before Trial Magistrate Charles F. White. Dawson entered a plea of guilty and was held for action of the September Term Grand Jury. Failing to furnish bond in the sum of $500 he remains in the custody of Sheriff Owens.

Rob Vindex Store

Sheridan Sims and Russell Crosco, both under 21 years of age, pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of breaking and entering the Vindex store at Vindex. The hearing was before Trial Magistrate White. Both were held under bond of $500 each for action of the September Grand Jury.

Council Has Special Session

At a special meeting of the Mayor and Town Council held on Monday evening C. F. White was appointed police magistrate for the town. This appointment was made necessary because of the bill concerning the magistrate system passed at the last legislature. According to the new law, the town must hire a magistrate, but the money from fines, etc., all goes to the County Commissioners, and not to the town, it was stated at the city council chamber. Mr. White's salary for this service was set at $50 per year.

The council granted a permit to St. Peter's church to conduct its carnival and homecoming this week-end.

A permit was granted the county to use the town roller on a number of roads. Next Monday will be the regular meeting night when the ordinances prohibiting the sale of fireworks and limiting the speed of trains will be brought up for action.

Piano Recital At Red House

A piano recital will be presented tomorrow evening, Friday, August 4, in the Lutheran church at Red House, at 8 o'clock, by the following pupils of Miss Sally Jones: Clara and Herbert Beckman, Nola Anne Carr, Kathleen, Leona and Robert Dodge, Catherine and Benny Knepp, Betty Jean Roth, Geraldine Soelter, Lillian, Clinton and Mrs. Marie Shaffer. The guest soloist is Miss Mildred Hamilton. She will sing two numbers, accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. J. F. Hamilton. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Planning For Excursion

M. W. Grove, traveling passenger agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was in Oakland yesterday to ascertain if plans were progressing for the autumn leaf excursion which is to be run from Baltimore and Washington to Oakland on Sunday, October 1.

Mr. Grove stated that at least five hundred members of the Baltimore Boosters club would be on the excursion.

A 20-mile tour in the county by automobiles donated by the citizens is being planned again by Mayor L. M. Fraley and the City Council.

VINDEX YOUTH DROWNS IN LAKE; FAMILY ON PICNIC

Thomas Clark, Son Of Mr. and Mrs. James Clark, Falls off Submerged Stump Into Deep Water

EFFORTS TO REVIVE FUTILE

Drowning of a 12-year-old boy in Deep Creek Lake on Sunday afternoon brought a tragic end to a family picnic. Thomas Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Clark, of Vindex, was the victim.

The lad fell off a partially submerged stump into about 15 feet of water. He was not able to swim.

His body was found more than an hour later by a rescue crew. Eugene B. Stein, of Cumberland, press room foreman of The Evening Times, hooked his body with a grappling hook brought to the scene by the Oakland Fire Department.

Four members of the Oakland Fire department used their inhalator and worked over the boy for nearly an hour when he was finally pronounced dead by Dr. N. I. Broadwater, county medical examiner. Dr. Broadwater gave a verdict of accidental death by drowning. Members of the Fire department who attempted to resuscitate the lad were Bob Wolfe, Frank Blake, Emroy Bolden and James Carney.

Falls Off Stump

The tragedy occurred at the John Nazelrod farm, near Deer Park, and across the Deer Park inlet from Turkey Neck. There Mr. and Mrs. Clark with their four children and a young niece, had gone for a Sunday picnic. The niece, 14, went out to a stump jutting up not far from the shore. Sheriff J. W. Owens said he was told. The girl called for Tommy to join her. Tommy went out and clambered up on the stump. A few minutes later he lost his balance and tumbeled into deep water on the far side of the stump. The girl, panic-stricken, screamed, arousing those on shore and some people across the lake who got to the scene in boats and immediately began to dive for the body.

Somebody went to Cabin Lodge in a boat, several miles distant and spread the alarm, notifying Sheriff Owens, members of the Oakland Fire Department and others. Mr. Clark, a miner, then got into his automobile and also drove to Cabin Lodge to summon aid. The accident occurred about 5:15 and the body was not recovered until about 6:30. Sheriff Owens said Stein, who recovered the body, fainted after succeeding in bringing the boy to the surface.

The lake shore was particularly steep at this point and dropped sharply a short ways from shore.

The lad was born July 6, 1927. Surviving are his parents, two brothers, James Clerk, Jr., and Harold Clark.

The body of the drowned lad was taken to the home of his grandfather, John Clark, in Kitzmiller and funeral services were conducted on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock from the Methodist church in Kitzmiller with the Rev. William Burkhart, Elk Garden, W. Va., officiating. Interment was in the Nethken Hill cemetery at Elk Garden.

Plans Completed For County Picnic Next Wednesday

Plans are completed to accommodate 4,000 people who are expected to attend the annual county picnic to be held at the Bittinger recreation area on Wednesday, August 9.

The picnic this year will be combined with the official dedication transferring the entire Cunningham tract of 1800 acres to the University of Maryland which includes the picnic area and camp site which has been in constant use this summer by 4-H club members from Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties.

Dr. H. H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service, and Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, will speak briefly. Group singing will be led by Miss Sara B. Huff, director of summer programs at Mt. Lake Park, and special numbers will be given by the Oakland Community choir under the direction of Rev. Felix Robinson.

There will be games and other recreation planned for anyone who cares to participate. Those attending are to bring basket lunches. A bus will leave Oakland on that day for the picnic grounds at 10 o'clock a. m., from in front of the Green Palm restaurant.

ELIJAH: A LIFE OF COURAGE

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 18:30-39.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is far from the wicked: but he heareth the prayer of the righteous.—Proverbs 15:29.

"Let courage rise with danger." Such is the plea of Webb's great hymn, "Stand Up for Jesus." Christianity in our day calls for courageous men and women.

Courage should be distinguished from such related things as bravery, valor, or bravado. Bravado is an affectation of a reckless bravery which surely has no place in Christian life and activity. Valor is associated with daring and vigorous action, for example, in battle. To be brave means to meet a challenge with confidence and resolution. To be courageous means to steadily meet perils of which one is deeply conscious, doing so because of the call of duty. Courage holds a deeper and nobler meaning than the other words, carrying with it the idea of moral strength and, in the case of the Christian, faith in God as one devoted to His cause.

Elijah was courageous, and he stands before our Christian youth today as an example of that godly courage which

I. Works in the Open (v. 30).

Men whose deeds are evil love the darkness rather than the light. God does not work in the dark. All of His workings are in the open sunlight. Every one is welcome to "come near" and see what is done.

Elijah knew God and he acted like God's man. What a tragedy it is that not all of God's servants have followed his example. If we had the open and above-board dealings of Elijah in the affairs of our churches, we might see more of the fire and power of his ministry. Certain it is that the administration of church affairs which has to be carried out in hidden corners by whispered conversations and by secret manipulations behind the scenes, is not God's work at all, it is the work of man.

II. Asks No Favors (vv. 33-35).

Elijah rebuilt the altar himself. He asked no help of the unbelieving prophets of Baal or of apostate Israel. How old-fashioned he seems in this day when so much stress is laid on a false unity of the faiths, and there is so much solicitation and acceptance by the Church of the help of unbelievers in financing the supposed work of God.

Note also that Elijah invited his enemies to make the answer to his prayer more difficult by pouring water on the sacrifice. This was not an act of bravado, it was for the purpose of demonstrating that there was no fraud. He was willing that the enemies of the truth should make the demonstration more difficult if that would be to God's glory. There is a delightful old-fashioned flavor about that act, too, in these days when men are frequently willing to compromise with unbelief and even with sin in order that the work of the Church may be carried on without too much difficulty. Here again we have an explanation of the lack of spiritual power in our times.

III. Honors God, Not Man (vv. 30-32, 36-37).

A man of bravery wants recognition for himself, while the courageous man asks only that the cause for which he fights shall be successful. Elijah had long since demonstrated that he was absolutely fearless, and sought no favor or glory (read the entire story). Now in the tenseness of this moment, he carefully rebuilds the altar of the true God (v. 30), makes it a testimony of unity to a divided Israel (v. 31), and he does it all in the name of the Lord (v. 32).

His prayer (vv. 36, 37) is a profoundly simple expression of a complete faith in the true God and His power on the part of a man who recognized himself as being only the divine servant. He made no plea that God would vindicate him or his ministry, but he did plead that the name of the Lord should be honored in the midst of an unbelieving people.

IV. Brings Eternal Results (vv. 38, 39).

"The fire of the Lord fell." The lying prophets of heathendom were routed. Many recognized Jehovah as the true God. While Israel did not long remember the lesson learned here, the story has continued as a testimony that will strengthen the people of God as long as time continues.

In God's Treasury

Treat the weakest and the worst with reverence, for, like yourself, they are the temples of the living God.

Abides Forever

The world passes away and the lust of it, but he that doeth the will of God abides forever.—I John 2, 17.

Attractive Holiness

The holiness of Christ did not awe men away from Him, nor repel them. It inspired them with hope.

SCOOP'S COLUMN

By Scoop Himself

Two very significant signs stand on a rocky, hilly road near Peoria Heights, Ill. One sign says, "Roosevelt Road," and the other, "Danger, Travel at Own Risk." A photograph of the sign appeared in the daily papers on Monday.

All CCC boys in Beaver City, Pa., evidently want to look pretty. They have been going into beauty shops for permanent waves as it appears that the curly headed lads were the ones who were getting the dates with the town girls.

Don't know that that is necessary in Garrett county. Looks like all kinds get dates with the small town and farm lassies, in this section.

News Item

Nobody jumped from Glendale bridge this week. Everybody apparently is accounted for.

* * *

Last week somebody wanted to name the bridge "Suicide Bridge" and it was also suggested that a bulletin board be erected so that anyone contemplating the jump, could leave a note on the board as to when, how, why, and who, which would relieve the authorities somewhat and relatives a great deal. Perhaps a sign "Look Before You Leap," would have its influence.

Sensible Regulation

A sensible regulation was recently passed somehow in Washington which is a boon to most of the editors of the country.

Recently the editors of the country have been swamped with postal card appeals from the many New Deal press agents begging them to ask for New Deal blurbs. A few of those departments which must also ask are the old-established ones such as the department of agriculture which sends out crop and weather reports and others of like nature.

The 1940 Postoffice Department appropriation bill prohibits federal government departments from sending through the mail free of postage any "report, periodical, bulletin, pamphlet, list or other article or document" unless this service is requested by the receiver.

This presents a pretty picture with hundreds of New Deal publicists waiting with their great stacks of press releases, unable to mail a single one unless somebody asks for one. Reports indicate that editors all over the country are ignoring the appeals.

It will be interesting to see how much stuff is sent out from these agencies regardless.

Some day the people of Garrett county are going to rise from their beds, and be able to look out over as much water as people along the Chesapeake Bay. The Savage River dam, now approved, will take many hundreds of acres away from the land area of the county, although it is true that the land to be covered is not very productive and considered submarginal.

But in addition to that, people of Friendsville and Selbysport are almost sure that a big flood control dam is going to be built somewhere along the Youghiogheny river, which will put these towns completely under water. They feel sure it is coming within the next twenty years, as the result of numerous surveys that have been made in that area recently, by Federal engineers.

I still believe the best method of flood control is to plant trees in the proper places to conserve the water that falls from the skies, and keep it from getting to the streams and rivers so quickly.

A flood control dam in district 2 would certainly cover up some good farming country and drive a lot of good people from their homes.

Although the Johnstown symphony orchestra drew the best crowds of any of the programs of the music festival this year, still no records came anywhere near to being broken. They really deserved more support than they received. The several hundred who did attend were most appreciative. The music was not such that it was above the ordinary individual. It could have been appreciated by anyone who appreciates harmony. If they are back next year the amphitheatre should be packed and jammed.

Man's Great Weakness

James T. Mangan, writer of inspirational copy, believes that laziness is man's greatest weakness. In his little book, "Push", he vigorously attacks the habit of laziness. He points out that almost all other negative qualities are due to laziness.

"Conquer laziness and you conquer fear", he writes. "It's easy to see that you can't be afraid, you can't worry, while you are busy doing other things. Conquer laziness and you conquer procrastination, for when you are keyed up to do all things and to do them promptly, you just can't bring yourself to put things off. A world of time is at your disposal and your life is released for the happy work of producing. Conquer laziness and your inferiority complex disappears overnight. The man who is full of action cares nothing for excusing himself, explaining his action, finding fault with others. The busy man is the happy man, the Superior Man.

"Goodby to fear, to sensitiveness, to worry, to inertia, to procrastination, to all inferior feeling, once you have conquered laziness. And when you bid laziness a final farewell, the world suddenly will discover you and say: 'Here is Somebody!'"

* * *

Now, if it hadn't been for laziness, perhaps, I would have tried to fill out the space with words of my own, instead of using those of Mangan, which are more to the point. So I hope you will forgive my laziness, but I'm not worried about whether you do or whether you don't.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS . . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

The Communist Game

A trenchant point in connection with the German and Russian propaganda, with which this country is pretty thoroughly drenched, is made by the Virginia Weekly, The Bath County Enterprise, in a column written by Mr. Fay Ingalls. A more general recognition of its soudness would promote the national health.

* * *

The essence of the argument is that the public attitude toward the American activities inspired by the two great dictatorships—the one headed by Hitler and the other by Stalin—is not the same, though on the surface there appears no reason it should not be identical. For example, in the last year the people generally, and the press particularly, have bitterly—and properly—resented the publicity and proselyting of the Nazis in the United States. In addition, there has been created and nourished a high state of public wrath over the ruthless tyrannies of the Hitler regime.

* * *

On the other hand, the propaganda that comes from Moscow and the activities of the Communists' representatives here, which are widespread, constant and effective, now appear to be received with a curious lack of indignation. This change began about three years ago and has been so gradual that in the main it has escaped comment. So far as the two nations are concerned, the doctrines and policies of one hardly are more offensive to us than those of the other. They are equally threatening to democratic ideals.

* * *

Both are totalitarian states of the extreme type, whose rulers look with loathing and contempt upon the democratic system — particularly the American democratic system. They are equally ruthless, equally irreligious, equally untrustworthy, equally indifferent to the rights of the individual and equally devoid of national morality. In Russia they do some things on a grander scale than in Germany and a political purge which in the latter may take half a dozen lives in the former may cost as many as hundreds or even thousands. Essentially, life in the two countries is much the same. No man can express his opinion freely without danger of prison or worse; none but a few have any say either as to the making of laws or their enforcement; liberty and justice are equally farcical in both, and in both labor works practically at the point of the bayonet for a wage determined by the masters.

* * *

All these facts are too well known really to need repetition. What is going on in Russia is no less hideous that what is going on in Germany. But, so far as we are concerned, the Communists are much more numerous and much more active in spreading their propaganda than the Nazis. Why, then, has the American public generally, and the press particularly, become more tolerant toward the Communist activities here than toward those of the Nazis? Of course, there is one large, obvious reason—it is Hitler rather than Stalin who threatens to plunge the world into another great war from which civilization could hardly emerge, and it is Hitler who, by various coups, has dramatically held the spotlight for a considerable period.

* * *

But there is another reason and an important one. The Nazi activities here have been blatant and brazen, but more or less open. Certainly there has been nothing subtle nor skillful about them. Their meetings have been publicly held, their plans paraded and their leaders advertised. In contrast, for some years most of the Communist activities in the United States have been underground, camouflaged with hypocritical declarations of concern for democracy. A calculated policy has been pursued by which the really key Communist leaders are kept in position to deny that they are Communists. There has been a systematic campaign of "boring from within" more adroitly planned and executed than anything of the kind ever tried before.

* * *

They have succeeded not only in gaining large influence in one of the great labor factions—the CIO—but, as shown by the records, there are a number of active Communists in the Government departments, all of whom, in accord with party strategy, would deny they were Communists. Their most successful exploit has been to identify themselves with the New Deal and Mr. Roosevelt. Despite the latter's repudiation of Communist support in 1936 he got that support 100 per cent—and still has it. The Communists no longer put up candidates of their own. They publicly support the New Deal on the theory that it tends in their direction and the best way to promote Communism in this country is to foster it.

* * *

This has been openly proclaimed by Communist leaders and by the Communist organs. In particular, the Communist supports the New Deal spending plans and Mr. Earl Browder, official head of the American Communists was out for a third term before either Senator Guffey or Mr. Ickes. The strategy is as ingenious as it is effective and it has been helped along by two things—one, by the left wing publicists, who raise the cry of "Red Baiter" the moment the facts are presented; the other by the frequent attendance of Mrs. Roosevelt upon gatherings of various organizations, directed and dominated by Communistic influences. In her well-meaning humanitarian way, unconsciously, she has helped the Communists play what unquesionably is a shrewd but also is a sinister game.

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

It is a fact well known to detectives and law enforcement officers that criminals frequently return to the scene of their crimes. Psychiatrists find that many of their patients talk constantly about their ailments and maladies and see their own defects in others. So it is not strange to find the spokesman for the Democratic National Committee devoting one of his recent weekly statements to the financing of political parties.

Of course he selected as his text the financing of the Republican National Committee. It was horrible, he exclaimed, that during the first five months of this year thirteen contributors—yes, all of thirteen, just count them—should give $4,000 each to the Republican National Committee. Ah ha, he exclaimed, there was the evidence that wealthy men owned the Republican Party! Think of it—thirteen men in five months gave as much as $4,000 each to the Republican Party!

Well, we guess it must be pretty bad. But let us say a word in extenuation of ourselves. The Democratic spokesman naturally said nothing about the thousands and ten of thousands of small contributions received by the Republican National Committee. He failed to mention that in the 1936 campaign 607,000 persons contributed to the Republican National Committee; that in 1938 the total was 86,000 persons and that during the first five months of this year a total of 4,650 contributions were received by the Republican National Committee.

Little People Give

These contributions came from people in all walks of life—lawyers, physicians, teachers, Mechanics, business men, laborers and farmers. Their contributions were as small as $1. But each, let it be said, gave willingly, in proportion to his or her own stake in this land in an effort to end an Administration that is menacing jobs and livelihoods.

Perhaps they were all selfish, as the Democratic spokesman suggested. Perhaps they all gave in order to get something back, but that something is an assurance of a job, preservation of their business and liberty under an American form of government. They are investing in America for their children's sake. Such is the selfishness which motivated these contributors, whether they be big business men or just plain, every day folk in the factory or on the farm.

Since the Democratic spokesman brought the subject up, let's ask what individual gave the largest sum of money in the 1936 campaign. Was it not Walter A. Jones, of Pittsburgh, whose name recently was mentioned in the press in connection with a Mexican oil deal? Did he not give $104,500 to the Democratic Party in that year?

How About Sit-Down Strikes?

Did not the radical wing of organgive or "lend" $500,000 to the Democgive or "lend" $500,000 to th eDemocratic war chest in the 1936 campaign? Was not this money, for the most part, wrung in the form of dues from workers who earned it sweating in mines and factories and had no thought that their money would be used for partisan political purposes? Did not the Roosevelt Administration remain silent, because of this financial assistance, when John L. Lewis staged his sit-down strikes throughout the country in 1937?

Is it not a fact that a large part of the Democratic National Committee's fiuances have been raised by levying on Federal and State jobholders, with even Civil Service and relief workers being threatened and coerced? Art not the Jackson Day dinners a part of this Democratic shake-down, with many jobholders and persons doing business with the Federal Government required to subscribe $100 a plate for dinners which actually cost about $3?

Oh, the Democratic spokesman professes great purity, but what about the loans of his committee from its secretary, Lawrence Wood (Chip) Robert, whose "commissions" in connection with WPA projects have been too much for even Harold Ickes to swallow, not to mention the Georgia legislature? What about laons from a gentleman who has been associated with the motion picture industry and what about loans from banks in contravention of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act?

Convention Book Real Scandal

And while we are on the subject, let not the scandalous sale of Democratic Convention books, autographed by President Roosevelt himself, for $250 each to corporations be forgotten. Many businessmen remember how they were shaken down for many hundreds—yea, many thousands—of dollars by agents of the Democratic Committee for obsolete convention books which would not be worth a nickel were it not for the President's autograph in them—and even with the autograph they were not worth more than $1.95.

The sale of these books—or rather the shake-down of these corporations—clearly were violations of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, yet the Attorney General winked at the violation, a Democratic House majority pigeonholed a demand for an investigation and Mr. Roosevelt, gathering his robes of purity around him, washed his hands of the whole affair by blaming Jim Farley.

We have done no more than skim the surface of such activities by the Roosevelt Administration. Yet the Democratic spokesman has the gall to parade his party leaders in seraphic and angelic roles draped in white robes as he undertakes to point the linger of scorn at men who contribute their own money in a cause designed to give them a chance to create jobs for our huge army of unemployed.

HEALTH FIGURES IN 1938 AND 1939 ARE COMPARED

Fewer Births, January To June, This Year; Fewer Infant Deaths

In spite of the hazards involved in an epidemic of measles, such as occurred last winter when over 14,000 cases were reported in the State, the records of the State Department of Health show that the first six months of 1939 were especially favorable to children and young people. Some of the outstanding features of the records for the current year were summarized by Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the Department, as follows:

"From January 1 to June 30 of this year," Dr. Riley said, "13,857 births and 11,134 deaths from all causes and in all age groups, were reported to the Department in comparison with 14,174 births and 10,636 deaths during the corresponding period of 1938.

"There were fewer births this year than during the first six months of 1938, but there were also fewer infant deaths. There were 716 deaths under one year during the first six months of 1939 and 802 during the corresponding period of 1938. Or, to put it differently, up to the end of June this year, there were 52 deaths in relation to each one thousand births; last year during the same period there were 57 deaths among each thousand children born.

"Increases in what are known as the degenerative diseases, of middle life or old age, were largely responsible for the increase in the total deaths, and for the increase in the death rate from 12.1 per thousand of the total population during the first six months of 1938 to 12.5 this year. The deaths from the degenerative diseases were: First six months of 1939: Heart disease, 3,057 deaths; cancer, 1,204 deaths; nephritis, 1,157; cerebral hemorrhage, 941, and diabetes, 272, a total of 6,631 deaths. First six months of 1938: Heart disease, 2,841; cancer, 1,120; nephritis, 1,147; cerebral hemorrhage, 847, and diabetes, 251, a total of 6,206 deaths. The deaths under one year and those from the degenerative diseases—a combined total of 7,347 deaths—were responsible for two-thirds of the deaths from all causes and at all ages. The rest of the deaths were scattered among the remaining third.

"One significant decrease in the total deaths during the half year occurred in the deaths from pneumonias. There were 2,609 cases of pneumonia reported during the first six months of 1939 with 813 deaths, in comparison with 2,129 cases and 856 deaths during the corresponding period of 1938. It is too early to draw conclusions regarding the effectiveness of the newer methods of treatment of the disease, but a drop of this sort in spite of an increase in the cases reported, is decidedly encouraging.

"June with 1,537 deaths had the lowest number of deaths in any one month, so far, in 1939, and January with 2,017, the highest number."

CLASS AGAINST CLASS

A dispatch from Boston quotes Aubrey Williams, National Youth Administrator, as saying that "young people must organize to protect themselves against the terrific organization of the aged for public benefits."

In an interview, Williams said that the voting age "might be lowered", so that the youth will have more of a voice. Declaring that the cost of government can't be increased endlessly, in which he is dead right, he asserted that "if the aged are to get more and more, then it must come from the public service. Youth's interests are threatened from the standpoint of public support of education."

Thus does the influence of the course of the federal administration in arraying class against class continue to be marked.

LABOR'S ENEMY NO. 1

Instead of tackling the real problem of stimulating business so that it could provide real jobs at real wages, the New Deal, in its hypocritical efforts to pose as the friend of labor and the jobless, has proved to be the worst enemy labor and the jobless have ever had.

Recent events, however, have opened the eyes of labor and the unemployed to the colossal sham at last. They can no longer be hoodwinked and are adding their millions of voices to the demands of their sincere friends that the New Deal quit kicking business aroud to satisfy petty spites and give it a chance to give them regular jobs at regular wages.

At long last it has become painfully apparent to the most trusting that for all the New Deal's crocodile tears for the jobless and its smooth promises to labor, the New Deal has been stabbing both labor and the unemployed in the back so that it might continue its Lady Bountiful posturing to play upon the sympathies of the guillible and win votes for its own selfish ends.

Whether it is a satisfactory substitute for steady jobs at good wages we leave to the honest judgment of the unfortunates who through no fault of their own have to trust for a bare existence to its uncertainties, its injustices and its outright exploitation.

Paragraph Opinions . . .

GET READY NOW—

It isn't pleasant to think of winter while enjoying the warm days of summer. But summer is the time when your home should be prepared against the cold and rainy period ahead, in the interest of comfort and fire prevention.

Check up on your heating plant first of all. Furnaces and chimneys should be thoroughly cleaned, and necessary repairs made by a qualified expert.

It is very possible that certain minor changes in construction in your home are advisable as an aid to fire prevention. Wood beams extending into chimney walls, for instance, have started many fires. And adequate fire stops are all-important.

Check over any exposed electric wiring—dark days bring maximum demand for light, and heavy use of electric heating appliances. Don't make amateur repairs yourself—bad wiring has caused many a serious fire. An electrician will do it properly.

Finally, go through the house thoroughly, and clean out accumulations of papers, magazines, discarded clothes, broken furniture and other inflammable junk.

Get ready for winter now. It's a little job that may pay big dividends.

Seeking to give new encouragement to home building, the Federal Housing Administration announced that interest rates on home financing which it insures are reduced by one-half per cent, making it 4½ per cent.

OLD TOLL GATE RECORD FOUND; TO BE PRESERVED

Day-Book To Be Displayed At Restored Toll House On Rt. 40

Residents of Garrett and Allegany counties who enjoy perusing historical records are taking considerable interest just now in a toll-keeper's day-book, which has been in the possession of the Engle family of Eckhart for fifty years.

It was brought to light recently by Mrs. Lester Engle, who states that the book was carefully kept by Mrs. William Engle, who died in 1917. The book, according to Mrs. Engle, came into the possession of her husband's grandparents when they resided near the Six Mile House a half-century ago.

Tolls On Credit

The book contains a record of toll charges, many of them listed "to Cumberland and back", from April 3, 1845, to May 14, 1847, and discloses that the paying of toll in the case of responsible men was done on a credit basis. The accounts indicate that the owners of teams were charged each time their drivers passed the toll house, and each month a settlement was made. According to the records, the accounts were paid promptly each month.

Among the names against whom the largest charges were made and who regularly paid their bills were: William, Thomas and Joshua Johnson, pioneer lumber dealers; William and Isaiah Frost, operators of lumber mills at Shade Mills, Garrett county; J. H. Hoblitzell, from whom the Hitchins Brothers bought their present store in Frostburg in 1854; Meshack Frost, founder of Frostburg; Nelson Beall; Thomas Porter, an inn keeper of that day; H. T. Weld, a British subject, who once lived on the Schellhaus farm in Mt. Savage; Aden Clary, whose family gave Clarysville its name; George W. Haller, a prominent resident of Frostburg, who is said to have helped establish the Masonic fraternity there in 1854; Dr. Joseph Getzendanner, at one time Frostburg's leading physician; Robert McCulloh, a member of one of the pioneer families of Frostburg, and Henry Wagner, of Garrett county.

Other Names

Others who paid large daily toll charges and whose accounts were always promptly settled were the following residents of Allegany and Garrett counties: Daniel Bruce, John Huffman or Hoffman, William Dawson, Thomas Chaney, William Conrad, William Ridgeley, Jesse W. Chaney, John Young, John Reckner, F. R. Shepperd, Joseph Dilley, John Hoye, William Thomson, Eli Ridgeley, Henry Warren, Daniel B. Dorsey, Hiram Sutton, Maryland and New York Iron and Coal Company, Peter Uhl, Henry McKinsey, Owen C. Askins, Jonathan Huddleson, Charles Williams, Henry Wagus, Emmanuel Gnagey, Levi Taylor, George Arnold, Charles Holtzman and a Mr. Magruder.

Notations in the book indicate that at times it was taken from the toll house between Frostburg and Cumberland on the National highway to the tollgate on Savage Mountain, probably for comparison. Such a notation is as follows: "James Howe, Cumberland, Allegany county, his hand and pen; Ronald C. Sipe, Cumberland, Allegany county, his hand and pen, this 31st day of December, 1846. We all here spent New Year's Eve at the Tollgate No. 2 on the Big Savage."

The book has been presented to the owners of the toll house on the National highway, who plan to have it placed in a glass case and preserved for all who care to see it.

Homemakers' Column

Edited by Miss Mildred Barton, Home Demonstration Agent, Oakland.

Plenty of Limes and Lemons For Summer "Ade" Season

Lemonade is generally considered one of the better things of life, especially on sweltering summer days. Along about the time that "heat versus humidity" becomes the great American topic of conversation, demand for lemons and limes—the two most popular of the "ade" fruits—is at its height. Lemons are available the year round, for drinks as well as numerous other uses. The season for limes grown in this country usually opens early in April, ends along in December.

This summer, supplies of limes and lemons should be plentiful, according to estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture. The lemon crop, which started coming to market last November, is the largest since the 1934-35 crop, and very nearly the largest on record. The lime crop doubtless will top those of previous years.

Shopping tips for limes are few. Ordinarily good limes are heavy for their size. That indicates good juice content. Decay may appear as a mold or as a soft discolored, place on the stem end. Brown discolorations of the skin may or may not affect the fruit inside.

Lemons that have a fine-textured skin and are heavy for their size are generally of better quality than coarse-skinned, light-weight fruit. Decay, as in limes, appears as a mold or as a soft discolored spot at the stem end. Lemons to avoid are those that are soft or spongy to the touch.

Besides giving flavor to cooling liquid refreshments, lemons and limes have countless other uses in cooking. Both are good in sherbets and ices, in sauces to serve over cakes or puddings, and in pies. To make the most of the fresh flavor of the lemon, add the juice and grated rind to the filling of a pie at the end of the cooking, along with the butter. Beat and pour into a baked pie crust, or serve as a pudding if the weather's too hot to bother about making pastry.

Lemon juice mixed with melted butter and parsley makes a simple sauce to serve with fish or over cooked carrots. Squeezed over prunes, bananas, a slice of honeydew, lemon juice tones up the natural good flavor. Added to the whites of eggs in an omelet after beating is well along, ½ teaspoon of juice will help to hold up the fluff. In making jelly from fruits high in pectin, low in acid, one tablespoon lemon juice added to a cup of fruit juice will usually furnish enough acidity to help the jelly "jell."

Beitzel-Bowman Reunion

The Beitzel and Bowman families will hold their annual reunion in the Pleasant Valley Park, near Bittinger, on Sunday, August 6. All relatives and friends are invited to attend.

MT. LAKE PARK

Saturday and Sunday there was considerable traffic up and around the auditorium, and Officer Welling was very pretty busy directing traffic and slowing down speedsters, which is just what the officer is supposed to do and for which he will be thanked by Park residents.

The public has shown its appreciation in asking that the Johnstown Symphony return next year, and many have expressed their willingness to help make it a success. To the Rev. Felix Robinson goes much credit for all he has done and is trying to do for Mountain Lake Park, and with the cooperation of the public generally the Park will in all probability come into its own again.

Reservations are coming in each day for the Western Maryland Tennis Tournament. Many new players are signing up and there should be a large number of spectators. This tournament is always a high spot for the Park and just about as fine advertising as anyone could wish. Each year new visitors arrive at that time; they like it and they return, often for the whole season. Better yet, they tell their friends. So let us all cooperate and help in every way possible. The sponsors of the turnament is the Civic Club, and its members are working hard to make the meet a success, and we believe they will.

Any news or correspondence for this column should be in the hands of the writer by Tuesday night at the latest. Many times we receive news items left in as late as Wednesday night, and when it is given us that late we can not guarantee its publication that week, so if you have an item that we have failed to get, try and send it to us by Tuesday night of each week.

Honoring Mrs. E. L. Winchell's birthday anniversary at her home on Tuesday evening, Mrs. Edna DeVore and Miss Maxine DeVore, of Woodsfield, Ohio, guests of Mrs. Winchell, entertained Dr. and Mrs. C. FINAL RITES TO BE HELD FRIDAY FOR C. W. REAM

Prominent Citizen of Community Died Tuesday Evening at Crellin Home—Was 56 Years Old

WELL KNOWN IN 2 STATES

Charles Walter Ream, 56 years old, prominent coal operator and business man as well as an active participant in many civic enterprises, died at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night, August 8, at his home in Crellin.

Mr. Ream had been in ill health for several years and within the past three or four months had suffered a number of heart attacks, which is attributed as the result of his death.

Mr. Ream was well known throughout Maryland and West Virginia, especially among those engaged in the coal industry, being at the time of his death president of the Stanley Coal Company, operating at Crellin; a member of the Bituminous Coal Commission of West Virginia, District No. 7; first vice-president of the Preston County Coal Mining Institute, and president of the Garrett National Bank of Oakland, a position which he has held since 1933.

Mr. Ream was also prominent in fraternal circles, being a member and past president of the Oakland Rotary Club; member of the Knights of Pythias, Pythian Sisters and the Dokies, of Oakland; member of the Odd Fellows of Mountain Lake Park; member of the Woodmen of the World, Crellin, and the Loyal Order of Moose.

Mr. Ream was born September 17, 1882, at Mountain Lake Park, a son of Richard Ream and the late Catherine Weiss Ream. He engaged in the lumber and coal business and was superintendent of the Kendall Lumber Company at Crellin for several years prior to 1925, when he was made president of the Stanley Coal Company. He was also vice-president of the Preston Railroad Company and several months ago purchased extensive coal operations of the Borgman interests in Preston county, West Va.

He was made president of the Garrett County Welfare Board in 1935, serving until 1936, when he resigned. He was actively interested in the Garrett County Fair and contributed much to its years of successful operation. Table Rock Inn, on U. S. Route 50, was also one of his numerous interests. The mines at Crellin were among the very few in all this area that kept in operation throughout the depression, giving employment to 200 to 300 men during the years when many others were without work.

Mr. Ream was a member of the United Brethren church from childhood. He was married to Miss Ida M. Lee, who died in 1925. In 1937 he was married to Miss Rosalie Click, principal of the Oakland Elementary school.

Surviving are his widow and four children by his first marriage, Harold Ream, Erval Ream and Alvin Ream, all of Crellin, and Mrs. Harvey Mussard, of Oakland. Also surviving are his father, Richard Ream, Mountain Lake Park; three brothers and two sisters, John Ream and Robert Ream, of Mountain Lake Park; George Ream, of Indiana, Pa.; Mrs. Albert Biggs, of Mountain Lake Park, and Mrs. Frank Gortner, of Mazon, Ill., and one grandson, Richard Ream Mussard.

Funeral services are to be conducted on Friday afternoon at two o'clock at the Union church in Crellin, with Dr. Roy Shaffer, of Clarksburg, W. Va., officiating, assisted by the Rev. E. A. Crites, pastor of the U. B. church circuit of this area. Interment will be in the Oakland cemetery with members of the Knights of Pythias having charge of final rites. Members of the Rotary Club will be honorary pallbearers and will meet at 1:30 Friday at the William-James Hotel.

Crogan, Jos. Gibson and Judge A. G. Hughes, of Kingwood, W. Va., and directors of the Garrett National Bank: W. R. Offutt, D. Edward Offutt, Stuart F. Hamill, Dr. N. I. Broadwater.

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR COUNTRY LIFE JUBILEE

"The Best In Country Living" To Be Presented In Amphitheatre Mt. Lake Park, On August 26

SCHEDULE TWO PROGRAMS

"The Best in Country Living", illustrated by exhibits and two programs, afternoon and evening, will be presented at the Country Life Jubilee, to be held in the Amphitheatre at Mountain Lake Park on Saturday, August 26, under the direction of Miss Sara B. Huff, director of summer programs at the Park and formerly of the Extension staff, West Virginia University, Morgantown. The date for this presentation was changed yesterday from August 19th, when it was found it conflicted with the Bittinger picnic date.

Miss Huff announced that there would be pageantry showing the rural life of early Maryland and the way of doing it today. Bands, string music, singing, games for children and for adults, exhibits of hobbies, art, quilts, flowers, handmade rugs, pieces of handwork, etc., would be included. A costume parade is being planned, which is to be led by a bride dressed in the gown of 150 years ago. The quilt display at the Folk Festival is being repeated by request.

This is the first Country Life Jubilee to be held in this area and Miss Huff expressed the hope of the committee that it might prove so successful that it would become an annual event. The Art Colony of Youghiogheny Forest will have an art exhibit.

According to Miss Huff some of the organizations taking part are those promoted by the county agent and the home demonstration agent, the Future Farmers of America, the granges, the Mothers' Club, Ladies' Aid societies of various churches, the Civic Improvement Society of the Park, the Oakland Civic Club. Miss Huff also added that among the communities besides Mountain Lake Park and Oakland who were taking part in the affair, were White Church, Steyer, Gorman, Kitzmiller, Friendsville, Shallmar, Kempton, Pleasant Valley, Gortner and Bittinger.

Miss Huff is inviting people of these communities and others to dress in old-time costumes to participate in the fashion parade of yesterday and today.

Among specialties for children will be a doll parade, a costume parade for girls, a cowboy and Indian parade, a Punch and Judy show and other features. Mickey's Boys' Band will give an exhibition on parade.

Other specialties will include the making and sale of pancakes, fresh butter and hot maple syrup, doughnut dunking, and pies and cakes for sale, Miss Huff added.

Two groups of special note will play at the Jubilee at both the afternoon and evening hours. One is the stringed orchestra, taught and directed by Professor Guy Garrett, Uniontown, Pa., composed of fifty players. The second is the Harmonica Band of Clarksburg, West Va., under the direction of Kenneth Moore and sponsored by Mrs. Hill. This orchestra of forty harmonicas and marimba have been received by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford in their own home.

Admission to the amphitheatre will be 5 cents for under 10 years; 10 cents, 10 to 17 years; 15 cents, 17 to 70 years, and admission free to all over 70.

Thirty-Two Killed In Automobile Wrecks During July

Thirty-two people were killed in 28 accidents during the month of July, W. Lee Elgin, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, announced. Sixty-five per cent of the operators of the cars involved were credited with operating too fast for road conditions.

"If we are to reduce the number of fatal accidents," Mr. Elgin said, "let us consider the maximum speed limit safe only when weather and traffic conditions are favorable and when the vehicle being operated is in good condition."

The first seven months of the year have ended with 13 more deaths than the corresponding period of 1938, an increase of 6.2 per cent. Ten of the persons killed in July were pedestrians. Fifteen were passengers and seven were operators.

Mrs. C. N. McIntire, Oak street, has been ill at her home for two weeks. Her condition today shows improvement.

SALE OF FIREWORKS NOW PROHIBITED IN OAKLAND

City Council Passes Unanimously Ordinance Monday Night; Can Neither Buy or Fire Them

OTHER MATTERS SETTLED

The town ordinance prohibiting the sale of firecrackers and other fireworks within the limits of Oakland, was passed unanimously Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Town Council, after having remained on the table for a period of thirty days, according the regulations governing the enactment of new ordinances.

The ordinance makes it unlawful "for any person, persons, firms or corporations to have, store or keep for sale or sell within the corporate limits of the town of Oakland any firecrackers, cannon crackers, torpedoe or fireworks of any kind or description by whatever name known."

The ordinance also makes it unlawful to "fire or set off any firecracker or fireworks of any kind or description within the limits of the town."

Council retains the power to grant permits for fireworks displays within the limits of town upon request in writing by individuals or organizations, but Council has the say as to time, place and manner of display. Failure to observe this ordinance is punishable by a fine of from $1 to $25 for each offense, or thirty days in jail.

In passing this ordinance the City Council is following out the wishes of many of the citizens of Oakland who have requested such legislation, and the regulation is in line with what a number of other towns and cities are doing to eliminate the danger of serious injury and possible loss of life from setting off fireworks without restrictions or regard for the safety of others.

Other Ordinances Passed

Council also passed an ordinace making it "unlawful to sell, barter or give away any firearms or other deadly weapons or any blank cartridge pistols or firearms or ammunition for same." The penalty upon conviction is $1 to $25 fine or 30 days in the county jail.

Another ordinance limiting the speed of railroad trains to 20 miles per hour from the Third street bridge westward to the railroad station, was passed unanimously. This ordinance was enacted following the receipt of a number of complaints from merchants on Second street near the crossing, who cited the danger of a possible derailment in that vicinity while going at a speed greater than 20 miles per hour.

Collector's Report Made

The report of Arthur Lawton, clerk-collector, for July, showed receipts of $5,192.25, which included $1,946 in water collections; $995.44 from 1939 taxes; $315.05 from 1938 taxes, and $1,575 from the West Maryland Power Company. Cash on hand August 1 was $4,838.51, and after paying monthly and current bills amounting to $2,071.47, the balance on hand was $2,767.04. The bills for July included over $600 as payment of interest and coupons on the town's bonded indebtedness.

Council granted a permit to Roy O. Winters to erect a dwelling on Eighth street and also gave the Knights of Pythias lodge permission to have a display of fireworks at the Labor Day picnic.

The Sunday moving picture tax was received for July and distributed as follows, according to law: Fire Department, $18.10; Public Library, $18.10; Red Cross, $56.20.

The next regular meeting of Council will be on Monday, September 11.

Potato Blight Again Causing Heavy Losses To Producers

Potato blight for the second consecutive year is causing hundreds of dollars of damage to Garrett county farmers.

The recent wet weather followed by hot sunshine, is made-to-order weather for potato blight, according to a number of farmers and the blight was not long in coming on scheduled time. The blight seemed to come so fast in some cases that spraying was ineffective. Spraying throughout the season had not been effective because of the numerous rains.

Those who got their seed planted early are expected to have a fair crop, but in a number of fields the blight struck before the plants had finished blooming.

HARRINGTON ORDERS CUT IN WPA ROLLS OF STATE

All Employed for 18 Consecutive Months Must Be Dropped

Directors of WPA projects in the State were directed on Monday by Francis H. Dryden, State WPA administrator, to begin dropping workers from the rolls who have been employed for eighteen consecutive months or more.

The new law, passed by Congress, not only directs the dismissal of all those who have worked for eighteen months, but forces them to remain idle thirty days before they can become eligible for reemployment on projects. In addition, they must be recertified as to their need for work.

Mr. Dryden revealed that about 1,000 had been dropped already as the result of previous orders to slash the rolls because of reduced appropriations. This practice was ordered to cease July 28 when there was a possibility that Congress might rescind the eighteen-months' provision, but Congress adjourned without repealing this provision and Mr. Dryden was notified to begin the discharges again.

As of last Saturday there were 14,434 persons on the WPA pay roll in the State. Of this number 2,288 were employed on projects operated by Federal agencies. It was estimated between 6,000 and 7,000 would be discharged in Maryland. A survey to determine just how many would be affected by the new law has not been completed. At the Oakland WPA office it was not known how many would be affected in Garrett county.

Welfare Board Lacks Funds To Assist WPA Lay-Offs

Possibilities of providing direct relief for the three hundred or more men who will be laid off WPA during the month of August, which was discussed at the regular meeting of the County Welfare Board on Monday evening, were declared to be very slim, according to a report from Miss Ethel Miller, executive secretary. Miss Miller said the lack of funds prevented the County Welfare Board from rendering assistance to this large number.

Miss Miller also said there are 97 families receiving general public assistance at this time, 9 receiving aid to the needy blind, 208 children being supported by aid to dependent children funds, and 369 old age assistance cases.

The total amount spent by the Welfare Board during July was $12,718.74, distributed as follows: General public assistance, $1,133.83; old-age, $6,118.38; children, $2,274.15; needy blind, $159.80; foster homes, $164.25; administration, $1,727.47; child welfare service, $140.86.

Miss Miller announced that the Welfare office would be closed Friday afternoon from 2:00 until 4:00 o'clock to allow the staff members to attend the funeral of the late Charles W. Ream, first chairman of the County Welfare Board.

Taylor Motor Company Robbed On Saturday Night

A check for $200, another small check and some silver were stolen from the cash register of the Taylor Motor Company, Third street, sometime Saturday night by an unknown person or persons who gained entrance to the building by smashing a glass in the rear.

The check was drawn on the Commercial Savings Bank at Cumberland and on Monday morning a man presented the check to one of the tellers. The robbery having been previously reported, the teller became suspicious and the man fled. A burglar alarm was set off but before police arrived the man had vanished.

A description of the fellow who was rough-looking, was furnished local authorities who are unable to identify any such person.

Neil C. Fraley, State's Attorney, has under consideration the fate of two boys, Howard Gauer, 15, and Richard Wilson, 11, who stopped two small children, Jack Eggers and Bruce Kisner last Friday as they were enroute to Oakland from Mt. Lake Park, and relieved them of their wrist watches. Gauer and Wilson prior to that had taken a bicycle belonging to Douglas Dawson and were riding around Loch Lynn when discovered. There is a possibility they may be sent to the Maryland Training school.

Three other minors were questioned by Fraley last Thursday on a "junk stealing" matter around Altamont. No charges were preferred.

"DEFENSE OF LAND" IS THE CHIEF PROBLEM OF TODAY

So 1500 Farm People And Others Are Told As 1800-Acre Tract Is Leased To University

AREA IS NEAR BITTINGER

"As complex as the problems of the country are today, they are small compared to the problems of wasting away of land, and our greatest defense is our defense of land," Dr. H. H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, told about 1500 farm people and others of Garrett county as he formally presented a 99-year lease to the University of Maryland for the use of 1800 acres of land near Bittinger yesterday. The lease was accepted by Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland for the use of the Extension Service.

The Maryland Forestry Department, represented by F. W. Besley, State Forester, also accepted administration over 23,825 acres of forest land to develop fire protection, reforestation and preservation of wild life.

In dedicating this transfer Dr. Bennett made a plea to the administrators to keep the high ideal of proper land use, and Dr. Byrd, in responding, pledged every cooperation. Dr. Byrd spoke of a possible summer survey camp of 300 University engineers for an eight-weeks' period, and went over the possibilities of winter sports in Garrett county. "It will be our aim to further develop this county and to bring other people here to spend their money," he said.

The University, by this transfer, has obtained the use of the Cunningham tract, which includes the Pleasant Valley recreation area, as an outdoor laboratory for research, investigation and demonstration purposes in biological sciences, engineering, forestry and wild life conservation. Improvements on the site include a number of cabins and a dining hall overlooking a 26-acre lake. The area has been used constantly this summer by Extension and other groups from the three counties of Western Maryland.

The ceremonies yesterday were part of the annual county picnic, held under the direction of the Extension agents, John H. Carter and Miss Mildred Barton. In addition to speeches by Dr. Bennett, Dr. Byrd and Mr. Besley,

Appointed Athletic Director At Lonaconing High School

Miss Lucille Houck, of Oakland, has been appointed girls' athletic director at Central High school, Lonaconing.

Miss Houck will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Miss Beverly Harrison, Baltimore, who received an appointment in Glenburnie. The new coach will take over her duties at the opening of the school term in September.

A graduate of West Virginia University in June, Miss Houck has had considerable experience at girls' summer camps and with swimming classes as well as with Girl Scout activities. She is a daughter of Raymond D. Houck, of Oakland.

ELISHA: A LIFE OF HELPFULNESS

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 5:1-10, 14.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye kind one to another.—Ephesians 4:32.

"Loving kindness and tender mercies" (Ps. 103:4) are among the glorious attributes of our God, and consequently characteristic of those who love and serve Him. The world has all but forgotten these virtues, for in its brutal determination to achieve results there is only an outward veneer of courtesy and consideration which extends itself primarily to those from whom some advantage may be obtained or who are highly regarded because of their wealth or position. The poor and needy, the aged and afflicted are quickly brushed aside as unfortunate hindrances in the path of progress.

In all times God's people have been those most considerate of others. It is they who have given time and effort and means to help those in need. The life of Elisha is well characterized as a life of helpfulness. It is surprising to find how many of his miracles were for the purpose of helping others. God's servants are called to be leaders and to be preachers, but they are nonetheless called to carry on a life of helpful service. Elisha's experience with Naaman suggests how we may exercise such a ministry. Without seeking to designate verses in the text, shall we observe that we must

I. Find the One in Need.

It is not always that the one with the deepest need makes himself known. In fact, it is commonly true that those who have the greatest need and are possibly the most worthy of help keep their sorrows to themselves. Certainly it is true that those afflicted with the leprosy of sin do not often come to church. We must go out and seek them and bring them in.

One of the weaknesses of many churches today is that they go through their regular services, which may include preaching the gospel, and then they lament the fact that sinners do not come to the services to hear and be saved. Let us be reminded that it is our business to go out into the highways and the byways to find those in need. Naaman's experience illustrates how the simple word of a little slave girl was instrumental in bringing the leper in touch with the man of God. Had she failed in her responsibility, the prophet would have missed his opportunity to minister. Even the humblest believer has his important work, seeking out the lost and needy, and may thus be the means of bringing about great blessing.

II. Locate and Diagnose the Condition.

Naaman knew that he had leprosy, but he did not know that he had a blight of soul called pride. The prophet, acting under the guidance and control of God, struck right at the heart of things when he directed Naaman to crush his pride and to show his faith by obeying God's command to wash seven times in the Jordan.

The story has many important applications. Let us be sure that in our efforts to help people physically or socially, we get through to their real need, the need of Christ. Let us also be careful not to modify or change God's requirement. There is one way of salvation—through faith in Christ; there is no other remedy for sin. A man "must be born again" or "he cannot enter the kingdom of God" (see John 3: 3-7). If men are too proud to go that way, they cannot be saved. Observe also that there was no respect of persons on the part of Elisha. Naaman was a great and distinguished man, ready to bestow rich gifts, but the man of God had no interest in those things. He wanted only to give God's message.

III. Apply the Remedy.

One would be quick to condemn the trained physician who, having found his patient and having given his attention to his need, made a careful and accurate diagnosis and then sent him away without applying the cure which was in his possession. As the servants of Christ the great Physician, engaged in the cure of souls, we need to be equally wise. It is commendable to engage in a discussion of the problems of needy men and women, expressing our heart interest in that need. It is desirable that we clarify our knowledge of their need and accurately understand the truth of the gospel which meets that need. However, all of these things are quite meaningless unless they result in the bringing of the gospel to bear on the lives of the unconverted.

Solitude

An hour of solitude, passed in sincere and earnest prayer or conflict with, and conquest over, a single passion or subtle bosom sin, will teach us more of thought, will more effectually awaken the faculty and form the habit of reflection than a year's study in the schools without them.—Coleridge.

CHARLES W. REAM

The community today is feeling the loss of one of its active and prominent citizens, Charles W. Ream, who passed away long before his years of usefulness were ended. His loss will be felt more and more as time goes on.

His interests were many and varied. He was known widely in business and fraternal circles, and his death creates a vacancy that will be difficult to fill.

What greater tribute can be paid than to say: "He was my friend."

Paragraph Opinions . . .

NO MORE FIRECRACKERS—

The City Council on Monday night, in unanimously passing the ordinance prohibiting the sale or firing of firecrackers in the town, has done a wise thing, for which many families now and in the future will be grateful.

As long as they were sold regularly any regulations as to firing them could not be enforced, but now that both the sale and setting off are prohibited residents of the town may look forward to more safe and sane Fourths of July.

The use of powder and other materials of war is not a symbol of this country's ideals, even though necessary at one time to gain our freedom. Independence Day, therefore, can be fittingly observed in other ways. Fireworks are not necessary, and the less they are used throughout the country the fewer will be the deaths of children from tetanus, the more fingers and thumbs they will have to work with, the more eyes they will have to see with.

Homestead projects of the Farm Security Administration at Arthurdale and Elkins, W. He called them "cooperative Socialistic state communities" which will never return a cent of the principle or interest invested in them by the Government out of the taxpayers' money.

If the nation is living within its income, its credit is good. If, in some crises, it lives beyond its income for a year or two, it can usually borrow temporarily at reasonable rates. But if, like a spendthrift, it throws discretion to the winds and is willing to make no socrifice at all in its spending; if it extends its taxing to the limit of the people's power to pay and continues to pile up deficites, then it is on the road to bankruptcy.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, October 19, 1932.

SUGAR SOURS ON NEW DEAL

Louisiana cane sugar growers have turned sour on the New Deal.

No wonder. Like millions of farmers, industrialists, businessmen and wage earners, they are waking up to the fact that New Deal "help" is, in reality, New Deal destruction.

Here's what happened:

In accordance with New Deal quotas, they planted their cane last September. Now, under revised requirements by the Department of Agriculture, they have had to plow under 83,500 acres.

They had spent $1,000,000 on those 38,500 acres. They had counted upon a return of $3,500,000. They will not even receive benefit payments on the destroyed cane.

The result of this destruction is to throw 12,000 workers out of jobs. And raw sugar prices, which the New Deal said it was going to boost by this crop control, have fallen to almost unprecedented levels.

Says the American Sugar Cane League, which has a membership of 11,500:

"The 38,500 acres plowed under had a sugar equivalent sufficient to supply greater New York with its total sugar requirements for four months. These 38,500 acres have been destroyed in order that sugar from a foreign country (Cuba) which pays nothing towards maintaining our government and whose labor lives under conditions that we as healthful, upstanding Americans would not tolerate for an instant, may ship its sugar to our market at a price considerably higher than any other country in the world is willing to pay for it."

PRE-SCHOOL YOUNGSTERS ARE OBJECT OF ROUND-UP

Summer Examination Enables Parents To Check On Children's Health

Youngsters who will tackle the three R's for the first time this fall, are centers of attraction at the Summer Round-Up Conferences being held throughout the State for the health examination of children to be sure they are in good condition for the great adventure.

The examinations in the counties are under the general direction of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health. The arrangements in each county are made by the County Health Office with the County Department of Education and the local Congress of Parents and Teachers cooperating. The examinations are particularly for children not under regular medical supervision.

In calling attention to the "Summer Round-Ups," Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, explained that the "before school" examinations correspond closely to the physical examinations that are part of the regular school program for the older children.

"All records show," Dr. Riley continued, "that children who start the school year in good health, and who have been safeguarded in every way possible against preventable sickness, stand the strain of school life and make better progress than children do who are handicapped by conditions responsible for ill health—such as decayed teeth, bad tonsils, underweight, dull hearing and defects of vision. The summer examinations enable the parents to find out whether their children are up to par in these respects. If they are not, a great deal can be done toward correcting them before the children start to school.

"A record is kept for each child showing whether or not the child has been protected against diphtheria and smallpox. Special clinics for the benefit of children for whom these services have been neglected, have followed the examinations in a number of counties. Parents who cannot take their children to the clinics are urged to take them to their own doctor or to the nearest health officer and have them protected against both diseases. As most parents know, our Maryland law requires a child to be vaccinated against smallpox before he or she may be enrolled at any public school in the State. It is wiser to have it done now than to wait until school opens.

"These before-school examinations are like the inspections we have made of our automobiles before we start on an important journey. The greater the care taken in checking up and correcting any weak points we find in the machine, the better the results. The same is true of the little human machine. If your child starts to school this fall, don't wait until the last minute to have the youngster inspected."

One-half of our country now understands how the other half lives.

It used to be the thought that the deeper a hole was the harder for one to climb out. But according to the New Deal financial experts one can get out of a hole by digging oneself in much deeper.

Among those of the community who celebrated their birthday anniversaries recently, was Mr. George D. White, aged 90 years, on Saturday, August 5.

Grantsville Loses League Lead At Cumberland On Sunday

Cumberland's Old Exports, by nosing out Grantsville 5-3 at Cumberland last Sunday before 800 fans, became the only undefeated club in the second half dash of the Tri-County Baseball League. Both teams had unblemished records up to that time.

Cumberland ran its lead to 3-0 in the third inning, but Grantsville knotted the figures in the fifth. Cumberland got a two-run rally in the fifth which clinched the victory. Grantsville in the ninth threatened when the first two men up hit safely. Two pinch-hitters were put out and a runner caught at home. I. Miller, Grantsville, had a triple and two doubles in four trips to the plate.

When it was alleged by Grantsville that the Cumberland club had three ineligible players in the game Grantsville protested.

The Flintstone athletics protested a Grantsville 4-2 victory July 23, claiming that Roy Herring, Grantsville pitcher, was not eligible. At a meeting of the Tri-County League Flintstone was upheld and the game ordered repeated Auguse 27.

Picnic Committees Busy

Members of the various committees preparing for the twentieth annual Labor Day picnic are meeting weekly to plan for the celebration, and Wade H. Mason, general chairman, reported this morning that much progress is being made to give the public a high type of entertainment.

Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, president of the County Council of Homemakers' Clubs, spoke on having an ideal towards which to work, and D. L. Reed, president of the County Land Use Planning Commission, brought greetings. Group singing was in charge of Miss Sara B. Huff, of Mountain Lake Park. A suddeen shower delayed the program in the middle of Dr. Bennett's talk.

Dr. Bennett explained in detail the purpose of the soil conservation service and why the State and Federal agencies were so concerned with land use. Unwise use of land has ruined outright or severely damaged more than 280 million acres of farm and grazing land in the United States, and from an additional 775 million acres one-fourth to three-fourths of the original topsoil has been removed, he pointed out, which affects more than half of all the land in the United States. "The United States is a declining nation as to its soil, and our greatest problem is to improve soil and soil conditions."

He related about the area which was dedicated as being marked by ragged, steep mountainous topography, with thin gravelly or stony soils, ofter badly eroded. Part of his address follows:

"Settlement of the area began before 1800, the first settlers being a few adventurous people who pushed 25 miles beyond the protection afforded by Fort Cumberland. After the Revolutionary War about 5000 so-called Military Lots of 50 acres each were mapped out in what is now Garrett county. The land supported stands of pine, hemlock and hardwood timber. It was natural that logging should follow. By 1910 most of the good timber was cut off. Many men formerly employed in mills and in the woods decided to try farming. The result was improper land use which resulted in erosion.

"The County Relief Board reported that 23 families were on relief within the purchase area. An average gross income of $198 a year, with average cash expense of $103, leaving a net income of $95. There were five one-room schools in the area. Homes were mostly log cabins with furniture consisting of bare essentials only.

"That was the area which the Government purchased — 35,625 acres. When the project started in 1935 there were 55 families living in the area. All of these families have now moved and 46 have moved outside the general problem area."

Dr. Bennett also pointed out the things that could be seen in the recreational development and told of the conservation work that was not so evident—1,400 rods of fences and pest control on 1,600 acres, 87 miles of fire breaks, reduction of fire hazards, a forest nursery of 3,900 acres, 1,000 acres of trees planted, 97 miles of fire control, wildfire conservation work completed on 1,090 acres, improvement of streams for fish, planting of food and cover for wildlife.

Car Hits Truck Loaded With Lions On Route 40 Near Grantsville

Some of the lions belonging to the Parker-Watts circus were aroused from their early evening naps last Sunday night when a car crashed into the rear of a trailer in which they were confined, on Route 40, near Grantsville. Neither the lions nor the occupants of the car were injured, but a board torn loose from the lions' cage by the impact caused some uneasiness on the part of the young people in the automobile.

The accident occurred at a point on the highway two miles east of Grantsville about nine o'clock in the evening. Robert Broadwater, driver of the automobile, did not see the trailer until it was too late to avoid the collision. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hayward F. Broadwater, of Grantsville. In the machine with him were his sister, Miss Florence Broadwater, his cousin, David Broadwater, Miss Helen Miller and Miss Mary Helen Gnagey.

Thomas C. Cooney, driver of the truck, was brought to the County Jail in Oakland, charged with failing to obtain a driver's license, and is held pending a hearing before Trial Magistrate Charles S. Zeller. An official of the circus paid $80 in settlement of the damage to the car, it was stated.

Wreck At Intersection

David Hostetler crashed into the side of another machine owned by Samuel Watson, Meyersdale, at the intersection of the National Highway and the Springs road on Sunday morning. Damage to the Watson car was estimated at about $50, and Hostetler agreed to pay the damages, it was stated.

Many Black Widow Spiders Are Caught In Isolated Section Along Deep Creek Lake

Here is a real one for Ripley's "Believe it or Not", but in this case you'll just have to believe it, because the evidence was obtained by Boy Scouts.

Along the shoreline of Deep Creek Lake, in an isolated section where no cabins or human habitation exists, and confined to an area of not more than 400 feet, there were caught and killed last week a total of 100 black widow spiders. They were found beneath rocks between the high-water grass line and the present water level, never more than one under a rock, except in one case where fifty or more tiny specks (young spiders) were discovered. (These are not counted in the total). All full-grown spiders had the scarlet hourglass on their stomachs and two "dimples" on their backs, which identified them as belonging to that rare species.

These spiders are extremely rare in this section, being found usually in a much warmer climate. Their bite is said to be very poisonous, but those who have read about them say that they will not bite unless cornered or driven to it.

The Scouts and others who saw and caught them, seemed to think there was no cause for alarm, as the spiders apparently were confined to this one particular area and there were no cottages or camps nearby on the same side of the lake. It was the general opinion also that practically all had been caught and killed.

MARY—The New York World's Fair is the greatest spectacle I've ever seen. Spent a grand week in New York and stayed at the Hotel St. George, Brooklyn, N.Y. It's convenient to everything and only 25 minutes from the Fair. Ruth and I paid only $1.75 daily each for our breezy double room in their 30-story fireproof Club Tower overlooking the harbor. We enjoyed free: the beautiful salt water swimming pool, sun decks and danced free on their breath-taking Skyline Terrace. You must see The Fair and you must stop at the St. George. If you'll write to Jim Kay at the hotel he'll send you a swell road map free. JANE

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Outstanding among the New Deal boasts is the claim that the Roosevelt Administration has cheapened money. Of that there is no doubt. Money in the United States today is worth less than at any time in our history. So what? Have New Deal cheap money policies brought about recovery, have they reduced unemployment, have they aided the masses of people in this land?

Well, not so that it could be noticed. The country still yearns for a normal economic activity. Some 11,000,000 jobless men and women are still with us. Many business enterprises remain unable to get away from the edge of bankruptcy. If the cheap money policies have done no good, have they done any harm? The answer is emphatically they have.

As a result of the New Deal blind cheap money folly, widows and children find themselves in sore straits because of the drastic reduction in interest and dividend rates. Every savings bank depositor has had his or her income frightfully cut down because normal interest rates can no longer be earned or paid. Gasping for financial breath are many endowed hospitals, colleges, museums and other worthy institutions.

Price Rise Sought

The New Deal was only a few months old when it began its cheap money drive by devaluing the dollar and obtaining authority to issue $3,000,000,000 in "greenbacks" if it saw fit. The objective, as stated by the New Deal leadership, was to restore the commodity price level to that of 1926, increase foreign trade, to encourage a revival of business enterprise, restore real estate values by relieving debtors of a portion of their obligations, and to stimulate a broad rise in prices so as to quicken the business pace.

The failure of cheap money as a price restorative is evident from the fact that the Bureau of Labor Statistics index of wholesale commodity prices on a paper dollar basis, stands at about 77 per cent of the 1926 average against 60 per cent at the bottom of the 1932 depression, a rebound of a smaller extent than might have been expected from natural recuperative forces. Its principal effect on our foreign trade has been the shipment to this country—with a terrifically inflationary effect upon world commodity prices and upon world trade of approximately ten billion dollars in gold.

Not only did the New Deal deliberately cheapen money by its dollars devaluation, but all of its other policies have tended to further cheapen it. Crushing taxation and other restrictions placed upon private enterprise, shut off the normal demand for investment money. The only outlet was in purchasing the bonds the Government issued on its borrowing of billions. In the absence of private competition for funds, stifled by New Deal policies, interest rates declined to the vanishing point.

Savings Depositors Hit

For this reason every individual, family and institution wholly or partly dependent upon fixed income, has suffered grievously. These fixed incomes in most cases were not large, and very small. There were, for instance, 10,000,000 men, women and children who had accumulated a total of 23 billion dollars in savings deposits which the banks had invested almost entirely in fixed income securities.

Then there were 60,000,000 policy holders in life insurance companies which had total assets of about $29,500,000,000 of which approximately 85 per cent was invested in fixed income securities.

Superimposed upon these are 836,363 war veterans who are receiving pensions and other benefits and the 44,000,000 Social Security card carriers. The thing which menaces them is lack of assurance that the dollars which the Government is obligated to pay them will not shrink in purchasing power in a manner comparable to the shrinkage of the German mark when cheap money brought that nation to financial and political ruin.

And then there are all of the hospitals, charitable institutions, the colleges, schools, universities, museums and art galleries whose income has shriveled up under the cheap money blight.

Before the New Deal, savings banks generally paid 4 per cent interest on deposits. Since the New Deal, the interest rate has been dropping. Only a few weeks ago, New Jersey fixed by law one per cent as the maximum rate that could be paid in that State.

Policy Holders Suffer

The 60,000,000 life insurance policy holders have lost incalculable millions of dollars through increased premiums and drastically reduced dividends made necessary by the cheap money low interest rates. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company affords an example of why this is so. This company, with assets of nearly $5,000,000,000 and a portfolio of 100,000 separate investments, probably the most diversified in history, was able last year to earn only 3.57 per cent on its investments as a whole.

Now savings banks and life insurance companies, both by the dictates of reason and the mandates of law, must invest in sound securities. The shrinkage in the return from investment in such securities has been calculated by the Federal Reserve System. The study shows that the average yield on the bonds of industrial corporations fell one-half from 6.94 to 3.50 between 1920 and 1938, that railroad bonds slipped from 7.12 to 5.12 and utility bonds from 7.19 to 3.87. The aggregate return from perferred stocks fell from 6.79 to 5.14. The same study shows that the cash dividend rates of 600 companies, between 1929 and 1937, declined 29 per cent, from 2.96 to 2.10.

And the New Dealers have the gall to boast about their cheap money policies—to talk about driving the "money changers" from the temple. What the New Deal experimenters failed to recognize is that cheap money is as great a curse to a country as low wages and cheap labor.

YES—IT IS VERY EASY TO TELL in advance what it will cost to heat your home with GAS

You don't have to purchase a new gas boiler or even tear down your present furnace. We install—through your furnace or boiler door—a Gas Conversion Burner—light the pilot—and your heating troubles are at an end. Your home is always at the temperature you desire—regardless of outside weather.

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST? . . . We will tell you after our engineer has measured your home—and accurately calculated the heat loss. This heating survey is absolutely free. You are not obligated in any way.

Let us make this free survey now—you will know what your heating bills will be for the entire winter—then you make the decision.

Phone or come in today and let's talk it over.

SOME CARS ARE BUILT TO BE SOLD...
THE FORD V-8 IS BUILT TO BE OWNED!

FIRST IN THE THINGS THAT COUNT!

★ V-type 8-cylinder Engine—The world's most modern automobile engine—compact, powerful, economical.

★ Big Hydraulic Brakes—Biggest on any low-priced car—adopted after the experimental stage. Parking brake acts directly on rear wheels.

★ Top Gas and Oil Economy—Owners report best gas mileage in its price range—20 miles per gallon and up; no oil added between changes.

★ Triple-Cushioned Comfort—Soft, wide, deep seat cushions—double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers—center-poise ride, between springs, not over them.

WE'VE GOT SOMETHING HERE!

FOR 35 years, Ford cars have been built from the owner's—not the salesman's—point of view! That point of view is not "What gadgets and gimcracks will dazzle the public and make this car easy to sell?" It is—

"How can more fundamental value—in terms of higher quality and greater motoring pleasure—be built into the low-priced Ford?"

That's why the 1939 Ford V-8 is a challenge to the entire automotive industry!

The advertising for some cars dodges the basic issue of quality and value, and stresses superficial features. But wise car buyers compare the leading low-priced cars—check feature against feature. They compare engines—hydraulic brakes—style—comfort—roominess—economy.

Despite the fog of claims, when they get the facts they choose the Ford V-8! Why not stop in and ask us to show you—not just tell you—why Ford leads the low-price field for quality and value!

Arrested On Charge of Obtaining Gasoline In Fraudulent Manner

Harry Mason, 20, of Bear Hill, was arrested last Friday by Constable D. W. Hershberger, at Grantsville, on charges of fraudulently obtaining gasoline from various service stations in that area. The warraut was sworn out upon information given by Benjamin Kesner, of Jennings.

According to officials Mason would get a few gallons of gasoline at some station and ask credit for a few hours until he could get his pay check, but there apparently was no such pay check forthcoming and it was alleged Mason never returned to settle the accounts.

A hearing was held before Trial Magistrate Charles S. Zeller last Friday night at Grantsville, at which time he was paroled to Harry Durst, of Jenuings, on condition he settle all accounts. He was remanded to the Garrett County Jail later until arrangements are completed to pay the creditors which so far include the Motor Service Company, Grantsville; Dixie Tavern Service Station, Little Crossings; Kesner's, Jennings; Asa Orendorf, Bittinger, and Maude King, of near Swanton.

VOLUME 63. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND, AUGUST 17, 1939. NUMBER 25.

INSURANCE RATE IS CUT IN TOWN'S BUSINESS AREA

Reduction of .02 On Each $100 Follows Recent Inspection Here

A reduction in the insurance rate in Oakland of .02 on each $100 has been secured as the result of a recent examination here of the town's fire department and water system.

This information was announced in a letter to Henry W. McComas, Jr., chairman of the Water committee of the City Council, from Carlyle H. Hill, manager of the Middle Department Rating Association, Philadelphia, Pa.

The previous town fire deficiency charge was .13 and it has now been reduced to .11, effective August 8, 1939.

This reduction applies to all specifically rated properties, such as mercantile, public garages, manufacturing risks, etc. Minimum rated risks such as dwellings, stables and outbuildings and private garages are not affected.

Providing there was $500,000 worth of insurance written on buildings in the downtown area, this will save citizens about $100 per year collectively in payment of insurance premiums.

Mr. Hill also stated that a reduction of 3 cents would be allowed for the provision of four bunk men in the firehouse, and about one cent for a new eight-inch supply line from the reservoir. This line has been suggested running from the reservoir past B. B. Nethken's resdience, to Pennington street. It was estimated that such a line would cost $2,500 by one of the members of Council.

Following the dinner there will be a half-hour of instructive talking pictures on fishing and fly casting, after which there will be talks by members of the State Conservation Commission and E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden. The basiness meeting and election of officers will conclude the affair.

H. C. Riggs, Oakland, president of the Association, announced that there are 162 members at present and that double that number was expected to be enrolled next year. An amendment to the by-laws is to be presented at the August 28 meeting, reducing annual dues to 50 cents.

FARM PROPERTY TAXATION TO BE GIVEN MORE STUDY

Research Project, University Of Maryland, Is Being Undertaken

Farm property assessments and taxation are to receive additional study in this and other counties of the State through a two-year research project set up by the University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

A factual background for use by the County Commissioners and the State Tax Commission will be developed as a guide for effecting assessment equalities.

Preliminary work has already produced a tentative rural tax map of Kent county, showing boundaries of farms, location of farm buildings, accessibility to various types of roads, wheat yields and assessed values on tillable land. Other information, such as kind and condition of farm buildings, relative fertility and contour of land and acreages of each class of land can be added by use of symbols and figures upon enlargement of such a map.

To determine the extent and character of inequalities in farm property assessments among individuals and election districts in the county and between counties is one of the objectives of the project.

Prepare for Active Campaign Against Pneumonia in State

Preparations are under way by the State Department of Health, for an active campaign against pneumonia, starting in the fall, before the pneumonia season opens.

As a preliminary step Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the Department, announced that an institute for instruction of county health officers, public health nurses and laboratory workers, in the newer methods of treatment of the disease, is to be held in Baltimore on September 22. There will be discussion of various phases of pneumonia control and instruction in laboratory procedure with specific reference to precautionary measures to be used. Instruction will be given by Dr. Perrin Long and Dr. Horace L. Hodges.

Pneumonia ranks fifth as a cause of death in Maryland, being exceeded by diseases of the heart, the kidneys, cancer and cerebral hemorrhage. In the last three years there have been over 10,000 cases in Maryland with over 5,000 deaths from various forms of the disease.

Truck Ablaze; Firemen Called

Members of Oakland Fire Department were called about 2:20 o'clock on Tuesday morning to extinguish a blaze in the cab of a milk truck belonging to and parked near the Oakland Creamery Company's plant, Third St.

The fire was discovered by Henry Foglepole, who is employed at the plant as a fireman, before it had gained much headway and members of the department soon had the fire out. The upholstery and rear of the seat was damaged.

This was the second time the truck has been on fire, one other time while inside the building the cab being almost entirely destroyed. The fire in this case was not discovered until the following morning. Nothing else was damaged at the time.

Conservation Appointee Asks Recommendations From Local Sportsmen

Letters have been sent to a number of sportsmen in the county by Fulcher P. Smith, Cumberland, a member of the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, asking for requests or recommendations that will improve the game and fish conditions or be steps toward advancing conservation work in the State.

Mr. Smith is of the opinon that each spiortman or club of sportsmen in the county have some problems that arise in their immediate vicinity which they discuss among themselves but get no further, so he suggests that anything for the good of conservation be called to his attention so that they may be taken up and discussed with other members of the Commission. Mr. Smith stated he was particularly anxious that individual sportsmen would feel free to go to the Commission with suggestions.

GOOD TENNIS MATCHES PROMISED FOR WEEK-END

Singles Finals Will Be Saturday Afternoon; Other Finals Events Friday And Early Saturday

UPSETS IN EARLY ROUND

Some excellent tennis matches are being promised for the sport fans this week-end at Mt. Lake Park as the twentieth annual tournament for the Western Maryland Championship draws to its close.

With more entries in the various events this year than for the past several years, there has been much competition throughout the week in the fight for places in the quarter-finals and semi-finals, while both last year's winner and the runner-up have been put out of the running by unseeded players. More than 75 are entered in the matches, there being 42 in the men's singles events from three states.

Finals events in the men's and women's doubles and mixed doubles will be staged on Friday afternoon and possibly Saturday morning, with finals in women's and men's singles on Saturday afternoon.

Following the finals events on Saturday afternoon, trophies will be presented to the winners by Congressman Jennings Randolph, of Elkins, W. Va. Mr. Randolph was an entrant in the first tournament held at the Park and since that time has returned annually either as a participant or spectator. This year he competed and won his first round match against Denwood Kelly, Baltimore, but was defeated in the second round by Henry Roesser, Baltimore. The only local tennis players to enter the meet this year are Logan Weber and Ralph E. Weber, with Miss Betsy Weber entering the women's events. Over half the entries are from Baltimore, continuing the trend that began about three years ago. Prior to that time most of the players were from the Pittsburgh region.

Reaching the semi-finals in men's singles are Ed Alcorn, Pittsburgh; Nathan Askin, Baltimore; Joseph Albert, Baltimore, and Price Colvin, of Baltimore. Alcorn and Askin meet in the upper bracket while the other two meet in the lower bracket. Albert yesterday blasted Robert N. (Red) Brown's hopes for a second leg on the men's challenge cup. The Elkins star who won the title last year was defeated by Albert 3-6, 8-6, 6-2. Albert's opponent, Price Colvin, recently won the municipal championship in Baltimore.

Those remaining in the women's singes play are Miss Joy Hartman, Pittsburgh, seeded No. 1, and last year's winner; Mrs. Naomi Thompson, Washington, Pa., seeded No. 2; Miss Dolly Harris, Pittsburgh, seeded No. [illegible] and Miss Dorothy Ball, Wheeling, West Va.

Men's doubles matches continue today and there will also be events in women's and mixed doubles today and tomorrow.

The tournament is sponsored by the Woman's Civic Club of the Park and is sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Those Cut Off WPA May Apply for Recertification

Miss Ethel Miller, executive secretary of the Garrett County Welfare board, received instructions on Monday to receive immediately any of the 250 or more WPA workers who have already been or who will be dismissed this month, for questioning as to their recertification.

Miss Miller said that 65 already had been cut off and that by September there would be about 250. Those on WPA, except ex-service men, who have been on the rolls for 18 months, are being automotically dropped as the result of a law passed recently by Congress and they must be recertified through the Welfare Board before being eligible for being placed again on the rolls.

No statement as to his liabilities or assets is obtainable at this time.

BEVERAGE ALCOHOL AND THE COMMUNITY

LESSON TEXT—Joel 1:5-7; Daniel 5:1-5, 17, 25-28.
GOLDEN TEXT—Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink.—Habakkuk 2:15.

"None of us liveth to himself" (Rom. 14:7).

What concerns the individual concerns the community, for the community is made up of individuals. The man who uses alcohol has no right to claim that it is a personal matter, for alcohol is a poisonous drug which not only injures the individual, but makes him a danger and a liability to his community. Before going into our lesson let us look at only a few of the many facts available.

In the five years since repeal, it is estimated that $30,000,000,000 has been spent for intoxicants with a profit to the industry of $13,250,000,000. But what has it cost the people?

"In 1937, an entire city the size of Detroit was maimed and injured, and an entire city the size of Omaha was permanently injured, by the automobile. Sixty per cent of auto fatalities are due to alcohol" (Chief Justice of Municipal Court, Evanston, Ill.).

"Rape has increased 13 per cent and the more atrocious forms 40 per cent in the last eight months" (Police Commissioner, Boston, Mass.).

"Criminals are for the return of liquor, wet propaganda to the contrary notwithstanding, and with the coming of repeal will come the greatest era of wholesale crime this country has ever known. The criminal world is tensely expectant and is prepared to launch immediately into its millennium of crime. The return of the saloon inevitably will bring open prostitution and gambling" (Statement by a criminal in prison before repeal became effective).

"America is on the worst gambling spree in its history. A gross population, not including all rural districts, of 80,000,000 persons is dallying with $6,000,000,000 in winnings and losings, of which all but about $1,000,000,000 passes through the hands of the underworld, where much of it remains" (Courtney R. Cooper).

The American Business Men's foundation, Chicago, reports that liquor was responsible for the rejection of more than 93,000 applications for insurance last year, and that as a result widows and orphans will ultimately be deprived of over $200,000,000 of insurance, making some of them public charges.

Three words which are altogether appropriate for the liquor problem will serve to summarize our lesson.

I. Devastation (Joel 1:5-7).

Drunkards are called on to awake from their stupor and weep and the drinkers of wine (note that!) to wail over the loss of their drink because of the devastation wrought by the locusts. This plague had come because of the sins of the people, and may well serve to exemplify the devastation which will follow the use of alcohol as a beverage. The nations of our day need not think that they will escape if they continue on their present road of reckless indulgence.

II. Debauchery (Dan. 5:1-4).

The familiar story of Belshazzar's feast should be made to live again as we point out that we here "have vividly manifested three of the great characteristics of the day in which we live—a coming together of great multitudes for a riotous night of drinking, which must of course end for many in disgusting drunkenness; provision for acts of darkest sensuality in the fact that all the wives and concubines were invited to this feast . . . and a contemptuous, deliberate insulting of the name of God" (Dr. Wilbur M. Smith).

III. Death (vv. 5, 17, 25-28).

Dramatically swift was God's judgment upon Belshazzar's presumptuous sin. Magnificently bold and direct was the condemnation by Daniel, the prophet of God. Relentless was the immediate judgment of physical death (see v. 30), and equally sure is the ultimate judgment when the drunken king stands before his Maker to answer for the deeds done in the flesh.

The fact that God does not write in our day in flaming letters on the saloon wall before the bleary eyes of the drinker does not mean that His judgment is any less certain, nor does it make it less dreadful.

Cost of Happiness

God has ordained that happiness, like every other good thing, should cost us something; He has willed that it should be a moral achievement, and not an accident.—Dr. Gasparin.

Walk in the Light

Walk in the light and thou shalt see thy path, though thorny, bright; for God, by grace, shall dwell in thee, and God himself is light.—Barton.

SCOOP'S COLUMN

Inks Didn't Mix Well

In a story in the dailies a suitor shot two and then killed himself, the suitor being an ex-husband of a Broadway show girl. He shot a young divorcee, a State trooper and then committed suicide. The tragedy occurred in the home of a Mrs. Higgins whom the story identified as being the fountain pen fortune heiress and estranged wife of a member of the Higgins ink family. The girl who was shot had as her first husband an executive of a bus and milk company, which has nothing to do, however with the pens and inks.

Dear Scoop:

You must know by now that you aren't growing any younger. Ten years ago you might have been a fair pole-vaulter, but to try it now, just to show the boy scouts that you are still a young buck, which you're not, was certainly a big mistake.

Instead of trying to show them you could have boasted about how "it used to be," or maybe you could have showed them all the newspaper clippings you have saved about your athletic prowess several years ago. But no, you wouldn't be satisfied with that, and now you pay—and pay, and people in town watch you go hobbling with a cane because you wouldn't be your age.

So you'd better give up high jumping, pole vaulting, speed ball, tennis, and maybe take up golf, and I'm not so sure you can play much golf with twisted knees that will jump out of place at the most unexpected times. You were warned six years ago when your left knee went wobbly and still you pulled your big ears away so that you wouldn't hear the warning. And now it's your right knee. It must have been something to watch you try to run to mail some letters on that train Monday. If there hadn't been a lot of milk cans to unload you'd never have made it.

So when that knee finally limbers up and some young boy comes around and wants to know how to pole vault, just tell him—don't try to show him, or the next thing you'll twist will be your neck. (signed) Scoop Himself.

Another Phantom Rider?

I'm inclined to think there is another phantom rider in these Garrett county hills. You probably recall the one in the Cranesville section. The other one rode in the vicinity of the Scout camp.

Dr. Grant tells of meeting him one day when the new dining hall there was being completed. When Dr. Grant told him that the troop committee would probably be about $15 short of funds to finish the improvements there, the rider said he would give that amount to the boys. He didn't have the cash with him, but would send it from Pittsburgh, where he said he was interested in drug stores. His appearance on the riding horse was such that Dr. Grant's hopes were bolstered, and in turn, also, those of the Troop committee. But so far as the committee is concerned, neither hair nor hide has been seen of him since, nor cash, nor check, nor nothin' ".

Anybody knowing the whereabouts of any phantom riders, please write care of Scoop.

Several days ago a columnist in the Baltimore News carried this item, "A social worker who goes often into Western Maryland tells me that some of the mountain sections of Garrett county are so isolated that officials have never been able to get a complete census—they can't find the huts in which some of the people live."

How do they know people live there if they've never been able to find them? The man who wrote that knows so much of Garrett county. The only time he was ever up here he got his opinion of the county by traveling from the William-James hotel to a nearby eating place for a bottle of beer.

How different is the picture of Garrett county painted by one of the editors of The Sun in his editorial of last Thursday which is being reprinted today on another page.

He believes those who do not know Garrett county's beauty spots will live to regret it. And of course, so do we.

Sang Run had the game tied 6-6 in the fifth innings, but a barrage of hits, including a home run by Catcher Walter Nicklow, combined with repeated successive errors in the infield defense, gave Friendsville a lead that easily took the game. The batteries: Sang Run, DeWitt and Browning; Friendsville, VanSickle and Nicklow.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS . . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Interpreted in terms of Presidential politics, the results of the session of Congress just over seem to indicate, among other things, the end of the third-term movement initiated by the White House intimates, fostered by the President's own attitude and ballyhooed by the estimable Ickes. In the opinon of some, they mean more than that. By these it is held that when—much less than a year from now—we look back it will be realized that the end of this session really marked the end of the New Deal itself.

Undoubtedly, there will be some flashes in the pan and perhaps a phony revival. Certainly, there will be plenty of breast beating, face saving, dramatic gestures, radio ranting and propaganda flowing from the so-called National Emergency Council, now recognized as the White House publicity machine and nothing else. Also, there will be one more session of Congress before the elections. Nevertheless, most detached observers are fairly well convinced that the hand is played out, the game over and the Roosevelt regime on its way out.

• • •

To think anything else is to shut one's eyes to the realities. A bare recital of facts leaves no loophole for any other deduction. What happened can be summed up in a single sentence—at this session Mr. Roosevelt's leadership was definitely rejected and his major policies emphatically disapproved by a Congress both branches of which were overwhelmingly dominated by his own party. The things which he most wanted done and most strongly appealed for deliberately were not done; the things to which he personally and openly objected were done.

• • •

Those statements are so fully sustained by the facts that even the editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, whose fixed idea seems to be that when the facts do not favor the New Deal they are presented because of personal feeling against the President, hardly can dissent from them. In a seven-month session he scored but one victory. By the most desperate fighting and the narrowest of majorities, he regained his control over the currency, but only after he had declared he had no intention of using it. On every other issue he was defeated—and defeated in such a way and by such votes as to leave his followers dismayed, demoralized and discouraged.

• • •

Look at the record. On taxes, for example, Mr. Roosevelt was forced to accept repeal of his undivided surplus tax gadget and to agree to a tax bill which he disliked, yielding only after Senator Pat Harrison bluntly told him it was going to pass whether he wanted it or not. On relief, the appropriation for which he asked was deeply cut and the relief bill itself overhauled and revamped, despite both protests and threats from the White House and predictions of disaster from his labor leader allies.

• • •

On labor, while through delay he was able to keep the Wagner Labor Act from amendments which would have cured its most obvious defects, the House, defying Administration leaders and disregarding Presidential pressure, passed a resolution for an investigation of the National Labor Relations Board, so comprehensive that it will cover the whole field of labor-employer relations and is sure to lead to drastic recommendations for the revision of the act next session.

• • •

On politics, after extraordinary efforts directly encouraged by the President himself—first to smother it in committee and later to extract its teeth, the Hatch bill, taking Federal officeholders out of politics, was passed by a vote so overwhelming as to make it reasonably clear a veto could be overridden. After ten days during which Administration strategists vainly searched for a reason to disapprove that would not be openly political, the President signed it. No one questions that with the Hatch bill in operation his biggest practical political asset—the influence of the job-holder machine—largely vanishes.

• • •

And finally, there is the most ignominious defeat of all—the defeat of the great three-billion-dollar spending-lending bill for which he directly appealed, and in which was bound up the whole New Deal program for 1940. Led by Senator Byrd, the Senate slashed the bill to pieces and then sent it over to the House, which body, sweeping Administration leaders aside and disregarding pleas to "stand by the President," refused even to consider it—just let it die. And three days later, in the same way, the House killed the vast White House housing program which would have pledged the Government to spend $72,000,000 a year for sixty years. There ought to be no illusion as to what this means. It is true the Republicans voted solidly, but it was the Democratic revolt that brought about the debacle. While, for instance, 48 Democrats voted against consideration of the spending-lending bill, 65 unpaired, and either indifferent or hostile stayed away. In both branches hardly more than half of his own party membership "stood by the President."

• • •

The political significance of this is very great. All of the House and one-third of the Senate come up for renomination in less than a year. It is inconceivable that these revolting and indifferent Democrats, in close touch with their people, would openly oppose their leaders on questions of major policy if they did not believe they represented the sentiment of their constituents and were unafraid of reprisals. It is particularly inconceivable in the instance of the spending-lending bill. Its amazing defeat means—if it means anything—that a majority of Congress is convinced that the people have lost faith in the spending policy which is the foundation as well as the pillars, the wall and the roof of the New Deal temple. It is, in fact, all there is to it now. When that is kicked out the window, who can doubt that the game is over.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 17, 1939

IN THE LIMELIGHT

Garrett county was in the limelight in Baltimore newspapers last Thursday and Friday. One event editorially mentioned and dwelt upon at some length was the transfer of property constituting the Cunninghnm Tract to the University of Maryland, which was printed in The Sun on Thursday as follows:

LESSON IN GEOGRAPHY

Maryland's western panhandle, which begins a little to the west of Hagerstown, stretches a long ways before it widens out at Cumberland—it is a narrow strip—so narrow at Hancock, in fact, that a motorist can cross it from Pennsylvania to West Virginia in less than five minutes. But when it widens out, it expands into one of the loveliest scenic areas in the United States.

This area is mostly Garrett county, and it is a part of Maryland. We mention the fact because although the people from Cumberland west know it well enough, the rest of the State is apt to forget it. Garrett county was in the news yesteraday, in connection with the formal acquisition by the State of a 1200-acre recreation tract developed by Federal agencies. It is an occasion to justify setting forth a few facts.

Garrett county, which is roughly triangular in shape, is one of the largest counties in Maryland, with 664 square miles. It is a mountain county, sitting astride the broad ridges of the Allegheny Mountains. Its altitude ranges from 1,300 feet to 3,000 feet above sea level, with most of the county about 2,000 feet or more. Topographically it consists of a series of ridges and valleys running from southwest to northeast.

Of Garrett county's 438,400 acres of land, only some 61,000 acres are under cultivation. The rest of the county consists of timber land and scenery. The timber was cut over in the rapid exploitation of the county's natural resources a generation or two ago, but the scenery remains intact.

And such scenery it is! There are breath-taking views of wooded hillsides rolling off into the distance. There are sparkling little lakes set like gems among the forested hills. There are cool, shaded streams that skip and dance their way down the steep mountain valleys. In short, the county is a paradise for the summer vacationist.

Garrett county has fallen on bad times in recent years, with the near exhaustion of its coal and timber. But gradually some of the forest lands are being restored under State ownership and protection, and recreational areas are being developed on State and Federal tracts. Already the public parks and camping grounds are drawing crowds, and there may come a day when Marylanders who do not know this beautiful county will be thoroughly ashamed of their ignorance. Certainly we hope so.

The following day (Friday) The Sun editor commented upon the fact that Oakland had banned the sale of fireworks. This editorial was as follows:

POINT TO REMEMBER

The sale, storage and shooting of fireworks are now banned in Oakland, the charming little county seat of Garrett county. The ban is provided in a measure enacted unanimously early this week and given executive sanction almost immediately afterward. Oakland's new law is in line with a definite trend. It came within four weeks of the enactment of a similar ban by the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, the county seat of adjoining Allegany county. And it also follows by about three weeks the adoption by the Maryland State Firemen's Association of two resolutions in favor of Statewide anti-fireworks legislation. Maryland needs and must have an anti-fireworks law. A rapidly growing number of Marylanders know this, and it is but a matter of time before the State has such an act.

Until such an act is on the books, there is a point the people of Garrett and Allegany counties might well bear in mind. Maryland would now have a fireworks ban except for the votes of fifteen Senators at the last session of the Legislature. One of these votes was cast by Mr. Clifford Friend, of Garrett county, and another by Mr. Robert B. Kimble, of Allegany county. If either of these two Senators had supported, instead of opposed, a bill sponsored by the Maryland Society for the Prevention of Blindness, there would have been no need for anti-fireworks ordinances in Oakland and Cumberland.

Crowe Family Reunion Attended By 600 Relatives and Friends

The second annual Crowe reunion was held Sunday, August 13, at the New Colonial Inn, Route 40, with approximately 600 attending.

Music was furnished by Nat Friedline's orchestra, Meyersdale, the Methodist choir of Friendsville, the Crowe brothers and a younk Fike boy of Meyersdale.

Two families present represented 4 generations. They were Thomas J. Crowe, Roy Crowe, Fred Crowe and Fred Crowe, Jr., of Finzel; and Henrietta Crowe Murphy, Frostburg; Q. A. Murphy, Robert W. Murphy and Robert Selby Murphy, Friendsville. The oldest Crowes were John, 82, of near Red House, and Stewart, 79 of Avilton, although the oldest person other was David Pope, 85, of Avilton. Oldest Crowe relative was William A. Murphy, 84. He and his wife, Henrietta Crowe Murphy, will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary on December 4.

Officers of the organization were retained as follows: Roy E. Crowe, president; Denzel Crowe, vice-president; Quincy A. Murphy, secretary-treasurer, and Eugene Murphy, Meyersdale, historian.

Paul V. McNutt is backing Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, in his policy of cooperation with "like-minded nations", and warned that a policy of isolation for the United States would require a treble navy and wreck the nation's economic life for a generation.

THAT MAN'S IN AGAIN!

That mysterious "prominent businessman" who always bobs up so opportunely either to pat the New Deal on the back or, if in critical mood, to beat a hasty retreat before the President's logic, is in again.

Who he is or where he comes from is just as much of a mystery as the farm on which the President breeds those white rabbits which live in high hats.

He's the same fellow, you may remember, who suddenly turned up to assure the President that businessmen who were expressing fear of a national debt of more than $40,000,000,000 simply didn't know what they were talking about and that an $80,000,000,000 debt would be a mere drop in the bucket.

He's the same chap who told the President to pay no attention to complaints about the New Deal's taxing policies because neither the taxing method in or the tax burden had any bearing upon business recovery.

He's the same businessman who had no answer last spring when the President pulled out the budget and asked him where he would begin to cut it.

Now he pops up at just the right time for the President with the news that the Senate's refusal to consider neutrality legislation has killed a "nice little boom."

This time it was the President who had no answer although there was one ready-at-hand in rising business indices and soaring prices on the securities exchanges.

It was left to Senator Vandenberg to answer: "What boom? The third-term boom?"

WAS MARRIED LAST SATURDAY EVENING

MRS. WILLIAM H. JOHNSON

MISS HELEN H. OFFUTT WEDS WILLIAM JOHNSON

Ceremony Performed Saturday Evening In Methodist Church

Miss Helen Humbird Offutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Offutt, of Oakland, became the bride of Mr. William Howard Johnson, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bevan Johnson, of Hazelton, Pa., at a lovely church ceremony performed here last Saturday evening, August 12, at 8:00 o'clock, in St. Paul's Methodist church. Rev. Winfield S. Patterson, D.D., pastor of St. Paul's, was the officiating minister, and he was assisted by the Rev. David C. Trimble, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Parish.

The bride entered the church upon the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The bride was attired in a gown of ivory slipper satin, trimmed with a duchess lace collar, a family heirloom. The gown was in 18th century style with large puffed sleeves, off the shoulder effect, with a long satin circular train falling from the waist. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and white orchids.

She had as her matron of honor her sister, Mrs. Albert A. Doub, Jr., of Cumberland, who wore a white lace gown of the 18th century style, puffed sleeves, a small French cap of white lilacs with illusion veil, and carried a bouquet of pink roses, delphinium and baby's breath.

The bride's flower girls were two nieces, Miss Mary Peyton Doub and Miss Mary Humbird Burton, of Cumberland, and Romney, W. Va., respectively who were attired in white net and lace with polk bonnets trimmed with white lilacs, with veils. They carried little old-fashioned nosegays.

Bridesmaids were her sister, Mrs. J. V. Burton, Romney; Mrs. Edwin G. Lanzer, Mrs. Hugh Echard and Mrs. Irene S. Bond, all of Oakland. Each was gowned in white chiffon and chantilly lace of 18th century style, with hats of white maline in a tiara effect, with waist length veils trimmed with liles-of-the-valley. They carried bouquets of pink roses and baby's breath.

Humbird Offutt, Lynchburg, Va., brother of the bride, was the groom's best man. Ushers were Albert A. Doub, Jr., Cumberland, and Thornton O. Deffinbaugh, Edwin G. Lanzer and Julius Renninger, Jr., all of Oakland. All men of the bridal party wore full dress suits.

The bride's mother was attired in a pink lace gown and wore a shoulder corsage of orchids. The groom's mother wore a pale blue lace gown and a corsage of gardenias.

The church was artistically decorated by Weber's. The walls and ceiling were draped with Southern smilax and back of the altar hung a canopy of cultivated flowers interspersed with dainty white blossoms. There were also tall standards of Easter lilies and palms and ferns beautifully arranged. The church in its entirety was lighted by numerous candles in tall candleabra and individual holders.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Russell H. Brown sang "I Love You Truly," and "Because." Julius B. Littman, church organist, accompanied Mrs. Brown and played the wedding march.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson Humbird, of Cumberland, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Offutt, of Oakland. She attended Oakland High school and Penn Hall, Chambersburg, Pa.

The groom is a graduate of Mount Alto School of Forestry, near Waynesboro, Pa., and also of Penn State College, and has been practicing forestry for five years, three years of which time near Oakland. He is a member of Tau Phi Delta, national forestry fraternity.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Moutain Lake Hotel, Mountain Lake Park, for 350 or more guests. The couple left for an unannounced destination for their honeymoon.

Cotton In The Kitchen

The Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture gives the following helpful hints about the use of cotton fabrics in the kitchen.

The various ways in which cotton fabrics may be used, their durability, inexpensiveness, coolness and the easy manner in which they may be laundered make them especially appropriate for kitchen use.

House dresses, probably the most extensive use of cotton in the kitchen, should be cut simply. Materials such as gingham, percale, chambra, seersucker, and medium-weight broadcloth are best. These cottons do not need the starching that lighter weight materials require, yet they are easier to iron than heavy cottons. It is easier to keep a dress in condition, too, if there is no superfluous trim, such as ruffles and embroidery, that need special attention in the wash. Buttons, buckles, and slide fasteners should be durable as the dress material. Avoid belt buckles and buttons of fabric on a metal mold. These fall apart and wear through quickly. Avoid, also, buttons that melt or catch fire if they come in contact with a hot iron. Pockets should be stitched flat, reinforced on the corners, set where they are not likely to be in the way. Frilly pockets and long sashes are kitchen hazards, because they are likely to catch on pan handles, door latches, cupboard knobs, handles or fixtures on the stove.

A label guaranteeing colorfastness should state exactly to what the color is fast. Cottons for housedresses should be colorfast to light, washing, and perspiration. The most dependable shrinkage guarantees are those that tell how much the dress or material will shrink in terms of percent. If this "residual shrinkage" is not over 1 or 2 percent, washing will not alter the fit enough to worry about.

For kitchen curtains, cotton is also a good material. Sometimes information concerning shrinkage and colorfastness of curtain materials, especially those for draperies, is printed on the selvage of yard goods. Cottons for curtains should be colorfast to light and to washing.

Because kitchen curtains must be taken down and washed often, it's convenient to have two pairs for every window. These should be styled simply so as not to interfere with ventilation. If the view is pleasant or the room dark, side draperies of cool-looking gingham, seersucker, muslin, or other medium-heavy cotton will be enough.

Some of the best dishtowel news of the past few years has been the introduction on the market of specially treated cotton dishtowels—which are lintless and which absorb water better than ordinary towels. By this treatment manufacturers have overcome the two main objections that homemakers have always had to cotton for toweling.

Of the cotton towels that have not had this treatment, generally the finer and softer the cloth, the easier and more quickly dishes may be dried with them.

Cotton fabrics catch fire easily. So sometimes it's a good idea to fireproof pot lifters, curtains near the stove, and ironing board covers. The following simple home fireproofing method has been worked out by the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering.

Make a fireproofing solution by stirring into 2 quarts of hot water, 3 ounces of boric acid and 7 ounces of borax. Stir this until the solution is clear. Or if powdered boric acid is used, mix it to a paste with a little water first so it will dissolve more readily. Then take the fabric to be fireproofed, which is clean and dry, and thoroughly saturate it in this solution.

Squeeze it out—hang it to dry. Then iron after it is practically dry. Do not try to iron the treated fabric while it still feels damp. Naturally this treatment must be repeated each time the fabric is washed. Incidentally, curtains treated this way will wear longer.

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Immediately after the Republican victories last November it was asserted in this place that the New Deal had come to the end of its road. Having led the American people up a blind alley, the New Deal was repudiated at the polls, we said. It was further contended that the days of blank check appropriations, wasteful and reckless spending, dangerous experiments and un-American activities were over.

The Democratic spokesman dissented. Yet surely the record of the last session of Congress fully bore out our predictions. Indeed, even casual observers recognized that President Roosevelt lost control of Congress early in the session, despite the overwhelming Democratic majority in House and Senate. By the time the session came to an end the New Deal was in full retreat.

Far and away the most significant action in this Congressional session was the refusal of the House of Representatives even to consider the President's mis-labeled "lending" bill. Its original figures cut in half by the Senate, this bill was tossed into the wastebasket by the House. Conceived in cunning and deceit, this proposed legislation met a deserved ill fate.

Saved From State Socialism

The fact that this bill, as originally proposed, would have permitted the New Deal to spend another four billion dollars which some day would have to be paid back by the workers and farmers of this country was only one reason why it was obnoxious. More important was the fact that it would have started this nation on the road to a State Socialism which would have jeopardized all private enterprise eventually. From that evil, thank heaven, a sturdy patriotic majority of the House of Representatives saved us.

As was to be expected, Mr. Roosevelt let loose a loud howl of protest when his Socialistic program went into the wastebasket. He said that the action of the House would have injurious effects on business and industry and would prevent the re-employment of many thousands of the unemployed. In other words, his contention was that this Socialistic, spending measure was the solution for the Roosevelt depression.

It was an amazing statement. In the first place, all the business and industrial indices commenced to advance as soon as the House action became known. Many industrial securities sold at new high prices for the year. As a matter of fact business did not begin to shake off the lethargy which has marked it until Congress indicated a spirit of independence in the last month.

But, let us suppose Mr. Roosevelt was correct in his contention. Was not his statement a surprising confession of ineptness on his part? If his latest spending plan was the remedy for the depression why did he keep it a secret so long? Why did he not undertake such a program years ago? Could it be true that Mr. Roosevelt only wants his country to be prosperous in Presidential election years?

House Action Widely Praised

Of course, the President's protest against the House action should not be taken seriously. It was an expression of chagrin and anger over his inability to have his own way. The country apparently has not been disturbed by Mr. Roosevelt's gloomy wail. In every part of the country the House action was greeted with enthusiastic praise.

The real meaning of the House action is that at last the country has become aroused over New Deal spending and taxation. Were this not so, the House would not have acted as it did. Therein lies the explanation why the New Deal is finished, for spending other people's money was all the New Dealers had left. It was their only solution for the country' economic ills.

Not only has Congress put its foot down on greater and greater spending programs but it also has injected a little sense into the administration of the relief program. It has repealed the harmful undistributed profits tax on business. It has halted the pyramiding of payroll and pay envelope taxes for old-age pensions. At last a step has been taken to get a little sense into our labor relations through appointment of a House committee to investigate the present situation, so objectionable to everyone.

G. O. P. Deserves Credit

A review of the work of the last Congress would not be complete unless a word were said regarding the important part played by the Republicans of House and Senate. They led the fight for all the reforms previously enumerated. They have been fighting for those reforms for the last two and one-half years.

The fact that they have achieved so much is evidence of the sagacity of the Republican leaders, Senator Charles L.McNary in the Senate and Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., in the House. The results show what can be done by a militant, determined minority party, bent on being constructive as well as critical. It is a good indication of what the country can expect in the way of constructive reforms when the Republicans assume control of the Federal Government in January 1941.

MT. LAKE PARK

Tennis Tournament Center of Attraction

The annual tennis tournament is on. The reception on Monday night at the club house was well attended by players and guests. Faces we had not seen in many years with old acquaintances meeting. The square dancing was enjoyed by nearly all present. Certainly the social side got off to a good start.

Mentioning the players of some years ago, we understand that Paul Sullivan is back again after an absence of six years. Then, too, we heard a rumor that contrary to other reports John Brown in persons would arrive. Well, now we know it's all right. The weather, too, seems to be favoring the players.

Last but not least, Congressman Randolph is here in the line-up. For twenty years or more he has been coming to Mountain Lake Park. On Saturday afternoon at the conclusion of the finals he will present the cups and the trophies to the successful contestants. On Saturday morning, August 19, from Station WMMN, Fairmont, over a nation-wide hookup Congressman Randolph will deliver a radio address on the progress of American aviation. This is in connection with the first celebration of National aviation.

Lake To Be Cleaned Up; Crystal Spring Surroundings Beautified

About the finest piece of news we have heard in some time is this: Crystal Spring and the lake are to be put in first condition and the surroundings beautified generally.

This was decided on Tuesday night at a meeting held by the Park Improvement Club. About fifty persons were present at this gathering, and the following officers were elected: Mrs. Gregory Bleakly, president; Harvey Criss, vice-president; Mrs. W. B. Love, secretary; Rev. Gregory Bleakly, treasurer.

There are a number of projects this group are planning to put into operation, but it was decided to start work at once on the lake and spring. Other matters will be taken up later.

If you have any suggestions or should like to help in any manner, won't you get in touch with some of these folks. Its a very needful and worthy work.

This group of public spirited citizens deserve all of the aid and cooperation they can get from the rest of us.

BODY OF DEER PARK MAN IS FOUND ALONG RAILROAD

Victim Is Identified As Dennis Browning, Killed Near Terra Alta Last Friday Night

HAD BEEN UNEMPLOYED

The remains of Dennis Browning, twenty-six years of age, a resident of Loch Lynn, mangled by the wheels of a train, were found between 6:00 and 7:00 o'clock last Saturday morning alongside the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks near an overhead bridge at the west limits of Terra Alta, West Va.

The corpse was identified by Clarence D. Murphy, Baltimore and Ohio station agent, and residents of Terra Alta. A number of persons said they had seen Mr. Browning in Terra Alta Friday evening. The top of the dead man's head had been torn away, making identification difficult.

Coroner H. F. Hartman and Sheriff Carl Roth, both of Kingwood, Preston county, investigated the tragedy and said no inquest would be held. Garrett county officials were notified and the body was removed to the man's home at Deer Park.

Mr. Browning is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Browning, Deer Park, his widow and four children at Loch Lynn, Joan, Thelma Lou, Barbara Lee and Mary Frances; also by two sisters and one brother, Mrs. C. M. Montgomery, Deer Park; Mrs. Bertha Collalti, Freeport, Ill., and Van B. Browning, Deer Park. He was unemployed.

Coroner Hartman said that in his opinion Mr. Browning had been dead seven or eight hours when his body was found. This would place the time of his death around 11:00 o'clock Friday night when he might have been struck by the locomotive of a west-bound passenger train. Indications are that he was walking along the track when struck by the locomotive.

Funeral services were conducted on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Methodist church at Deer Park, with the Rev. E. A. Crites, Loch Lynn Heights, in charge, assisted by the Rev. David C. Trimble, Oakland. Interment was made in the Deer Park cemetery.

DEER PARK MAN IS BEING HELD FOR FEDERAL COURT

Harry Mosser Charged With Obtaining Money Under False Pretenses

Harry Mosser, Deer Park, in jail at Cumberland awaiting the October Grand Jury on a state offense, was ordered held Monday for the September term of the Federal Court.

Mosser was arrested in Fairmont, W. Va., July 22 by the West Virginia State Police on a warrant from Terrence J. Boyle, Allegany county investigator, and was given a preliminary hearing on July 28, on a charge of obtaining money under false pretense from the Citizens' National Bank, Westernport.

Monday morning, following a hearing in U. S. Deputy Marshal Howard P. Loughrie's office in Cumberland, Mosser pleaded guilty to forging names on a check from the Garrett National Bank, Oakland, which was being administered by the U. S. Government, according to James A. Averett, district commissioner, who conducted the hearing.

The Federal charge was entered against Mosser by James H. Dickerson, U. S. secret service agent. Mosser was taken from Fairmont to Morgantown and then taken to Cumberland on July 25, where he has been since that time. He waived extradition and voluntarily returned to Allegany county.

Mosser said he got the check from the bank when he went for his father's dividend, and the clerk in charge gave him a check for $77.40, made out to Oscar Whithair and Laura S. Whitehair. He admitted forging the names on the check and getting the cash from the Westernport bank. Mosser said he rode from his home, where he signed the check, with Floyd Harvey, since murdered at Vindex, and an unidentified boy.

When asked if he had been drinking the day the check was cashed, he said he "had been drinking but wasn't drunk, but in a hurry."

Marriage Is Announced

Announcement was made this week of the marriage of Miss Audrey Holden, of Pine Plains, N. Y., to Howard D. Naylor, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Naylor, Pennington street, Oakland. The wedding took place secretly on February 18, 1939, at Fairmont, West Va., with the Rev. Denver C. Pickens, D.D., pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating.

The marriage of the young people is the result of a school romance, the bride and groom both being students at West Virginia Wesleyan College at Buckhannon, from which school both the bride and groom graduated this spring. Since returning to Oakland Mr. Naylor has been employed in the A. D. Naylor and Company establishment. Mrs. Naylor is planning to arrive in Oakland at an early day when the couple will establish a home.

Schools To Open September 5

The public schools of the county will open for the 1939-40 term on Tuesday morning, September 5, and according to a statement by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, the opening day is to be a full day's session.

All children entering school for the first time must be six years of age or older prior to January 1, 1940. Beginning children also must present certificates of vaccination against smallpox, as required by the State school law.

An all-day teachers' meeting is to be held in Oakland High school on Friday, September 8.

COMMISSIONERS BELIEVE THEY CAN CONTROL ROADS

Have Asked For That Privilege Based On Interpretation Of Law Enacted By Last Legislature

PARAGRAPHS CONTRADICT

A belief that the County Commissioners have the power to ask for and receive their share of the gasoline tax for operation of the county roads in Garrett county, thus taking away the county road maintenance from the State Roads Commission, was expressed Tuesday by Blaine Giessman, president, following the adjournment of the Board.

Mr. Giessman said they had received an opinion from two attorneys as to the interpretation of the law passed at the recent session of the legislature, and that both attorneys felt the law gave them that privilege.

A paragraph in the law specifically included Garrett county in the list of those counties whose county roads should be maintained by the State Roads Commission. The following paragraph, however, also states, Mr. Giessman said, that any county desiring to maintain its own roads may do so by making that request to the State Roads Commission before September 1.

Mr. Giessman said such a request had been made several days ago. Providing the law is interpreted by the attorney general or the courts, in the manner the County Commissioners' attorney's feel is correct, Garrett county's roads will be administered locally beginning October 1. However, there appears to be much controversy throughout the state over the law as enacted, as several of its paragraphs evidently contradict one another. An official ruling will have to be made.

Audit Is Ordered

C. H. Browning, another member of the County Commissioners, also announced that the Board had hired the firm of Wooden and Benson, certified public accountants, of Baltimore City, to audit the books of the county treasurer and county commissioners, as a routine procedure, in order to get the books set up properly in preparation for the 1940 levy.

PREPARATIONS FOR 20TH PICNIC NEAR COMPLETION

Pythians Making Final Arrangements for Labor Day Program

With only a few days left until Labor Day, preparations for the twentieth annual Labor Day Picnic, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, are nearing completion, according to Wade H. Mason, chancellor commander and general chairman.

A group of Pythians were in Cumberland on Tuesday evening purchasing the novelties for the local concessions, and other committees have been meeting weekly to complete their work.

The picnic is to be held in the Helbig Grove, at the north edge of town where there has always been free parking, plenty of shade and pure drinking water. In this grove also there will be the Keystone Shows consisting of ten rides, 8 shows and 30 concessions. There will be two free acts afternoon and night.

The parade will be held at 10 o'clock and a number of prizes are offered to fire companies, floats and comic attractions. Two bands, the Mt. Lake and Oakland organizations are participating and will give concerts on the picnic grounds throughout the day.

A Buick automobile will be given away after which a fireworks display will conclude the program. The Keystone shows will remain on the grounds until Saturday night, September 9.

Alien Partridges And Quail To Be Released In Counties

Quail hunters will have a chance to bag a few Oriental cousins of the local bird with the release of 400 Chukor partridges in the counties of the State next month. Four hundred of the Chukor birds, imported from the mountains of Asia, were bred on the State Game farm in Baltimore county.

With its red legs and brown and white head markings, the Chukor partridge will prove a strange addition to the bag of the Maryland sportsman, but probably a welcome one. The Chukor is described as "a fine, fat bird, all breast meat. Its weight, full grown, is more than a pound.

Ready to be turned loose throughout the State next month also, are 4,000 bob-whites. Garrett county will get her share of both species.

LEWIS RAY JONES LEADS LIST IN STATE BAR EXAM

Has Mark Of 257 Out Of Possible 300; 263 Took Examination In June. But Only Ninety Passed

ROLAND C. READY, MT. LAKE PARK, ALSO PASSED

Lewis Ray Jones, of Oakland, a son of E. Ray Jones, Secretary of State under Governor Nice, led the list of ninety persons who passed the examination for the Maryland bar, it was announced Monday by Alexander Armstrong, chairman and acting secretary of the Maryland State Board of Law Examiners.

Mr. Armstrong also announced that Roland C. Ready, of Mountain Lake Park, who won the top scholastic honors at the University of Maryland this year and was chairman of the Law Review, also passed the examination, which is a source of gratification to the friends of the young man.

Others in this section passing the examination include Thomas B. Finan, Jr., Cumberland; Garman E. Getty, Jr., Lonaconing, and John Hodge Smith, Cumberland.

Two hundred and sixty-three persons took the examination on June 19 and 20, in Baltimore.

The examining board will send the names of the ninety successful candidates to the Court of Appeals, with the recommendation that they be admitted to the State bar at admissions this fall.

All of those who received passing marks in the examination reside in the State. Fifty-seven are from Baltimore City. Three are women.

Young Jones placed first of the 263 candidates with an examination mark of 257 out of a possible 300 points. Leslie J. Clark, Lonaconing, was in the first seven on the list. Jones, in this year's class at the University of Maryland Law School, was on the staff of the Law Review. He plans to be associated in business with his father in Oakland following his admission as a practicing attorney this fall.

Sees Little Of Recreational Value In Savage Dam Lake

State Forester F. W. Besley, in an interview article in The Sun today, couldn't see much value in the Savage River dam for recreational purposes, on account of the uncertain level of the lake.

It would impound water in winter and spring and release it in summer to maintain the rate of flow in the Potomac.

TYPHOID FEVER IS CAUSE OF 2 DEATHS IN COUNTY

Both Live at Manadier Ridge— Health Officer Is Attempting To Find Positive Source Of Infection

SPRING WATER IS BLAMED

Typhoid fever within two weeks has claimed the lives of two residents of Manadier Ridge, near Grantsville.

The second victim of the disease which medical science now has virtually stamped out was Mrs. Rachel Custer, wife of Stephen Custer, who died late Tuesday afternoon at Memorial hospital, Cumberland, where she had been a patient since August 14. She was 52.

Mrs. Custer had been ill for several weeks before she sought medical attention, Dr. L. J. Lapich, her attending physician, stated. He said she came to him less than two weeks ago in a serious condition and a blood test revealed her ailment.

Although Mrs. Custer was unable to give a history of her case because of the advanced nature of her illness, relatives were blaming her death on water from a spring on the Custer property.

First Victim Was Only 22

The first victim was Harold Bittinger, 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bittinger, who died at his home two weeks ago. The Custer and Bittinger families had been using the same spring, it was said, and Dr. N. R. Davis, of Grantsville, who treated Bittinger, expressed the belief that it was the source of infection. Both families have been drinking water from the spring all summer, members of the Custer family said. Since Bittinger's death, however, they had been boiling the spring water before using it, they declared.

Dr. H. R. DuPuy, county health officer, has been making an investigation of the situation for several days and he stated this morning that he felt the disease was being spread by a "carrier" and was not necessarily caused by drinking from any spring. He said numerous other people were or had been using the spring all summer.

No other typhoid cases have been reported so far, Dr. DuPuy said, and attempts to find the "carrier" were being made by taking blood tests of the people of that neighborhood. The spring water also will be tested.

Mrs. Custer was born at Jennings, near Grantsville, a daughter of the late Daniel and Mary Yommer. Surviving besides her husband are two sons, Lester and Vernon Custer; a daughter, Miss Ethel Custer; two brothers, William and Clarence Yommer; and two sisters, Mrs. Elmer Johnson and Mrs. Clarence Beachy, all of Grantsville.

Raphiel Murphy Is Scoutmaster Of Local Catholic Troop

Raphiel Murphy, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Murphy, has been appointed scoutmaster of St. Peter's Catholic scout troop, according to an announcement of Rev. Fr. W. F. Sauer, pastor. Albert Jordan, former scoutmaster, was obliged to give up the troop because of his work which took him out of Oakland.

Mr. Murphy is a recent graduate of Oakland High school. One of his first undertakings is to take the troop on a week's camping trip. The boys left on Tuesday, August 22, and will spend the week on Deep Creek Lake. The troop has a complete camping outfit including tents, cooking utensils, and other requisites.

Members of the troop committee are H. A. Loraditch, Richard Shaffer, Joseph Wolfe, Arthur Martini, and Joseph Gonder.

Injured In Car Wreck

Miss Ethel Pasquale, Meyersdale, Pa., received a fractured collarbone in an automobile accident which occurred Saturday afternoon west of Grantsville. The car skidded on the wet road and overturned.

Passing motorists assisted Miss Pasquale and a companion in getting the machine on the road but before they could proceed on their way another car bearing a Pennsylvania license, skidded on the curve and crashed into them. The latter driver failed to stop.

Miss Pasquale was taken to Grantsville for treatment before being taken to her home at Meyersdale. She is a daughter of L. D. Pasquale. Her companion was not injured.

UZZIAH: A KING WHO FORGOT GOD

LESSON TEXT—II Chronicles 26:3-5, 16-21

GOLDEN TEXT—Every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.—Luke 18:14.

"Pride goeth before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall" (Prov. 16:18).

A man's life may begin with every promise of greatness and he may prosper in everything for years as he honors God, and then by presumptuous disobedience he may bring it all to sudden destruction, living the closing years of his life in disgrace and going down to his grave in sorrow. That fact is written so large on the pages of history that one marvels that "wayfaring men though fools" need to "err therein" (Isa. 35:8). Pride makes a man blind to his own weakness and so presumptuous that he walks right into trouble. The story of Uzziah points a moral both obvious and needed by all of us.

I. Prosperity (vv. 3-5).

"As long as he sought the Lord, God made him prosper" (v. 5).

With a heart right toward God, the background of a rearing by God-fearing parents (how much that means!) and the counsel of a man who was an "expert" in his understanding of the ways and the will of God, Uzziah prospered greatly. Chapters 25 to 27 of II Chronicles reveal him as a man of affairs, a successful warrior, a capable agriculturist, an able gvernment administrator, and a king whose fame was known far and wide. For one who took over the government of a nation at the tender age of 16, following the tragic death of his father, Uzziah made a remarkable and commendable record.

II. Presumption (v. 16).

"When he was strong, his heart was lifted up to his destruction" (v. 16). What sad words! Prosperity ruined a man who had made a name for himself in times of adversity. In presumptuous pride he attempted to take the place of the priest ordained of God, in effect declaring that the State was over the Church, as we would put it in our day.

"There is no greater danger attaching to the life of Christian service than the danger of presumptuous pride. I mean the pride which manifests itself in an independence of the ordinary means of grace, of prayer, and of the Word of God. I am convinced that that is the cause of much of the failure in many lives here. It is a pride which says: 'I can dispense with the Word of God'; which persists in living on a minimum of prayer and communion with God, and in yet going about the work of God as of old; a pride which, like Uzziah's, seeks carnal prominence in spiritual things. For that was his sin. He sought a carnal prominence in service which God had ordained was to be of an entirely spiritual order" (J. Stuart Holden).

III. Punishment (vv. 17-21).

"The king was a leper . . . and . . . was cut off from the house of the Lord" (v. 21). The priests of God had holy boldness in rebuking the king, a quality which one could hope would never be missing in the testimony of God's servants. The king, however, resented their wise words of counsel, and punishment from God, both swift and terrible, came upon him.

If the judgment upon Uzziah seems too drastic, let us remember that the king was presuming to set aside an order established by God. It was a question of whether God was to rule or the king. We should also bear in mind that what looks like a single outward bit of presumption was really the expression of a heart that had long since gone far from God. When men in high position either in the State or in the Church fall into sin, it is not very often the result of a yielding to a sudden temptation, but rather the inevitable showing forth of what has long been true in the inner life. The leprosy of Uzziah's heart now showed forth in his face, and he had to be shut off from his people and from his royal position.

God Sees the Heart

Neither is there any creature that is not manifest in his sight: but all things are naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do.—Hebrews 4:13.

Spiritual Contradictions

He that was called in the Lord being a servant, is the Lord's freeman: likewise he that is called, being free, is Christ's servant.—I Cor. 7:22.

Patience That Endureth

It is in length of patience, endurance and forbearance that so much of what is good in mankind and womankind is shown.—Arthur Helps.

Power of God

Religion wields the greatest power in the universe, the power of God.

Open Letter to FDR

Mr. President:

Knowing your mania for causing a stir, as witness your un-called for stir in announcing you would change Thanksgiving, perhaps you can help me out in this instance, even tho I am a Republican.

I have been bothered with the hives for the past week. These nasty itchings have a habit of coming out on me between midnight and morning, and you can see how unhandy that might be.

Now, I am not wanting to cut out any of the foods that are causing this condition, so I am calling on you to change the hours of these itchings, or better still, just issue a proclamation turning night into day, so that my itching hours will also be my waking and working hours. Then I can itch and scratch on the boss' time and thereby help business as he'll have to hire another person. That'll help the unemployment situation also. An itch in time is an investment that returns dividends, and sociable security.

Mr. President, surely you can do something about this. You have been doing things a lot worse, these past seven years.

* * *

Suggestions Freely Given

Since President Roosevelt announced his intention of changing Thanksgiving suggestions have been given freely and sarcastically.

One sent a telegram to ask why he didn't change Christmas to his birthday.

Another person suggested celebrating Christmas three times a year since it was such a business stimulant; mass observance of all birthdays, New Year's day on March 1 instead of January as it was too close to Christmas; having winter begin on September 1 to boost business for wool, fuel and fur industries; making New Deal Day on April 1.

A cartoon showed a man wondering, on his way home, whether or not it was his wedding anniversary, as he hadn't heard whether or not President Roosevelt had changed that.

Returns From Tour To Pacific Coast

Miss Mary Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Thomas, returned on Wednesday, August 16, from a tour to the Pacific coast. She was accommanied on the trip by Miss Edna Kratt and Miss Elsie Held, Towson, Md., from which city they started upon their journey on July 3. In New Orleans, La., they were joined by Miss Ruth Seidler, Baltimore. Traveling by motor, they covered 9,000 miles and journeyed through twenty-six states. They were gone longer than six weeks. They visited El Paso, Texas, the Grand Canyon in Arizona, and Boulder Dam. They also visited Juarez and Tijuana, Mexico, and Catalina Island. Miss Margaret Kraft, also of Towson, who had been visiting in the West since May, joined the party at San Diego, Calif., and accompanied them on their return. Points of interest on their homeward trek were: Yosemite National Park, in California; Salt Lake City, Utah; Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming; and the Bad Lands of South Dakota. Quite a coincidence occurred, when at Grantsville, Utah, the group met Mrs. Ida Biggs, a sister of Geo. C. Houck, this place, who was enroute to her home in California after visiting here.

CONSERVATION JUMBLE

Friday of last week the Baltimore Sun said editorially with reference to conservation matters in Maryland:

"On August 9 the United States Soil Conservation Service turned over to the State 33,825 acres of submarginal land in Garrett county for reforestation and to aid in preserving wild life. On the same day the Federal agency also turned over to the State an additional 1,800 acres in Garrett county for an outdoor laboratory for research, investigation and demonstration purposes in biological sciences, engineering, forestry and wild life conservation.

"On August 15 it was announced that four State-owned hatcheries were preparing to release 17,000 game birds. Last Monday a carefully prepared report was issued revealing the need for a soil-erosian-control program for the Burnt Mills reservoir watershed near Silver Spring, Montgomery county. And on Tuesday Governor O'Conor waded out into the Patuxent River and freed fifty young diamond-back terrapins.

"There can thus be no denial of the fact that a many-sided effort is being made to conserve and to expand the State's natural resources. Nearly every State department has a hand in the effort. The Soil Conservation Service gave the large Garrett county tract to the State Forestry Depart ment. It turned the 1,800 acres over to the University of Maryland. The four hatcheries preparing to release the game birds are operated by the new State Game and Inland Fish Commission. The report on the Burnt Mills watershed was made by Mr. O. C. Bruce, Maryland coordinator for the Soil Conservation Service and was issued at College Park. The terrapin released by Mr. O'Conor came from the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory, which is under the newly reorganized State Conservation Commission.

"The State Game and Inland Fish Commission is an independent agency. So also is the State Conservation Commission. The State Forestry Department is entirely independent of the two commissions but is associated with the University of Maryland. And it also must be remembered that in matters of stream pollution the State Health Department, another independent agency, plays a part.

"All this makes it reasonably clear that the effort to conserve and to expand the State's natural resources is being made without coordination. Problems concerning reforestation, soil erosion, the silting up of streams, rivers and the bay itself, the propagation in their natural environments of fresh and salt water life and game fall into one pattern or framework. To be attacked successfully they must be attacked with a full understanding of their interrelation.

"This form of attack has never been made in Maryland. Only a few months have elapsed since Governor O'Conor and the Legislature turned down a bill to bring all conservation activities under one directing agency. Fortunately, a greater number of people are coming to realize the importance of conservation and to appreciate the fact that Maryland's present conservation methods are hopelessly inadequate."

POST MORTEM ON THE POTOMAC

Congress has gone back home. The historic halls on Capitol Hill are empty now, save where the scrub women and painters are striving to efface the ravages of time and debate. But in their far flung bureaucratic offices those highly paid "experts with a passion of anonymity," the President's Palace Guard and their 100 per cent New Deal satellites are post mortemimg the most rebellious session of Congress since the New Deal came to town.

"Just wait till those dumb Congressmen hear what the voters are saying," the talk runs through the long hot afternoons. "Wait till the dull politicians get the country's reaction to stopping our spending program, to not giving Roosevelt a freer hand in case of war abroad, to investigating the Labor Board, and jamming the Hatch bill through. They'll be less independent next session."

And day after day, back home, these Congressmen and Senators are listening to the voters. In thousands of offices, barber shops, general stores and homes from Bangor to San Diego the same scene is being repeated. "Well, Mr. Congressman, it's good to see you back. Say, there's something I want to tell you about that vote of yours on * * *."

Enough reports have already filtered through to Washington to show that when Congress comes back in January the Palace Guard is due for a real shock.

The next session will see Congress even more independent than the last one, when it comes to checking impractical New Deal experiments. More and more Congressmen will vote for sound recovery measures and for the very same reason they voted for them this July—because that's what the people of this country want. Those "dumb Congressmen" aren't so dumb.

MARYLAND HAS WORTHY RECORD FOR SMALLPOX

Two Cases In Ten Years—Vaccination Compulsory Before Entering School

Among the blanks to which the State Department of Health points with considerable pride are the zeroes in the record for smallpox in the State for the past ten years.

Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the Department, calls attention to the record in a message to parents whose children will start to school this fall. "Don't forget," he said, "that our Maryland law requires every child to be vaccinated before he or she may be enrolled in any public school in the State. If you have neglected this for your small son or daughter, don't put it off any longer. Go to your doctor and have it done at once.

"In accordance with the State law, physicians are expected to vaccinate all babies under their care before the children are a year old. Until the children are of school age, the responsibility for having it done rests with the parents. After that it is shared by the teachers and other authorities. Any teacher, school trustee, or commissioner of a public school who admits a child who has not been successfully vaccinated against smallpox is liable to a fine of $10.

"There have been only two cases of smallpox officially reported in Maryland in the last ten years—one in 1931 which was contracted in California; and the other in 1935, the diagosisi of which was doubted by those familiar with the disease. With these two exceptions, the slate is clean for smallpox in Maryland for 1930, '33, '34, '36, '37, '38, and up to the present in 1939.

"The situation is very difficult in other parts of the country, particularly those in which vaccination against smallpox is not required by law. The reports of the United States Public Health Service show that nearly 15,000 people in the United States had smallpox in 1938. In the last ten years there have been over 60,000 cases. For the past five years there has been a steady increase.

"While it is true that the majority of the cases have occurred in the West, North West, Central, South West, and Southern States, residents in other sections of the country is not safeguarded against the disease. The travel habit is so general that contrary to Kipling, East and West meet every day. The disease is highly infectious and the only protection against it is vaccination.

"Our Maryland law was enacted in 1864. It is based primarily on prevention through vaccination in infancy, and our practical freedom from the disease has been due largely to the intelligent cooperation of parents with the health authorities in the observance of the vaccination requirements. But there are always some who are inclined to put it off until some convenient time. Their children are the ones who have 'not vaccinated against smallpox' checked up against them at the summer round-up and the other child health conferences.

"If your youngsters are in this class don't wait any longer to have them vaccinated."

2-Reel Picture To Be Shown At Meeting Monday, August 28

"Let's Go Fishing," a new two-reel sound motion picture starring Tony Ossetta, U. S. professional all-round bait-fly-casting champion, will be shown to members and guests of the Garrett County Sportsmen's Association at their annual meeting, August 28, at Table Rock Inn, on Route 50, at 8:00 o'clock following a banquet at which 200 or more are expected.

This was announced today by H. C. Riggs, president of the Sportsmen's Association, who disclosed that a 16 mm. print of the film for the special showing is being obtained from the Detroit headquarters of the Fisher Body Division of General Motors.

Described as an important contribution to fishing lore by conservation authorities and others who have viewed it "Let's Go Fishing" presents a comprehensive lesson in the art of fishing and casting, and encouraging participation in the sport and emphasizing the basic rules every true fisherman is willing to observe in the interest of its preservation, according to Mr. Riggs, who states that the film is completely devoid of advertising save for the credit titles.

Accetts's unquesioned skill with the rod and reel is established at the start of the film when he stands behind the goal line a tone end of a foot ball field and casts a plug over the other, a distance of at least 110 yards. His unofficial casting record, set two years ago at West Palm Beach, is 435 feet.

After a few tricks of this sort, Ted Husing, who does the narration, acknowledges the champion's ability on dry land, but asks the pertinent question as to whether or not he can catch fish. The scene then shifts to an inland lake, with Tony playing the part of both champion and John J. Duh. The difficulties he encounters as the latter provide the comic relief.

There follows a discussion of the proper type of tackle, the method of holding the rod in the hand, the position of th ethumb, that of the arm, the all important wrist action and other factors that play a part in the art of casting as Tony illustrates the right and wrong methods in his dual role.

The necessity of keeping the bait moving, or striking back, and of maintaining a taunt line at all times after the fish has been hooked, likewise are touched upon.

The film ends with the advice to fish in weeds and rushes along shore, or near the boat landing, because, according to the champion, few people do. For this purpose, he urges the use of a single weedless lure and shows that he can vene cast into the branches of a tree without snagging this type of bait.

After the picture the members and guests will have opportunity to hear interesting discussions relatives to local hunting and fishing problems and also hear from the State Game Warden and new Commissioner.

Quite a number of reservations are being made by the ladies and they are assured of a warm welcome at the meeting, it was stated.

Mrs. D. Edward Offutt and son Daniel returned Monday from Bayview Beach, Long Island, where they had spent the past seven weeks. While at Bayview Beach, Mrs. Offutt commuted to New Haven where she took physical culture instructions from Dr. L. H. Lockwood, of Yale University.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS . .

Canton, Ohio; family, also were among By FRANK R. KENT

Poor Mr. Wallace

As the New Deal approaches the end of its seventh year, probably the most pathetic figures in it is that of Mr. Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture. In no other phase of this extraordinary Administration is the confusion as great or the collapse as complete as in the department over which he presides.

* * *

As Mr. Wallace reviews the record since he entered the Cabinet, his feeling must be one of the deepest discouragement. He is far too intelligent a man not to know the extent of the failure of the Roosevelt farm policies and much too conscientious not to be appalled at the cost. In the whole history of government no such vast sums of money have been poured out with so negligible result. It is, in fact, a shocking picture which those who undertook to regulate the agricultural production of the country look upon today.

* * *

The simple truth is that, with the major crops, with which these planners have dealt, the situation is worse than before they started. An incredible number of millions have been expended without fundamentally improving conditions in any direction. Caught in a sprawling, ill-conceived, unworkable legislative tangle, year after year Mr Wallace has been compelled to struggle with a new price-fixing-subsidy scheme in place of the one just failed. After six years of this it would seem that the most optimistic dreamer would lose faith.

Unquestionably Mr. Wallace lost most of his a long time ago; but he can't stop. He has to go on. To deal realistically and candidly with the facts to say that not one of the schemes has worked: that the goal is as far away before; that the price levels are lower than they have been since 1933; that the great sums so prodigally expended have had only temporary effect—to say these things is to confess to a failure so gigantic a claim of what had been done for the farmers, though evey year, with the new scheme, the propaganda machine continues to promise what will be done.

Actually, there is no escape from the fact that the wheat and corn programs literally have fallen to pieces so far as their "objectives" are concerned. Wheat and corn are now selling at the lowest price since 1937 and the reports of the Agricultural Department itself show a shocking decline in exports of American farm products. Specifically, the statistics show that farm product shipments abroad for the year ended May 1, 1939, are twenty-one per cent less than for the year ended May 1, 1938.

As for cotton, the story is even more distressing and the plight of the cotton grower generally recognized as acute. Through the Government warehouse storage policy an entire year's crop has been removed from the market and the American price, at enormous government expense, kept above the world price. As a result, the total exports of cotton for the year were about 3,100,000 bales, or much less than for any year in sixty years—fifty per cent less than for 1938. Naturally, other cotton-producing countries have stepped into the world markets which we have abandoned and naturally, there has been an outcry at home.

* * *

To correct this, the AAA now proposes to subsidize cotton exports—that is, raw cotton— to the tune of one and one-half cents a point. Thus, having at great cost taken our cotton off the world market, we are now about to spend millions in an effort to put it back. Aside from the patent fact that this policy clashes directly with Secretary Hull's reciprocal-trade agreements, it does not make sense in other ways. In effect, as the New York Times points out, we will be given foreigner cheaper raw cotton to compete against our own manufacturers in our own market as well as in the world market.

* * *

The effort to compensate by also subsidizing exports of finished cotton goods and limiting cotton goods imports only builds up a new and cumbersome series of bureaucratic controls. Further, it is true that recently we have imposed duties on various products from Italy and Germany because they are governmentally subsidized. In brief, we now propose to do with cotton exactly what we punish as unfair competition when done by other nations.

* * *

Take it all in all, the chaos of our agricultural policies is without parallel. The planners are left without a coherent idea or a workable proposal. They still pour the money out in loans, bonuses, gifts and subsidies of various sorts and the most enormous office-holding machine ever dreamed of has been constructed. But the great effort to regulate and control is a complete bust and no one knows that better than Mr. Wallace. One cannot help but feel sorry for him—first, because he has many fine qualities of heart and mind; second, because he has been making a struggle against irresistible forces with no hope of success and no chance to quit.

As short a time as possible from the vine to the container—that's an important rule for tomato juice. So work with only 1 to 2 gallons at a time—and do not let the tomatoes stand around between operations. After a preliminary washing and trimming—cut the tomatoes into small pieces. Simmer the tomato pieces until they soften.

Then put these at once through a fine sieve—a cone or a bowl-shaped sieve is best to get as little air as possible into the pulp. Reheat the juice at once—just to boiling. Then pour it into sterilized jars—add to 1 teaspoon of salt to a quart if desired—seal immediately. The juice in the glass jars will need no processing. Or, pour the hot juice into tin cans, seal immediately, and process for 5 minutes in a boiling-water bath. Do not leave head space in either jar or can.

Another important point in tomato canning success is using the right kind of utensils. To keep the natural tomato color and flavor in juice—use knives of stainless steel and avoid kettles of copper, brass, or iron. And, of course, never cook or even let tomatoes stand around in galvanived iron utensils. They'll take up zinc from the pan and become poisonous. Those who buy commercially canned tomato products, will, after January 1 1940, have Federal standards to help them. On that date, standards of quality and fill of container will go into effect for all canned tomatoes, tomato puree, and tomato paste that enters into interstate commerce. These standards recently were estbalished by the secretary of Agriculture by authority of the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act of 1938.

Friendsville played a fine game and took it without much exertion to the tune of 31 to 15. Catcher Donald Browning banged out fine clean hits for Sang Run, as did Alvie DeWitt for the same team, but incessant errors gave Friendsville a lead that would have required several home runs with loaded bases to overtake them.

Five players from Friendsville were chosen and combined with five players from Sang Run Sunday in a futile effort to win a double header from the Loch Lynn team. Loch Lynn took both games: 13-8, and 12-7.

CELANESE STATEMENT

The company is not willing to enter into a closed shop contract, or any contract which in any manner includes collection of dues and assessments by the company or compulsion by the company on employees in the payment of union dues and assessments.

In regard to wages, the company will further discuss the wage question and any other question in the proposed contract, when the basis is established in the recognition clause, which the company proposes shall be as in the former contract, namely

Recognition - -

The employer recognizes the union as the sole collective bargaining agency, under the terms of the National Labor Relations Act, for all of the employees in the employer's plant at Amcelle, Maryland, who are eligible for membership in the union, in regard to wages, hours and other conditions of employment.

For more than a year, efforts to settle wage questions and other points in the contract have failed because of the impossibility of agreeing on the closed shop question, and all efforts to arrive at a settlement of the many questions have been discarded, because the union after days of discussion finally comes back to this same question. If this question can be settled a contract can be made.

In this competitive business the company cannot agree to limit technological changes, nor to assume contractual obligations to transfer employees from one state to another. The company desires to give jobs to all its displaced employees and to give them preference on present work in the Cumberland plant and on future work as the plant expands. Under present conditions, there seems to be no reason whatsoever to doubt that the plant will certainly expand.

When the difficulties over the so-called recognition clause are removed, negotiations can be promptly resumed on wages and other points with some prospect of settling on a contract.

MT. LAKE PARK

If you do not get any news this week you can blame it on the Ladies' Aid Sociable, held in the auditorium Tuesday night. Somehow we just could not get away. Mrs. A. V. Schaffer as chairman kept the program going so fast and furious that it wasn't possible to get up and leave. Anyhow we were sorta busy looking at wondering at the costumes. We hope they will have another sociable soon and we also hope that Pastor Gamblin will get his new suit. That's where we had to leave just as the ladies decided to get the suit, even tho they did have only 27 cents in the treasury. However, we rather think that Sister Cannon and the other sisters will take care of that.

Well, Mickey's Band certainly came through with flying colors. Winning first place at Westover was no small feat. They had plenty of competition.

Time Marches On

From the Town Clerk we get a tax bill. With the bill there is much literature. First we look at a personal letter from the Mayor and Council. This tells us all that has been accomplished by the new administration. Seven improvements are described and there is enclosed a blank for any person taking roomers or boarders or desiring to sell or rent their property. This is to be filled in and filed with the town officials. In case they may sell or rent or otherwise aid you in realizing a profit on your property they ask that a small sum shall be donated by you for the erection of a town hall. This is to be called the Town Hall Building Fund. Just to find out if all the literature in the tax envelope was true we decided to see if the tax collector really was in the town council chamber each evening from 7:30 to 8:30—he was.

Many of the old timers are reminded of the old days when they saw the ball diamond at the station. It is a pretty good diamond. Many of the people have suggested that Mountain Lake should have a regular nine. Certainly there is plenty of material here, and what is more worthwhile than giving the youth something of this sort. During the winter it might be a good idea to work out that basketball team.

Mountain Lake Park has a future. It can and will be revived, for there are many working to that end and they are all pulling in the same direction. Miss Huff is the leader in many of these movements and she can see much farther ahead than we can; she is a grand person to help the movement along, which reminds me that she is putting on a real show next Saturday—Rural Day. Don't forget it. At the amphitheatre: it will be worthwhile.

The road to Crystal Spring is in fine condition. Several automobile parties of West Virginia folks came in on Sunday to get water there. They were delighted to find that they could reach the spring without undue trouble. The Park Improvement Club is doing a great work in cleaning and improving the lake and spring.

COLVIN DEFEATS ASKIN IN MT. LAKE TOURNAMENT

Takes Men's Singles Crown In Three Sets; Joy Hartman Again Wins Women's Singles Title

NEW ENTRIES NUMEROUS

Baltimore's municipal parks champion, Price Colvin, defeated Baltimore's city champion, Nate Askin, in the finals of the twentieth annual tennis tournament for championship of Western Maryland in men's singles on Sunday, and will be the 10th to have his name engraved on the challenge cup, in competition since 1929. Frank Broida, Pittsburgh, is the only man to have his name on twice, winning in 1933 and 1934. Permanent possession goes to the person winning three times. Robert N. "Red" Brown, last year's winner, was eliminated in the quarter finals by Joseph Albert, Baltimore, an unseeded player.

Colvin defeated Askin 6-3, 3-6, 8-6. He then paired with John H. Beck, of Baltimore, to take the doubles crown from Frank G. Roberts and Alex Keiles, Baltimore, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Joy Hartman, Pittsburgh, won the Women's singles title for the second consecutive year with a 6-2, 5-7, 6-1 win over Mrs. Naomi Thompson, of Washington, Pa. Miss Hartman then paired with Dolly Harris, Pittsburgh, and took the women's doubles crown 6-2, 6-4, from Mrs. Thompson and Miss Lillian Rixey, of Washington, D. C.

The finals events Sunday were played on the private court of Ralph E. Weber, near Oakland. Rain on Saturday washed out all finals on the Mt. Lake Park tournament courts and complicated the procedure as a regulation of the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions, owners of the Mt. Lake Park courts, forbid Sunday play.

Finals in mixed doubles, played late on Saturday evening, resulted in a win for Joe Kristofek and Imogene Pfeiffer, of Pittsburgh, over Colvin and Harris, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3. Kristofek is city champion of McKeesport, Pa., and captain of the University of Pittsburgh net team. He entered the tournament too late to compete in the singles event.

The tournament was considered one of the best in several years with 75 entries. There were many new entries, over half of the entire list being from Baltimore. Several of those who had "graduated" from the junior tennis tournament, also entered the senior tourney and gave good accounts of themselves. Forty-two were entered in the men's singles events.

Suitable trophies were presented the winners and runners-up in all events by the Woman's Civic Club of Mt. Lake Park, which sponsors the annual event. The tournament is sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

OTHERS MAKE ADDRESSES

Placing the responsibility of future development largely on the shoulders of Garrett county citizens, Fulcher P. Smith, of Cumberland, Western Maryland's commissioner of the newly organized Conservation Commission, tossed a stirring challenge, in the key address, to 120 members and sportsmen who gathered at Table Rock on Monday evening for the first annual banquet and meeting of the Garrett County Sportsmen's Association.

The crowd which turned out to mark the close of the first fiscal year of this new sportsmen's organization was surprisingly large and afforded an encouraging air to the organizers of the Association.

Howard C. Riggs, Oakland, president of the Association, pointed out, in his introductory talk, how the movement is picking up momentum thruout the county through the organization of similar groups in different communities. Grantsville and Swanton already have active associations and Kempton citizens are now in the process of organizing one.

A brief business meeting at the close of the banquet resulted in the lowering of dues for the year 1940 to fifty cents per member. The annual election of officers was postponed until the next monthly meeting of the Association which will be held in the City Hall at Oakland the second Monday in September. Honorable mention was given Snyder Neville, Oakland; Henry L. Durst, Grantsville, and Raymond D. Houck, of Oakland, for securing the largest number of new members, respectively.

Mr. Smith continued in his address to point out three problems that are facing the Conservation Department in Garrett county. The first, what to do about Deep Creek Lake; second, stocking the sixty-odd trout streams in the county, and last, the problem of law enforcement and game. At the present time all persons owning property within a quarter of a mile of the lake may fish the lake without license. Mr. Smith declared this law as being unfair and pointed out the difficulty of any move toward law enforcement. With the increasing influx of tourists and building of cabins the problem of sewage and pollution is one that will have to be faced in the near future, says Mr. Smith. He also recommended the continued licensing of boats on the lake as a means of raising money for further policing and stocking the lake. The law requiring boat licenses was repealed at the last session of the General Assembly.

E. Lee LeCompte, of Cambridge, Maryland State Game Warden, gave an informative talk on the problems facing the State game department.

Brief addresses were also made by H. C. Brooks, of Uniontown, Pa., president of Fayette county's sportsmen's club; Hayes Liston, also of Uniontown; H. C. Buckingham, Cumberland, district forester; Albert M. Powell, Lewistown, Md., chief fish culturalist, and J. Wesley Kelley, Cumberland, executive secretary of the Western Maryland Outdoor Life Federation.

Airplane Wreck Injures Fliers

Ralph Boone, who has been flying one of the airplanes taking passengers for an air ride at Red House for the past two week-ends, was critically injured Wednesday at Morgantown in the crack-up of a new small plane he was testing.

The plane crashed into a hillside near the airport. Boone, operator of a flying school at the port, was taken from the wreckage semi-conscious. Al Ball, mechanic, was able to walk away from the wreck and summon aid.

Library Tea At Park

There will be a tea at the Bowling Alley in Mountain Lake Park on Friday afternoon from 3:00 to 4:30, for the benefit of the Park library. A silver offering will be received. Dr. E. T. Mowbray will review Ruth Hoffman's book, "We Married au Englishman."

Car Destroyed By Fire After Wreck On National Highway

A 1939 Chevrolet sedan, owned and driven by Melvin H. McKenzie, a farmer of this county, living seven miles west of Frostburg, near the National Highway, was found early Monday morning, burned, about three miles east of Frostburg.

State Trooper Austin H. Binkle, who investigated, reported that McKenzie said he and a companion were driving towards Cumberland about 2 o'clock when the right front tire blew out and pulled the car off the road.

Neither man was hurt. McKenzie said he thought the fire started from a short circuit. Trooper Binkle did not prefer charges after his investigation.

The car was near the foot of a hill. The car had hit the guard rail on the eastbound side of the road. Both sides of the car were smashed, indicating that it may have rolled over.

CHURCH MORTGAGE TO BE BURNED SUNDAY MORNING

Will Signify Debt On Episcopal Parish House Has Been Paid In Full

Bishop Edward T. Helfenstein, Bishop of Maryland, will be in St. Matthew's Episcopal church, Oakland, next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock to administer the sacrament of Holy Confirmation. At the same time he will authorize the mortgage of the church Parish House to be burned as a sign of its payment in full.

The Parish House, Second and Center streets, was commenced in the fall of 1934. The first service was held there on May 28, 1935, when the Convocation of Cumberland, including many clergy and lay delegates, gathered for its spring meeting. The approximate cost of the building was $7,000. Through the generosity of the congregation and friends of St. Matthew's parish, the Bishop and Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese, this sum has been raised and paid in full. Rev. D. C. Trimble, rector, stated.

Service At Deer Park

On Saturday evening, September 2, Bishop Helfenstein will confirm another class at St. John's church, Deer Park, at 8 o'clock. Combined choirs of St. John's and "Our Father's House", the Log Church, will sing.

Also the Bishop will dedicate various pieces of church furniture, the gifts of classes of the church school, the auxiliary, and individuals. These include a new panelled oak altar and pulpit, constructed by Wilfred Chadderton; a prayer desk, two large painted panels, painted in blue and gold colors and containing the words of the Apostle's Creed and the Ten Commandments. The panels are the work of Miss Catherine Baker, art instructor, Oakland High school. A sign on the grounds has been made by Chas. Butler, Jr., Altamont. A new ceiling is now being installed in the church by Oscar J. Harvey. It is to be a part of a program of improvement undertaken by the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's, in memory of three devoted former auxiliary members, Mrs. Henry Bobet, Mrs. Oscar Harvey, and Mrs. P. J. Lohr. Appropriately inscribed brass plates will be attached to the furnishings dedicated.

Lake Association Meeting

At a meeting of the Deep Creek Lake Association last Sunday afternoon Enoch B. Garey was elected president and Delbert Davis, secretary-treasurer.

The year's work on roads, electricity, sanitation, safety, etc., was reviewed by Ralph Weber, retiring president. Present problems of stealing along the lake, floating logs, noisy boats during sleeping hours, and dangerous fast-moving boats were discussed. Appreciation was expressed to various agencies for the advancement of roads, health, law enforcement, etc. A meeting of the executive committee is to be held in the near future to suggest future legislation.

Held for Federal Authorities

Robert McKinley, Vale Summit, Allegany county, who is being held in the county jail here on a charge of operating an automobile without a license, will be turned over to Federal authorities on a charge of stealing an automobile in Illinois, according to Neil C. Fraley, State's Attorney.

McKinley was arrested near the Bear Creek hatchery, at the Fazenbaker settlement, on the first charge and after questioning by authorities the second charge was lodged.

ACTUAL WORK ON SAVAGE RIVER DAM IS UNDER WAY

WPA Engineers Making Preliminary Plans for Construction of Dam Near Bloomington

TO TAKE SEVERAL WEEKS

The first actual work on the Savage river dam since the huge earth structure was approved by the president, was under way on Monday, near Bloomington.

A crew of WPA surveyors headed by F. W. Springer, area representative from the Frederick office, came to the site to make preliminary work plans for construction of the $2,400,000 project. Springer was temporarily detached from his other duties to head the crew.

Francis Dryden, WPA Regional administrator, said the WPA plan would not be binding on the superintendent of construction to be chosen later by the Upper Potomac River Commission, sponsors of the project. He explained the plan would aid the WPA in estimating the number of workmen to be used at each stage of the work and to make other estimates.

The structure will be one of the largest in the United States and will be built in a mountain valley west of Bloomington, this county. The site is just below the junction of the Savage river and Crabtree creek. It will impound water during the spring runoff and then release it during the summer to increase the flow of the Potomac river, which provides water for a number of industries.

The dam itself will be 189 feet high, as tall as an eighteen-story building, and will be about 1,200 feet long. It will be built of earth and clay.

George Warnick, Garrett county member of the Commission, stated this week that the Commission was having difficulty in getting consent of property owners in that area to sell their land at a reasonable figure. Options on the land, obtained when the project was first planned, have expired, and owners, he declared, were wanting outlandish prices for their land.

Condemnation proceedings will have to be instituted, but he said the costs will be increased.

New York Boy Wins Long Swim In Deep Creek; Thomas Thayer Second

J. B. Nelson, of New York, 16 years old, and a guest of Robert Coffey, Oakland, won a long distance swimming contest in Deep Creek Lake on Sunday. The course was from Cabin Lodge to Glendale Bridge, to Stone Tavern, a distance of about three and one-quarter miles, and Nelson made the distance in two hours, eighteen minutes.

Thomas Thayer, 13 years old, of Oakland, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Thayer, was second; and Larry Lehew, 18, Swallow Falls CCC camp enrollee, third. The fourth entrant, Carl Bowman, 22, of Cumberland, was forced to withdraw about a mile from the finish because of a cramp.

Members of the Oakland Fire department manned patrol boats during the swim. All four contestants were liberally coated with grease to protect them from the cold water.

The winner received a watch, donated by Shaffer's Jewelry Store, while Thayer received a box of haberdashery donated by Boyd's Men's Shop. Prizes were awarded by Darwin Martin, Mt. Lake Park.

Sunday's race was witnessed by quite a number of persons. Cars were lined along the highway and many people watched from the shore. Oakland's entry, Thomas Thayer, has made remarkable progress since he began taking swimmng lessons from Joseph Sollars a few years ago. He has entered a number of swimming meets and is usually in the first three placings in his class, and oftentimes a winner.

Rumor Pronounced Unfounded

Dr. H. R. DuPuy, County Health Officer announced that several rumors had come to the health department from unidentified sources that the Oakland milk supply was not safe for human consumption.

Dr. DuPuy stated that the health department was in close touch with the various dairies in the county and that as far as he knew there was no condition existing which would make the milk, as bottled and sold, injurious to the health of the consumer.

GARRETT COUNTY DENIED RIGHT TO ROADS CONTROL

State's Highway Commission Refuses Request Made By The County Commissioners

Chairman Ezra B. Whitman of the State Roads Commission announced last week-end that the Commission would decline a request made by Garrett County Commissioners for the return of the roads to the Commissioners. Mr. Whitman explained the State law permitting the return of control of roads to nine counties specifically provided that Garrett county roads should be kept up by the State.

In last Thursday's issue of The Republican, G. Blaine Giessman, president of the County Commissioners, expressed his belief that the State law gave any county the privilege of maintaining its own roads, provided they asked the Commission for this privilege prior to September 1. He said he had received opinions from two attorneys interpreting the law in this matter in spite of a paragraph which includes Garrett county in the list of those counties whose county roads should be maintained by the State Roads Commission.

Mr. Whitman said that Prince George's county had asked for continued State maintenance of county roads, despite the law permitting the county to keep up its own roads.

Prior to 1933 all counties in Maryland maintained their own roads and the measure transferring control to the State was bitterly fought in the General Assembly. Mr. Whitman said five other counties would definitely take over their own roads at the end of this fiscal year. He listed Montgomery, which has written the Commission it wanted to take control; Frederick, directed by the last Legislature to take control, and Baltimore, Anne Arundel and Harford, which were exempted from the 1933 act and have continued their control.

Whitman also said Washington County Commissioners had discussed the road situation with the Roads Commission but had not announced a decision on whether or not they would take control. Nothing has been heard from Howard and Cecil counties.

MAN'S BODY CUT IN TWAIN AT ALTAMONT SATURDAY

Found Along Railway; Identified As Edward Hise, Westernport

The body of a man later identified as Edward Hise, aged 26 years, of Westernport, was found cut in twain on the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad about a mile east of Altamont shortly before midnight on Saturday, August 26.

The body, found by a crew of a helper engine near the westbound freight tracks, was turned over to Garrett county authorities.

An investigation was conducted by State's Attorney Neil C. Fraley, and as there were no identification marks or credentials on the remains, a description was sent to nearby towns. He was five feet ten inches tall and weighed about 150 pounds. He had brown eyes and heavy black eyebrows; was dressed in black striped trousers and dark grey shirt, with no coat. When found the man was thought to have been dead several hours.

The body was brought to the Bolden Funeral Home in Oakland where it was idenfied Monday morning by the dead man's wife, Mrs. Edna Hise, as that of Edward Hise. From Oakland the remains were removed to the home of a sister, Mrs. Helen Collett, at McCoole, opposite Keyser, W. Va., in which place funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon, August 29, at 4:00 o'clock. Interment was made at Rawlings, Allegany county.

Surviving are his father, Adam Hise, of Dawson, Md.; his widow and one son, Edward, Jr., of Westernport, and two sisters, Mrs. Collett, McCoole, and Mrss. Harry Parker, Weyser, West Va.

COUNTY'S GROWTH SEEN IN PAGEANT AT JUBILEE

Historic And Economic Background of This Section Shown At Mt. Lake Park Saturday

MANY THINGS ON DISPLAY

Picturizing with pageantry and exhibits the historic and economic background of Garrett county, and in some instances contrasting it with present-day trends, some two hundred or more people participated last Saturday in the first annual country life jubilee, conducted in the amphitheatre at Mountain Lake Park under the direction of Miss Sara B. Huff.

The portrayel centered on art, old treasures, contrasts between pioneer homes, churches, and schools with those of the present day, picturized by people of different sections of the county, and the development of the maple sugar and maple syrup industry, the turkey growing industry and other industries specialized in by Garrett county farmers and citizens.

Exhibits throughout the amphitheatre which were examined before and after the afternoon and evening presentations added to the interest at the jubilee, as well as the parade of communities held under their own banners and bearing offerings of fruits, flowers and grains, which preceded each program.

Miss Leota Friend, 6, of Friendsville, was crowend maple sugar queen and her attendants were boys and girls from Friendsville. Garrett county produces one-tenth of all the maple syrup and sugar in the United States.

Children of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty and neighbors' children, near Bittinger, reproduced in pageant the pioneer drive of thousands of turkeys from Garrett county to Baltimore with several turkeys from their flock of 7,500 birds actually being driven across the stage. The turkeys performed better in the afternoon and permitted themselves to be driven, but at night they preferred to roost and the pageant was completed only after much difficulty.

T. Roy Brooks, head of the State Grange, and other Grangers at night gave an episide reproducing earliest and the present day Grange.

Winners in the quilt contest were: Oldest, Mrs. Myrtle Custer, 1st, 175 years old, Garden of Eden; most original, Miss Loar, Oakland, 1st, 135 years old; cradle quilts, Mrs. A. L. Biggs, 1st, 50 years; applique, Miss Bernadine Warnick, 1st; Mrs. Paul Mitchell, 2nd; pieced quilts, Mrs. Ray Bittinger, 1st; Vernie Miller, 2nd; coverlets, Mrs. Harry Keidel, 1st; Mrs. Emma Specht, 2nd; Mrs. John G. Robinson, 3rd.

Other winners include: Mrs. Minard, first, old costume; episodes, 4-H group, Mt. Lake Park, first; doll show, Cordelia Minard, Deer Park, 1st, with great grandmother's doll; Joyce Welling, Mt. Lake, 1st in rag dolls; W. H. Kiser, Mt. Lake, first for exhibits of historic papers; Rev. Harold Gamblin, Mt. Lake, first in most artistic presentation, a reproduction of ideal rural church; exhibit in community effort, skill and interest, first for WPA recreation program, which carries on projects in a number of county communities; Muriel Robinson, first in bouquets of flowers, Joe Markley and LeMoyne Henthorne, Kitzmiller, first in horseshoe pitching.

A feature of the program was the music of 70 members of the Garrett Stringed orchestra, at various times throughout the day. This group recently returned from the World's Fair. An exhibit of the Somerset Art colony also created much interest.

PYTHIANS PREPARE FOR LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

Twentieth Annual Picnic to Be Held Monday, September 4, in Helbig's Grove, Route 219

PROGRAM IS COMPLETED

A number of attractions are being offered in celebration of the twentieth annual Labor Day picnic, being conducted next Monday, September 4, by the Knights of Pythias lodge.

A parade with cash prizes of $70 for those who participate, band concerts, continuous carnival of rides and shows, the awarding of a Buick automobile, a large fireworks display, free aerial acts, are some of the features planned for the occasion.

A. R. Martin, parade marshal, and Leonard Hathaway and Carl W. Frazee, committee members, announced this morning that anybody taking part in the parade should line up on Alder street, from Fourth to Seventh street, at 9:30 o'clock so that the procession will move promptly at 10. The route of the parade will be Oak to Third, Third to Alder, Alder to Second, Second to Crook, and thence to the picnic grounds. The awarding of cash prizes for fire companies, floats and comic attractions, will take place on the grounds immediately after the parade. The parade will consist of floats, bands, fire companies, boy and girl scouts, trades display, and many other attractions. The parade will officially open the day's festivities.

Wade Mason, chancellor commander of the local organization, announced this morning that all arrangements had been completed for the entertainment of the large number of people expected. The picnic usually attracts five thousand people or more.

There will be band concerts on the grounds throughout the day and evening. The Keystone shows, consisting of ten rides, eight shows and a number of concessions, will furnish amusement, and there will be two free acts twice daily. The Buick automobile will be awarded at 11 p. m., following a fireworks display.

K. of P. officials announced that grocery stores would close at 10 a. m., drug stores from noon to 6 p. m., and most of the other stores all day.

A twenty-page souvenir program will be off the press Saturday and will be distributed throughout the area and at the picnic. In this booklet will be several pictures of the first Labor Day celebration twenty years ago. The idea of holding a Labor Day picnic was conceived in 1920 in an effort to liquidate a debt standing against the Pythian building on Third street. There was a net profit of $3,000 and since then the picnic has been an annual event.

From September 4 to 9 inclusive, the Keystone Shows will remain on the picnic grounds.

To Play For Golf Champ

Being number one and number two men at the Oakland Golf course for the summer didn't mean much to F. D. Bittle and I. J. Bosley, from the results of competitive matches in the golf tournament being played. Edwin Lanzer, number four man, defeated Mr. Bittle on Saturday, and on Tuesday Garthright May, number three man, defeated Mr. Bosley, in semi-final matches. Lanzer and May will meet Sunday, September 10, in a 36-hole match, to decide the winner of the tournament.

The mixed foursome matches continue. James Spencer, golf pro, announced that during September Buckhannon, Keyser and Clarksburg golf teams would be brought here for matches. He also announced that green fees during August had amounted to $500, a peak for monthly receipts since the course opened.

School House Burns

Fire of undetermined origin entirely destroyed the one-room Black Hawk school, between North Glade and Bittinger, Sunday about noon. About thirty-five pupils would have entered school there on Tuesday, according to F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent.

Arrangements have been made to transport these children to Bittinger where an extra room has been provided and the Black Hawk teacher will have charge of her pupils, beginning Tuesday morning.

Library Hours Change

Beginning next week the Oakland Public library will return to its former schedule, being open only from 2 to 5 p. m., and 7 to 9 p. m., on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

ISAIAH: A LIFE DEDICATED TO GOD

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah 6:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—Here am I; send me.—Isaiah 6:8.

Crisis! We have had so many of them that they have almost become commonplace. There has been one war crisis after another. There have been world crisis and domestic crisis until the word has almost lost its meaning.

In the life of the individual, however, the times of crisis are very real and important. In a critical illness one knows when the crisis comes, and he who safely passes that hour is on the road to recovery. More vital than a physical crisis is a spiritual crisis, when a man meets God face to face and his future destiny is determined by the response which he makes to God's call. Isaiah had such an experience when he came to realize God's glory, confessed his own unworthiness, and sought cleansing of life as a preparation for commission to service.

I. "I Saw the Lord" (vv. 1-4).

King Uzziah, who had begun well but had forgotten God, was at the end of his life, a leper because of his sin, and dying in disgrace. Israel which had known unprecedented prosperity under God's blessing now hardened its heart nationally against God and was also about to go into eclipse. God needed a man to speak for Him in such an hour, to bring to His people a message of judgment and also of blessed invitation. To prepare that man, the great Isaiah, God gave a remarkable manifestation of His glory and power.

It is essential that the man who speaks for God should first see the Lord high and lifted up and to hear of His holiness and glory. The negative tone of the present-day message, the lack of enthusiasm and interest in holy things, the low standards of personal holiness, the failure to preach boldly the truth regarding God's holy standards are to be explained by the fact that there has been no vision of the eternal holiness and glory of God. The need of the people today is the same as it was in the time of Isaiah. Where are the men and women who are ready for a vision like his and for the commission which will follow?

II. "Woe Is Me! for I Am Undone" (v. 5).

To see the holiness of God is to be immediately conscious of one's own sin and unworthiness. The obvious conclusion which one draws from that fact is that anyone who is proud, who is not concerned about his own sins and the sins of his people, is living far from God and has either never known or has forgotten about His divine holiness.

Isaiah spoke of the pollution of his lips, thereby confessing that his heart was not right. Whereof the heart is full, thereof speaketh the mouth, for we read in Matthew 12:34 that out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. Remember that even though Isaiah was a believer he recognized the need of cleansing.

III. "Then . . . He Touched My Mouth" (vv. 6, 7, R. V.).

"Then" — what an important word! When Isaiah called out in humble confession, "then" he was cleansed. The turning point is right at that place for any life. Only when we come to the place of confession and contrition which Isaiah knew, can we expect the Lord to send the cleansing fire and the enabling power.

None but God can give this cleansing. Man is unable to wash himself clean. "For though thou wash thee with nitre, and take thee much soap, yet thine iniquity is marked before me, saith the Lord" (Jer. 2:22. See also Jer. 13:23). Reformation, turning over a new leaf, character development, all commendable in their place, are not sufficient. There must be divine cleansing of the life if there is to be a commission to service.

IV. "Here Am I; Send Me" (vv. 8-13).

God had a difficult and unpopular message to be delivered but now He had a man who was ready to carry it. Isaiah had to proclaim to Israel that because they had turned from the sunshine of God's love, which would have melted their hard hearts, it had for them become the sunshine of His wrath, which could only progressively harden them and turn them from Him. The same sunshine that melts the wax hardens the mud.

The work of God in our day awaits the man or the woman of vision—the one who has been prepared by confession and cleansing and who has then received the divine commission.

Faith

Of all the forces at the disposal of humanity, faith has always been one of the most tremendous, and the gospel rightly attributes to it the power of moving mountains.

Kitchen Insect Pests

Cockroaches—Cockroaches hide during the day—come out to forage at night. Finding their hiding places is often the key to controlling them. To locate them, go into the room suddenly at night, watch to see where the roaches scurry.

The best all-round remedy is sodium fluoride powder, the same poisonous powder useful in destroying ants. Put this around in the evening with a duster or small bellows—back of shelving, drainboards, into the hiding places. Leave it there for two or three days. Repeat the application after a week or two. Usually two or three thorough dustings will be enough.

Pyrethrum powder used in the same way is an alternative remedy. But if the cockroach doesn't get a good dose of this, he's likely to revive after a couple of hours. Then, unless he's swept up and destroyed, he'll crawl back to his hiding place to recuperate. However, pyrethrum powder is not poisonous to man. If used it should be fresh and finely ground. It loses its strength rather soon. Sodium fluoride remains effective as long as it doesn't cake over.

Kerosene-pyrethrum sprays are effective if they hit the roach. But since cockroaches are notably fast on their feet, these must be sprayed into the hiding places to do much good.

Phosphorus pastes that may be bought at drug stores are useful—especially in damp places. A convenient way to put this around is to spead some on a piece of flexible cardboard. Roll this up with the paste on the inside and fasten with a string or a rubber band. These may be put about at strategic points without soiling anything.

After the cockroaches have been overpowered, watch closely to see that others don't follow them into the house. Examine all food supplies and laundry that comes in. If any roaches are hiding about the clothing, or in the packages of food, kill them, then patronize roach-free establishments. Another effective aid, especially if roaches are coming into the room from an adjoining apartment, is to fill cracks with putty, plastic wood or plaster of paris. Fill all the cracks about water and steam pipes that pass through floors, cracks leading to openings behind baseboards, door and window trim, and any others that the cockroaches may use as avenues of escape.

Pests Of The Pantry

In the pantry or food cupboard various beetles and moths may do damage. The saw-tooth grain beetle, numerous flour beetles, the Indian meal moth, the drug store beetle, and the cigaret beetle are only a few of the offenders. They infest cereals and cereal products, dried fruits, nut meats and spices, especially when these have been kept on the shelves for several months, and untouched during the summer months.

When any stray beetles are found about, examine all stores of food. Some place there is an infested supply. Take this outdoors and destroy it. Then examine other supplies carefully. Those that are only slightly infested may be salvaged by sifting them or spreading them in a thin layer in a baking pan, heating them thoroughly in the oven at a temperature of from 125 degrees to 150 degrees. Put them into tin cans tightly covered, or in unbroken paper sacks with the tops folded back. While this supply inventory is going on and everything is off the shelves, wash the shelves thoroughly, giving special attention to cracks. If there are many beetles out free-lancing, use a little kerosene or boling water to kill those that may be in the cracks back of the shelves.

A Visitor From Washington, D. C., Has Found Much Of Interest Here In Garrett County During His Sojourn In Oakland.

To the Editor of The Republican.

The recent survey of the history of Garrett county, made by the WPA, says Oakland was founded by Isaac McCarthy in 1849. Its nearby suburb of Mountain Lake Park was established in 1888 by the Methodists as a business enterprise, aiming to found a summer resort with religious, educational and recreation features. The survey adds that this high plateau, with its cool and invigorating climate, reached the peak of its prosperity as a summer resort some forty years ago, when many public men, such as Presidents Grant, McKinley, Cleveland and Harrison, John W. Garrett, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, whose death occurred in his summer home in Deer Park, and others, came here for the summer months. Its decline in later years is attributed largely to lack of ample recreational features.

To be sure there is a nine-hole golf course near Oakland where golf fans can hunt the lost balls "in the rough," "golf widows" may console their loneliness with bridge or wish they were at the movies, and players of this ancient and honorable Scotch game can pick up some extra business from the social contacts. Far be it for me to censure such proper practice. The only reason I never made use of it was that I neglected to learn the game.

Then there is the attraction for boating, fishing and swimming at Deep Creek Lake, about ten miles north of Oakland—a large body of water set in amazingly beautiful mountain scenery and said to harbor 300 or more summer cottages.

This ponderous volume of the WPA, which took three years of work to assemble, neglects to mention these recreational facilities now existing, nor offers any suggestions as to what further amusements should be provided to make this section attractive to the tourist.

Those travelers who frequent California or Florida resorts, know how easy it is to provide shuffle-board tracks or places for lawn bowling, croquet grounds or its high-brow cousin, roque.

But none of these things are created until you get tourist travel started your way. That seems to be the first problem to be solved.

This great plateau, with its 2500 feet average altitude, located only 166 miles, by paved highway from Washington, and only 100 miles from Pittsburgh, with average summer temperatures far below the big cities, certainly has something to advertise to sweltering humanity. You must travel about twice as far to reach such high, cool places in Virginia and even further in Pennsylvania or North Carolina.

Yes, it costs money to advertise, but it's more expensive not to advertise, if it's business you are after. If all the hotels, garages, movies, stores and other business concerns in the county, who would profit by increasing tourist travel, would pool their advertising quite a splash might be made in the travel pages of the big Sunday papers during June and July.

Business goes where it is invited, and the tourist trade is no exception to that rule. I am here right now in response to a cordial invitation from one of your leading citizens whose ancestors were pioneers in this county.

For over two summer months the temperature on our North side porch has never gone above 82—most days the high being considerably below that figure. The summer months in Baltimore, Washington and Pittsburgh are tropical heat compared with Garrett county.

No need to indulge in regrets that most of the big resort hotels here have disappeared. The same is true in many other resort sections. The large hotel era has passed, except in a few special locations. Lake Minnetowka in Minnesota, near Minneapolis, was a famous resort forty to sixty years ago. It had many large wooden constructed hotels, big lake excursion steamers that would carry 2000 passengers, trolley and railroad trans, all of which have faded from the picture. We are now in the automobile era, and just about to enter the age of air travel. Modern methods of travel make great changes in the resort industry—a business that will be a five-billion-dollar a year industry when we can again have a few years of good, prosperous times. Americans always had the travel habit: way back in pioneer times. Prosperity will increase the travel itch immensely, so resort people should make plans to get their share.

EDWIN MEAD.

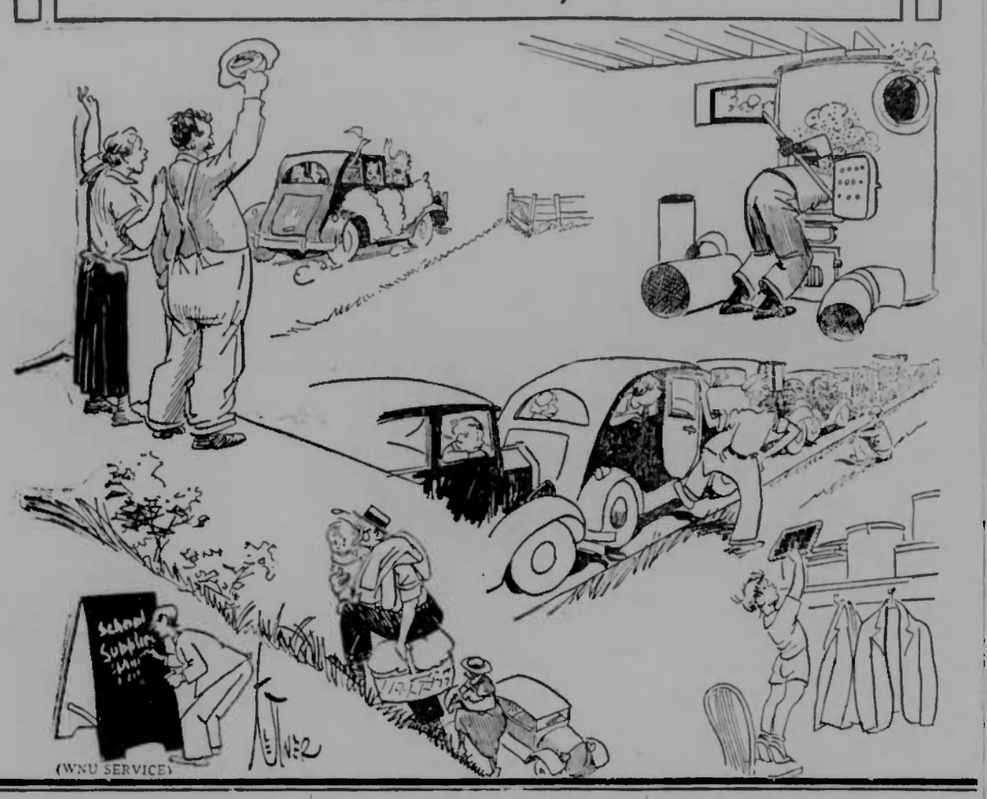
Labor Day



THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS . . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

War And Public Opinion

There is one result of the Nazi-Soviet agreements which perhaps has not been given the consideration it deserves—to-wit, the effect upon popular opinion in this country. Stunning as the Russian-German understanding apparently was to England and France, there is a certain compensation for these menaced democracies in the reaction on this side of the Atlantic. Few will question that it has strengthened their cause here.

* * *

In the United States public sentiment counts more effectively than anywhere else. Politicians cannot do very much or get very far without either making it or accepting it. No President, for example, can—or would dare if he could—involve us in a war or throw our material weight on one side and against the other in the sort of struggle that seems to impend, unless such a course was supported by a majority of the people.

* * *

For one thing, unless there was such support, he hardly could get the indispensable consent of Congress; for another, if Congress, under Presidential pressure, should consent, popular resentment certainly would be manifested in the way most dreaded by the officeholders from President down—i. e., at the polls. In the present situation, Congress has already shown its capacity to resist White House demands, and the primaries, which, this year, are particularly vital to all concerned are not many months off. These two facts seem to insure that in matters pertaining to war the popular feeling rather than any individual judgment will prevail.

* * *

Now, no one questions the strength of the desire of the American people not again to be involved in a European war. Equally, on one questions that their sympathies are strongly with the Western democracies and overwhelmingly against Hitler and the Nazi philosophy. Today the popular mind is more violently inflamed against Hitler than it was against the Kaiser two years after the last war had begun. Nevertheless, the country as a whole is anxious not to have to fight again. The plain truth is that what we really want, in the event of another European war, is for the British and French to win without actually involving us in the fighting.

* * *

That is not, perhaps, a very admirable attitude for a great nation with a large stake involved and an argument can be made that it is not very intelligent either. However, it certainly is the way most people feel about it. They want the democracies to win, but they want us to stay out. If that statement is accepted as correct—and every politician will confirm it—then it must be conceded that as the first desire grows in intensity the second— the wish to stay out—is bound to shrink. There is no other way to reason.

* * *

The point sought here to be made is that the recent linking of the Soviets with the Nazis operates in exactly that direction. Strong as is the feeling in America against the Nazi doctrins, it is at least matched in intensity by the popular hatred of Communism. Despite the recent Communist strategy by which its leaders proclaim themselves "liberals", identify themselves with the New Deal and shout for a Roosevelt third term, the people know that the Commmist creed is as inimical to our form of government as the Nazi; that there is no essential difference between them; that they are equally ruthless, brutal, and totalitarians; that individual liberty cannot exist under either; that both are abhorrent to the ideals and principles of the American system.

* * *

Far more than the Nazis, the Communists strain, in subtle and dangerous ways, to undermine and destroy the foundations upon which this republic rests. To many Americans the recent efforts of England and France to effect an alliance with Russia were deeply repugnant. The only justification, of course, was the desperate need. Now that they have failed, the double-crossing game of the Communists revealed and the Nazi-Communist understanding made plain, the net effect here is to strengthen pro-British sentiment by adding to the popular resentment toward Hitler and what he stands for, the popular resentment toward Stalin and what he stands for.

* * *

It certainly has made more clear to the public mind that the really great issue is between two clashing concepts of government. Of one of these we are the most conspicuous example; under the other Americans could not find life tolerable. In such circumstances, who can doubt that the faction in Congress which, last session, prevented the President from amending the Neutrality Act so as to render our material resources available to England and France has been weakened? Should he now call a special session, there is every reason to believe public sentiment would force a prompt lifting of the embargo which now ties our hands and, in the event of war, would operate in the interests of the dictator nations and against the democracies. Lifting of that embargo might or might not mean that we would enter the war. But while we remained neutral on the surface, we would be very unneutral underneath, which, apparently, is what the country naturally, if not nobly, wants.

THE PAY-OFF FOR LEWIS

Most voters probably were surprised a short time ago when a Democratic National Committee spokesman announced that the party's obligation to John L. Lewis, CIO chieftain, had been discharged by the payment of two cash installments.

They had been under the impression that the New Deal already had paid Lewis—

By building him up into the most powerful labor leader this country has ever known.

By permitting him and his followers to pervert the Wagner Labor Act from an agency of peace between capital and labor into a fomenter of discord.

By denying (until the recent shotgun repentance of the National Labor Relations Board) to employers even a modicum of the rights it so freely granted to workers.

By splitting the ranks of organized labor into two hostile camps to the advantage of the Lewis wing.

By biased decisions which put honest and upright employers at the mercy of the Lewis cohorts.

By coddling the Communist fellow-travelers in Lewis's ranks.

Paid off is right!

Store Employes Help To Harvest Hidden Tax Crop

Garrett county has an estimated 351 "unofficial tax collectors" who indirectly are helping local, state and national governments harvest their annual revenues, the National Consumers Tax Commission declared.

The unofficial, and generally unwilling, "tax collectors", according to the NCTC are the proprietors and employes in the 159 local retail stores.

"There are 161 official tax levying and spending governmental agencies in Maryland," said Mrs. Melville Mucklestone, president of the nation-wide women's organization. "But every clerk behind a store counter is actually a tax collector, too.

"In every sale, these clerks collect fractions of hidden taxes that have increased the cost of production and distribution of the articles purchased. These taxes, of necessity, must be passed on to the consumer as a part of the price. A major share of all local, state, and national taxes now are hidden to the consumers who pay them this way."

The NCTC now has study groups in approximately 5,300 communities in 45 states in its educational campaign to expose "unnecessary consumer-penalizing taxes," Mrs. Mucklestone said. The crusade in this state is led by Mrs. Harry L. Harcum, of Salisbury, national committee member.

Immunization Work In Manadier Community Being Continued

Further work in immunizing people residing in the community of Manadier Ridge and Jennings against typhoid fever is being conducted by Dr. H. R. DuPuy, county health officer, and his staff.

Dr. DuPuy has reported there has been no further spread of the disease since the death of Harold Bittinger, 22, and Mrs. Stephen Custer, 52. A third person, who already was ill when health authorities were notified, has recovered, Dr. DuPuy said.

Typhoid serum has been given to quite a number of residents of the Manadier community and Dr. DuPuy has taken a number of blood tests of people who might be "carriers" of the disease unknowingly. Some were of the opinion that the disease was caused by drinking water from a spring that might have been polluted, but Dr. DuPuy is inclined to believe the three cases were caused by a "carrier." He said the spring flows rapidly and that about fifty persons had been using water from the spring all the summer.

Funeral services for Mrs. Custer were held from the Jennings Lutheran church last Thursday morning at ten o'clock with the Rev. A. C. Curran, pastor of the church officiating. Interment was in the cemetery at Grantsville.

The Friendsville softball team defeated the Sang Run Jitterbugs on the home field here Wednesday evening, 19-17. A pair of games, one with Loch Lynn and one with White Rock, are scheduled for the afternoon of September third, here.

A suggestion to the Sang Run team: First, in order to be reasonably certain of winning a game, blindfold the opponents and secure both hands behind their backs with quarter-inch rope; second, encase the legs of the outfielders in strong burlap or canvass sacks. A draw-string properly fastened at the top will prevent any possibility of escape. Third, purchase a medium bore cannon of moderate velocity and shoot the ball directly at the opposing side when they are at bat, substituting with buckshot occasionally if rsults are not immediately obtained with the regular 12-inch ball. This is a home-baked idea, but I'll betcha it'll work!

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reed, West Leisenring, Pa., visited relatives here Sunday evening.

Labor Serves The Community Well And Contributes To Its Progress.

...and then Mrs. Smith tried

Light Conditioning

..and marveled at the low cost!

There's a RIGHT SIZE bulb for every place in the home.

No frown, no squint. See what a difference the RIGHT SIZE bulb makes.

Away went headaches and nervousness. Away went wrinkles and frowns. No more eyestrain caused by poor lighting.

Mrs. Smith discovered that swapping bulbs around to fill empty sockets eventually led to wrong size bulbs in most places where she needed good light. She discovered that all she needed was a few of the right size MAZDA lamp bulbs for easier seeing. A 100-watt bulb in her I.E.S. table lamp, a 100-200-300-watt bulb in her I.E.S. three-light lamp, and a 150-watt bulb in the kitchen.

What! Only a Few Pennies?

And Mrs. Smith marveled at the low cost of Light Conditioning, too. Good light for her kitchen costs less than two cents an evening. And plenty of light for doing a big basket of sewing or reading a whole novel costs only about a nickel . . . less than ever before!

Do you have enough light in the right places in your home? Better check up on it today. Remember—

CHECK CANNING BUDGET FOR WINTER'S SUPPLY

Abundance of Fruits And Vegetables Can Be Had By Careful Planning

Housekeepers on the lookout for ideas will find some worth following the accompanying suggestions from the nutritionist of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the Maryland State Department of Health:

"Do you 'can as you go along'?" she asks. "Have you found that by careful planning you can have an abudance of fruit and vegetables for your winter meals? If not, try budgetting your canning so that your fruit and vegetable supply will last until spring. Plan the number of quarts of each kind of food needed for each member of the family; put up the total number necessary before the canning season is over.

"A day's needs for each person in fruit and vegetables include an orange or a tomato, an additional serving of fruit, a serving of a yellow vegetable, or of a green leafy one and a second serving of vegetable as well as potato. The number of quarts of both fruits and vegetables required for the entire family is accordingly relatively large.

"Tomatoes are an inexpensive source of vitamin C which helps keep the teeth and bones hard, and aids resistance to infection. They can be used to advantage instead of oranges, when oranges sell for more than 25 cents a dozen. Plan then, to put up 12 to 16 quarts for each member of the family. To be sure you will have enough vitamin C, put up two quarts of tomato juice in addition to the whole tomatoes. Sauerkraut juice is another important source of vitamin C.

"Green leafy vegetables are often difficult to buy in the winter, but are necessary in our daily diet. They furnish iron, the blood building material and vitamin A, which aids growth, resistance to infection, and helps us to see at night. Put up 3 quarts of greens for each person; twice that number could be used if you do not have winter kale or turnip tops in your garden.

"Other fruits and vegetables contribute also to our requirements of both vitamins and minerals—without them we cannot meet our daily needs. For that reason plan on canning 24 quarts of vegetables per person, such as lima beans, corn, squash and soup mixture; also 24 quarts of fruit, such as pears, apples, cherries, berries, or peaches. In addition can 3 quarts of sauerkraut per person.

"If you have a family of five, your canning budget will be:

15 quarts of greens for three months use.

60 quarts of tomatoes for eight months use.

15 quarts of cabbage or kraut for three months use.

120 quarts of vegetables for seven months use.

120 quarts of fruit for six months use.

10 quarts of fruit juice for six months use.

"Check your rows of filled jars to be sure that your meals during the winter will 'measure up'—before the canning season is over."

ANOTHER WAR IN EUROPE

Events Of Past Week Among Warring Nations Condensed For Readers of The Republican

Another war is being waged in Europe which may possibly become another World War. Fighting began last Friday when German troops invaded Poland.

Previously Germany had demanded the return of the Free City of Danzig and a portion of the Polish Corridor, but these demands were unacceptable to Poland. Great Britain and France had attempted to make peaceable settlement of the difficulties but pledged their support to Poland in event of war. Russia and Germany completed a non-aggression pact, and on Friday Germany's army began the invasion with Poland resisting the foe on three fronts.

Saturday—Britain and France delayed their entry into war as long as peace was possible. Italy asserted it was taking no initiative in military operations for the time being. Russia was making no move to assist Germany.

Sunday—England declared war on Germany when Germany refused to withdraw troops from Poland. France followed suit shortly afterward. Italy maintained she would be neutral. So did General Franco in Spain.

Monday—Eight million Frenchmen moved toward the front and England's fleet moved toward a blockade of German shipping. President Roosevelt announced that the United States would remain neutral, but said it would be impossible for every American to remain neutral in thought, as "even a neutral has a right to take account of facts," and "even a neutral cannot be asked to close his mind or his conscience."

A British liner, the Athenia, was torpedoed and sunk west of Scotland with 1100 persons on board. Most of the passengers, among them approximately 200 Americans, were picked up in life boats.

Tuesday—British planes bombed the Nazi fleet at the entrance of the Kiel Canal, scoring several direct hits with heavy bombs on German battleships. The French struck with her land and air forces along the Western front in a double-flanking movement to relieve pressure of the German armies on Poland. At the same time Poland was reported to have launched a vigorous offensive against Germany on the Eastern front.

Poland admitted losing two cities in the Polish Corridor which were strategically located.

Eighteen thousand Czechoslovakians were reported to have filtered through to France and were prepared to fight against the Germans. Germany added Czechoslovakia to her territory over a year ago and said this would be her final land conquest in Europe.

Hitler, in a broadcast to the German nation at the beginning of hostilities chose precisely the same words as Kaiser Wilhelm used just 25 years ago in boasting of his intentions. Today the Kaiser is in his 22nd year of exile. His words: "I will lead you to victory and if not to victory then to my own death, for I shall not live in defeat."

All cities of any size in Europe are fearful of air raids and all lights are barred at night.

British planes flew over Germany and dropped six million circulars saying they were not at war against the German people, but against Hitler and his ambitions.

Wednesday—The German army was shelling Warsaw, the Polish capital. Roosevelt announces rigid enforcement of America's neutrality. Germany asserted that no German submarine had torpedoed the Athenia, but eyewitnsses said a submarine had shelled the vessel as it was sinking.

Civilian sniping in Poland was causing many German casualties. A British liner, Bosnia, was sunk by a sub off the coast of Scotland. A German liner, Inn, was sunk in mid-Atlantic. The British air force repulsed a German raid along its coast.

Thursday—French troops were invading the Saarland, but Germans were increasing their resistance. Hitler's forces were near Warsaw and Lublin. British troops landed in France to aid the French army along the Siegfried line.

United States destroyers are patroling the Atlantic coast of America. A submarine was reported seen off the coast at Key West, Florida.

St. Peter's Parochial School Opens With Enrollment of 75 Pupils This Morning

St. Peter's Parochial school, Oakland, opened today with an enrollment of approximately seventy-five pupils and an anticipated enrollment of some thirty-five music pupils. The following named Sisters of Mercy have been appointed to St. Peter's school for the coming school year: Sister Mary Bertrand, R.S.M., principal; Sister Mary Alfred, R.S.M.; Sister Mary Edmunda, R.S.M., and Sister Mary Mechtild, R.S.M. Mass of the Holy Ghost will be celebrated on Monday morning, September 11, with the children's choir singing the Low Mass.

During the summer months many improvements were made on the school buildings by the men of the parish.

LIGHTNING STRIKES BARN IN SUNNYSIDE COMMUNITY

Building And Contents Cosumed; Was Property of Ray Beeghley

Ray Beeghley, of the Sunnyside community, sustained a heavy loss on Saturday evening about 5:30 o'clock when lightning struck his large barn and the fire resulting entirely consumed the building and its contents.

The barn was filled with this year's crops and farm machinery. The harvested crops stored in the barn included 600 bushels of oats, 20 bushels of wheat, 50 tons of hay, 30 tons of straw, and the farm machinery consisted of a truck, grain drill, tractor cultivator, mowing machine, binder, manure spreader, wagon, hay ladder, a tractor plow and all of the smaller tools belonging on the farm. His loss is estimated at about $5,000, with not more than $2,000 of insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Beeghley and family were absent from home at the time of the fire, hence nothing was saved from the structure.

The Oakland fire department was summoned but the barn was a raging inferno by the time the men with equipment made the six-mile run from town. A tractor and silo filler, owned by Mr. Beeghley, were being used on another farm and thus escaped destruction, with one or two other pieces of farm equipment which happened not to be in the barn. Fortunately no livestock was stabled in the building.

The storm Saturday evening in the Sunnyside section was a particularly severe one, although only a few drops of rain fell within Oakland. Neighbors of the Beeghleys heard the sharp crack of thunder and it was only a few minutes later until one corner of the barn was a mass of flames, from which it quickly spread to other parts of the building.

Grand Jury to Report Monday

The September Term of the Garrett County Circuit Court will convene on Monday when members of the Grand Jury will gather to hear either Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, or Associate Judge W. A. Huster deliver the charge, after which they will begin their deliberations and investigation into alleged violations of the law.

The grand jury is usually in session three or four days, depending upon the number of investigations to be made and the number of witnesses to be examined. One question to come before the body this term is the murder of Floyd Harvey, of Vindex, for which William Cooper is being held in jail.

The petit jurors are called to report on Monday, September 18.

An accident on the street at Grantsville Friday evening in which the dwelling house of Louis Klotz and Miss Elizabeth Klotz was somewhat damaged and a car likewise damaged to some extent. Irvin Miller, of Grantsville parked his car and walked to the opposite side of the street. In some manner the brake loosened and the car rolled away, crossing the street and crashed into the front porch of the Klotz home. Miss Klotz was sitting on the porch, and seeing the car approaching sprang to safety just as it struck the baluster and a porch column which were carried away and mounting the porch crushed a seat which had been occupied but a moment before by Miss Klotz.

Charles Welling, of Cumberland, visited Oakland relatives for a short time on Tuesday. On his return to Cumberland he was accompanied by Mrs. Welling and their two daughters, who had spent a week with relatives and friends in and near Oakland.

Grantsville Resident Is Injured

Milton Rodamer, proprietor of the National Garage, Grantsville, was the victim of an accident on Friday afternoon in which he sustained a broke collarbone and other injuries of a painful nature.

Mr. Rodamer was engaged in painting the roof of a property he had recently purchased when a ladder he was using suddenly gave way and he was precipitated for a distance of eighteen feet to a pavement. The accident was witnessed by his brother Stewart Rodamer, who took the injured man to a Meyersdale hospital where it was found upon examination that he had sustained, in addition to the fracture of his collarbone, a broken shoulder blade and severe lacerations about his head.

Young Man Sustains Broken Leg

Floyd Hetz, son of Henry Hetz, of the Cove community, employed on the highway near Grantsville early last Friday morning, sustained a broken leg and crushed ankle, when a conveyor used in the work of oiling the roadway overturned and caught him beneath it. He was taken to Miners' Hospital in Frostburg, where his injuries were treated and in which institution he will remain for some time.

Leaves Road; Smashes Porch

John H. Hushey, of Belle Vernon, Pa., returning to his home Tuesday from a fishing trip here, ran off the highway at Flatwoods and crashed into the dwelling formerly owned by Walter H. Haenftling. The highway at this point has a very sharp turn to the left. The porch of the dwelling was damaged to some extent. This is the fourth or fifth time an automobile has careened from the roadway and ran into the building.

Hushey was apprehended by Corporal Thomas Currie and fined $100 and costs on a charge of driving while intoxicated. The fine and costs were paid.

Trooper Arrests Two

Quentin Frickey, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Frickey, Grantsville, was apprehended by Trooper Storm yesterday for driving without license tags and also for failing to have a registration card. He was given a hearing before Magistrate Zeller and was fined $13.50.

John E. McKenzie, Mt. Savage, was also arrested by Officer Storm on Route 40, near Grantsville, on charges of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and reckless operation of the automobile. He was brought to Oakland and jailed and later posted collateral of $103.90 with Sheriff Owens for a hearing to be held before Magistrate Zeller yesterday. This amount was forfeited when he failed to appear. This was McKenzie's second offense within a period of two months. He was before Magistrat Zeller on July 17 on a speeding charge. He is employed as a clerk at the A. & P. store in Frostburg.

SEVEN PERSONS INJURED IN WEEK-END ACCIDENTS

Two In Serious Condition—One From Auto Wreck, Another From Being Struck By Car

SLIPPERY ROAD IS CAUSE

Seven persons were injured, two seriously in two motor accidents Monday and Tuesday in Garrett county.

Private H. F. Cook, of the U. S. Marine Corps, Quantico, Va., suffered a possible skull fracture, concussion of the brain and other serious injuries when the car he was driving eastward on the National Highway near Keyser's Ridge collided with a machine operated by Marshall Durst, of the Swallow Falls CCC camp at 1 a. m., Tuesday.

Officer Carl G. Storm, State police, said Cook attempted to pass a truck, traveling in the same direction, as the Durst car, headed west approached. The Marine swerved to get behind the truck and applied his brakes, causing the machine to skid on the wet highway in front of the Durst car. Cook will be charged with reckless driving. Corporal Roy Davis, also a Marine, riding with Cook, is in the Miners' hospital, Frostburg, where Cook also was taken. Davis suffered scalp lacerations and severe bruises.

Riding with Durst were Miss Ethel Durst, Avilton; and Gilbert Bittner, route 2, Frostburg. The three were able to leave the Frostburg hosptial after being treated for cuts and bruises about the face and head.

Couple Hit by Car

Midshipman Burton Andrews, 23, of the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, and Miss Eurith Maynard, 19, Baltimore, are in "fair" condition at Memorial hospital, Cumberland, where they were taken early Monday morning after being struck by a car while they were standing along the Glendale road, near Thayerville, on Deep Creek Lake. Andrews, whose home is in Los Angeles, Cal., suffered a possible skull fracture and multiple bruises. One leg was broken above the knee. The girl received severe cuts and bruises about the head and body.

Corporal Thomas Currie, State police, said the car was driven by Hopwood J. Wooddell, of Oakland, and owned by Dr. Frank M. Wilson, Cumberland. Miss Fannie Wilson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wilson, was riding with Wooddell, who told Corporal Currie that the machine skidded on the loose shale of the graded road and struck the couple. The injured were given first aid at Deep Creek Lake and removed in an ambulance to the Cumberland hospital. The officer said Wooddell would be charged with reckless driving.

Charged With Rustling Cattle

Sherman Hare, of the Manadier section, was arrested last Friday by Garrett county authorities on a charge of larceny and is being held in the county jail for the action of the grand jury next week. Hare waived a hearing on the charge lodged against him.

State's Attorney Neil C. Fraley said Hare was charged with shooting a cow belonging to Ralph Bittinger. The animal was killed in a pasture field on the Bittinger farm. Hare is alleged to have stated that he thought the animal was a deer. After killing the cow he cut it up and sold the meat at Monessen, Pa., for the sum of $20. The theft occurred about two months ago, since which time authorities have been at work on the case.

SUPERINTENDENT NAMED FOR SAVAGE RIVER DAM

Appointment of Construction Engineer Made By Commission

Start of actual work on the Savage River Dam moved another step nearer reality last Friday with the appointment of its superintendent of construction.

Chairman George W. Legge said the Upper Potomac River Commission had named Daniel S. Pelletier, of Lyndon, Ky., to direct the construction work on the huge project.

Mr. Legge said Mr. Pelletier will have complete charge of the contract, assisted by WPA engineers. He will assume his duties about September 15, and work should be under way by October 1.

The construction superintendent is well known in Cumberland, having been stationed there to direct the building of the Potomac Edison Company power plant.

The WPA is ready to begin work as soon as rights-of-way have been secured by the commission, it was stated. Mr. Legge declared attorneys for the commission were pushing their efforts to obtain titles to land in the path of the project.

DR. N. I. BROADWATER IS ELECTED BANK PRESIDENT

D. E. Offutt Chosen Vice-President; Two fill Vacancies Caused By Recent Deaths Of Board Members

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Garrett National Bank in Oakland, held yesterday afternoon, Dr. N. I. Broadwater was elected president and D. E. Offutt was elected vice-president, to fill vacancies caused by the deaths of Charles W. Ream, president of the bank, and Dr. Henry W. McComas, vice-president.

Prior to the election of the these officers, members of the board appointed Lester C. Yutzy and H. C. Riggs, to fill the vacancies on the board caused by the death of the two officers. Dr. Broadwater and Mr. Offutt were already members of the directors' board.

Prices Of Commodities Take A Sharp Rise Because of War

The effects of war in Europe are being felt economically in Oakland during the past few days with a scarcity of sugar, flour, beans and other commodities, caused, it is said by housewives purchasing their wants in large qunatities, instead of the usual small lots.

Retailers are having difficulty in securing more of these commodities from wholesale houses and the latter were unwilling to quote prices. Brown sugar made a rise of about a cent a pound, with granulated sugar a little less than a cent per pound. Flour has increased slightly in price and a local merchant said this morning that lard, meats, cereals, etc., were making advances.

The rise in sugar prices is making it difficult for many housewives who are in the midst of canning.

No Reactors In Dairy Herd

The herd of thirty dairy cattle belonging to Roy O. Winters, of near town, who distributes his dairy product in Oakland, has been pronounced entirely free of tuberculosis and Bang's disease by W. B. Alfred, veterinarian of the United States Department of Agriculture, who has been in the county this summer making tests of cattle.

Mr. Winters received a report on the t. b. test on September 2, which showed no reactors among his entire herd. Early in June he received a notice on the test showing his cattle were free of Bang's disease, which sometimes causes undulant fever among human beings using milk from infected cows.

Constable Named

William Dahlbaugh has been appointed special constable for the eastern section of the county beyond Deep Creek Lake. Mr. Dahlbaugh is a resident of the Grantsville community. The chief duty of the officer is to see that all dog taxes are collected, the County Commissioners insisting that this law be strictly enforced and anyone refusing or neglecting to have a license for their dog will be subject to a fine of from $5 to $25.

PYTHIAN PICNIC PROGRAM TO END SATURDAY NIGHT

Car Will be Given Away Then; Also Will Be Large Fireworks Display and Aerial Acts

RAINS MARRED MONDAY

After an auspicious opening parade and with an estimated seven or eight thousand people in Oakland the twentieth annual Labor Day picnic, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias lodge, was somewhat hampered with a series of thunder showers that began shortly after two o'clock and caused postponement of part of the program.

The picnic committee announced this morning that the Buick automobile would be given away on Saturday evening, September 9, at 11 o'clock. It was recalled that upon two other occasions during the twenty annual pienics the awarding of the automobile was postponed, once in 1933 on account of inclement weather, and one other time previous to that on account of an infantile paralysis scare.

The picnic committee also announced that the Keystone Shows were remaining throughout the entire week and that in addition to the awarding of the automibile on Saturday night there would also be two aerial acts and a fireworks display.

Prize Winners

Winners of the $70 cash prizes for participants in the parade were as follows:

Fire companies and organizations: Oakland department, 1st; Rowlesburg fire company, 2nd; Woodmen of the World, Crellin, 3rd.

Floats—Ralph Pritts' Garage, 1st; Leighton Brothers Garage, 2nd; United Mine Workers, Kempton, 3rd.

Unusual Attractions—Arthur Pysell, 1st; Dolores Yutzy, Crellin, 2nd; five people in old Ford, of Terra Alta, 3rd.

Both the Oakland Boys' Band and Mickey's Boys' Band of Mt. Lake Park, the Oakland Boy and Girl Scouts and others took part in the parade which got under way about 10:30. The picnic grounds soon filled after the parade and continued to be full until the thunder showers. In spite of the rain quite a number remained in that vicinity throughout the day.

ALLEGANY COUNTY MAN JAILED; FEDERAL CHARGE

Robert B. McKinley Held Under $1,000 Bond In Car Theft

Apprehended in Garrett county for driving without a license, Robert Beveridge McKinley, 28, of Midland, Allegany county, was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner James Alfred Averett on a charge of violating the Dyer Act, in transporting a stolen car from one state to another, and was jailed in default of $1,000 bond pending the September term of Federal court.

McKinley was arrested August 23 near Accident by Corporal Thomas Currie, State Police, and sentenced to ten days in the Garrett county jail. An investigation made by Federal authorities revealed the fact that the car McKinley was driving had been stolen from Mrs. Emma B. Kinney in Tuscola, Ill., and driven through Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania to Maryland.

McKinley said he had left Allegany county in August and hitch-hiked to Illinois. He is married and the father of four children. McKinley admitted serving a term in the Maryland Training School in his youth and later serving three years in the State penitentiary for larceny.

Mickey's Band Awarded Another First Prize In Parade

Winning first prize is getting to be a habit with Mickey's Boys' Band of Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn. Prof. H. S. Mickey, director, has a check for $100 as the result of the most recent win.

The band won first prize for junior bands during a parade in Harrisonburg, Va., on Tuesday, during that town's first Turkey Festival. There were a dozen junior bands in competition.

The crowd was estimated at 40,000, watching the two-mile parade of decorated floats.

HEZEKIAH: A KING WHO REMEMBERED GOD

LESSON TEXT—II Chronicles 30:13-22.
GOLDEN TEXT—Turn us again, O God, and cause thy face to shine; and we shall be saved.—Psalm 80:3.

The way out—that seems to be the chief object of the search of men. The world is in what seems like hopeless confusion with the imminent danger of a devastating explosion which may in the judgment of some destroy civilization. Politics, economics, education, yes, even religion, have tried their hands at solving the problem and we seem to be worse off than ever. Conditions are much as they were when Hezekiah came to the throne after the death of his wicked father Ahab, who had brought Judah into moral, spiritual, and national declension and disgrace.

The young king brought the nation back within a few years to peace and prosperity. How did he do it? He did not do it. God did it, and He did it because Hezekiah remembered Him and led His people in a return to God, in a recognition of His Word, and to restored worship. God therefore prospered them.

It is significant that while our lesson is about King Hezekiah, his person quickly recedes into the background of our thinking and God is given our attention and our praise. Truly great men do not magnify themselves or their own names, but point by their very greatness to the eternal God to whom they give the glory. Let us consider how God worked through Hezekiah.

I. A Cleansed Temple.

Our lesson calls for attention to the context. Read chapter 29 and learn how the priests and Levites first were directed by the king to cleanse the temple which had suffered degradation and disgrace under King Ahab. Sixteen days were devoted to a thorough clean-up.

That's a good place to start. America, how about cleaning up our churches? Some of them need attention to their physical property, cleaning and rehabilitation. Others are beautifully kept up as far as the building is concerned, but the rubbish is in the teaching and in the manner of worship. Let's clean that up too.

II. A Prepared Priesthood.

Hezekiah gathered the scattered priests and Levites, but he did not permit them to serve in the temple until they had been sanctified and prepared for their work. The men who stand in the sanctuary to direct the worship of God must not only be men of God's own choosing, but they must be cleansed by the blood. As the sacrifices were offered in Hezekiah's day, so for us has One been given in holy sacrifice, and unless those who profess to be His ministers have been cleansed by His blood they have no proper place in His service or in the sanctuary.

III. A Purified People.

The people of the nation were not ready for God's blessing. Some of those in the northern kingdom, to whom the royal invitation had graciously been extended to come to the Passover, scorned the invitation (30:10). There was nothing that could be done for them. But others humbled themselves and came (v. 11), and those in Judah came out in a great assembly (vv. 12, 13).

Observe carefully that this was more than a great homecoming or jubilee event. The people were here to worship God and they needed to be prepared by being "healed" of their sins (vv. 18, 20). They too needed the cleansing blood. It is the only way even now, for "without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin" (Heb. 9:22). Sin is what we must be cleansed from and healed of if God is to bless our land.

IV. A Feast of Joy and Blessing.

The nation and its leaders kept the feast not only for seven days, for they were not satisfied with this, but they kept it for seven more days. Think of many of us who can hardly sit through an hour of service on Sunday morning, and if we also go to Sunday school we are quite worn out. It is just "impossible" for us to get to the Sunday evening service or to the midweek prayer meeting. Evidently we do not have the spirit of the people of Hezekiah's day or the joy that they found in their hearts as they worshiped God. If we did, we would seek His house and give ourselves gladly to His worship. The result would be that we would receive some of the great blessings which came to the people of Judah.

The reading of II Chronicles 31 and 32 will reveal how God responded to the cry of His people and how He blessed and prospered them. He is the same God today and He can and will do wondrous things for those who trust and honor Him.

Commonest Faults

Some of the commonest faults of thought and work are those which come from thinking too poorly of our own lives and of that which must rightly be demanded of us.—Bishop Paget.

The table at the left shows the right size bulbs in a few places in your home. For a complete survey of your lighting, free of charge, phone us. Ask for a Light Meter survey. Then you'll know where you have enough light for easy seeing and where you need more.

Homemakers' Column

Edited by Miss Mildred Barton, Home Demonstration Agent, Oakland.

CANNING CHICKEN

With the time of year for culling the poultry yard approaching, homemakers are thinking about preserving some of the plump hens not earning their board as layers. Two years old or older birds are the best for canning, the long processing, necessary to sterilize any meat overcooks tender young chickens and makes it lose flavor and develop a stringy texture. Only with a pressure canner is it possible to maintain a temperature above boiling inside a can or jar—the heat required to kill bacteria that may cause dangerous food poisoning. It's not safe to can poultry in water baths, steam cookers without pressure or in the oven, because the temperature in them never gets above boiling.

After the bird has been selected and well dressed the pieces should be placed in three groups—the meaty pieces, the bony pieces, and the giblets. The meaty pieces, which are canned whole, are breasts, thighs, legs and upper wing joints. Bony pieces for making the canning broth are the backs, wings, necks and sometimes the feet after they are skinned. Giblets, because of their distinctive flavor and color, should be canned separately.

Whether chicken is canned with or without its skin, is a matter of personal preference. And the bones may be canned or not. It's better to can bones, however, because then the chicken has a better flavor. Also the bones help to conduct the heat into the meat and in that way shorten the processing time.

To make broth for the canning liquid cover the bony pieces with cold water, lightly salted. Simmer until the meat is tender and drain off the broth. Use this "as is", or for a thickened broth around the chicken, add 5 tablespoons of granulated gelatin to each quart of broth. Moisten the gelatin with a little cold liquid—then dissolve it in the hot broth. Meat stripped from the bones of these pieces cooked for broth may be canned as small pieces or used to make sandwich spread.

For chicken to be packed in glass jars, the best way to pre-cook the meaty pieces is to spread them on a rack in an uncovered pan and heat them in a moderate oven (350 degrees F). Cook the pieces for 20 to 30 minutes or until the red color of the raw meat is practically gone next to the bones. Second best method is to parboil the chicken for 8 to 10 minutes. Canned fried chicken is not only unappetizing, hard and dry, but it also has a disagreeable flavor after storage.

Pack the hot chicken closely into the jars, leaving about ½ inch "head space" between the top of the jar and the chicken. Add ½ teaspoon salt for each pint of meat. Add any pan drippings or broth left over from the pre-cooking, then cover the chicken with the broth made from the bony pieces.

Chicken packed in pint jars with the bones left in should be processed for 65 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. Process boned chicken 85 minutes.

When chicken is canned in tin—plain tin is best, and number 2 and number 2½ cans the most suitable sizes. Put salt in the cans before packing the chicken into them. If it is placed on top the meat, the tin lids sometimes rust. Use ¾ teaspoon salt to a number 2 or 2½ tin can.

Pack the pieces of raw chicken closely into the cans. Then put them in a bath of boiling water to "exhaust" them. The water should come within 1½ to 2 inches of the top of the cans. Cover the bath to hold in the steam and heat, and be careful the water does not bubble up into the cans. Heat until the meat is steaming hot and has practically lost its raw color. To make sure, empty several cans and examine.

Press the chicken down in the cans and cover with broth. Leave 5-16 of an inch head space in either number 2 or 2½ cans. Seal at once and process at 15 pounds pressure—55 minutes for chicken with bone; 85 minutes for boned chicken and number 2 cans. Or process chicken with bone in number 2½ cans 65 minutes—boned chicken, 110 minutes.

NEW DEAL THANKSGIVING

Miracle of miracles! A New Deal folly to stir laughter instead of tears!

Yes, it's impossible to restrain a deep guffaw at the spectacle of the New Deal Messiah prying loose Thanksgiving Day from its accustomed place in the scheme of things and tossing it backward over his shoulder for a seven-day loss.

It brings back school-day memories of old King Canute sitting on his throne on the seashore and bidding the waters to recede.

It lightens the burden of the years on our shoulders and revives our schoolboy impishness with the thought of the discomfiture and consternation of bespectacled schoolmasters and college deans who already have issued their catalogues and schedules for the coming scholastic year.

We shake with mirth as we contemplate the numeral "30" in red-lettering on our November calendar and realize that our calendar has suddenly become a liar along with the other calendars throughout the land.

Of course it's' tough on the football boys to have their season cut short and their gate receipts slashed. But why be sorry for them? Didn't they know that Mr. Roosevelt has been consistently cutting the receipts of all business? And didn't they know that Mr. Roosevelt's alma mater doesn't play football on Thanksgiving Day?

It does seem strange though that in view of the Rooseveltian disposition to change the name of things without changing their nature that he was satisfied with a mere change in date.

Realizing, too, the deep-seated Rooseveltian passion for remaking the whole world in accordance with his personal ideas, the wonder grows that he didn't change the date of Christmas. Of course, it isn't too late yet.

LABOR SPEAKS

If only as a matter of self-interest, every wage earner and salaried employe would do well to ponder the searching analysis of the recovery problem which is made in the current "Survey of Business," published by the American Federation of Labor. It should be of equal interest to every employer. Says the A.F. of L. statement:

"If business does not expand substantially before next spring, we shall have a further demand for Government spending, with its danger of inflation and consequent losses to wage earners.

"Action for business expansion on a sound basis is, therefore, urgent. Shall we advance on a cooperative basis, providing for the needs of all groups, or shall we accept Government domination?

"Today the chance of succeeding in business is said to be only about 50 per cent as great as in pre-depression years, and the rewards of success are about 20 per cent less. In addition, those who have succeeded are forced to give a larger part of their income to the Government through increased income taxes. This explains why venture capital runs to shelter in safe and tax-free investments, like bonds.

"Our great need today is to give business men the kind of assurance which will enable them to look forward to the future with confidence.

"Wage rates per hour are higher than ever before in our history. The average of 64 cents in industry as a whole today and 65 cents in manufacturing, compares with 56 cents in manufacturing in 1929. As soon as industrial plants are back on a full-time schedule, this wage rate will automatically provide high buying power.

"Labor is better organized and more able to keep the wage level rising as increases in production and profits make this possible. Therefore, once a vigorous production increase is started by the flow of private capital, we shall no longer need outpourings of Government funds to increase consuming power."

KEEP DOWN PROFITEERING—

Hardly had the words announcing war been spoken than producers of various necessary commodities in this country announced a price rise which will affect millions of consumers.

The fact that Germany is at war should not necessarily mean that sugar and flour should cost a consumer in the United States more money. The United States does not procure its sugar and flour from Germany. This country does not get a lot of things from Germany but at the first chance prices will be boosted with the excuse given that war is the cause.

If the President has the "forgotten men" at heart, he will warn these would-be profiteers to be very careful in what they do. He will forget Thanksgiving and issue a proclamation against the profiteer.

Even in Oakland prices on commodities began to rise on Monday. The man on a salary will be the man to suffer. Prices should not rise here without a real reason, and they will not be advanced by the merchants unless it is an absolute necessity. It doesn't seem to us that a war in Europe is sufficient reason.

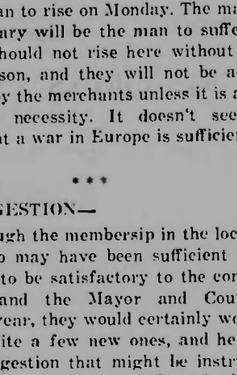
A SUGGESTION—

Although the membersip in the local golf club may have been sufficient in number to be satisfactory to the committee and the Mayor and Council this year, they would certainly welcome quite a few new ones, and here is a suggestion that might be instrumental in getting a membership increase next year:

The addition of a small playground near the pro's house, with a sand box or two and perhaps a few swings and see-saws, where parents of very young children could leave their offspring for an hour or more while they made the rounds, would be the means probably of getting a lot more local people to patronize the course.

Parents of young children, who feel their responsibility and don't feel like going away and leaving them at home, would welcome such a place at the golf course. There would be very little cost attached to such an addition.

Scoop's Column



Even one's birthday isn't safe since Roosevelt determined to change the date of Thanksgiving.

Henry "Turkey" McComas was born on Thanksgiving Day, November 29. Since the President decided to move the date to earlier in the month Hen's birthday never again will fall on Thanksgiving.

• • •

Maybe, after all there is truth in the rumor that Roosevelt will rename the months Mayr, Jurne, Jurly and Aur gust to corral the votes of the oystermen and oyster consumers.

• • •

Be Careful

W. Lee Elgin, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, is calling the attention of motorists to a new school bus law which is now in effect. All school busses in Maryland are painted orange and have the words "school bus" painted on the front and rear.

When a school bus is stopped, receiving or discharging children, all traffic must stop ten feet from the bus.

He hopes, and so do we all, that the children of our State can be transported to and from the schools so that there shall not be any fatalities or serious accident caused by some motorist who failed to observe this law.

Caution should also prevail in towns during the times when children would be going to or coming from their classes in school.

With vacation just over the children may not be as careful as they should. They're apt to forget. But the grown-ups shouldn't forget.

• • •

On Tuesday we'll wager there were a number of tears shed by mothers when hundreds of youngsters trudged off to school for the first time. The fathers, we presume, were like the one we saw about ten o'clock. All smiles, he greeted me just as if I knew what was going on.

"Well, it's all settled," he said, and I wondered if the war was over.

"What's settled," I asked, just to be sure.

"I just got my boy settled in the first grade."

Next year it will be my turn.

Week-end Regattas Concluded On Deep Creek Lake

The fifteenth and last week-end regatta of the Deep Creek Yacht club was held Sunday and Monday at Turkey Neck. J. B. Mordock captured the Governor O'Conor trophy for Snipe Class sloops with a score of 1586 points to 1546 for John Steiding. Bobby and Harold Muma were third in the series of fifteen races with 1542 points.

The Commodore Frank M. Wilson trophy in competition for the third year was not decided as an extra post-season race will be necessary this week-end under the condition of the deed of gift. John Steiding and his brother Fred are regarded as almost sure winners as their "Aloha" needs no better than a sixth place to take the trophy.

Consequences

September 1.

What are the certain and probable consequences of the war in Europe which, even though we do not become directly involved, is bound to affect us in many ways? We may as well face the facts now before they become hopelessly submerged by the mounting streams of propaganda, beginning to flow from all directions.

* * *

As to the certainties, there are very few. But if human experience counts for any thing there are some things that are inevitable and some which admit of very little argument. For one thing certainly it is not the common people of any of these countries who want to go to war. For another, it will be a long war. The reason is that there is no point of access from which an overwhelming attack can be delivered both on the British-French on one side and the Germans on the other.

* * *

Concerning these two facts there will be general agreement. A third certainty is that there will be stupendous destruction of property and another annihilation of the best men killed on battlefields. And there will be starvation and slaughter of women and children. A fourth certainty is that both conquerors and the vanquished will be impoverished for another quarter of a century after the war ends. The whole civilized world will pass through another period of instability approaching chaos.

* * *

Throughout this war, the democracies, by necessity and at once, become dictatorships. And, even if they are the victors some of the freedom they have lost today will not be fully restored for a long time after the war ends. The men who now are in command of the totalitarian governments soon or late will be put out of office by their own people, whether they win or lose. In the case of the vanquished, they will be thrust out by violence and revolution. All these things seem too clear to dispute. Most persons will accept them as certain consequences of the war. As to the probable consequences, there is much room for difference of opinion, and those in best position to judge, and who by experience and equipment are best qualified to judge, are in accord as to some.

* * *

First, they think Poland probably will be overrun by the German armies early in the war. The French and British cannot reach the Poles with material aid. Their subsequent fate will depend upon who wins on the western front. Second, no attack to the west by Germany through Belgium is likely to succeed because of the Belgian frontier fortifications and second, because of the disastrous experience last time which brought world condemnation. Third, there is only the remotest possibility that Germany can break through the new system of land frontiers in France and less of their landing troops in Great Britain. It is equally improbable that the British and French can break through the German fortifications.

* * *

Again, with a two-to-one superiority of surface naval strength the British and French will drive the German surface ships from the sea in short order. Effectiveness of German submarines and airplanes against British and French naval craft, in making effective blockades and preventing sea bombardment of coast cities, will have to be proved. Despite the sinking of the Athenia on Sunday, inventions since the last war are believed to have increased the effectiveness of these weapons against surface ships rather than increased it. Certainly, they failed to break the blockade against Germany last time.

Fifth, it is improbable that deliberate bombing of civilians will be undertaken at an early stage of the war. Early attacks will be directed against war production factories, airports and ships. After the war gets more desperate there probably will be attacks upon civilian populations under the guise of reprisals. The ability to win a war by aerial attack has not been supported by even the most recent experiences in Spain and China. Its most probable effect will be to enrage, to threaten resistance and increase hate.

Sixth, the democracies are in position, with abundant supplies from overseas, to carry on a war until the Central Powers are exhausted. Germany or Italy either, if in the end war goes in on that side—will not have adequate metal, oil or food supplies—as witness the introduction of rationing in Germany before war began. And finally, there are two other strong probabilities which flow from the above—first, that the British and French ultimately will win the war; second, that they will then impose a peace which will destroy all possibility of a renewed interference from Germany with their purposes for at least a century. As to the effect upon us—in or out—all that can be said is that it will be anything but beneficial. No one will dispute that.

MT. LAKE PARK

Improvement Work Continues

The Park Improvement Club continues to carry on its good work. Many pleasing comments have been heard from out-of-town people who had gone to Crystal Spring. The road is in excellent condition and the spring and surroundings grounds are looking exceptionally good. More work is being planned for the grounds above the spring where picnickers may go when visiting the Park.

On Tuesday evening in the basement of the Methodist church at 7:30 there will be another meeting to discuss contemplated improvements and to put into operation a plan whereby the club may raise more funds to help in the work. Several nice donations have been received from interested summer visitors. Mrs. Bleakly, president of the orgnnization is anxious to have as many attend as possible. This applies to both summer and all-year round Park people. Surely we who live here all the year should be just as interested as those who come only during the summer months. After all, it's our town, so let each and every one get back of this group and help.

He expressed regret at leaving Oakland. The church to which he has been appointed is considered one of the most active in the entire conference.

FINANCIAL REPORT SHOWS CITY IN GOOD CONDITION

Repays $3,766 On Loans Made In 1937; Has Balance After Paying Current Bills

A financial report of the town's condition, made at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Town Council on Monday evening, showed the accounts to be in the best condition for many months. Collections of $5,640.51 during the month of August brought the cash balance in bank to $8,407.55.

This enabled the treasurer to pay $3,766 to the First National Bank and the Garrett National Bank for loans made in 1937, and after paying current monthly orders amounting to $2,055.98, there was still a balance in the treasury of $2,586.47. The current bills included salaries of council members and a balance of $400 on a recent audit of the books of the town. Among the collections were 1939 taxes totaling $4,880.77; 1938 taxes of $181.25, and water collections of $394.70.

The Sunday movie tax for August, paid into the town council treasury amounted to $60.90, which was divided for expenses of library, fire department and the Red Cross, according to the stipulations in the law. The library and fire department each got 25 per cent, while the Red Cross gets 50 per cent.

Council gave authority to John J. Sweeney, town policeman, and F. D. Bittle, high school principal, to work out a plan of traffic regulations on Green street between Fourth and Fifth streets, during the loading and unloading of school busses at the high school.

Two Registration Days

Council announced there would be two registration days for the citizens of Oakland for the purpose of registering so that they may participate in the municipal elections in the future. A recently enacted law made this registration a necessity before a person is permitted to vote for mayor, city councilmen or treasurer, or on any question which might be placed on the city ballot. The dates for the registration will be October 3 and 24, and Arthur Lawton, clerk-collector, stated there would be proper advertisement of the dates. Frederick Thayer, Jr., and Miss Margaret Lawton were named as registration clerks.

Mrs. Harry Helbig returned to her home here on Monday from a week's visit with relatives and friends in Baltimore and Washington.

K. of P. Picnic Celebration Was Concluded with Large Crowd

The annual Labor Day picnic and week's celebration sponsored by the Knights of Pythias lodge came to an end on Saturday night with the largest crowd yet assembled, according to those in charge.

The picnic grounds in the Helbig grove were packed and traffic was much congested for several blocks in that vicinity.

A severe lightning and thunder storm occurred about 11 o'clock which abruptly ended the festivities, but not before those present had seen a display of fireworks. The Buick automobile was awarded to Mrs. Helen Wiley, of Phoenix, Arizona, who was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Leighton.

Although no official figures are available, those in charge of the picnic stated they were entirely satisfied with the results and that financially the affair had been a success.

Commodities Still Up

Although President Roosevelt lifted the han on the limit of raw sugar which could be imported to the United States, wholesalers were saying that this wasn't affecting the price of sugar from the refineries to them, on account of increased cost for boats and boat insurance.

Sugar, flour, beans, cocoa and other commodities were still up this week in local stores, and whether or not they would come back to normal soon was not known.

SWANTON MAN DEFENDS SAVAGE RIVER VALLEY

Says Story By Potomac River Commission is Just Propaganda In Effort To Get Land Cheaply

DISPUTES NEWS ARTICLE

A resident of the Savage River valley on Monday took issue with the Associated Press and the Upper Potomac River Commission in a double-barreled answer to an article which appeared in Maryland daily newspapers a few days previously.

Clyde Murphy, Swanton, vigorously challenges what he calls "propaganda destined to lead people to believe that the Savage River Valley is a place out of reach of civilization and education and consists of acres upon acres of rocks with a little top soil here and there; inhabited by the descendants of a tribe of people who migrated into this 'lonely valley' after the Revolutionary War and claimed title to the land by "squatters' rights." rights.'"

Disputes Statements Made

"Such is not the case," Mr. Murphy stated Monday to a reporter of The Republican. He wrote a lengthy letter to the editor of the Cumberland News which was published Monday. The story which drew Mr. Murphy's fire was an Associated Press dispatch from Luke which dealt with "headaches" encountered by Upper Potomac River Commission in its efforts to acquire the necessary land for the Savage River Dam, and which is printed adjacent to this article, for comparison. The reply by Mr. Murphy printed in the Cumberland News continues:

"After flatly contradicting many of the statements in the article, the

B. I. GONDER NAMED ON STATE FORESTRY BOARD

Governor O'Conor Chooses Three To Serve 2 Years Without Pay

Governor O'Conor announced last Thursday the appointment of three members to the Advisory Board of Forestry which included Bernard I. Gonder, of Oakland. The other two members are John M. Nelson, Jr., of Baltimore, and Mauldin Lum, of Leslie, Cecil county.

The new appointees will serve without pay for two-year terms. The ex-officio members of the board are Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of Johns Hopkins University, and Dr. Edward B. Mathews, State geologist. The board acts in an advisory capacity to the State Department of Forestry.

The Governor said he was anxious to secure the services of persons who were sincerely interested in forestry and parks. Of Mr. Gonder he stated: "Mr. Gonder resides in a county where the State has such extensive acreage in forest lands. During his adult life he has been concerned with matters affecting forestry, and I realize that his appointment will give additional experience and counsel to the department."

The Governor added: "Great importance attaches to a properly developed conservation program in respect to woodlands and parks, and by reason of the sizable amount which I included in the bond issue bill for the purchase of forest lands and recreational areas, our State will be better able to carry out the plans of this department. I am sincerely anxious to improve the situation, and fully realize that increased enjoyment will be derived by the public for an enlarged program for the development of recreational areas."

To Speak At Rotary

Edward M. Elliott, of Coudersport, Pa., governor of the 180th district of Rotary, of which the Oakland Rotary club is a part, will be present at the weekly meeting of the local organization on Friday evening.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Rotary club on Wednesday evening it was decided the club would cooperate with the mayor and council which is planning for another autumn excursion over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for Sunday, October 1. Over five hundred are expected on the excursion and the Mayor and Council are asking for citizens to again donate the use of their automobiles for the 30-mile trip to Swallow Falls and around the lake.

The Board of directors also voted $100 to the Oakland Boys' Band.

ANCIENT LAND HOLDINGS TO BE FLOODED BY DAM

Tracts Given To Soldiers After Revolutionary War Threaten To Hamper River Commission

SURVEYORS ARE CONFUSED

Revolutionary War land grants and "orphan" tracts of mountain forest named "Don't Turn With the World", have threatened to stymie the Potomac River Commission's efforts to buy the new Savage River dam site, according to a story appearing in the State dailies.

The "orphan" tracts are ancient land holdings whose owners have disappeared. "Don't Turn With the World" is a mountain top and won't be needed for the dam. However, the commission would appreciate it if the owner of "St. Clair's Glory" would come forward and make himself known. If he doesn't, he's going to find two hundred feet of water over his land pretty soon.

The other land grants were given by Maryland to her Revolutionary soldiers after the war—an early soldiers' bonus. The only trouble was that the tracts were just 100 feet square and in the middle of the then totally unknown mountains. Some of them had as much as a peck of dirt on them; others were on mountain sides so steep the owners could roll down them but could not walk over them, so the story ran.

Naturally, the soldiers never took up residence on the land. Title to it went down to descendants who have scattered. However, surveyors tracing out the lots of land which will have to be bought for the dam have found the ancient corner posts which marked off the soldiers' allotments.

Surveyors in the mountains found other difficulties. One was that some old lines were run before the courts decided that Maryland owned all the Potomac River. The early lines were run from the center of the river, which threw later surveys off as much as ten feet.

And ten feet is a lot to a surveyor, even if he is working in the mountains with the nearest house four miles away.

Garthright May Defeats Edwin Lanzer In Golf Tournament

In a scheduled 36-hole match for highest honors among golfers of Oakland, Garthright "Skip" May became tournament champion on Sunday by defeating Edwin Lanzer, seven up and six to go. In the semi-final events previously May had defeated I. J. Bosley, and Lanzeer had defeated F. D. Bittle.

At the end of the first nine holes Lanzer was three up on May, but at the end of the second nine May was three up on Lanzer. Upon reaching the 30th hole May was seven up, and had Lanzer won the remaining 6 May still would have won by one hole, so the match ended and May became the first one to have his name inscribed on a cup which must be won three times for permanent possession. The cup and other awards were donated by local people and organizations.

Miss Dorothy Spencer, 16, became the winner of the women's tournament several weeks ago, defeating Mrs. I. J. Bosley.

GRAND JURY EXPECTED TO ADJOURN THIS AFTERNOON

No Report of Findings or Indictments Available at This Time

At noon today the Grand Jury was still in session and Neil C. Fraley, State's Attorney, said it was unlikely that the jurors would adjourn before late afternoon.

He said no report of any of the findings of the grand jury was available at that time.

The jury has been in session since Monday morning and quite a few witnesses have been summoned before that body.

There were several cases to come up before the grand jury including the slaying of Floyd Harvey, Vindex miner, for which William Thomas Cooper is being held. Fraley said there were cases of embezzlement, forgery, larceny, violations of the liquor laws, and others pending. Since Judge Sloan's charge to the grand jury in which he mentioned recently enacted legislation, it is assumed that the grand jurors are also investigating matters in the court house closely.

Usually the grand jury completes its work in three days or less.

GRAND JURY CHARGED IN LENGTHY ADDRESS BY CHIEF JUDGE D. L. SLOAN

Jurist Calls Attention to Recently Enacted Laws Affecting The Local County Commissioners

CONTINGENT FUND FIXED BY THE ANNUAL LEVY

The Grand Jury for the September Term of the Garrett County Circuit Court began its duties on Monday morning following the administration of the oath to its members and the charge to the jurors delivered by Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan.

Judge Sloan called attention to a number of statutes and outlined the duties of the members of the Grand Inquest, calling particular attention to recently enacted laws affecting the powers and duties of the County Commissioners. In his charge the Court laid especial emphasis on economy at this time in the administration of public affairs, which follows:

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:

Really, the charge to the Grand Jury is the oath just administered to you by the Clerk. All of that which you have sworn, you will do, taking complete notice of everything that comes before you as Grand Jurors for this County. That oath requires that you " * * shall diligently inquire, and true presentment make, of all such matters and things as shall be given you in charge, or shall otherwise come to your knowledge, touching this present service. * * " The greater part of your duties will be to investigate charges of violation of the criminal laws which have already been heard by the Justices of the Peace of the county, in which the parties have been held. They have been investigated by the law enforcement officers of this county, and witnesses summoned to appear before you, and they now await the exercise of your judgment as to whether the evidence be sufficient for submission to a petit jury, whose duty it shall be, then, on the evidence submitted by both parties—State and Traversers—to decide the question of their guilt or innocence. By that part of the oath just administered to you, you will observe that you shall not

MICAH: A MESSENGER OF SOCIAL JUSTICE

LESSON TEXT—Micah 3:1-12; 6:6-8.
GOLDEN TEXT—What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God? —Micah 6:8.

We demand human rights, social justice, and economic security. Corrupt judges and bribe-taking officials must be put out of office. Landlords must not squeeze every penny out of their tenants; loan sharks must be put out of business; the rich must not oppress the poor. The Church must have ministers with a real message and must share in the solution of the problems of humanity.

No, we did not copy that paragraph out of today's newspaper. It is the message that the prophet Micah preached more than 2,500 years ago. And what's more, he not only presented theories, but he knew how to accomplish his purpose of real social justice. It is time some of those who talk about this subject got back to the Bible and really learned how it can be done.

I. Social Injustice (3:1-10).

The inhumanity of man toward man is not something that just happened. There are fundamental reasons for such conditions, and they are the same in our time as in Micah's day. The responsibility rests squarely on the failure of our national and spiritual leaders to perform their God-given tasks.

1. Rulers without Judgment (3:1-4, 9-10).

The obligation of anyone who is given or who seeks public office is to know judgment. This does not mean only that he is to have a general knowledge of the law and its technicalities; he is to know justice in his very heart, to love it, and to see that it is always rightly administered.

The leaders of Israel had woefully failed, in fact had deliberately departed from the standards of God, and Micah exposed them in plain, dramatic, well-spoken words. While verses 2 and 3 are not to be taken literally, they do in striking figurative speech describe just what unscrupulous politicians do to an unsuspecting people.

2. Prophets with a False Message (3:5-8).

In such a day might one not expect God's messengers to have a word of condemnation for the leaders and of comfort for the people? Not only did they keep quiet about the sin and corruption which they saw about them, but they actually encouraged their prominent and wealthy "church members" in their sin by saying, "All is well." Such religious leaders have not altogether perished from the earth.

Let ministers of God be like Micah, who is described in verse 8 as a man of judgment and justice, because he was "full of power by the Spirit of the Lord."

II. Social Security (3:11, 12; 6: 6-8).

No, that idea was not discovered by the politicians of the 1930's. It has been in the plan of God from the beginning; in fact only in Him is there any real national, personal, or social security. Micah skillfully unmasked false security and revealed the way of true security.

1. False Security and Divine Judgment (3:11, 12).

When the heads of a nation "judge for reward" and its religious leaders "teach for hire" and its prophets "divine for money" (v. 11), there is no use to talk pious'y about God being with us.

The prophecy of verse 12 was fulfilled three times—by the Chaldeans in 586 B. C., by Titus in A. D. 70, and under Hadrian in A. D. 135. God always keeps His promises, even if the promise be a promise of judgment.

2. True Security and Divine Blessing (6:6-8).

God is not to be propitiated by the offerings of material things as a sacrifice or by any outward profession of piety. He looks at the heart.

Verse 8 is a remarkable and beautiful epitome of God's requirement of man, namely, justice, kindness, and humility; but note that this is the requirement of the law, and one which no man can possibly fulfill apart from Christ. It is evident folly for men to quote this verse as did the agnostic Thomas Huxley and others, to justify themselves for not responding to the claims of the gospel of Christ. Only Christ can make any man capable of true justice, constant kindness, and genuine humility. Only thus can we meet the demands of the law of God

Real social justice and security will come only as there is a recognition of Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord by the leaders, by the prophets and by the people.

Self Abnegation

After you have been kind, after love has stolen forth into the world and done its beautiful work, go back into the shade again and say nothing about it. Love hides even from itself. Love waives even self-satisfaction.—Henry Drummond.

Paragraph Opinions . . .

A DEPARTURE REGRETTED—

The departure of Rev. Winfield S. Patterson, D.D., to another charge will be regretted by a large number of Oakland people which is not confined to the Methodist church alone.

During his seven years in Oakland Dr. Patterson has worked in harmony with other denominations for the advancement of Christ's Kingdom, and almost without exception has satisfied his church members here with his Christian service.

Another man comes to take his place and the religious life of the town will continue to flourish. Nevertheless Oakland people as a whole are sorry to see Rev. Patterson and his family leave the community.

A MAN'S HOME HIS CASTLE—

A man's home is his castle. This is true regardless of whether the home is a log hut or a brick mansion. He lives there with his family. He is on familiar ground, and he likes his surroundings. It's the only place perhaps he has ever known. Maybe his parents live nearby, but if not he has friendly neighbors and there is a feeling of contentment.

His earthly habits are suddenly interrupted by a huge construction project which is calculated to improve industrial conditions. A committee of men approach him and offer him a price for his land. "If you don't like the price, we'll start condemnation proceedings," the man often is told.

This is the picture presented by one person actually living in the Savage River Valley where soon a dam is to be built which will flood the territory and provide a flood control system for the Potomac River which in turn is to help industrialists along its banks.

The owner's side of the story is one not often shown. In a huge project the ultimate goal is stressed and the means to attain the goal are minimized. After all, who is there who can say just how much a man's home is worth? The actual land may not be worth much, but what will it cost a man who must be moved from his familiar haunts to a strange place that in many cases does not satisfy?

From what one owner in the Savage River region says, the people there are willing to sell at a reasonable price but according to this individual the Commission wants the land for little or nothing. To force a man to sell his home when he doesn't want to move, makes the appraisal of that land's value difficult, taking both sides into consideration.

A just settlement should be reached for all concerned. Owners have no legal right to hold out for exhorbitant prices and hold up progress for the public good, but they do have a right to consideration.

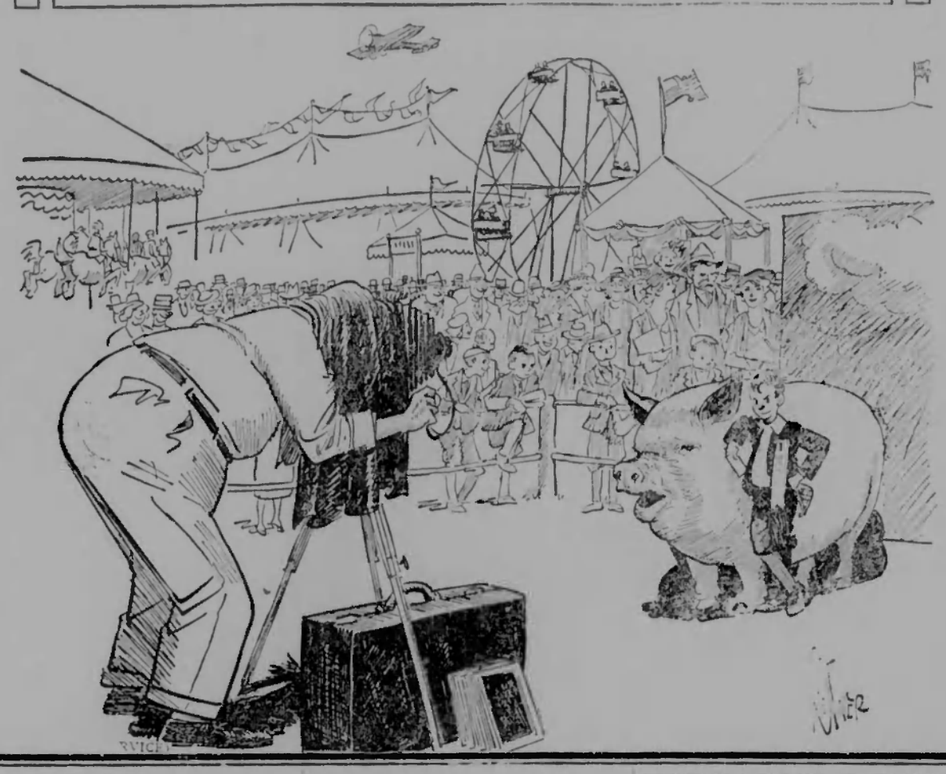
ANOTHER ANGLE—

The Savage River dam is to be built entirely in Garrett county. It will cover Garrett county soil where sufficient food could be raised to sustain families and millions of trees could be grown to provide lumber. The dam is to benefit Allegany county. Simeon Green, president of the Allegany County Commissioners, announced that only Allegany county workers would be employed on the construction. Allegany county, of course, is furnishing a million dollars through a bond issue to supplement funds provided through WPA. But whether or not this should eliminate the opportunity to give work to Garrett county in construeting the dam.

Out-of-State capital furnished the money for Deep Creek Lake, and yet many were employed from Garrett county in construetin gthe dam.

What will Garrett county get out of the Savage River dam? Will it just eliminate hundreds of acres from the assessment books? Shouldn't Garrett county derive some benefit from this big project?

The Thrill of a Lifetime



NEW HIGHWAY—

A subscriber at Altamont calls attention to the new and shorter highway now being connected up by new road construction between Oakland and Cumberland.

The State Roads Commission is now engaged in building a new road between Westernport and Luke on the Maryland side of the Potomac River which is expected to be completed by January 1, 1940; the WPA is completing a surfaced road from Bloomington to Swanton, widening it, putting in many drainage pipes and shortening it by cut-offs. This work is also expected to be finished by January 1.

The result will be a new route on hard road between Oakland and Cumberland at least ten miles shorter and with only a little mountain climbing, than either of the existing routes via Routes 219 and 40, or via Kitzmiller, Allegany Front, New Creek and Keyser.

The State Roads Commission, no doubt, will give this road a proper number, erect distance signs and place it on their road map in the near future.

HAS CROW TO PICK—

A letter to the editor the other day appears like the man who wrote it has a crow to pick with someone—

He says he got a cut-off slip from the WPA and wouldn't kick if all were served alike, but when he went to the Welfare Office for re-assignment he saw other men there who were at work the next day on a road project, while he is still not assigned.

He says he believes we have quite a few Hitlers in Garrett county, judging from the way some of them act.

He says he knows of a man who had a job and who quit it and then he was put on WPA. He says these young fellows can get good jobs, but they quit steady jobs and take WPA work instead and then the older ones don't have a chance on WPA, and the older men can't get steady work anywhere else. He says the young don't want steady work and drink up their half-time wages.

Now, maybe that writer's got something there.

IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

Hopwood Kildow, threshing oats from 7 acres of ground which had been limed yielded an average of 51 1-7 bushels per acre. Daniel Conneway had a yield of 104 bushels of wheat from 3¼ acres. The grain weighed 69 pounds to the bushel.

G. A. R. Day at the Park was the last program of the season, August 29. It included lectures by Jahn DeWitt Miller, of Philadelphia; Bishop Charles H. Fowler, of Buffalo; military band concerts and venitian night on the lake with realistic representation of the Battle of Santiago. Ex-governor J. B. Foraker, Ohio; Governor Lowndes, of Maryland; and Gov. Atkinson, West Virginia, were present.

Lack of rain for two weeks or more was damaging corn, buckwheat and grass.

The crew of a freight train was attacked by a number of tramps who were stealing rides, at a point below Bloomington, and a brakeman seriously injured.

Proprietors and managers of hotels and boarding houses in towns outside of Oakland reported the best season financially that they ever experienced. In Oakland, however, the season was said to be the dullest for a great number of years.

For a picnic at Swallow Falls, an excursion was run over the C and O. and the Knabb and Company roads from Pittsburgh.

J. W. McCullough, Friendsville, was erecting his residence there which was expected to cost $10,000.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Marie Tiffany, Metropolitan Opera singer, was scheduled to give a concert in the Maryland theatre.

Edward Kahl, Marion Newman and Joseph Rathbun, of the Army of Occupation in Germany, received their discharges and returned home.

"Bob" Martin, champion pugilist of the A. E. F., was in Oakland visiting his brother, enroute to New York to train for meeting the American champion in a boxing bout.

Clyde "Dix" Dawson fractured his collar bone in a friendly wrestling match with a companion.

The State Roads Commission completed the repair of Second and Oak streets, thereby connecting the State roads through the town and giving motorists an unbroken run from the time they entered the county limits at the Pennsylvania State line, over improved highways through to Mt. Lake Park or Gortner.

S. Jarvis Adams, Jr., Pittsburgh, took the men's singles cup in tennis at Mt. Lake Park. Mr. Adams and Robert Sliger, Oakland, captured the men's doubles and received two thermos bottles. Mixed doubles winners got a fountain pen and manicure set.

Perhaps the Administration should be reminded that it can't make business better by making it bitter.

Workers To Be Assigned On The Savage River Dam Project October 1

Between 300 and 400 WPA workers in the George's Creek area are expected to be transferred to the Savage River dam project by October 1, according to Simeon W. Green, president of the Board of County Commissioners of Allegany county. More than 1,000 workers will ultimately be employed in the work. Workers on other projects in Allegany county are to be shifted to the Garrett county project.

Mr. Green stated also that although the dam is located in Garrett county, only Allegany county WPA workers will be employed on it. Workers must furnish their own transportation to the site, as neither the WPA nor the Upper Potomac River Commission will supply transportation facilities.

Garrett County Woodmen Attend Two-Day Session At Cumberland

Climaxed with a log rolling jamboree Sunday afternoon at Cumberland, a two-day meeting of the Woodmen of the World was brought to a close. About five hundred Woodmen attended, many of them from camps in Garrett county.

A competitive drill was won by Company E, Baltimore, with Company M, Crellin, capturing second place and a prize of $15. Roy Ferguson, of Crellin, was fourth in individual competitive drills. Company M, Crellin, won first prize in the dress parade.

John E. Webb, of Forestville, was elected sovereign of the organization for the ensuing year. E. A. Olsen, of Washington, D. C., who is State Manager for Maryland, District of Columbia and Delaware, and who is well known in this county, was elected treasurer. Mr. Olsen was one of the speakers at the business meeting.

CATTLE KILLED TO HALT DISEASE ARE PAID FOR

Funds Are Available For Paying Owners Who Slaughter Diseased Cows

Dr. Mark Welsh, State veterinarian and head of the Livestock Sanitary Service, announced today that funds are now available for indemnifying owners of cattle slaughtered in the eradication of Bang's disease.

He said that for some time past no herds have been accepted under State and Federal supervision for the eradication of this disease and that many herd owners are now availing themselves of this assistance.

Animals found infected, according to Dr. Welsh, return to their owners about 8% of their value. Each animal found positive on blood test is appraised of her value and the owner receives whatever she brings for meat purposes. The difference between the meat value and the appraised value is divided into thirds, and the Government pays one-third up to twenty-five dollars on grade and up to fifty dollars on pure bred animals. The State matches the Federal payments and the owner loses the remaining third, or about 20% of the appraised value.

Dr. Welsh said that over 1,800 herds containing approximately 35,000 cattle are now accredited as being free of this eostly malady, and that the spread of the disease to other animals and to man is being greatly reduced in many sections. Eradication work is being carried on this summer in Garrett county.

Owners who want these tests may apply to the State veterinarian or the Federal inspector, Fidelity Building, Baltimore, to the county veterinarian inspector or the county agent's office in Oakland. New herds will be accepted only as long as indemnity funds are available and herds will be tested in relation to the date the application is received.

Hardesty Family Reunion

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hardesty, Corinth, West Va., on Sunday, September 10. Mr. and Mrs. Hardesty celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last February. They are the parents of nine children, all of whom are living and were present at the reunion, namely: Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Moon, Terra Alta; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hardesty and Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Koch, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Hardesty, Adel, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Fraley, Fairchance, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Hardesty, Mountain Lake Park; Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Moon, Corinth; Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Hardesty, Cumberland; Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Hardesty, Grantsville. A number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren were also present.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardesty were former residents of Oakland, having moved from here to their present home in Corinth in 1935.

President Roosevelt is so inconsistent. He ordered millions of innocent little pigs killed, thousands of acres of wheat, corn and cotton plowed under—and now he makes two Thanksgivings grow where only one grew before. Mebbe, though, it isn't as inconsistent as it appears. He may think we rate two Thanksgivings, since the Congress started the back-trek to constitutional ways of legislating.

Lewis Walter sustained a painful injury to his left hand Tuesday morning at the NuWay Laundry when it became caught in a piece of machinery which he was operating in the plant. Pieces of flesh were torn from the palm of his hand and from his fingers and arm as the member was drawn into machine when a ring on his finger was caught on an obstruction. Fortunately no bones were broken.

Dr. H. R. DuPuy, county health officer, and two of the health nurses will go to Baltimore on Friday, September 22, to attend a meeting for instruction in the control of pneumonia, a disease which ranks high in mortality in the nation. Various treatments and the use of new drugs are to be discussed. An aggressive campaign against the disease is to be waged by health authorities this winter.

Mrs. L. W. Stephenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Leighton, Loch Lynn Heights, left there yesterday morning for College Park where she will enter the University of Maryland for a course in home economics. Mrs. Stephenson was accompanied by her mother, who expects to return to Loch Lynn the latter part of the week. Mrs. Stephenson's children will remain with their grandparents at Loch Lynn this winter. Mr. Stephenson died quite suddenly in Pittsburgh about three months ago.

Mallard Ducks Placed On Deep Creek Lake

The ducks were hatched and raised at Frog Hollow Refuge farm from four hens and a drake exhibited at the Sesquicentennial Wild Life show in Baltimore two years ago.

Miracle House Maintained by Sale of Christmas Seals

Five children from this county returned to their homes on Saturday, September 2, after staying in the Miracle House at Clairborne for two months. All of these children, according to Dr. H. R. DuPuy, county health officer, were underweight and one of them was suffering with some lung trouble at the beginning of the stay in the Preventorium. They are all much improved and gained considerable weight, and returned to the county ready for school, Dr. DuPuy said.

The preventorium is operated by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association which is entirely supported by the Annual Seal Sale. Out of its own annual tuberculosis fund each county must support the children while they are in Clairborne. This is one of the ways the Garrett County Tuberculosis Association spends the money which is contributed by people in this community.

There were many more candidates for the Miracle House, Dr. DuPuy pointed out, but the five were all that could be paid for out of last year's seal sale. The more seals that are sold, the better able will the county be to protect the children here against tuberculosis, he concluded.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS . . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

An Unwelcome Idea

It is being strongly urged upon Mr. Roosevelt by various newspapers, publicists, commentators, columnists and others not under the Administration influence, chief of whom is Mr. Walter Lippmann, that he create a sort of national council on which would sit leading members of the Republican party and one or two outstanding anti-New Deal Democrats.

* * *

The idea is that in this critical period, when from day to day the most delicate decisions must be taken by our Government for the national security, this council should meet daily with the President; that all the facts available for him should be available for it, that its advice should be asked and its support sought before any important step is taken.

* * *

It is suggested that the President should ask to serve on this council Mr. Herbert Hoover, undoubtedly the best informed private citizen in the United States on European affairs and an American of great influence and experience and unquestioned patriotism; Senators Taft and Vandenberg, leading Republican aspirants for the Presidency; Vice President Garner, recognized leader of the Conservative Democrats; Senator Byrd, of Virginia, the strongest and most effective opponent of the major New Deal domestic policies. It is a list which even to think of brings the "true New Dealers" to the very verge of apoplexy and the argument that in this way only and with these men can the national unity essential to the safety of the country be achieved fills them with fury.

* * *

Nevertheless, that argument is being made so widely and so forcefully that it cannot be ignored. It, of course, is not safe to forecast Mr. Roosevelt's acts. No one can change his mind more quickly than he and he has been known to adopt a course for no other reason than because the prediction was made that he would not adopt it. Those who know him best appreciate his extreme reluctance to concede that those not in complete accord with him on everything can be right about anything. However, if one judges from the "inner circle" seethes, this suggestion will not be adopted.

* * *

Its repetition and circulation imposes a severe strain upon the Presidential temper and is deeply deplored by the presidential intimates. They bitterly resent its being made and are disturbed that it is not dropped. Nor is the resentment decreased by the obvious fact that the idea is advocated not by politicians, not by individuals who want to score a political point or embarrass the President, but by men genuinely concerned over the lack of national unity and anxious to have the country solidly behind its President in matters of foreign policy. This makes the Roosevelt plan over the national council plan the more acute because it cannot be discounted by the usual methods. Nor does it lessen the rage of the palace politicians that they are unable to denounce it as a Tory trick or a reactionary effort to hamper Mr. Roosevelt in his efforts to promote national safety.

* * *

Though such was not the purpose, the suggestion really puts Mr. Roosevelt on the spot, which is why his advisers are anxious to have it forgotten as quickly as possible. For example, if he should name a national council, he would have to concede the premise from which the idea sprung—to wit, that he has lost control of Congress and no longer speaks for the country; that a large element of his party is in revolt against his leadership; that great numbers of people have no confidence in his judgment and suspect that he is surrounded by unsafe men eager to make political capital out of war.

* * *

This is said not in disparagement of Roosevelt but, its sponsors say, is a simple statement of fact which makes national unity impossible unless the national council idea can be implemented. To accept the idea is to accept the statement of his own futility. As he still believes the people are overwhelmingly with him and only the vicious and misguided dissent, the likelihood of his doing that is very remote. But, if he rejects the idea, if he refuses to make any gesture toward the opposition, if he insists upon making all decisions himself and in a time like this, admitting to his full confidence only those who agree with him, then his appeal to abandon partisanship and rise above petty political consideration and personal hates becomes hollow, indeed. Because he is then exhibited as a man who asks others to do what he is not big enough to do himself. If, Mr. Lippmann points out, Mr. Chamberlain could take Churchill and Eden into his Cabinet, Mr. Roosevelt, in the national interests, ought to have sufficient humility to rise to a similar height here.

Homemakers' Column

Edited by Miss Mildred Barton, Home Demonstration Agent, Oakland.

When A Woman Buys A Coat

When putting money into a coat a woman usually expects to get several winters' wear out of it and at the same time wants it to look well. In order to get quality and lasting looks she must carefully check materials, workmanship and points for quality.

The Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has listed several of these important points.

Before shopping the woman should answer the following questions for herself:

What type of coat do I need?

Do I want it for dress, general wear, or sports?

How much can I afford to spend for it?

What color will harmonize best with by wardrobe?

How many years' wear must I get from this coat?

Which of the current styles is most becoming to my figure and likely to last for several seasons?

The type of material determines, to a great extent, the length of wear to be gotten from the coat. Specific information should be given on the tags of the coat—such as type and per cent of wool, colorfastness, wrinkle resistance and shrinkage.

The types of wool usually used are:

Worsteds have long, even fibres, combed parallel. The weaves are definite, smooth, and sturdy. Worsteds wear exceptionally well, though they rub shiny with use.

Woolens which make up most of our coatings, have fibres shorter than in worsteds, and not combed parallel. The weaves are less definite. Woolens are warm and usually have attractive finishes. The better qualities give good service without wearing shiny.

Poor Quality Wool makes poor quality cloth. The fibres are short and uneven, and are often hidden by a matted finish. Such coatings feel harsh, lifeless, and boardy and will not stand much wear.

The weave in either worsteds or woolens should be firm and close with about as many yarns in one direction as in the other. The yarns should be even in size so that wear comes from them uniformly.

GRAND JURY CHARGED IN LENGTHY ADDRESS

only inquire " * * of all such matters and things as shall be given you in charge * * " which means those which are brought to your knowledge in the manner I have just indicated—but you shall also inquire into other matters which " * *shall otherwise come to your knowledge", either through information gathered from witnesses before you, matters that have come to your own personal knowledge before you were summoned to the service of the Grand Jury, or matters which may come to your knowledge from other sources. The power of a Grand Jury is not only extensive but is extremely important, and it is one of the chief factors in the enforcement of the law and the preservation and maintenance of the peace and order of the county, and is also one of the strongest assurances we have for the safety and security of the people as a whole.

There are certain statutes which have been in effect in this county for years, which are required by law to be called to your attention. Section 4 of Article 27 of the Code requires that your attention be called to Section 3 of Article 27, which forbids and prohibits and provides punishment for the crime of abortion, the advertisement of any drug, medicine, or instrument, designed to produce the same, and the sale of any such articles. The practical purpose of such a requirement is rather doubtful, as this is a crime difficult to discover, and which only comes to public notice when the consequences of its commission have their unfortunate and often tragic results.

By Section 79 of Article 27, it is provided that "If any Clerk, Register of Wills, Sheriff, Collector of Taxes, Notary Public or other officer, whose duty it is to collect revenue due the State of Maryland or any County thereof, shall, after the receipt of said revenue by him, wilfully detain the same in his possession and neglect to pay the same into the Treasury of the State or to the County Commissioners, or the proper officer authorized to receive same, for more than sixty days after the day upon which it is made by law his duty to pay the same, or if no particular day be appointed by law for said payment, and such officer shall detain any revenue due to the State or to any County thereof, and which it is his duty to collect, and which he shall collect, and shall neglect to pay the same into the Treasury of the State, or to the County Commissioners, or the proper officer authorized to receive the same, for the space of six months after he shall have so collected the same, such officer so offending in either case shall be deemed to be a defaulter * * " and the judges of the Courts having criminal jurisdiction in this State, shall give this law in charge to the Grand Juries called in their respective Courts.

By Section 285 of Article 27 it is made unlawful for any practitioner of medicine or dentistry to furnish or present for the use of any person any cocaine, heroin, opium, morphine, and certain other narcotic drugs, except under the strict regulations therein provided for, and it is made the duty of the judges of all Courts having criminal jurisdiction to instruct Grand Juries " * * to diligently inquire into and investigate all cases of the violation of the provisions of this sub-title (Health—Narcotic Drugs) and to make a true presentment of persons guilty of such violation."

It is the duty of Grand Juries in this State, by Section 22 of Article 51 of the Code, to " * * visit the jail and inquire into its condition, the manner in which it is kept, and the treatment of the prisoners, and report the same to the Court." It is also a custom—and Grand Juries are usually so instructed—to inspect the Court House and report its condition, together with such recommendations as may be made for the repair and improvement of both Court House and Jail.

The Courts are not required by law to instruct Grand Juries with regard to the statute against carrying concealed weapons, but it is usually done, because this offense is so often attended with such fatal results that it cannot be ignored or lightly regarded. Many men carry guns just to be smart. Some young men think they have not attained the state of manhood unless they have a gun. The place to stop that practice is here, before the damage is done.

The sale of beer is now legal in Garrett County. In no county of this State has the liquor enforcement act been more scrupulously observed and kept and enforced than in this County, and we can assume that there will be no relaxation on the part of the authorities.

Section 104 of Article 12 of the Public Local Laws, Title,"Garrett County", provides that the books of the County Treasurer shall be opened to the inspection of the Grand Jury. This does not mean that you have to make a complete audit, but simply to see that they are properly and efficiently kept, and that the various accounts contain their proper balances. The system in effect here now for a complete audit by State auditors makes it unnecessary for Grand Juries to delve so deeply into this matter.

In this connection, I think there is a matter that should be called to the attention of this Grand Jury. Three Acts were recently passed by our Legislative Body at Annapolis, 1939 Session, which were provoked by excessive purchases without public advertising by the County Commissioners, matters which were in large amount, surreptitiously bought and without due regard to the public welfare and the right of the public to know what was being done, and which certainly should have had more publicity before it was done. As a result of that purchase of certain machinery, the recent Legislature passed three acts, one known as the Act of 1939, chapter 35, which forbids (April 26 1939, was the date of the approval and effect of the Act) after that date, the letting of any contract of sale or purchase calling for more than a three hundred dollar expenditure, without the advertising for bids in one or more papers of the County, once a week for two successive weeks, is forbidden on pain of forfeiture of office. There are available to you the public records in every office in this Court House. You have a right to summon in before you, the clerk to the Commissioners, with all records which he may have, and if you find that this law has been violated, you will so find in your report and indict, and if you find that it has not been violated, you will make no mention of it in your report, because you cannot castigate anyone or anybody without an indictment, in your report.

There is another Act of 1939—Chapter 286, which, by its terms, it is made your duty to investigate. The Treasurer, by that Act, can issue checks against funds deposited by him in bank, provided they are not in excess of amounts contained in the levy. No order can be issued by the County Commissioners or any member thereof against any item of the levy to which the same is not properly charged, and which has not been authorized at a meeting of the Board and entered on the minutes thereof. Under this Act, their borrowing is limited to the two months of January and February, if the collections from the taxes have not been sufficient to meet the levy for orders issued against the levy, the Board can then borrow not more than $15,000.00, but the loan must be repaid not later than June first. That part of the Act with regard to borrowing of money in January and February cannot go into effect until next year, because the Act was only passed and went into effect on April 26th. They can therefore do no more borrowing until October 1st, and then they may borrow any amount which may be required to meet the amount of the levy, to the limit only of uncollected taxes.

There is another Act and that is the County Commissioners, by Act of 1939, Chapter 77, have a salary fixed for them of $900.00 a year, and in addition to that, they are allowed to expend not more than $300.00 for expenses. That means that the entire membership of the Board must not expend more than three hundred dollars in any one year, and when the same has been expended, they cannot go into the contingent or any other fund for that purpose. Another practice which I understand is going on now, is that they have taken the funds derived from the beer license and have thrown that into the contingent fund, so that that fund is thereby subject to various changes in amounts of the levy. That cannot be done, the contingent fund cannot become swollen by any additional revenues which have been taken from the beer license or any other source.

These are all matters of grave public interest, and there is no use in courts or juries or anyone else blinding themselves to the effect that the terrific expense to which the public is and has been subjected to has done more to retard human progress in the last years than any other single item, and public economy, rather than public extravagance, should be a matter of grave concern to all citizens and it should become the duty of all law enforcement officials to investigate the public records of this county or of the community, to find whether any single item of these laws is being violated. These are all serious questions to which I have called your attention, for the exercise of your judgment, and you have been selected to exercise that judgment because we felt that you were all God-fearing, upstanding, stout hearted men sworn to do the public service in your capacity as Grand Jurors.

Section 22 of Article 20, requires that in all counties except Frederick and Allegany, each Constable shall be sworn up at each term of Circuit Court in the counties and in Criminal Court in Baltimore City. This means that you shall summon all constables in this county before you, to inquire into the state of the county according to their own special knowledge, and if they are found to be aware of any such matters pertaining to violations of the law in this county, and have not made known such knowledge to their respective superiors or to you, then, they themselves are liable to indictment and prosecution.

It is desirable that you perform your duties as speedily as may be consistent with your work, but it is not required that you sacrifice efficiency and thoroughness to speed.

Swanton man goes on to score the dam-sponsoring commission for reputedly 'refusing to pay reasonable prices' for the land it seeks.

"His letter, in the nature of a 'bill of particulars,' as the lawyers call it, Mr. Murphy first takes the statements he disputes and lists his objections to them.

Called 'Misrepresentation'

"Said the article: 'Some of it (the land), so far as the records go, nobody owns.

" 'For instance, there is 'St. Clair's Glory.' So far, efforts to trace the owner have been fruitless. And more than 100 feet of water is due to back up over it as soon as the dam is built."

"To which Mr. Murphy has this to say: 'This is a misrepresentation in the first magnitude, as all the land that will be covered 100 feet deep with water is two tracts of land, namely Montevne and Alexander. . .' "

"He lists the present owners of Montevue and states that it was formerly owned by the late Goveror Thomas. Alexander, he continues, is at present owned by the State or Federal Government."

Discusses Soldiers' Lots

"Another statement with which the indignant 'landowner and taxpayer' takes issue is this: 'But the main headache for surveyors running the old lines have been the soldiers' allotments. . .'

"Says Mr. Murphy: 'I have good authority that these soldiers' allotments are all numbered and the line marked, and is not at all difficult for a surveyor to find them. But why worry about soldiers' allotments?'

" 'They are principally located on top of the Backbone and Savage Mountains and will be several hundred feet above the high water mark in the dam. Is it possible that land records will have to be looked up back to the time of Washington, and numerous square miles of Garrett county surveyed before this project can be started?' "

"Mr Murphy expresses particular indignation over this statement: 'Most of the tracts are on hillsides so steep the soldier might roll over it, but couldn' twalk across it. And some of them have as much as a peck of top soil in the cracks of the bare rocks.' "

Challenges Writer

"To this the letter-writer comments: 'Now I challenge the writer of this article to come to my home in the Savage River Valley, five miles west of Bloomington, and if he isn't one of the type of modern gentlemen who prefers to see the country in a high-powered automobile, I will show him more topsoil on any Military Lot in Garrett county than he ever saw, and we will walk over it, not roll as he states. And if he can show me any such lot as he writes about, then I am ready to admit that I have traveled this terrain for thirty-nine years and really missed something.

" 'Now I do admit that in the vicinity of this proposed dam site, we have some very rough mountainous terrain, and in the valley some very attractive land, very much similar to Allegany county in topography.

" 'But your valleys are not spoken of as 'lonely mountain valleys' dotted with Military Lots with only a peck of topsoil on them.'

Flays Propaganda

" 'Now this sort of propaganda is not going to help the Upper Potomac River Commission to secure the desired property for this project at the prices they are offering.

" 'The property owners are not trying to hold up construction on the Savage River dam. They are willing to sell and are asking a reasonable price for their homes and properties, which the Commission is refusing to pay.'

" ' When their offers are rejected, then they resort to threatening condemnation proceedings.'

" 'A certain member of the Commission, when he was asked a certain price for a property, made this remark: 'If I was buying this property for my own use and paying for it with my own money, the price is reasonable. But since we must buy this property with the taxpayers' money, we cannot pay such a high price.'

Saving Public Money 'New'

" 'Why be so considerate of the taxpayers' money all of a sudden? This is the first instance of a representative of the general public trying to save taxpayers' money that has ever come to my attention.' "

" 'Then, Mr. Murphy quotes again the statement that 'some of it (the land), so far as the records go, nobody owns.' "

" 'Commenting on this, he writes: 'If all this necessary land could be declared vacant, that would be fine; then the River Commission could, no doubt, obtain it for nothing.' "

" 'That appears to be their attitude, so far as their offers go anyway.' "

Asks Fair Deal

" 'Or, if the Commission could convince the people in this 'lonely valley' that their offers are equivalent to a teller's cage in the City National Bank, that would be fine; they would still get their properties for little or nothing.' "

" 'Mr. Murphy concludes his missive with this statement:

" 'If I may be quoted as spokesman for the land owners in this valley, I would make the statement that, if the Upper Potomac River Commission will deal fair with the people and pay a fair price for property, they will have no trouble in obtaining the necessary property in a very short time.

" 'On the other hand, if they continue to offer undervalue prices and threaten condemnation suits, they are standing an excellent chance of getting the opportunity to battle it out in the courts.' "

MT. LAKE PARK

The mayor and members of the town council are busy people these days. Each Thursday night a great many problems come to them. At the present time there is much studying of the charter and ordinances with which the officials desire to familiarize themselves. After all that seems to be a good idea, for until they do know the whys and wherefores of their town laws they cannot help either their town or its people.

There is an ordinance pertaining to building permits. This is an old ordinance and has never been enforced. However, it is now the intention of the town authorities to enforce it. It is a small matter to apply for this permit, and while you may think it silly and of no importance, there might arise an occasion when it would be of great importance to all in the community. It is quite possible in going over the ordinances there will be found some which may have to be rescinded. Others will have to be codified and still others may prove so obsolete that they cannot be enforced.

The Park Improvement Club is making headway rapidly with its program for Park improvement and beautification. Another meeting was held on Tuesday night and plans made for the fall work to be done.

One of the members of the Park club has just called to say that they are giving a chicken and waffle supper at the Methodist church one week from today (Thursday). Serving will begin at 5:30, and the price will be 50 cents. Here is your chance to help. Don't forget—next Thursday.

The last meeting of the Civic Club will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the Bowling Alley club house. It is urged that all members be present.

The regular meeting of Women's Bible class of the Methodist church will be on Friday night at 7:30 in the home of Mrs. A. T. White. Mrs. C. A. Snoap will be assistant hostess.

The ladies of the Loch Lynn U. B. church will conduct a chicken supper tonight at the Ladies' Aid Hall. Serving from 5:30 to 8:00. Price, 25 and 50 cents.

Reception for Rev. Harold Gamblin

The members of the Methodist church tendered a farewell reception to Rev. Harold Gamblin and Mrs. Gamblin on Monday night in the social rooms of the church. Rev. Gamblin is moving for Patterson, N. J.

H. V. Leighton, representing the congregation, made a brief talk. Other speakers were Rev. W. B. Orndorff, of the U. B. church; Rev. Gregory Bleakly, Rev. E. A. Crites, Dr. Felix Robinson and Dr. W. The theme for next Sunday, "Fulfilling the Law of Christ", answers the question of my relationship to fellow-believers who have burdens to bear. GRAND JURY IS RECESSED AFTER FOUR-DAY SESSION

Sixty-Nine Witnesses Examined And 26 Indictments Returned; Will Reconvene October 23

ONE INDICTED FOR MURDER

The grand jurors for the September Term of the Garrett county Circuit Court essed last Thursday afternoon after being in session almost four days, during which time there were sixty-nine witnesses examined and twenty-six indictments returned.

Included in the indictments, according to the State's Attorney's office, was one of murder, against William Thomas Cooper, for the slaying of Floyd Harvey, Vindex miner, as he sat at supper on the evening of July 4 with Cooper's wife. Indictments were also found against J. Frank Browning, charging him with embezzlement of funds from the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland while he was clerk-collector for the town. A like indictment on a like charge was found against Walter Killius, Mountain Lake Park, while he was clerk-collector for the Mayor and Town Council of Mountain Lake Park.

Mr. Fraley, State's Attorney, said the grand jury's investigations would continue when it reconvened on Monday, October 23, to complete its work.

Paul B. Naylor, Oakland, is foreman of the grand jury and its clerks are Grover C. Stemple and John M. Jorboe, also of Oakland.

The report of the grand jury in full follows:

To the Honorable, the Judges of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland:—

The Grand Jury for the September Term, 1939, respectfully submits the following report:

We have had before us and examined 69 witnesses and have returned 26 indictments.

In accordance with the instructions contained in the charge of His Honor Judge Sloan, we have made careful investigation and inquired into whether or not there have been any violations of the Acts passed by the last General Assembly.

We have returned indictments in those cases where we believe the evidence to warrant such action.

We have made an inspection of the County Jail, the Sheriff's residence, the Court House and the offices of the various public officials. We desire to make the following recommendations:

First, we recommend that the County Commissioners ascertain the costs and give their consideration to the very imperative need for the necessary repairs to the sidewalks adjacent to the Court House, Jail and Sheriff's residence fronting on Alder street. We feel this is very important.

Second, we recommend that the County Commissioners purchase the necessary paint for painting the corridor between the cell blocks and also at the rear of the corridor, and turn the same over to the Sheriff who will see that it is applied.

Third, our attention has been called to the fact that the Sheriff has no garage for his cars. Former Grand Juries have recommended that some provision be made for the storage of his cars, but nothing has been done. We again recommend to the County Commissioners that they give their serious consideration to this need.

We desire to thank Mr. Neil C. Fraley for his able manner in the preparation of evidence submitted to the Grand Jury and for his courtesy to all members of the Jury.

We extend our thanks to His Honor Judge Sloan for the assistance he has given us in performing our duties as Grand Jurors.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

PAUL B. NAYLOR, Foreman.
GROVER C. STEMPLE,
JOHN M. JARBOE, Clerks.

Books Being Solicited For St. Peter's School Library

At the monthly meeting of the McVeigh Holy Cross club, held at the home of Miss Bridget Maroney, the members took up the work of collecting books for the library of St. Peter's Parochial school. The purpose of the undertaking is to solicit old and new books which will be suitable for the children of school age. It was thought that in nearly every home in the parish there are some books which are no longer used but could be enjoyed by the children. The members of the McVeigh club wish to extend an invitation to all their friends outside of the parish to take part in this enterprise. All books, old as well as new ones, will be gratefully received. The following are officers of the club: Mrs. Mary Stanton, vice-president; Miss Julia Rowan, secretary; Miss Mary Harsch, treasurer.

STATE HEALTH HEAD'S WIFE IS ACCIDENT VICTIM

Dr. Robert H. Riley was Enroute To Oakland From Cleveland

Mrs. Willie Harrie Riley, wife of Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, was killed in an automobile collision on a Baltimore street Friday.

Mrs. Riley and two other persons, injured in the crash, were pulled from the wreckage by police, spectators and an ambulance crew. Mrs. Riley was pronounced dead upon arrival at a hospital.

Mrs. Frances Smalley, with whom Mrs. Riley was riding, and Edward Crookes, 18, driver of the other car, both suffered injuries about the head and body.

The cars collided shortly before noon at Aldorado and Groveland avenues. Interlocking, the machines overturned, rolled across a sidewalk and smashed into a tree.

Dr. Riley, driving on Route 40 from Cleveland, O., where he had attended a national convention of medical men, and who was on his way to Oakland, was advised of the accident before he entered on Route 219 at Keyser Ridge and he continued on to his home at Catonsville. Dr. Riley was scheduled to address a meeting of teachers in Oakland Friday afternoon.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Riley is survived by two children, Robert, Jr., and Barbara.

PAGEANT AT BLACKWATER ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Community Affair Will be Staged Following Postponement

The Community Pageant of Tucker county, West Va., and the adjacent territory, which was postponed last Sunday on account of threatening weather conditions, will occur on Sunday afternoon, September 24, at Blackwater Canyon, according to announcement by Miss Sara B. Huff, who has charge of the entertainment, which will depict many historical happenings in years gone by.

That part of the program in which Garrett county people will be most interested in will be staged by residents of Kempton in the planting of the Fairfax Stone, the location of the ancient marker being within sight of Kempton.

Farewell Party Tendered Dr. and Mrs. Patterson By Methodists

Dr. and Mrs. Winfield S. Patterson, who will leave Oakland on Friday morning for Moundsville, W. Va., where Dr. Patterson has been appointed pastor of the Methodist church, were tendered a farewell reception in the recreation room of the local church on Monday evening, by the various women's organizations of St. Paul's. A large number of members and friends of the church were present to express regret at the departure of Dr. and Mrs. Patterson after their seven years' residence here, and to wish them success in their new and larger field of effort.

The principal entertainment of the evening consisted in a school game which took both adults and children through the intricacies of kindergarten paper-folding and on to advanced drawing, with somewhat remarkable results. A spelling bee and "singing games" were included, and refreshments were served.

At the close of the evening Mrs. Charles F. White, on behalf of the ladies of the church, presented Mrs. Patterson with a crocheted bedspread, and F. A. Thayer, as spokesman for the men, gave Dr. Patterson a lounging-robe. Mrs. White and Mr. Thayer in their remarks commented on the fact that Dr. Patterson's transfer had come as an unwelcome surprise to the local church, but that the congregation rejoiced in the notable promotion Dr. Patterson had received. They summed up the achievements of his pastorate here, notably the building of a new church and parsonage, and the establishment of a sound financial basis, and spoke of the unusually happy relations which have existed between pastor and people.

In responding, both Dr. and Mrs. Patterson said that they had come to look upon Oakland and St. Paul's as home, and were leaving, at the direction of the Conference, with great regret. Dr. Patterson then gave printed copies of a portion of his final sermon preached here to those present.

CITY COUNCIL CONTRACTS FOR ADDITIONAL WELLS

Water Supply Has Not Kept Pace With Demand, It Is Stated By Officials

MAY ADD 1 OR 2 WELLS

Sensing the need for an additional water supply for the city's use, the Mayor and Council met in special session at the council chamber Monday night and approved a plan for the drilling of one or two additional wells on the water farm at the northwest edge of Oakland.

It was pointed out at the meeting that demands on the water supply were increasing and that the supply had not been increased since 1955, when a deep well was drilled on the property belonging to the town.

At that time an emergency arose when the Mount Airy Canning Company at Mountain Lake Park sank a deep well and evidently struck the stream feeding one of the wells on the local water farm, which failed several days after the canning company began operations at its plant.

Aubrey Brenneman, local well driller will drill the additional one or two wells and will start the work upon completion of a contract he has at the Swallow Falls CCC camp.

The only other business to come before the special session was an application for a permit to build a two-story brick veneer residence on Second street. The application was made by Frank A. Smouse and the permit was granted.

Robert Lohr, formerly with a tea company as a salesman, has resigned his position with the firm and taken a position with the Mayor and Town Council and is associated with James Compton in the water department of Oakland.

THEFT OF SEVERAL CARS MAY BE SHORTLY SOLVED

CCC Youth Jailed For Vacationing In Borrowed Motors

An 18-year old CCC enrollee who allegedly uses his leaves of absence from camp to swipe automobiles was apprehended Tuesday by Constable Harry Hinebaugh and brought to the county jail here.

Hinebaugh nabbed the youth on the Bittinger-Grantsville highway shortly after he had wrecked his latest "steal" and said the youth's name was Ralph Cole, of Coraopolis, Pa., a member of the Meadow Mountain CCC camp in the Bittinger section.

According to the constable, Cole has admitted the theft of at least three cars from this section, and it is believed that a car stolen from the Leighton Brothers garage early in September last year was one of them. The car was found near Uniontown, where it had been driven without any water in the radiator and where it had been abandoned after it became so overheated that the motor was ruined.

Cole is said to have admitted the theft of another car in Uniontown on September 10, last year, possibly on his return trip to the camp at Meadow Mountain after the Leighton theft, and is said to have left the car in the woods near the camp.

The youth, said to have spent 17 months in the Pennsylvania Training school for boys for larceny, will be held for federal authorities for possible prosecution under the Dyer national motor vehicle theft act, it was stated.

The youth was taken from the Oakland jail Tuesday evening by Trooper Storm and transferred to Cumberland, but according to local authorities will probably be returned to answer charges of gasoline thefts committed in the Bittinger section.

Mr. Jones has taken possession of the goods and will probably make sale of the same within a short time.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS SUE ROADS COMMISSION

Case Is Docketed For Return Of Public Roads Maintenance To County Authorities

SECTION OF LAW IS CITED

Through their attorneys, Horace P. Whitworth and Walter C. Capper, of Allegany county, the three County Commissioners have filed a bill of complaint and entered suit against the State Roads Commission of Maryland, for the return of the roads system of the county to the County Commissioners for repair and maintenance.

The bill of complaint stated in part that a request for the return of the roads had been made to the State Roads Commission and such request having been refused, the Court is asked to command the presence of the Commission members or their attorneys, to appear and abide by the decrees that may be passed in the matter.

The County Commissioners are seeking the return of the roads for maintenance through the correct interpretation of Chapter 766 of the Acts of the Maryland Legislature, session of 1939, and which they claim has been incorrectly interpreted by the State Roads Commission in Baltimore. Section D of Chapter 766, upon which the Commissioners base their contention in part, reads as follows:

"If any county desires to maintain its own county road system in the manner provided in sub-section (b) hereof, it is permitted to do so, and if such county desires so to do, it shall be entitled to 50% of the funds allocated to such county under the provisions of this section, the other fifty per cent thereof to be expended by the State Roads Commission for construction and or reconstruction of lateral and farm-to-market roads . . .

The State Roads Commission has fifteen days from the date the bill of complaint was filed in which to answer, after which time the Court will set the time of hearing the matter.

G. Blaine Giessman, Cheston H. Browning and Paul M. Friend compose the Board of County Commissioners, and Ezra B. Whitman, P. Watson Webb and W. Frank Thomas constitute the State Roads Commission of Maryland.

LOCAL BOTTLING WORKS CONSTRUCTING NEW PLANT

Has Outgrown Present Building; Will Move Within Two Months

A. V. Schaeffer, owner and manager of the local Orange Crush Bottling Company, started construction of a new bottling plant here last Friday.

The new building is being located on a lot on Oak street, with a frontage facing on First street, with the entire lot running through to the Manhattan Hotel alley and adjoining the Ringer Independent Service Station.

Mr. Schaeffer states that the business has outgrown his present location on Liberty street and that the new structure will afford him 400 additional square feet of floor space.

The bottling room will be 16x30 feet, with a storage room 20x65 feet. A second floor over the bottling room will be utilized as a syrup room.

About two months' time will be required for the construction of the new building.

In passing sentence Judge Sloan temenered justice with mercy, resulting in the paroling of a number who were guilty of crimes committed.

THREE WRECKS FROM ONE CAUSE GREAT DAMAGE

Car Load Of Five Persons Narrowly Escape Death; 2 Other Wrecks Follow As Result

TRAFFIC ON B. & O. TIED UP

One person was injured and approximately $2,800 damage was done in three wrecks Saturday night, each wreck more or less connected with the other.

The automobile of William Crane, of Grafton, was completely demolished on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad crossing at Mt. Lake Park, when it stalled in front of a fast freight. Mr. Crane, 23 years old, who is employed by the Cumberland and Allegany Gas company and resides in Mt. Lake Park with an aunt, attempted to drive across the tracks at the Park and his car, a Terraplane, stalled when it was directly over the west bound tracks. Mr. Crane was accompanied by his aunt, Mrs. Alma Bell, and by Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Smouse, of Fairmont; and Carl Liller, of Mt. Lake Park. The party saw the headlights of the train before they attempted to cross the tracks but thought it was a helper engine standing up the line, but when the car stalled the warning bell nearby was ringing and looking up they saw the approaching locomotive. Leaving the car immediately the members of the party were able to run about 12 feet from the machine when the crash happened. The car was thrown approximately 75 feet and came to rest several feet to the right of the west bound tracks.

The train ran its length before being brought to a stop, the caboose being on the crossing when it finally came to a standstill, and after an inspection the train continued on to its destination. After the train had gathered a little speed the engineer noticed an unusual vibration in the front part of the locomotive and before he could stop again the two front cylinders and pistons were broken and otherwise badly damaged. A part of the engine was dragging upon the ground when the train stopped. It is reported that approximately $2,000 damage was done to the locomotive, but it was thought by the crew that the accident on the crossing at the Park was not responsible for this damage.

Upon being advised of the accident in the Park by their son, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Crane left their home in Grafton to come to Mt. Lake and ascending Cheat River mountain on Route 50, their car was sideswiped and rolled into an embankment. Mrs. Crane was painfully but not seriously injured and the damage to the car amounted to $350.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT BEFALS J. FRANK BROWNING

Precipitated From Loft and Fracture of Vertebrae Results

Yesterday afternoon about 3:30, J. Frank Browning, whose home is on the east edge of Oakland, fell a distance of about eight feet when he trod upon the end of a loose board in a loft overhead. In falling Mr. Browning evidently struck upon his head, as upon examination under an x-ray it was found that the third servical vertebrae in his neck had been fractured.

Mr. Browning was immediately taken to a hospital in Cumberland after the extent of his injuries had been determined by Dr. N. I. Broadwater and Dr. Eugene Baumgartner.

Mrs. Browning, accompanied by Miss Zaidee Browning and Rev. Fr. Sauer motored to Cumberland this morning. The injured man's condition is considered extremely serious, but there is reasonable hope and assurance of his recovery.

ISAIAH: FORETELLING THE BIRTH OF THE MESSIANIC KING

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah 7:14; 9:1-7; 11:1-5.
GOLDEN TEXT—His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace.—Isaiah 9:6.

Christ is coming! Christ has come! Christ is coming again! All three of these great truths are declared by Holy Scripture. In our lesson for today we study the prophecy of His birth which was given by Isaiah about 750 years before the event took place, and with it we find many beautiful details concerning His blessed character and accomplishments. It is entirely appropriate that the lesson for today should be taken from the Old Testament and relate to the prophecy of the coming of the Messianic King, thus binding together the Old and the New Testaments. Isaiah's prophecy prepares us to study His life in the Gospel of Matthew, beginning next week.

I. The Coming of the King (7:14; 9:1-6).

To us it is entirely understandable that the Son of God was to become flesh and dwell among us and that all the grace and power of God should be upon Him, for we know that He did come in perfect fulfillment of the Scriptures. But let us not fail to note the marvel of this revelation made centuries in advance through God's prophet.

1. Born of a Virgin (7:14; 9:6).

He was to be born. Christ did not come as a fully matured divine being after the fashion of the so-called gods of mythology, but He entered our needy world as the Babe of Bethlehem's manger. What infinite condescension!

He was to be born of a virgin, and so He was. There are those who would minimize the importance of this, or try to explain it away by interpreting the word "virgin" to mean a young married woman. The late Robert Dick Wilson, an outstanding authority, says, "The great and only difficulty lies in disbelief in predictive prophecy and in the almighty power of God, or in the desire to throw discredit on the divine Sonship."

2. God with Us (7:14).

"Immanuel" means "God with us." Isaiah had a foregleam of the incarnation which brought the eternal Son of God into that God-man relationship which was absolutely indispensable if there was to be redemption. Sin had made a barrier between God and man which man could not pass, and only as the God-man, Christ Jesus, came through that barrier to be "God with us" could there be any hope of our salvation.

3. A Great Light (9:2).

The Messiah was to break through the dense darkness of sin and sorrow to bring light and joy. How gloriously that prophecy has been fulfilled!

II. The Character of the King (9:6, 7; 11:1-5).

The prophet foretold not only the meaningful names of the coming Messiah, but pictured in glowing beauty the mighty things which He was to accomplish.

1. Revealed by His Names (9:6).

"Wonderful"—that word has been so misused that it means comparatively little to us. It really fulfills its true meaning in Christ. He is unique, remarkable, yes, truly wonderful. "Counsellor"—in every detail of life, great or small, an infallible guide. "Mighty God"—not just like God, or representing God; Christ is God. "Everlasting Father"—the tender and loving, unfailing One to whom time does not bring any change, for He is the "Father of eternity." "Prince of Peace"—He is not yet the ruler of the nations of the world, hence we hear not only of wars but of rumors of wars. Mark it well that there will be no enduring peace until He comes to reign whose right it is to reign, the divine Prince of Peace.

2. Revealed by His Deeds (9:7; 11:1-5).

Eternal justice and righteousness, peace, wisdom, understanding, counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and the fear of God, unfailing equity—all these glorious accomplishments are to characterize the Messiah according to Isaiah's prophecy.

Has the prophecy been fulfilled? We know that all of these qualities were in Christ when He came to earth the first time, but the complete fulfillment of this prophecy awaits that day toward which the child of God looks with joy and hope when Christ shall come again. As we study this portion of our lesson, our hearts should cry out with John, "Even so, come, Lord Jesus" (Rev. 22:20).

To Gain Truth

Truth is never learned in any department of industry by arguing, but by working and observing; and, when you have got hold of one truth for certain, 10 others will grow out of it. The assertion of truth is to be always gentle.—Ruskin.

TEACHERS OF GARRETT HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

All Instructors Of The County Assemble For Discussion And Solution Of Their Problems

OFFICERS OF ASSOCIATION

Opened by the President of the Board of Education, W. W. Dawson, local attorney, and immediately being turned over to the chairman, Miss Kate Bannatyne, the annual meeting of the school teachers of Garrett county got under way early Friday morning for an all-day gathering.

Dr. A. B. Leamer, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, conducted a devotional service.

The purpose of the meeting was summarized by Miss Bannatyne, who emphasized the necessity of such a gathering early in the school year to iron out problems confronting teachers in the schedules, which in some cases have not been satisfactory after two-weeks' trial and to complete plans in preparation for an outline of work to be accomplished during the current school year.

Addresses were made by Dr. H. P. DuPuy, local health officer; Dr. J. H. Knox, Jr., chief of bureau of Child Hygiene, and Miss Kent, of the School for the Deaf at Frederick.

Dr. DuPuy spoke on various contagious diseases of children and the treatment thereof, and dwelt at some length on sanitation in and around school buildings.

Dr. Knox spoke on pre-natal care and the possibilities which were presented to the school teacher in rendering service in their respective communities to counsel expectant mothers in presenting to the country healthy, normal children.

Miss Kent, who is in the county testing the hearing of pupils of the second and fifth grades in grammar school and the Freshmen of the High schools, and all other children who are referred to her by their teachers, demonstrated an audiometer.

The afternoon session was given over to a business meeting of the Garrett County Teachers' Association.

An election of officers made Frank Getty, principal of the Grantsville High school, president; Mason Callis, principal of the Mt. Lake Park school, vice-president; Virginia Kalbaugh, Oakland, secretary, and Ernest Spoerlein, Oakland High instructor, treasurer.

The treasurer's report was made and approved, and a report of the treasurer of the Board of Trustees of the Franklin E. Rathbun Loan Fund was made. The Franklin E. Rathbun Loan Fund is a fund set aside by the members of the Teachers' Association for the purpose of aiding four-year Garrett county students at State Teachers Colleges.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS . . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

The Two Views

As the divergent points of view concerning the attitude America should assume in the European war become clearer, the apprehensions that harm will be done by the inevitable "full debate" in the special session of Congress do not seem to be well-founded.

* * *

The reason is because both sides are in accord on the two basic things—first, in being anxious to keep out of the war; second, in being anti-Hitler in feeling. Thus, the debate over neutrality revision would appear to be about details, and there should be no occasion for bitterness. Particularly, there will be no occasion for bitterness if each side will ascribe the same sincerity to the other which it claims for itself.

* * *

While his position as President prevents him from stating the facts in unequivocal language, still the Roosevelt acts and words make his feeling perfectly plain. He wants to keep this country out of war but is definitely committed to a policy of aiding Britain and France in every way he can "short of war." The argument is that helping France and Britain is merely enlightened selfishness, that their success is national insurance against our involvment; that fudamentally their cause is ours; that their defeat would make our position in the world both painful and precarious.

* * *

Hence, the President wants to lift the embargo against shipping arms and ammunition to belligerent nations, with full knowledge that this will operate to the advantage of the Allies and against Germany. He does not think that is the way to get in the war. On the contrary, he thinks it the way to keep out, and in that view he is supported by many prominent Republicans and Democrats who abhor his domestic policies, think his economic theories absurd.

* * *

The other point of view is that the openness with which the Roosevelt Administration has taken the English-French side brings us to the very edge of war where any emotional wave, caused either by propaganda or events, might sweep us in. The assertion is made that it is not possible to keep neutral if as a government we are openly sympathetic with one side; that lifting the embargo definitely puts us in that position, and, as Senator Vandenberg says, "We cannot become an arsenal for one side without becoming a target for the other." In brief, the contention is that inevitably the lifting of the embargo will put us in the war.

The general belief is that most of the American people share Mr. Roosevelt's view in this embargo controversy; that eager as they are to stay out of war, still they want to ship ammunition, arms and supplies to the Allies, and that Congress will reflect that desire by adopting the Roosevelt-Hull proposal. But that is no reason for imputing insincerity to the men who urge the other view. And it is no sign of "lack of national unity" if they urge it very strongly, because they make it clear that they are just as desirous of seeing Hitler defeated as is Mr. Roosevelt. The difference is that one side believes we could peacefully "attend to our own business" even if Hitler should win the war, while the other thinks a Hitler victory would distinctly menace America.

It is unjust to question the patriotism of the Senators who oppose the President in this matter, but it is equally without justification to charge that Mr. Roosevevlt wants to "drag us into war" or is using the war situation for political purposes. However, the President could promote the cooperative spirit in Congress and achieve the "abandonment of politics" for which he appealed, if he would do two obvious and clearly indicated things—first, stop some of his close friends in the Administration from trying to capitalize the war for his political benefit; second, make a statement that would end all suspicion in any quarter that he hopes the war will lead to a third-term nomination. Both of these suggestions have been made to him, but they do not seem to register.

This Correspondent Is Of The Opinion That Hitler Is As Yellow As A One-hued Canary, And That Is Pretty Yellow

To the Editor of The Republican.

As a result of a letter written to the editor by me and published in the March 16th issue of The Republican regarding Nazi-inspired un-American activities in the U. S. A., I received a letter from a mysterious critic disapproving my personal attitude toward the great Reichfuehrer, Adolf Hitler.

No sooner had breezy March been disposed of to make room on the calendar for showery April, when I received a letter from Washington, D. C., Box 1442. No other address was given—neither name nor street. The letter read in part:

"Please don't be too hard on Hitler . . . he is being led and guided by God . . . Hitler says so himself," etc.

This amusing, absurd statement was revived anew in my memory recently when I read of Hitler's passionate hope for victory in the present British-French-Polish German conflict.

"I know that God will favor us with victory as right and justice are on our side," the preening papa of the Nazi regime stated.

I do not know who the person is that wrote me from Washington, but it is quite obvious that his ideas, opinions and plans coincide—perhaps thru cooperation—with those of Herr Hitler.

Red ink was occasionally used in the six-page letter to emphasize various Scripture passages quoted for the purpose of illustrating that European citizens are destined eventually to recognize nnd accept Nazi dictatorship.

Let me say to my dear Washington critic: I am a non-influential individual and my candid opinion or anyone else's is going to affect in any way Adolf's supremacy in the Reich. But, my D. C. friend, you'll never convince me with red ink, or green, that Adolf Hitler is anything but yellow! Nor that God is leading so ruthless and cruel a person. Don't worry about my crude columns; they won't bother your little Adolf any more than mosquitos would bother you on a January morning in Northern Greenland.

While Naziland troops were tearing their way into Poland, the vaunting, egotistical dictator of the Fatherland was tearing his larynx, declaring:

"Now that Poland, conscious of British protection, has undertaken the most aggressive acts against the Reich's territory, I have decided to burst open the ring laid around Germany."

"Poland," Hitler also asserted, "would not have resisted peaceful revision of her frontiers without British support."

Perhaps it is true that Poland would not have resisted the Nazis. If Henry Armstrong, former lightweight champion, was engaged in a bitter argument with Joe Louis, wouldn't it be sensible for the 155-pound fighting Henry to settle peaceably with the two-hundred-pound tamer of jittery contenders for the world's heavyweight boxing crown?

Hitler's land conquests have invariably been perpetrated among Europe's lesser countries, and this alone, dear critic, is a silent indication that in the region of the fuehrer's vertebrae there must be some semblance of color that would correspond amazingly well with a dandelion or warbling one-hued canary.

DIARY OF THE WAR

Condensed For Readers Of The Republican

FRIDAY—German troops were retreating from advance positions in front of Saarbrucken as a strong drive by French forces pressed around the German city.

The French communique said that German prisoners were taken during local advances hy French troops. An earlier communique said that there had been heavy artillery action by the Germans south of Saarbrucken.

The position of the enemy guns and the intensity of the shelling was not disclosed.

It was reported that the shelling had covered a German retreat and that the French command had ordered its troops to advance and take over the evacuated positions.

Secret Advances

The French general staff has concealed exact details of the various advances into German territory because it wished to prevent the Germans from learning about them.

It is reported that the Germans have retreated before the French advance on Saarbrucken and taken up defense positions previously drawn up.

French troops advancing between Saarbrucken and Hornbach are reported to have been stopped by mine fields planted by the Germans.

Eastern Front

Germany announced the surrender of the Polish port of Gdynia after a two-week siege. The Polish commandant surrendered the city under the conditions imposed by the Germans, along with one hundred hostages.

German communiques from Poland told of advances on Warsaw and two other Polish objectives.

Neutral Rights

A statement setting forth the rights of the United States as a neutral nation under international law was issued by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Fully realizing the gravity of the situation arising from the British and German blockades and submarine warfare, the American Government warned belligerant nations that the United States has not abandoned any of its neutral rights and will not abandon any of thos rights.

A commentary appearing in Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz accused President Roosevelt of being "unfair, anchivalrous, not to say unneutral" in applying the Monroe Doctrine to Canada. The article argued that the United States would have to see to it that American nations do not attack non-American nations if it expects the rest of the world to keep away from the Western Hemisphere.

Bombing

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that if Germany bombed civilians in Poland, Great Britain and her Allies would be strengthened in their resolve to remove the "menace" they are now fighting.

He added that the British Government would never resort to deliberate attacks on women, children and other civilians merely to terrorize them.

Bremen Report

A report from Berlin says that the North German Lloyd liner Bremen was taken to the neutral Russian port of Murmansk, on the Artic Ocean, northeast of Finland.

SATURDAY—The German communique said that French troops which attacked three days ago near Schweig, had been driven back under heavy artillery fire.

A brief announcement by the French high command said that a German air fleet had been defeated in a battle over the front lines of the western front. The German planes were said to have attacked the French advance lines, but were driven back by French chaser planes.

The French communique stated that position taken during preceding days had been consolidated and that a German counter-attack had been repulsed. An earlier statement said German troops were retreating down the Moselle river valley before French pressure.

An official British announcement said that a number of German submarines have been destroyed by patrols of British destroyers and aicplanes.

Russia called a million men to arms yesterday. At the same time there were reports that Russia and Japan have negotiated a border-war armistice.

Pravda, Communist party journal, said that the Soviet Union and her armed forces must be prepared so that military events do not catch her unawares.

The draft effected citizens born during the second half of 1918 and in 1919 and all high school graduates born in 1920 and 1921. The graduates will receive training as officers.

Diplomatic representatives to Poland from various nations have been forced to flee war-stricken Poland to Rumania. Among those crossing the Rumania frontier yesterday was American Ambassador Anthony J. D. Biddle, his wife and daughter.

A second batch of men was called to arms in Great Britain. It is not known how many men Great Britain now has under arms or how many men have been sent to France, but early in the summer some information about planes for a British expeditionary force was made public.

Under the program instituted by Leslie Hore-Belisha, British War Minister, it was proposed to form an expeditionary force which would comprise thirteen infantry divisions, three armored divisions with tanks, three motorized territorial divisions, two territorial eavalry brigades and a number of unbrigaded units composed of regulars and territorials.

SUNDAY—Squeezed between victorious German forces on the west and advancing Russian troops on the east, what was left of Poland yesterday gave signs of imminent collapse.

President Ignace Moscicki, head of the Polish Republic, fled across the border into Rumania. Poland's State archives and gold reserve are now in Rumania, and 132 Polish planes landed during the day in Cernauti. Pilots and crews were interned by Rumanian authorities.

The fate of Warsaw remained in doubt as the German High Command announced that German commanders were awaiting a Polish delegation from the beleaguered city under flag of truce.

In Berlin it was freely predicted that the complete surrender of Poland was only a matter of hours.

Russian Advance

After crossing the Polish border at daybreak Russian troops advanced into Poland along an 800-mile front. Scattered reports indicated that they were meeting with little resistance.

From Riga, Latvia, it was reported that there was little Polish resistance

Principal Russian columns were believed to be keeping close to the railroad lines leading eastward across Poland.

German Successes

Germans reported the capture of Kutno, important Polish city seventy-five miles west of Warsaw; of Deblin, seventy-five miles southeast of Warsaw, and of the citadel of Brest-Litovsk, northeast of the capital. German reports claimed the capture of substantial quantities of prisoners and artillery, together with many grounded planes.

While the strategic situation of Warsaw appeared virtually hopeless, the city still quartered a large portion of the Polish army, capable of putting up a desperate resistance if a surrender is not negotiated.

Western Front

On the Western front the French reported that they were holding their position in the Saar region after having repulsed two forceful German attacks.

In the Saarbrucken sector, the French said, they repulsed wave after wave of attackers seeking to force the Allies back from their newly won positions.

The French General Staff reported that the Germans were shifting whole divisions and large air force units from Poland to the West.

War At Sea

War continued on the high seas as Britain reported the loss of two more ships. Both were said to have been torpedoed. A Norwegian motorship was revealed to have been destroyed by a mine off the Dutch coast with the loss of seventeen lives, including those of two American passengers.

The American State Department announced that twenty-eight Americans were believed killed in the sinking of the Athenia two weeks ago.

MONDAY — Russian and German troops met in Poland yesterday. The two invading army commands were reported making plans for joint occupation of the country.

The official German news agency reported yesterday that the attack upon Warsaw had been resumed. During the period since 10 Sunday night hostilities had been suspended around the city.

Air Force Released

The Germans consider the Police campaign so nearly successful that they have released the air force from its task in the east and sent many units to the Western front.

It is thought that the German army will halt along its present line of occupation, which amounts to approximately the western two-thirds of Poland.

Unjustified Invasion

Great Britain declared yesterday that Russian invasion of Poland could not he justified by the arguments put forward by the Soviet.

Western Front

German information said little about fighting on the Western front. The Germans claim they shot down a French plane; otherwise, they say, no noteworthy activity took place.

Fighting is said to be going on along a front extending from Luxembourg to the Rhine.

MT. LAKE PARK

We have just finished reading an article on a dahlia show, which has held the spotlight in all papers within a radius of one hundred miles and was held only a bare seventy miles from Garrett county. What we are trying to say is that there is no reason in the world why Garrett county should not have a show of this character. For instance right in our own community we have some wonderful dahlias, and grown in our own neighborhood.

Mrs. Timothy Moon not only has dahlias, but she has the finest iris we have ever seen. Mrs. N. E. Wildman brought us the largest dahlia it has been our pleasure to behold. He, zinnias are the largest also, so why not sponsor a flower show here in Garrett county.

In Oakland, our sister city, we have some real flower lovers and after looking at their gardens we could not but wish that others might see and enjoy these lovely blooms. Max Jarboe has a marvelous garden; Harold Harned specializes on certain specimens.

It's just too bad that with all we have here nothing is done. We have no doubt that if a flower show were put on it would draw many people. All through Maryland and West Virginia there are garden clubs. Horticulturalists from many places would come to see what is produced here, which reminds us that a certain dean of agriculture carried back to his college a great many acorns. There is much interest in acorns. They are edible if properly handled. We are not an authority on this, but before the winter is over we shall be. Anyhow, if they are good to eat, then we say let's eat them.

Somehow when we look at Garrett county we always have the feeling that it is not exploited enough.

It would not be a bad idea next year to hold a "Court of Flowers" pageant and give it at sunset. After all one cannot witness more beautiful sunsets than those seen here. You will be surprised at the results and at the number of people that will be drawn to see the show. Certainly we have the foundation laid by the growers of flowers in this community.

"Beware—Bad Dog"

This is a good sign, but unless it is properly posted and well lighted, it would be rather difficult to read at night.

It seems some people keep a dog just to kick at when they walk on the porch, others keep them to drive cows and for pets, but one dog proved the worth of his keep which was evidenced by two loud reports that rang out in the vicinity of Accident about three o'clock on Sunday morning.

No one desires anything like the almost tragic episode that occurred near here about a year ago, but there are those people who do believe in signs and others who cannot or do not read; so, when your dog stays at home and barks at night, get up and look about, and you will probably find the solution long sought in putting a stop to some of this petty thieving and night prowling.

Sunday Services In Community Churches

Red House Lutheran Parish

Rev. A. K. Jones, Pastor

"Filled with the Fulness of God" is the pastor's sermon theme next Sunday morning. The church service at Gnegy is 9:15, and at Red House at 10:40.

September 24th is Luther League Day, and the subject at the Sunday evening service is "Youth About the Father's Business." This reminds us of the question of Jesus when Mary and Joseph found him in the temple at Jerusalem after a long and sorrowful search. He was just a lad of twelve years at the time, but he was anxious to learn from those who taught religious truth. "After three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the teachers, both hearing them and asking them questions." The parents of this parish are invited and urged to join with the young people in the service at 7:45 Sunday evening.

"—it appears Buick is going to be the spark plug of the 1940 General Motors lines"

WE think the statement quoted above takes in altogether too much territory.

Everyone knows all General Motors cars are good cars and good values—no one division needs to "spark plug" that great line.

Just the same, it's true that here at Buick we're straining our suspenders to produce something special for 1940.

We've spent, for example, eight millions more for tools, dies and new plant equipment to make sure of that.

We plan to offer you for next year not only our accustomed four Series of cars, but two completely new numbers also.

There'll be something pretty important for you to learn about in connection with making our famed Dynaflash engines even more to be desired.

In every Buick there'll be more swell features of ride and stride than you've got time to count.

So, whether we're "spark plug" or not next year—who cares?

The main thing is, we'll be "in there pitching" with the grandest automobiles you ever saw!

Lucas and Nider were found guilty and sentenced to thirty days in the county jail.

Cole came to the CCC camp in July from the Pennsylvania State Training School at Morganza, after serving 17 months of a 21-months' sentence on a larceny charge.

NO ONE NAMED YET TO SUCCEED REV. TRIMBLE

Episcopal Priest's Resignation to Become Effective October 22

No announcement as to who will succeed the Rev. David C. Trimble as rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, has been made, according to members of the Vestry, official church body.

Rev. Trimble, rector here for the past nine years, tendered his resignation last week, to become effective on October 22. Rev. Trimble is now on his vacation in Nova Scotia and will return to Oakland for his regular services on October 8. He stated in his letter to the Vestry that he had accepted a charge in the diocese of West Texas and that full details of his plans would be given when he returned from his vacation.

During his pastorate here Rev. Trimble had a new parish house constructed in Oakland and served congregations at Deer Park, Altamont and Swanton. The Wilson-Altamont Log church at Altamont was also constructed during his ministry.

His resignation came as a surprise to his parishioners. Several months ago he had declined a call to Morgantown, W. Va.

Kitzmiller High School Has 100 Per Cent Enrollment

The Kitzmiller High school has an enrollment of 157 students, including 56 freshmen. All pupils who graduated from the surrounding elementary schools and who were eligible for high school, have enrolled. The number from each elementary school is as follows: Kitzmiller 30; Shallmar 4; Vindex 12; West Vindex 10; total 56.

There are also 175 pupils in the elementary school, making a total of 332 pupils in the Kitzmiller schools.

SCHOOL BOARD TAKES UP MUCH ROUTINE BUSINESS

Bus Transportation Contracts Awarded; Study Means to Raise Money for Teachers' Increase

NEW TEACHER APPOINTED

A number of routine matters were diseussed and disposed of at a meeting of the Board of Education yesterday afternoon with all members of the board and F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, present.

Contracts for transportation of pupils were awarded as follows: Swallow Falls to Oakland, Charles E. Tusing; Austin Michael's and Warnick-Jacobs to Barton, Austin Michael; Colmer's to Barton, Paul Coimer; Sweitzer, Green Glade and Painter communities to Swanton, Jas. W. Friend; Wright's to Salisbury-Pocahontas road, Samuel Wright; Horcheler's to Grantsville, John Horchler.

Miss Dorothy Weaver was appointed assistant teacher in the Kitzmiller High school. She is a graduate of Hood college and is from Altoona, Pa.

The Board authorized the sale of the abandoned Walnut Bottom school building to Seidel Turner, Swanton. Herbert Sharpless, Swanton, was appointed trustee of Mt. Zion school, succeeding Herbert Sharpless, who moved from the community.

The board approved dismantling the Trap Run and Mar's Hill abandoned school buildings, and using materials in the construction of another building at Black Hawk, on the site of the one destroyed by fire of unknown origin on August 27.

Mr. Rathbun said careful consideration was given to suitable surfacing of the playground at Oakland Elementary school, so as to reduce the dust. Fire insurance protection was authorized for the additions to Oakland Elementary and Kitzmiller school buildings.

Mr. Rathbun stated the Board had been unable to arrive at a satisfactory solution of the problem of salary increases for teachers, even after careful study for several months. The General Assembly of Maryland, 1939, passed a new salary law for teachers in the public schools of the state. The law for raising additional money for the increases does not become effective in this county until the next county levy is laid in January, 1940. No financial arrangements have been made for raising the additional amounts for salaries for September, October, November and December. The amount necessary is about $1,200 per month, Mr. Rathbun stated.

W. R. Pancake has been appointed to succeed G. A. Hinds as manager of the C. and P. Telephone company at Oakland, Kitzmiller, Friendsville and Accident, according to an announcement by J. L. Barrow, manager of the Cumberland area. Mr. Hinds is being transferred to Cumberland. The appointment became effective about a week ago, but the official announcement was made yesterday.

Mr. Pancake started with the telephone company in Cumberland, later being transferred to Oakland where he has been employed until his promotion. He is a native of Romney, W. Va., and was educated in the local schools of that city.

Mr. Pancake will have as his main object the improvement of telephone service for present subscribers and the provision of service to those now without telephones.

OSCAR TURNEY IS ASKING $3,000 FROM CUMBERLAND

Files Suit Seeking Money For Hospital Expenses of His Son

Cumberland's so-called "d e n t h curve" atop Washington street hill resulted in docketing of another suit in the Circuit Court there yesterday.

The plaintiff this time is Oscar Turney, father of Milton Turney, who was awarded damages of $2,500 at the April term of Circuit Court in Allegany county for injuries received when the car he occupied overturned on the curve last November 6.

The jury's verdict was appealed by Cumberland's attorney, C. Z. Heskett, and the case is pending on the October docket of the Court of Appeals.

Mr. Turney will ask $3,000 for hospital expenses of his son and compensation for loss of his earnings, according to Attorney Lewis M. Wilson, who docketed the suit and who represented young Turney in the first suit.

Stanley Stark, driver of the car in which young Turney was riding, also has a suit pending against the city as a result of the crash. All plaintiffs are from Oakland.

No Use to Insure or Register Mail To European Countries

I. R. Rudy, postmaster, received a reminder from the postoffice department yesterday to the effect that indemnity would no longer be paid for the loss of registered articles in the regular mails addressed to foreign countries when the loss of such articles is due to causes beyond control.

This regulation has been in effect for a number of years but the postal department was calling attention to it since the Alex Van Opstal, Belgian ship, had been sunk by a German sub, which carried 79 sacks of regular mail, 267 registered articles, 10 sacks of letters and 31 sacks of newspapers and other prints.

The regulation also applies to parcel post and insured packages, Mr. Rudy stated.

Woodmen Circle To Reorganize

The city council is asking that those who expect to offer their cars please give their names, number possible to accommodate, and other information to Arthur Lawton, city clerk, at the Council chamber, or hand to a member of the council.

All parts of the county cooperated in the pageant starting with the grant of land from England and the laying of the Fairfax Stone. The Indian village was represented by Thomas and Davis high school pupils. There were songs by various groups, music by the Thomas Band, historical and educational scenes showing the progress of people in that section.

Miss Sara B. Huff, Mountain Lake Park, was pageant supervisor. Over 700 people took part. A number of people from Garrett county attended.

The purpose of the meeting is to make assignments to members for addresses to be made at various schools throughout the county concerning Armistice Day, November 11.

GOVERNOR O'CONOR BRAGS ABOUT STATE OYSTERS THEN OFFERS GARRETT COUNTY SPUDS TO IDAHO

Chief of State Declines Bid To Judge Potato Digging Contest As A Neutral Governor

It would be a safe bet that Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor is fully as popular as a bad cold in Idaho.

Last Thursday Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen of Idaho invited O'Conor—as a neutral governor whose state was not concerned with potato production—to referee a potato digging contest between Bottolfsen and Gov. Lewis O. Barrows of Maine at Blackfoot, Idaho.

O'Conor refused to stay neutral, and forthwith wrote back that Maryland potatoes were fully the equal of Murphies raised in Maine or Idaho. He declined the invitation to referee, explaining—in a manner to endear him to no Idaho Chamber of Commerce secretaries—that he couldn't pass up the succulent new oyster crop in Maryland just for a mess of Idaho spuds.

And Thursday he really did sink the harpoon in Idaho pride.

The soil chemist at the university of Maryland reported Garrett county soil was ideally adapted to the production of outstanding seed potatoes. So what does Gov. O'Conor do but arrange to have a box of Garrett county soil shipped to Gov. Bottolfsen and Gov. Barrows to "show them what top-quality potato soil looks like."

He added a word of advice that if they really want a good crop in 1910, they can make arrangements to get Garrett county potato seed. (Editorial comment, page four.)

THE INFANCY OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 2:13-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—And they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.—Matthew 1:23.

Looking forward to an experience in life which promises to be both interesting and profitable always brings a glow of expectation. Something of that spirit should pervade the Bible schools of our land as they begin a six-months study in the Gespel of Matthew.

Consideration of our Lord's life properly starts with the story of His birth, but we reserve that for our Christmas lesson. Today we stress the manner in which the Child Jesus was received into the world. Men then as now, were either for Him or against Him. God had only one attitude, that of loving protection and preparation of His Son for His ministry.

I. Christ in the World of Men.

The world of today is far different from that of the first century, but the difference is all on the outside. Almost breath taking have been the developments of modern civilization, but these have not changed the heart of man. He still fears and hates and fights and sins. His attitude toward Christ is unchanged. There are still only two classes of people in the world—those who have received Christ and are saved, and those who have rejected Him and are lost.

1. Against Christ.

How do men show their rejection of God's Son? Just as they did at His birth, by: a. Fear. Herod was afraid lest the coming of this one should result in the loss of his ill-gotten gains. His anger and fear made all Jerusalem afraid. b. Indifference. When the Wise Men asked where Christ was to be born, the priests and scribes knew exactly where to find the facts in the Holy Scriptures, but having done so, they relapsed into utter indifference. They had no interest in the fulfillment of the prophecy. c. Hatred. Herod poured out the violence of his heart by killing the first-born. He was the first of many who have raged against the Christ in futile anger. d. Sorrow. The tears of the mothers of Jerusalem but foreshadowed the weeping and wailing which characterizes Christ-rejection both in time and eternity.

2. For Christ.

Thanks be to God, there were those in that day who were for Christ and, like those who follow Him today, they showed: a. Spirituality. Men have marveled that the Magi knew of the birth of Christ. They must have studied the prophecies of the Word and been responsive to the teaching and moving of the Holy Spirit. Can we say as much for ourselves? b. Interest. Not content to know and to marvel, they shamed the priests of Israel by their persistent interest in this great thing which had come to pass. c. Love. They brought themselves in worship and they brought rich gifts from their treasures. You can give without loving, but you cannot love without giving. d. Action. They came. They persisted until they found the Christ. Then they listened to God and protected His Son by not returning to Herod.

II. Christ in God's World.

Men had brought sin and ruin into the world. They had rejected His Son, but God still ruled and we see Him protecting, preparing, and fulfilling prophecy through His Son.

1. Protecting. Men may hate and seek to destroy God's Son. Satan may inspire them with ingenuity and cunning, but see how the Eternal One speaks to Joseph in dreams, how He prepares a place of refuge in Egypt and ultimately in Nazareth, where the boy Jesus may increase in wisdom and stature and favor with God and man.

2. Preparing. God knows of the days of public ministry which are ahead and above all, of that day when on Golgotha's hill Christ was, in His own body, to prepare salvation for you and for me. God is not taken by surprise. He moves forward to the completion of His plan with the stately tread of eternity.

3. Fulfilling. God also sees to it that prophecy is fulfilled. We read in verses 15 and 23, "that it might be fulfilled" and in verse 17, "then was fulfilled." God's Word is always sure, for He makes it so. His infinite and eternal faithfulness guarantees the fulfillment of every prophecy, yes, and of every promise of His Holy Word.

Progress of Mankind

In my youth, looking at this man and that, I marvelled that humanity had made so little progress. Now, looking at man in the multitude, I marvel that they have advanced so far.—George Gissing.

No Love Without Service

It is as impossible for love to thrive without service as for a plant to grow without soil. Love feeds on what we give, not on what we get.

Traveling Outlooks

I and my family crossed several state lines during the past two weeks. Everytime we did so we sensed almost at once that we were in a different state. There may be no real reason for it, but the landscape seems to change. A lot of times that feeling of change is apparent when going from one county to another, although not so much so—and yet upon our return I immediately felt that the air was fresher and more invigorating the minute I struck Garrett county.

As we passed through each state Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts, Vermont, Connecticut, New Jersey, the lay of the land seemed different, the farming was different, the homes were different. I learned that although I still thought Garrett county beautiful, that there were also many other beautiful places. Even the farm homes and grounds in the above states looked as neat and well kept as the Loar home on Second street. Streets were so wide and shaded, homes were so beautiful and in proportion, and churches were majestic and still numerous, which is a good sign that in spite of Communistic propaganda and German Bunds in this country people love their churches and all they stand for.

I learned that the city had some advantages over the country, but that nothing could compare to the joy of living in a small or medium-sized town. The rush in the city to make twice as much money and then have to spend more than twice as much to live as comfortable as most small town people live, would never be to my liking.

I learned to be grateful for Garrett county climate. In New York state there were sad evidences of the drought there this summer. Cattle searched in vain for nourishing grass in the brown fields. Corn was only half its normal height and the stalks were brown and withered. Two nights there was a freeze, but Garrett county was not touched.

Highways and road markings in different states were interesting. The commands were positive, not negative. They didn't say "don't do this." they said, "Keep in line," "keep to right," "single line." In every state motorists were informed frequently of speed laws and that they were strictly enforced: Pennsylvania, 50; New Jersey, 40. Maryland speed law was raised to 50 by the legislature in June but the signs still say 45. The State Roads Commission isn't breaking any of the speed laws in getting them changed. Trucking is a problem for the pleasure motorist. But what can he do about it? Grass is growing along the banks of the highways in Vermont creating a pleasant change from the yellow clay and mud banks along Maryland's highways. Near Scranton they had leased the old road bed of a railroad and had made the Lackawanna Trail. There was hardly any grade and the curves were gradual. Scranton people didn't seem to mind a huge coal tipple right in the heart of the city. Many entrances to mines there are said to be right down through the cellars of homes. Antracite mines made Scranton and I guess they realize it.

Borden's cows at the World's Fair exhibit was a curiossity that attracted unusual attention. It never occurred to me before how many city people there might be who had never seen a cow. The herd got milked electrically before every bodl's eyes and they cared not one jot or tittle.

Maryland's building at the Fair is very insignificant, but the taxpayers would probably have hollered had much been spent on it They could very easily have had some pictures of Garrett county scenery and the fact that Western Maryland is a resort area. But their photos were of old residences for the most part—Baltimore and the Eastern Shore. Their exhibits seemed to be of the past, not of the future. West Virginia, on the other hand, exhibited its scenery and industries in illuminated pictures.

The Russian building in the foreign group was the most amazing of all. It was the most impressive of all, and millions of dollars must have been spent on it—for the one purpose of attempting to spread communism in the United States. For people who might not realize it was simply propaganda the whole spectacle was dazzling. But it's a good risk to bet that most of those who see the building will realize it and that communism won't be one bit better off. Possibly they will be worse off. They don't figure their people in Russia evidently in terms of human beings. They figure them in terms of workers.

When it comes to a choice, I'd much rather be a human being with a right to think and work for myself, and so would every other real American.

It's surprising how the presence of children will bring out friendliness from perfect strangers and apparently hardened city people, but it certainly does. In restaurants, hotels, at the Fair, in New York stores and buildings and in the subway, people just naturally became friendly. We took it for granted the boys was the cause. It couldn't have been that they suspected I was fresh from the country and Oakland. Or could it?

The completed Sang Run road extending west from Route 219, to the Youghiogheny river bridge here, can no longer be classed among the secondary, lateral or "feeder" roads. Having been constructed entirely of crushed native blue limestone obtained from a quarry adjacent to where the road terminates at the Yough bridge, the road rivals Route 219 for durability, width and smoothness. Both base rock and smaller chips used in connection with the tarring process, consisted exclusively of native limestone crushed and screened at a quarry from which hundreds of tons of stone have, and are now being distributed to other roads near here. The finished project here was constructed by WPA labor and under WPA supervision. Road officials have stated that this is the only one-hundred per cent native limestone road in this county.

Jelly Making

With all the different fruits seen along the roadside and in the markets, no homemaker should be guilty of not having enough jelly to last through the winter.

The tart apples, grapes, etc., with their flavor meet the first requirement for good jelly making. They, too, have sufficient quantities of pectin and acid which, with added sugar, make up the threesome needed to make jelly "jell". The juices from these fruits may be successfully used alone or may be mixed with less acid and pectin fruits for good jelly. Now, too, is a good time to mix some of the tart fruit juices with previously canned juice for jelly.

In the process of making jelly, experts always advise working in small batches—no more than about 8 cups of juice at a time. Roughly it takes about 8 pounds of apples, grapes, or quinces—weighed after they are prepared for cooking—to make 8 cups of juice. This with sugar will boil down to approximately 16 average-sized glasses of jelly. Working with small quantities makes it possible to carry the jelly process through promptly, and lessens the likelihood of over-cooking.

Other ways to avoid over-cooking are to use only enough water with the fruit to cook it soft; to use large, flat-bottomed pan for cooking, and to combine fruit juice and sugar for the final boiling without preheating the juice. Too much cooking destroys fruit color and flavor and cuts down the power of the pectin.

After the fruit is cooked soft it should be strained twice to make sure the juice is clear—then sugar added. Tart apples and quinces need about ¾ cup sugar to 1 cup juice; crab apples need 1 cup; and grapes, from ¾ to 1 cup.

Last act in jelly making is boiling sugar and juice. Stir until the sugar is dissolved—then boil rapidly. Take the sirup off the stove when it gives the "two-drop" or "sheeting off" test—that is, the sirup no longer will run in a steady stream off the edge of a spoon. Instead—the last of the sirup runs off slowly, hesitating on the edge in two distinct drops that sheet together. At this point the jelly is ready to pour into sterilized glasses, let cool and seal with paraffin wax.

There is no particular advantage in making up more than one year's supply of jelly, as it loses some of its bright fruit color and flavor if stored too long.

Makers of grape jelly are sometimes unpleasantly surprised when they open it to find that crystals have formed in the jelly—giving it a gritty texture. One way to prevent these harmless cream of tarter crystals is to let grape juice stand overnight in a cold place before combining it with the sugar. The crystals settle to the cold place before combining it with it again. Another way to prevent this formation of crystals is to combine grape juice with the juice of other fruits.

Paragraph Opinions . . .

Our Potatoes Get Boost—

Garrett county potatoes have been given a boost by Governor Herbert O'Conor, in declining a request from Idaho's governor to be a judge in a potato-digging contest. The Idaho governor termed O'Conor a neutral governor whose state was not concerned with potato production, and Mr. O'Conor pointed out that Garrett county potatoes were superlative.

It is true that Garrett county soil can grow some of the best potatoes in the nation, and it can also grow some of the worst when no care is taken in the course of production.

In past years Garrett county has gained quite a reputation for excellent potatoes, and it is up to the farmers and potato growers to live up to that reputation and maintain it. There is not much of an excuse for poor grade potatoes when experiments are being made in this county each year to determine the best kind of seed to use and the kind of soil. This information is available to any farmer who desires it.

There is always danger that the careless grower, with an inferior crop, will ruin the county's reputation by marketing his products just on the strength of such reputation. Unless the standard is maintained each year the county's reputation will gradually be lost, so it is up to the producers to see that all potatoes that are marketed as Garrett county potatoes, are of the best, and when our potatoes are the best the county can produce, there is none better anywhere in the United States.

An article in the October Country Gentleman tells of the Sequoia potato, which has been obtained through various experiments and cross-breeding. Some of these experiments were carried on in Garrett county and details are available from the county agent.

Chance For Farmers—

It was a revelation to see last week how a state can push its products providing the people cooperate. There is hardly a roadside stand in Vermont that doesn't display attractively its maple sugar and syrup products. The syrup was in various sized jugs and bottles and the sugar was in neat packages. They were asking $2.00 per gallon for their syrup and probably getting it, too, although not from me. I saw no reason for going clear to Vermont just to get some Garrett county maple syrup.

Farmers of Garrett county who have sugar maple groves should give this serious thought. It may take a little more trouble to prepare it for market carefully, but the return will be much greater than if they ship it in big drums to Vermont, as has been the case for many years.

Almost Too Silly For Words—

These writers from the city who try to characterize Garrett county just by looking at a bunch of statistics, and who never get any farther in Western Maryland than Hagerstown and think they have reached the edge of civilization, certainly appear silly at times.

The author of "Down the Spillway" in The Baltimore Sun, ought to feel ashamed of his deductions. He admits his ignorance about Garrett county but makes the statement that the county is in a bad way, judging from statistics gathered in Hagerstown and the fact that the coal mines and forests are depleated here. He evidently couldn't even conceive that there would be agricultural land in this county.

The occasion of his visit to Hagerstown was to get out of the city heat and he reveled in the invigorating and intoxicating sunlight and the cool breezes. Judging from his remarks about Garrett county he must have stood bareheaded in the sun a little too long.

He gathered from statistics that Garrett county couldn't support the population that lives here and that even turning all the mountains into forest preserves could not save the situation. If enough people moved away he seemed to think the county would supply a fairly good living for those that remained.

Now, using the same logic, it would be just as reasonable for me to say of Baltimore, that it was in a bad way. There are more people on relief rolls in Baltimore city than in the entire remainder of the state, which would indicate, using the same logic, that Baltimore has declined, and the people there can't make a living. Providing all those unemployed would move away, all those remaining could support themselves.

The Baltimore columnist says he has a vague plan about visiting Garrett county for a little first-hand investigation. To say that he is in for a rude awakening would be putting it mildly.

A BOOST FOR DEMOCRACY

Signing of that Nazi-Soviet non-aggression pact was one of the most illuminating things that has happened in recent years for the United States.

Certainly it was one of the greatest boosts upward for real democracy that this country has had for some time.

It not only exposed the essential identity of Communism and Naziism, but it has shocked emotional and deluded liberals into realistic consciousness of the affinity of much of the New Deal philosophy with totalitarian ideologies.

Basic in the New Deal and in totalitarianism is the voluntary surrender of individual freedom of thought, the unquestioning acceptance of opinion handed down from above, the willingness of the individual to become a devoted corporal in the rear guard of a regimented people.

Nothing could be more abhorrent to the democratic principle. Yet only recently we had an illuminating illustration of the totalitarian infection here when the President of the United States told Democrats that they must nominate a candidate of his choosing, or else!

The Soviet-Reich pact also has sobered those starry-eyed liberals who shouted for more government spending without giving a thought to where it was leading us.

All too few Americans were shocked when Adolph A. Berle, the New Deal Assistant Secretary of State frankly told them that if New Deal policies are carried through "government will gradually come to own most of the productive plants in the United States."

Now they realize that our Adolph over here may be as dangerous to political and economic liberty as the Adolph over there.

LABOR'S FALSE FRIEND

The amount of time lost by American workers because of strikes last year is appalling. Figures just made public by the International Labor Organization, at Geneva, show that in 23 countries strikes last year caused a total loss of 24,407,000 working days. This amounts to about 67,000 years.

Strikes in the United States caused a loss of 25,000 years, or 37 per cent of the working time lost because of strikes throughout the entire world.

The figures constitute a devastating indictment of the New Deal's labor policies. They are the more impressive in view of the fact that it was as far back as July, 1935, when the President signed the Wagner Labor Relations Act, which had as its objective "to diminish the cause of labor disputes."

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

One difficulty about Washington is that you become so intent looking at the trees you cannot see the forest. President Roosevelt frequently has said as much and puts his words to practical application by annually making a journey across the country. He proposes to do so this year—in October. It is a good idea. Everyone connected with national affairs should get out of Washington regularly and take a look around the country to see and hear what is going on.

But we wonder whether Mr. Roosevelt on such trips really gets the heart-beat of the country. He rides in a special train and seldom gets a chance to rub shoulders with ordinary folks. Democratic leaders, anxious to please, come aboard and whisper to the President that he is still the idol of the people. None have the courage to tell him unpleasant things. That is only human nature. Those who are critical of the Roosevelt Administration, of course, are not invited to come aboard the train.

F. D. R. Popularity Waning

If, despite such obstacles, Mr. Roosevelt really does feel the heart-beat of the country this fall, he is in for the surprise of his life. In the first place he will find out that he is not nearly as popular as he was a year or two ago. Secondly, he will learn that the country, generally speaking, is souring on the New Deal. Mr. Roosevelt will be surprised because his actions in recent weeks indicate an assumption or pretense that the country is as strong for him as it was in 1936.

We say this with some confidence because, adopting Mr. Roosevelt's rule the writer has made a trip across the country—not in a special train—not guarded by Secret Service men, but rubbing shoulders with all types of people in some dozen States out to the Pacific Coast and back.

We have avoided the viewpoints of the people who ride in the Pullman cars or who stay at the best hotels. We have chosen to talk with farmers, cattlemen, little businessmen, small town editors, men in overalls, and housewives. We visited the big cities but we also went down the dirt roads in the mountain and prairie States because we really wished to know what people were saying and thinking.

G. O. P. Enthusiasm Grows

Undoubtedly we talked with more Republicans than Democrats or New Dealers. Yet that does not impeach the value of the evidence we found because the spirit of these Republicans reflected the situation in their home communities. The fact that Republicans are more enthusiastic about their future prospects than it any time since 1930 indicates the switch that has taken place in public opinion.

In general it might be said that a shift in sentiment away from the New Deal and toward sense and sanity in government has taken place in all parts of the country. Apparently taxation has commenced to pinch the average man and woman and they are reacting as people always do when they are hit on the pocket-book nerve.

The reasons which prompted the House of Representatives to refuse even to consider the last Roosevelt spending bill become obvious to one visiting around the country. A popular revolt against further government spending is evident in every State. In any discussion of national politics the first thing you hear in that people have become wearied of ever-increasing spending and mounting government debt.

New Deal Failures Noted

People tell you that if economic recovery could be achieved through the Federal Government spending huge sums such action might be all right—that perhaps the country could stand it. But, they assert, it is now obvious that recovery cannot be achieved through spending.

Then they point out that the country is still confronted by most of the major problems from which it suffered in 1933. The 11,000,000 unemployed, the low level of farm prices, the precarious condition of many business enterprises and the sluggish condition of business generally are cited as specific instances of the failure of the New Deal to bring about recovery by spending.

These grievances are cited in every State visited. In addition, complaints are made about the failure of the New Deal farm plans, the administration of the Labor Relations Act, the operation of the so-called Reciprocal Trade Agreements and the Roosevelt Administration's encouragement of radical and Communistic elements. These will be recited in some detail in subsequent articles in this place.

Most surprising of all in the general feeling among Republicans that Mr. Roosevelt more easily could be defeated next year than a more conservative Democrat. Indeed, the feeling among Republicans generally seems to be that Mr. Roosevelt should be encouraged to seek a third term—since he would be certain to split his party asunder and would go down to defeat.

IT'S YOUR MONEY; SPEAK UP!

Federal, State and local tax collections last year amounted to $114.09 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

That's what you're shelling out because of New Deal reckless spending and New Deal encouragement to extravagance in State and local governments by handing over Federal funds on a "matching" or proportion basis.

Think what you could do with that $114! Those long-needed repairs on the house; a new suit of clothes and perhaps a new dress for the wife; all of the things the children will need to go back to school. But why go on? You know what you could do with $114!

The $114.09 you had to kick in to cover the expenses of government for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1938, was 79.6 per cent more that you had to come across with in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1932.

Why? Because the cost of government in the United States under the New Deal has increased 44 per cent from 1932 to 1938.

But there's more than that. Total taxes collected by all units of government in the United States for the fiscal year 1938 amounted to $14,811,000,000 But enpenditures, excluding provisions for debt retirement totaled $17,470,000,000.

This means that even with the $114 a year each of us has to kick in, total tax collections are still way behind what our government units are spending. The more we're handing over to government, the deeper we're getting into debt.

There are only two answers.

The New Deal answer is spend and spend, tax and tax.

The answer of the great mass of the American people is put an end to wasteful spending and so reduce taxes.

The choice and final decision is up to you!

THE CROWNING INSULT

Once again President Roosevelt presumes to set himself up as the sole and absolute judge of what the Democratic Party stands for and who is entitled to be considered a Democrat.

This latest affront to distinguished Democrats who have devoted their lifetimes to serving the party but have refused to be seduced from traditional Democratic principles by the gaudy tinsel of the New Deal extravaganza can serve only to widen further the breach in the party ranks.

In his characteristic dictatorial manner, Mr. Roosevelt in a message to the Jackson Day dinner of the Young Democrats last winter brusquely told Democrats who did not share his views to quit the party.

Now, in a message to the Young Democrats in Pittsburgh, he threatens to "take a walk" himself if the party does not bow to his commands or does not jump when he cracks the whip.

It is the crowning Roosevelt insult to those patriotic Democrats who have kept the torch of Jeffersonian principles burning bright amid the darkness and devastation of the New Deal.

But they are made of sterner stuff than Mr. Roosevelt foolishly supposes. They are not the type of men to be bullied. Senator King, of Utah, we believe, expressed the opinion of all of them when he commented thus on the President's bluster:

"Mr. Roosevelt didn't hesitate to leave the party and vote for Theodore Roosevelt, so he would have a precedent for declining to take part in the election of a Democrat who will be nominated at the next convention.

"The party founded by Thomas Jefferson was not a socialist party. It was a party founded in personal liberty and the dual form of government. There are millions of men and women in this country who still believe in the principles of Jefferson, Jackson, Cleveland and Wilson and who will not follow any fantastic, socialistic schemes fabricated by some who claim to belong to the party, but who were never members of it, and some of whom were found in other political parties."

CRIPPLED CHILDREN ARE HELPED BY EXPERIENCE

Twenty of the children who are under the supervision of the State Services for Crippled Children, were among the youngsters who spent the summer at the camp conducted by the Maryland League for Crippled Children in the Catoctin Recreation Area of the National Parks Service in the Blue Ridge Mountains near Thurmont. All of the children were apparently benefited by the experience.

The camp—appropriately known as Camp Greentop—opened soon after the schools closed in June, and closed for the season on August 24. There were 96 children in attendance: 76 from Baltimore City and the rest from the counties—Allegany, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Caroline, Charles, Frederick, Garrett, Prince George's, Queen Anne's, Washington, Wicomico and Worcester—were represented in the enrollment from outside Baltimore City. The children ranged in age from eight to sixteen years.

The two children at the camp from this county were May Sloan, of Red House, and Nell Browning, Oakland. It was the second year for the latter.

This was the third season for the Maryland camp, which is occupied under special arrangements with the National Parks Service. It is said to be the only one for crippled children in the Federal Parks Service. The camp is situated at an elevation of 1200 feet and occupies about 25 acres of well-cleared forest land with good roads and carefully tended trails. The buildings are scattered over an open plateau which makes the getting about easy for the youngsters using crutches or wearing braces. A swimming pool just the proper depth for the children is a center of attraction.

All of the buildings are rustic, substantially built, simply but attractively furnished and well adapted to the purposes for which they are used. There is a central dining room and large recreation hall, with a big stone open fireplace; a large well equipped kitchen, an administration building; twelve or more cabins which serve as dormitories; bath houses; handicraft and recreation houses, and the infirmary. The infirmary equipment was the gift of the American Legion Auxiliary of the Department of Maryland.

Record is kept in the administration building of the orthopedic requirements of each child, and the day's schedule of supervised play, or rest, and of exercise, is arranged in accordance with these recommendations. Swimming meets are part of the fun; nature study adds to the enjoyment of the woods; interesting skills are acquired during the hours in the handicraft house, and there is even a camp orchestra.

The staff for the season that has just closed included the director, Ernest Marx; the assistant director, Miss Irja Ryssey, and Raymond Donaldson, assistant in charge of the boys. The camp personnel also included the resident physician, a trained nurse, two physiotherapists and twenty-four counselors—twelve for the boys and the same number for the girls.

GOOD FOOD HABITS SHOULD BE FORMED BY CHILDREN

How To Teach Them Is Laid Down By The Department Of Health

These suggestions come from the nutritionist of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the Maryland State Department of Health:

Such remarkes as "Johnny does not have any appetite; I can't make him eat vegetables; he won't drink milk," and many similar ones, are frequently heard from anxious mothers who realize their children need certain foods, but do not know how they are going to make them eat. A few simple considerations often help in forming good habits. Here are some of them:

1. Be sure that your child is rested before he goes to the table. A tired child often has little appetite.

2. Be sure not to coax a child to eat and do not discuss his food habits in his presence. Often a child enjoys being the center of attention, and uses poor food habits as a medium for getting it. Get your child to clear his plate voluntarily by serving him small portions of each kind of food.

3. Set your child a good example. If parents are constantly discussing their own food dislikes their children will feel it necessary to imitate them.

4. Allow a reasonable time for each meal—20 to 30 minutes. If the child has not finished, remove the plate without comment and do not offer any food until the next meal.

5. Discourage eating between meals. A child who eats candy, cookies, ice cream or quantities of bread and butter between meals cannot be expected to be hungry at meal times. With the exception of the rapidly growing older child, the average child should take nothing but fruit between meal.

6. Serve your child the right kind of food. Fried food or too many sweets dull one child's appetite, so that he may not wish to eat food he really needs. Simple, well prepared food meets the child's daily needs and should include milk, green vegetables, a second vegetable and potato, orange or tomato and a second fruit, whole grain bread and cereal, an egg and a serving of meat or fish.

If your child persists in being a feeding problem, be sure to take him to your family doctor, because there may be some serious reason behind a persistent refusal to eat.

AGE OF YOUTH FALLACY

A California business man who travels around the state quite a lot, recently related some of his experiences with hitch hikers. This man picks them up, talks with them, obtains their viewpoints and exchanges his philosophy for theirs.

A majority of them, he related, are ardent New Dealers, particularly the younger ones. They are imbued with the enthusiasm of the New Deal and can hardly wait to get a job, join a union and begin to preach the doctrines of the "more abundant life."

The Californian who picks them up listens with sympathy and applauds their ambitions. He tells them he is for all this sort of thing; that he is getting along in years, has a small business, a few dollars tucked away and that he hopes within a few years to retire. Then he explains why he is for the "more abundant life" in about these words:

"I think all this security legislation is a great thing. It isn't going to cost me much. You young fellows are going to have to take care of me. As soon as you get a job you are going to begin to pay taxes for exactly that purpose. As your salary increases, your taxes are going to increase. When you try to go into business, you are going to be faced with more taxes. I can quit any time. In another few years I will be assured of my future, but you fellows are going to be paying and paying for taking care of me and thousands like me, as long as I live. You are 25 now, so it will be 40 years before you will get in on this. So you understand why I am for it. The New Deal is going to make a good taxpayer out of you."

Whether this has much effect upon the individuals probably nobody knows, but it brings up a point that might well be considered by the younger men who are starting out in the world. A continuation of the present course of government means that they will be saddled with a load of taxes that threatens to grow heavier each year. They may not realize the weight of this load, for extreme care has been taken to see that the levies are hidden. Indirect taxes have reached the point where they comprise a substantial part of the purchase price of every article we buy. It cannot be otherwise as long as we continue to go into debt at the rate of half a million dollars an hour, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. That is merely the debt, the deficit. It is not the total amount we are spending.

The New Deal, as the salvation of the young people, is a fallacy that is growing in public consciousness. What chance is there, for example, for another Ford, another Firestone, to mention but two of the great industrial figures who have made this country prosperous? These men created payrolls, brought about new methods of production which enable all of us to buy more for an hour's labor than in any other nation in the world. Their activity marked the greatest era in the nation's history. But now, we are told, they are evil influences. We are told that it is criminal to develop ideas on the scale that they developed theirs. It is impossible today for a young man, no matter how brilliant an idea he may have, to follow in their footsteps. It is becoming more difficult every day for a young man to enter any business. Why? All because of the burdens that are waiting for him and which he must shoulder before he makes a move in that direction.

America was built by individual effort and it became great by the same route. Destroy the incentive for that and America's greatness is at an end.

—The San Diego (Calif.) Union.

GRANTSVILLE

Receives Indian Handicraft As Token Of Appreciation

Mrs. P. Everett Sperry, Lawrence, Kansas, had an unique way of showing appreciation for an act of generosity on the part of a local resident.

Her husband is employed as project manager in connection with an Indian reservation in Kansas. In August they were returning home from a business trip to Washington, and admiring a bed of dahlias on the lawn of Postmaster and Mrs. Emmons Warnick here in Grantsville, Mrs. Sperry sent their son Bryon into the home to see if she might buy some of the flowers, which she termed in a letter written afterwards "the most gorgeous I have ever seen." Mrs. Warnick prepared a large box of the flowers for them. Before leaving the youth talked of his father's work among the Indians.

Last Tuesday came a small parcel to Mrs. Warnick from Kansas in which was a gift from Mrs. Sperry. It was a beaded head band made by a Pottawatomie Indian and is of exquisite workmanship. The design resembles wild grapes, red in color, with a leaf between each bunch, alternately a light and darker green. Blue is used in outlining and the background is white. Mrs. Sperry stated in her letter that the ornament is worn by the Indian maidens only when they dress in native costume.

Another interesting fact Mrs. Sperry related about the Kansas Indians was that the men usually wear a feather sticking up from their hats, even when at work.

MT. LAKE PARK

The very first memo we find is one from the officers and members of the Park Improvement Club. They desire through this column to thank all those who so generously patronized their supper last week, and also to thank those who have donated. Among the contributions of cash, there was one from Mrs. A. A. Richards, of Tulsa, Oklahoma. Reading in this column of the work being done through the club, she sent a most liberal cash donation. The supper cleared close to $47. We must not forget to mention also those workers who gave their time and energy to help beautify Crystal Spring and its surroundings. They have asked us to say that they appreciate the cooperation and help of the Mayor, Oscar Hall, nad the Council, and they extend thanks to Officer Wiley Welling. Mr. Harvey Criss, of Fairmont, Stanley Woods, Ray Martin and Roy Calhoun, all of whom worked very hard to make the place worthwhile. With the funds now on hand they expect to plan their program for next season.

While on the subject of the town (and somehow we always seem to be on that subject), all water plugs have been cleaned and tested and will be at stated times in the future. At the present time the plugs are in good working order should they be needed. It's a pretty comfortable thought that we are in shape should a fire start. Officer Welling has been busy painting the plugs yellow and black—the same colors used in Oakland. The reserve water tank has been inspected after a thorough cleaning and passed by Dr. DuPuy, public health officer. Three corrugated culverts are being laid. They are permanent and will last many years.

The past week saw the Park, or that part of it which was purchased by a group of Self-Help college people, pass back into the hands of the Association. Just what will happen to it we cannot say. It's been a right good football—this Mountain Lake Park. Well, we still have hopes that everything will turn out all for the best. It's a pretty fine place, we think, and so do a great many others.

CHANGES MADE IN STATE ROADS COMMISSION STAFF

Chaires and Thayer Go To Hagerstown—H. E. Rook Returns Here As Resident Engineer

POLITICS NOT INVOLVED

Changes in the personnel of the State Roads Commission, which were announced late last week, have effected the county set-up in two instances.

G. Baites Chaires, resident engineer for the Commission here for the past three years, was promoted to the position of maintenance engineer, with offices in Hagerstown. Mr. Chaires will be in charge of maintenance in four counties — Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick and will work under Leo T. Downey.

Ralph T. Thayer, who was senior supervising foreman in Garrett county, was transferred to Washington county where he was promoted to the position of resident engineer. Mr. Thayer will also maintain offices in Hagerstown and will move with his family to that city.

Harold E. Rook, who was in charge of the State roads here before Mr. Chaires' appointment and who since that time has remained in the employ of the Roads Commission in various capacities in Chestertown and Baltimore, will return here as resident engineer.

The changes were effective the first of October and the Chaires and Thayer families plan to move shortly to Hagerstown, while Mr. Rook and his family will return to their home in Oakland in a short time. The Rook home is now being occupied by F. A. Smouse and family, who plan to move to the Warniek apartments until their new home on Second street is completed.

Reorganization of the field personnel of the Roads Commission is being effected chiefly because seven counties are taking over maintenance of their own roads, leaving a surplus of Commission employes in those counties, according to Ezra B. Whitman, roads chairman. In reply to rumors that highway employe who were not identified with the O'Conor faction of the Democratic party were slated for removal, Mr. Whitman said, "There has been no political pressure brought to bear on us."

One of the features of the reorganization was the elimination of the job of senior supervising foreman in the counties. The more capable of these foremen, Mr. Whitman said, were to be transferred to other work subject to approval of the Board of Public Works and Harry C. Jones, State Employment Commissioner. The remaining foremen will be let out.

Counties which expect to maintain their own roads are Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Harford, Washington, Frederick, Howard and Montgomery. Two other counties, Prince George's and Cecil, were permitted by the Legislature also to maintain their own roads, but they both asked the Commission to continue to care for their roads.

Court decisions will determine whether Carroll and Garrett counties will be given the right to maintain their own roads through the administration of the Boards of County Commissioners of the respective counties.

The Carroll County Commissioners have set up the claim that the name of their county was removed from the measure authorizing certain counties of the State to maintain their own roads systems.

The Garrett county suit attacks the Commission's interpretation of the new law.

Legion Plans Drive For New Members

At a meeting of the American Legion on Monday evening a membership drive was planned with Elza Bray and I. R. Rudy being named captains of two teams for solicitation. The drive will end on Armistice Day, and a banquet for all members will follow on November 15.

F. R. Shaffer, post commander, stated the department commander and adjutant and the district commander would be invited to the banquet. The next regular meeting will be November 6.

Johns Hopkins University received a bequest of a million dollars for its history department.

Sportsmen To Meet Monday At Grantsville Hotel

Members of the Garrett County Sportsmen's Association will meet Monday evening, October 9, in the National Hotel at Grantsville beginning at 7:30, and a program of interest is being arranged by Henry Durst and Dan Hershberger, who are in charge of the affair.

They have secured Fulcher P. Smith, Cumberland, member of the State Game Commission; Joseph Menke, game warden; J. Wesley Kelly, Cumberland; and Neil C. Fraley, Oakland, for short talks. Mr. Menke will give a resume of the history of the Square Circle organization in Allegany county. Mr. Kelly will give an account of the Western Maryland Outdoor Life Federation. Mr. Fraley will cover the legal angle of what is necessary for a conviction in game violation cases. Mr. Hershberger said they also plan to have some farmer give his views on how a farmer looks upon sportsmen.

Meetings of the association are being held in various parts of the county, in an attempt to get closer cooperation between the different communities.

ACHIEVEMENT DAY BEING PLANNED BY HOMEMAKERS

First Demonstration Agent, Here In 1917, To Be Principal Speaker

A county achievement day for members of the Homemakers Clubs, marking Garrett county's part in the nation-wide celebration of the 25th anniversary of agricultural extension work, is to be held in the assembly room of the Methodist church in Oakland on Tuesday, October 10, beginning at ten o'clock.

Extension work in this county has been active only since 1917, when Miss Frances Gerber was placed here as part-time demonstration agent. Miss Gerber, who is now head of the Home Economics Department of Butler City Schools, Butler, Pa., will be the principal speaker at the meeting next Tuesday. She will review some of her war-time experiences and other activities in the county during 1917.

Home Demonstration agents following Miss Gerber have been Miss Henshaw, Miss Green, Miss Benthien and Miss Margaret K. Buttis. Miss Mildred Barton is the present agent.

Included in the program will be a recognition of charter members of homemakers clubs of the county. Grantsville club, the oldest club in the county, will serve a silver tea in the afternoon.

One of the clubs' activities this year is the study of Maryland authors, and Joseph E. Harned, author of Wild Flowers of the Alleghenies, will give an illustrated talk to the group.

Miss Jessie Guard will make a report of her trip to the 4-H Club Week at Washington, and there is also to be a report of the rural women's short course held at the University of Maryland this summer.

Members of the Garrett County Council of Homemakers Clubs will be elected.

Members of the Kitzmiller club will have special musical numbers for entertainment. Miss Venia M. Kellar, assistant director of extension in this State, will be present.

This meeting is expected to be of considerable interest to women of the county and those in charge are planning for a large attendance.

Shriners To Picnic At Swallow Falls, Sunday, October 8

Members of the Ali Ghan Shrine, including those from Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties, are planning to have a basket picnic at Swallow Falls next Sunday, it was announced by Charles Piper, Cumberland, chairman of the committee. He has as his assistant David W. Walter, as first lieutenant, of Oakland.

Members of this branch of the Masonic fraternity will travel to the Falls in their automobiles and probably three hundred or four hundred will be in attendance to enjoy the day.

Knights of Pythias Lodge Meets At 7:30 P. M.

Beginning tomorrew evening the regular weekly meeting of the Knights of Pythias lodge will begin at 7:30 instead of at 8:00 o'clock.

At tomorrow's session Prentice DeBerry, representative to the Grand Lodge, will make his report and plans will be made for winter activities. The picnic committee is also to make its report.

SAFETY DRIVE ORGANIZED TO CUT HIGHWAY DEATHS

County Chairman Asks Organizations and Individuals to Assist

In cooperation with State agencies and joining all the other Maryland counties, Garrett county opened its campaign for highway safety on Sunday by asking that information concerning Governor O'Conor's proclamation and other news about traffic deaths in the State in the past year be made known through newspapers, churches and all organizations and asking the cooperation of all in making the safety campaign effective.

R. E. Guard, of Friendsville, was named chairman for Garrett county one day last week by Governor O'Conor. The Governor said the increasing gravity of the traffic death problem prompted the campaign. Last year 446 persons were killed on Maryland highways and more than 10,000 were injured. This year the death toll is running 35 per cent higher than in the first nine months of 1938 and the worst fatality months of the year are ahead.

The plan is to have intensive safety drives during the first week of this month and the first weeks in November and December to emphasize the need for greater care in driving when road conditions are particularly bad.

"Save a life—perhaps your own," is the slogan of the State-wide safety effort. By education, safety precautions and legal measures it is hoped to inculcate "safety consciousness" so thoroughly that many lives will be saved and injuries to pedestrians and others reduced to a minimum.

Governor O'Conor, in his proclamation, asked that motorists and pedestrians exercise increased caution on streets and highways to the end that we may have a safer Maryland in which to live, and stop the totally unnecessary and disgraceful slaughter of so many citizens.

Truck Kills Herd Of Cows, Spills Coal, and Wrecks

Four cows were killed, a big coal truck wrecked and two occupants miraculously escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon as the truck descended the mountain west of Bloomington. The truck got out of control just after Thomas E. Martin, 26, of Wardensville, W. Va., the driver, put it in lower gear to descend the steep grade. The brakes failed to hold when he saw six cows ahead of him. The cows belonged to William H. Barnard, of Swanton, and were being driven westward by some of the Barnard boys.

The truck was a total wreck. Officer Austin H. Bikle stated. It had spun around, overturned after snapping a telephone pole, and landed on its top. Martin and his helper, Julius Landacre, 23, also of Wardensville, managed to crawl from the wreckage. Landacre had several broken ribs and lacerations and bruises. Martin was treated for minor injuries about the head and body at Potomac Valley hospital, in Keyser.

TABLELAND FAIR WILL BE HELD OCTOBER 18 TO 21

Eighth Annual Exhibit For This Area Again To Be Held At Gimbels, in Pittsburgh

TO AWARD CASH PRIZES

A number of unusual exhibits are being offered to visitors at the eight annual Allegheny Tableland Fair this year, to be held on the 13th floor of Gimbels Department Store, in Pittsburgh, from Wednesday, October 18, to Saturday, October 21, inclusive.

The Fair, sponsored by the Allegheny Tableland Association, was inaugurated in 1932 for the purpose of promoting the products of the Allegheny Tableland to the people of Pittsburgh. Cash prizes for exhibits from the farm, home and school will be awarded as usual.

The United States Department of Agriculture will have an exhibit comprising of soil, wildlife and forest conservation and show how to have a profitable farm crop. Another unusual exhibit will be a series of dioramas of the Department of the Interior. These are animated displays, showing activities of Government, such as the Boulder Dam in complete detail, the Virgin Islands, Hawaii, Alaska and other subjects portraying these sections of the world in minute detail.

The Bureau of Chemistry and Soil is also sending an exhibit of acrylic plastics, which consists of a modern process for preservation of the flora, agricultural and biological specimens in a transparent plastic, making it possible to keep specimens indefinitely, preserving their natural shape, size and colors.

The Conservation Commission of West Virginia is sending an exhibit showing their State parks and forest recreational facilities. Poultry raisers will again see an exhibit of fine turkeys and rare poultry collected particularly for the Tableland Fair.

The demand for entry blanks from all over the Tableland is said to be heavy. Tableland products may be on sale by those who so desire and by exhibitors of farm products at the Fair. They can take orders from the thousands of visitors who are expected to attend.

Any man, woman or child residing in the Tableland area is permitted to exhibit and compete for prizes. There are no charges, no commissions and no fees. An entry list may be procured by applying either to the County Agent in Oakland, or to Gimbels, at Pittsburg. All entry slips should be mailed by October 10.

All exhibits are to be packed with care and are to be delivered at point advised after the entry blank is received at Gimbels. Trucks will pick up these exhibits to transport them to Pittshurgh.

Exhibits may include designated types of farm products, jellies, preserves of other household products, fancy needle work, etc.

THE TOWN OF ACCIDENT IS HEADING FOR A BOOM— THAT IS, IF OIL DRILLERS GET WHAT THEY SEEK

Recent Tests Apparently Satisfactory As Modern Drilling Machine Is Now In Action

MUST DRILL 7,000 FEET

Although it may not reach the proportions of a California Gold Rush, nevertheless the town of Accident is headed for a boom. And the reason—oil or gas. That is, if all calculations of those in charge of drilling operations are correct, and of course oil drillers have been wrong before.

Apparently the lay of the land around Accident is quite similar to the land around Uniontown, Pa., where a well is now producing profitably and various investigations have been made in recent years at Accident by interested development companies.

Not so long ago quite a number of tests were made and the tests must have pleased the operators for it was less than a month afterward that they sent a modern well drilling machine to Accident. This is now set up on the farm of Harry Humberlson, on Town Hill and thus far they have drilled to the extent of 1,100 feet. They expect to go to 7,000 feet in order to reach the gas or oil, which they feel sure is there.

Several development companies have about every acre of ground under option for mineral rights and have kept these options over a period of years, landowners in that vicinity every year receiving checks for their options at the rate of about 25 cents an acre. A number of years ago drilling operations were undertaken at Accident but they came to an end when the tools were lost in the hole at a depth of 1,000 feet or more, and could not be recovered. It was estimated at that time that they would have to go 7,000 feet in order to strike gas or oil.

Just exactly what would happen at Accident should such a well be successful, can hardly be imagined. It would be the first well of its kind in Garrett county and certainly would create a hustle and activity new to this territory. It would increase land values immensely and of course create comfortable incomes for those upon whose farms there would be wells. An oil well would give the land owner every eighth barrel it produces.

Only 5,600 more feet to go and then they'll know, and The Republican is hoping for the best there is.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL TO BEGIN NOVEMBER 11

Added Responsibilities Of Red Cross Because of War Emphasized

The annual Red Cross Roll call, to obtain members in the national organization as well as the local chapter, will begin on Armistice Day, Saturday, November 11, and continue until November 30, it was announced this week by Mrs. E. G. Lanzer, publicity chairman.

Usually the drive lasted from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, but the proposed changing of the Thanksgiving date by President Roosevelt will not shorten the campaign in any way, it was stated.

Mrs. Paul B. Naylor will again act as roll call chairman. She expects to announce her district chairmen within a week or two.

MORETHAN FOUR HUNDRED ON AUTUMN EXCURSION

Members Of Baltimore Boosters Club Return Here For Visit

For the second time in as many years members of the Baltimore Booster Club came to Oakland to spend a day in the mountains and to see the beautiful scenery augmented by autumn coloring.

Four hundred twenty of them came this time on the Baltimore and Ohio excursion train last Sunday, and although the weather was not as favorable as it was during their former visit, they were given the opporunity to see Muddy Creek Falls, Deep Creek Lake and the surrounding beauty spots thru the courtesy of a number of Oakland residents who again offered their automobiles for the free tour.

The excursion train arrived in Oakland about one o'clock and after a brief welcoming address by Mayor Lawrence Fraley, the excursionists entered cars and busses and began their trip that lasted until after five o'clock.

Those on the train received their transportation, meals and the conveniences of a recreation car while enroute for $6.45 each.

Some of the officials on the trip included Charles Tregresser, counsel for the Baltimore Transit Company; Earl Courts, assistant to President Hill of the Transit Company; William Trautaian, Alan Copsey, Joseph Wolf, John Gast, Theodore Bowinkleman and Frank Weitzel, all of whom are connected with the Transit Company and with the Boosters Club.

The excursion was sponsored by the railroad company and the Mayor and Council of Oakland.

At a regular meeting of the Board on Monday evening three old-age assistance applications were granted. An announcement was made of the Maryland State Conference of social welfare, which will meet in the Lord Baltimore hotel, Baltimore, on October 30, 31 and November 1. All members of the staff are planning to attend.

Miss Ethel Miller, executive secretary, announced a CCC enrollment to take place on October 10. The quota in this county is 29 and there are already 34 applications.

SEVERE STORMS STRIKE PARTS OF COUNTY FRIDAY

Hail and Wind Do Hundreds of Dollars of Damage in Grantsville and Friendsville Sections

LIGHTNING STRIKES HOME

Garrett county's comparatively lengthy dry spell was broken last Friday with severe hail, wind and rain storms which caused hundreds of dollars of damage in various sections. The rain, however, was also beneficial to pasture and late crops and replenished water supplies which in many cases were getting extremely low.

The hardest hit town in the county appeared to be Grantsville. A severe hailstorm struck that community around 2:30 p. m. Friday, breaking out hundreds of window panes facing the west. Many panes were broken out of the Grantsville school building. Numerous street lights were smashed by the huge hailstones some of which ranged from one to one and a half inches in diameter. The Yoder school building, near Grantsville, was unroofed.

Lightning and hail were accompanied by a deluge of water which pounded the community for about ten minutes. Roof tops were damaged and a number of automobile tops were ripped off. Fruit and unharvested crops were severely damaged. The storm also put a number of the main telephone lines out of order in that section and some residents of Grantsville were without phone service for several hours. Lightning was reported sharp throughout the entire section.

In the Friendsville area a hailstorm was reported on Friday afternoon with only minimum damage, as there did not appear to be any wind at the time, but the wind in near-cyclone proportions returned Friday evening and moved the Rush church on its foundation, causing an estimated damage of $600, ripping up a number of outbuildings in that neighborhood and blowing down a number of trees. A large maple tree at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nicklow was blown down. The barn on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Friend was also blown down damaging their son Emmett's car. Numerous trees and light and telephone poles were forced down by the terrific wind.

At the Promised Land, near Hutton the farm home of A. Pearl Sanders was struck by lightning on Friday destroying his electric plant and causing damage to several rooms in his house, but fortunately no fire resulted.

At Deer Park on Friday morning during a thunder storm two horses owned by R. H. Lee were struck by lightning had killed. The horses were standing near a barbed wire fence.

The total rainfall from Friday until Monday evening was 3.18 inches, according to the government records at Weber's, near Oakland. The weather turned noticeably colder following the first storm on Friday and regular fall weather has prevailed since that time.

Elementary P.-T. A. Elects Officers, Plans Card Party

At the first meeting of the year for the Parent-Teachers' Association at the Oakland Elementary school last Thursday evening, Mrs. Roger Tower was elected president; Mrs. Hugh Hall vice-president; Mrs. Vernie R. Smouse, secretary; and Mrs. J. J. Ashby, Jr., treasurer.

Mrs. E. Z. Tower gave a talk on the purpose of the "special classes" being organized in the county this year in the schools, and Mrs. C. W. Ream, principal, outlined work in reading, music and art classes in the school. A report of a recent fire drill showed that the entire building was emptied in one minute, giving assurance to parents present at the meeting that in case of fire the pupils could be out of the building almost immediately. A discussion was held on the average attendance and it was decided, if conditions justified, the association would recommend an additional teacher in the school.

Plans for a benefit card party, to be held on Thursday evening, October 19, beginning at 8 o'clock, in the Elementary school building, were completed.

The American League Yankees defeated Cincinnati in the first game of the World Series, 2 to 1.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS . . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

More Third-Term Stuff

Persons who have talked with Mr. Roosevelt in the last few days assert with emphasis that he has no intention of making a third-term renunciation this year. He deeply resents the effort to make it appear that his present policies are designed to promote his political ambition. Yet, he angrily rejects the one suggestion which would completely discredit those efforts and kill suspicion.

* * *

Why? One reason advanced on the side of the President is that this suggestion comes from his enemies, who are trying to force him to action which would justify their own arguments. But, that happens not to be true. While ex-Governor Landon, his 1936 opponent, was the latest to urge this upon him, some of his strongest friends have urged exactly the same thing for a long time. His ardent admirer, Mr. Ray Clapper, for example, months ago publicly besought him to clear the atmosphere and strenghten himself by declaring he would not be a candidate.

* * *

Others, including at least one senator, privately have urged upon him the wisdom of such a course. To none of these has he been any more responsive than to Mr. Landon, whose plea he evades by telling reporters he has not read the "full statement." Since the Landon statement there have appeared additional magazine articles written by ardent friends insisting that his reelection is imperative. There seems among these a determination to use the war to stuff a third term down the throats of a reluctant people. It is significant that while the President resents the suggestions that he declare himself ineligible, he shows no resentment whatever at these articles declaring his reelection inevitable. On the contrary, the White House preserves an attitude of complete unconsciousness of such publications.

* * *

In refuting the argument that in the interests of national unity and to solidify support of his foreign policy he should squelch these friends and end their third-term agitation, it is said, on the President's behalf, that if he were to declare now that under no circumstances would he run again it would mean more politics at this session instead of less. There are various Democrats in Congress and out, it is said, who cherish White House aspirations. If the President were to eliminate himself it would stimulate them to great activity. Also it would encourage the Republican aspirants, three of whom are in the Senate, to play politics.

* * *

It is not easy to follow the logic of this. On the contrary, it would seem that if Mr. Roosevelt, appealing for an abandonment of politics, should demonstrate his sincerity by an unequivocal declaration against a third term and the muzzling of his too ardent friends, it would be very much more difficult for either Democrats or Republicans not to emulate his example and approach the question of foreign policy, rendered acute by the European war, from a nonpartisan angle. If Mr. Roosevelt set that kind of an example, there would be a real popular demand for an adjournment of politics.

* * *

But Mr. Roosevelt is not going to do it. Those who are in touch with him sty that he will make his third-term statement in 1940; that it has been his intention right along to eliminate himself before the convention, but he is determined not to permit his opponents to force his hand; that he does not subscribe in the least to the argument that support of his neutrality proposal is weakened by the suspension, fostered by activities and pronouncements of the Left Wing Dealers, that he is already running for a third term.

* * *

Perhaps he is right, and if he should definitely declare that he will not permit himself to be "drafted", it would not gain or lose a single vote for his neutrality proposals. But certainly it would improve the Washington atmosphere and make cooperation with him upon the part of the anti-New Deal Democrats and Republicans, without whom the neutrality fight cannot be won, much easier. It seems a pity that the President cannot bring himself to act in this manner now instead of waiting until 1940. What it means is that all through the neutrality fight there will continue to run underneath the current of suspicion that the reason he will not kill the third-term idea is that in his heart he cherishes it.

* * *

It obviously lies in his power to take that great controversial political question out of the situation. It would be the most convincing and unquestionable proof of his own nonpartisan purposes. Refusal to take it out keeps alive suspicions which however much he may resent them, are clearly his own fault. If there is politics in this fight where there should be no politics, he is responsible. It is impossible to reconcile his plea for nonpartisanship with a refusal to do the most obvious thing. Those who know the President best are convinced that the more he is urged in this direction the less the chance of his going in it.

MT. LAKE PARK

From henceforth until next spring this column will begin to grow thinner and more thin. At least that is the way it started out this week. The only news we could find was that "so and so" had gone. Nearly all summer residents have taken their departures, and Mountain Lake Park is once again settling down to the business of winter and coal fires. At that a coal fire has not felt badly the last few days. We are promised some good weather, however, during the present month. One place we called for news we were told that there wasn't any—that the "lady folks are too busy these days going to the cider mill." We thought she was just joking, but it turned out that she was not and that people really are doing that very thing, as there are so many apples to be used and not so many ways to use them. Well, cider's not so bad.

An article on a flower show for Mt. Lake Park and vicinity which we gave you a few weeks ago, has proven most profitable to us in the many lovely flowers given us. Hardly a day passes that some kindly person did not bring us some specially beautiful blossom from their garden. It has started us wondering. Why would it not be a good idea to praise some one's sausage or ham or any sort of food. Perhaps they might bring us samples of their wares. We wonder.

Red House Lutheran Parish
Rev. A. K. Jones, Pastor

Next Sunday the usual services at both Gnegy and Red House. The pastor will preach on the subject, "Fellowship with Christ." This follows the general theme of the series on "God's Faithfulness." We seem to live in a universe that is indifferent with regard to human struggles and sorrows. At times the races of mankind seem terrifyingly hostile and cruel to those who desire to live righteously in this world. Even so, God has revealed a method by which persons of faith in His goodness may unite in a fellowship that insures some comfort and joy for the present, and an inspiring hope for the future.

A special meeting of the church council will be held next Tuesday evening at Red House. A full attendance of the officers is required to attend to important matters of interest.

Judge George Stewart Brown Pays Tribute to The Rev. David Trimble, Episcopal Rector, Who Is soon to Leave this Field.

Chambers of George Stewart Brown, Judge,
United States Customs Court,
201 Variek Street,
New York City, October 4, 1939.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Dear Sir:—The resignation of the Rev. David Trimble is a terrible loss to the people of Garrett county, and particularly to those near the Wilson-Altamont Log Church, which he helped to establish and served so faithfully.

His wonderful work as pastor of his flock, in never missing a call, no matter what the elements were, will not be forgotten by the Backbone Mountain people.

While wishing him success in his new work, we all sincerely regret that he had to go. His place in our community will be difficult to fill.

Sincerely yours,
GEO. STEWART BROWN.

Says He Had No Red Light But Did Have Flood Light

Philip Filsinger, Deer Park, asked The Republican this week for the right of explanation in the collision case involving his threshing rig and the automobile of Miss Ruth Beckman.

On September 21 Mr. Filsinger pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to have a red light on his rig after dark on the Deer Park road on the night of July 28, for which he was fined in Magistrate White's court. But Mr. Filsinger explained that he did have a flood light on his machine which illuminated it sufficiently for a person to see clearly. Mr. Filsinger also explained that his rig was not being driven out upon the highway when Miss Ruth Beckman, Swanton, crashed into the rear, but that it was already on the highway going the same direction as the Beckman car. Miss Beckman, at a hearing on September 21, was found not guilty of a charge of reckless driving.

ONLY 139 QUALIFY DURING FIRST CITY REGISTRATION

Another Opportunity To Qualify Will Be on Tuesday, October 17

One hundred thirty-nine citizens of Oakland became qualified to vote at municipal elections at the first registration on Tuesday, according to Arthur Lawton, clerk-collector for the town. Another opportunity to register will be given those qualified to vote on Tuesday, October 17, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 7 P. M.

A law requiring every person in Oakland, of legal age to be registered before he can vote on local matters, was passed at the recent session of the Maryland General Assembly. Previously the only requirement was that a person be recognized as having resided within the corporate limits for six months, and be a regularly qualified voter in the county. About six hundred or more eligible citizens have not yet registered.

Boring Of Well Authorized

At the regular monthly meeting of the Mayor and Town Council on Monday evening the order was given to begin the boring of an additional well to augment the town's water supply. When completed it will make the sixth well from which the town derives its water supply. A large spring is also used.

Water consumption is increasing each year, Mr. Lawton stated, and there are now 452 meters supplying that many buildings. He added that both the reservoirs were now full, although they had been depleted to some extent last week, owing to the extended dry weather.

Council issued two orders: one that a policeman should meet night trains, to provide safety and information for any passenger who detrains here; and the other that persons riding bicycles after dark must have light placed on the vehicle.

Financial reports showed $69.25 turned in from the Sunday movie tax. Collections amounted to $2,986.21 which included about $800 in taxes and $203.64 in water bills. A bonding company's check for $1,795.83 was received making good the shortage in accounts in 1936 and 1937. Bills amounting to more than $1,900 were ordered paid. The largest items among the bills were for attorneys' fees, $500; the coasting accident cases of Ort and Welch, which were disposed of at the last term of Court. About $350 was spent on city streets during September. Another loan of $1,371.60 from the First National Bank was paid. According to the report, after paying the loan and monthly bills there was still a balance in the treasury of $2,125.27

THE FORERUNNER OF THE KING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 3:1-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.—Matthew 3:3.

When an earthly king visits his dominions or makes a journey to another land, great preparations are made for his coming. Everything is done to expedite his journey and to assure him of safety and comfort. The United States and Canada have recently had that interesting experience. The King of kings and Lord of Lords who in loving kindness and gracious condescension had come to earth to be our Redeemer had now grown to manhood and was prepared to enter on His public ministry. God sent John to be His forerunner to prepare the way and to herald His coming.

I. A Herald Prophetically Foretold (vv. 1, 3, 4).

The coming of John (usually called the Baptist) was of such vital concern to God that He had revealed it to His prophets hundreds of years before (see Isa. 40:3).

We should study and believe the message of the prophets. The same propheeies that pointed to John the Baptist and Christ's first coming also point to the second coming (Mal. 3:1-6; 4:1-6). We know the former took place, why should we doubt the fulfillment of the latter? We do well to take heed to the word of propheey (II Pet. 1:19).

Let us also prepare the way of the Lord, not as John did, for his was a special ministry, but by making ways for the gospel to reach the hearts of men. We can remove hindrances and obstructions, preparing their hearts to receive Him as Saviour and Lord.

II. An Unusual Man with a Burning Message (vv. 2, 6-12).

What an arresting appearance John must have made as he emerged to the edge of the wilderness to present his startling message! God had kept him (like Moses and others) in the quiet of the desert where He could talk with him, away from the distractions of so-called civilization. This simple living had made John a striking personality, quite unusual and uneonventional. The man who strives for such an appearance to attract attention is but a fool, but on the other hand uneonventionality will not destroy one's usefulness if he has a message from God.

The preaching of John was a burning message of repentance. There had been no prophetie message since the time of Malaehi, and in the intervening 400 years the religious life of the Jews had settled down into a barren legalistic formality. John came with a simple, practical, and plain-spoken indictment of sin, which led to repentance and which made religion vital and real again.

We know that the gospel of the grace of God in Christ goes far beyond the preaching of John. But we also know that the Church needs to get back to the proclamation of a vital heart-searching message, and some genuine old-fashioned repentance. Then we like John will bring men to Christ for salvation, for sanctification, for service.

III. A Humble but Privileged Servant of Christ (vv. 13-17).

The crowning event in the ministry of John was the recognition of Jesus as He came to be baptized. He was deeply conscious of his own unworthiness for this great work and pointed to the coming Saviour as the One in whom they should put their trust (vv. 11 and 14. See also John 1:29). John was not jealous of his own position, nor seeking his own advancement (see v. 3 and John 3:30).

To this faithful and humble servant came the inestimable privilege of baptizing the Saviour. The baptism of Jesus presents a mystery which we cannot fully solve. It is certain that He did not come to be baptized for the remission of sin, for He knew no sin. The best explanation seems to be that in His obedience to His Father He was willing to subject Himself to every ordinance of God—a spirit which is not too common, by the way, among His professed followers. He was not a sinner, but He took the sinner's place, and thus He both entered upon His ministry and pointed forward to that day when God made Him "who knew no sin" to be "made sin for us" so that "we might be made the rightcousness of God in him" (II Cor. 5:21).

Gracious Amid Gloom

Yet for all my Lord's gloom, I find Him sweet, gracious, loving, kind; and I want both pen and words to set forth the fairness, beauty and sweetness of Christ's love, and the honor of this cross of Christ, which is glorious to me, though the world thinketh shame thereof. — Samuel Rutherford.

A large percentage of the graduates of the Accident High school are enrolled in various colleges this year.

Vernon Seibert won the senatorial scholarship to Western Maryland College, ranking highest in the examination held at Cumberland early in the summer. Robert Storey ranked very high in the scholarship examination, so when the scholarship to St. John's College became vacant, Robert was awarded the scholarship in that college. Both of the above scholarships carry full tuition, board and room.

Eugene Schlossnagle has a partial scholarship at the University of Maryland where he is taking a course in vocational agriculture; Betty Scrogum also has a partial scholarship at the Bridgewater College; Marjorie Railey has enrolled in the State Teachers' College at Frostburg.

The Accident school has an enrollment slightly in excess of 300 pupils. In the elementary school there are 207 pupils, while in the high school the enrollment is 99 pupils. In both schools the attendance for the month of September was very good.

The Accident school is in great need of better housing facilities to take care of its present enrolment.

TABLELAND FAIR TO HAVE SOME UNUSUAL EXHIBITS

U. S. Department of Agriculture To Show New Ways Of Preserving Specimens

TO AWARD CASH PRIZES

An attractive and unusual exhibit of preserved agricultural and biological specimens, which has attracted world-wide attention, will be displayed at the eighth annual Tableland Fair, to be held in Gimbels department store in Pittsburgh from October 18 to 21, through the efforts of Dr. Henry C. Knight, chief of the bureau of agricultural chemistry and engineering, United States Department of Agriculture.

This work, which represents a new departure in attempts to preserve specimens, is now being conducted by the bureau in Washington for the purpose of preserving materials for use in scientific research, study and exhibition. Leaves, flowers, fruits, seeds, insects, and other biological material are preserved, with their natural size, color and shape being retained.

One method of mounting permits specimens to be encased intact in solid, crystal-clear transparent methacrylate plastic resembling glass in appearance, where their characteristic form and beauty may be viewed from any angle. The other method consists essentially in chemically treating fresh plant materials as sliced fruit, autumn leaves, or colored flowers, in such a manner as to toughen the tissues and set the natural color after which the specimens are preserved directly adhering to glass or between transparent cellulose film.

Included in the exhibit will be rare plant specimens including a four century old ear of corn exhumed from the grave of an Incan warrior near Lima, Peru, and a number of beetles and butterflies of brilliant color and iridescence.

The fair is for the purpose of promoting the products of the Allegheny Tableland and cash prizes for exhibits from the farm, home, and school will be awarded. Exhibits will be gathered by trucks from Pittsburgh after entry blanks are received. Usually a large number of Garrett county people participate in the Fair.

THE ACORN, OAKLAND HI PAPER, BEGINS VOL. 13

Staff Offers More News and Features—Edward Smouse Is Editor

The first issue of The Acorn, official student publication for Oakland High school, for the school year, was distributed on Tuesday afternoon. It was the beginning of volume 13 for the publication, having been started in 1927. Its staff this year includes Edward Smouse, editor; Isolde Boening, assistant editor; James Bell, business manager; with their helpers being Nancy Bolden, James Darby, Jo Downer, Christine Landis, Arlie Breedlove, Bill Stemple, Kathryn Butt, Mary Treacy, Eleanor Sinceli, and John Grant. Faculty advisers are Mrs. Cornelius Gisriel and Cari Everly.

This year the staff decided to enlarge the paper, thus giving the students more news and feature articles. Among the articles there is found the following information:

The Glee Club chose its officers of the year as follows: President, Maurice Davis; Vice-President, Annice Haney; Secretary, Marjorie Friend; and Treasurer, Eloise Rhodes.

Oakland High school is proud to announce another new course this year—Industrial Arts. Mr. Sheets gives valuable instruction to many pupils daily in the Industrial Arts' Department, perhaps better referred to as Annex III. The course itself is well adapted to high school students; furnishing each pupil information about things he will meet in the world and giving him exxperience and skill in manipulating tools and materials.

It also provides an excellent opportunity for students to become acquainted with the management of electrical and mechanical devices about the home and community and trains them in the selection of commodities necessary in every day life. The course includes trades exploratory, home mechanics, general wood work, general metal work, arts and crafts, and practical mechanics. These divisions cover a large field of lesser activities.

On Friday, October 6, the Dramatic Club held its first meeting of the year. Plans were made and discussed to present three one-act plays on November 17 and the usual three-act play on February 16; however, these dates are subject to change.

Officers for the year were chosen: Leona Dodge as president; Nancy Bolden as secretary; and DeCoursey Bolden, as treasurer.

The Oakland High School Art Department has formed an Art Club. The aims of this club are first, to obtain a studio in which members may sketch, do water colors and oil paintings; second, to take an active part in school affairs—for example, to furnish ideas for play scenery, to put on an assembly, etc., and third to have some social activities.

The following officers were elected at the first meeting which was held in the Art Room on September 8, 1939: Isolde Boening, president; James Darby, vice-president; Arlie Breedlove, secretary.

At the second meeting a constitution was drawn up.

MUCH NEWS OMITTED

Much news and quite a number of local letters and other interesting material are of necessity omitted this week on account of last minute demands upon our space for advertising purposes.

Earlier in the week, when it was known advertising would be heavy, the size of the paper was increased to ten pages, but even with the extra columns the space is found to be inadequate for the usual happenings and events. As much as possible of this material will be used next week.

LOCAL WOMEN ENGAGED IN SEVENTEEN OCCUPATIONS

Survey Is Made By Business And Professional Women's Club

A survey of women's occupations represented in Oakland and Garrett county, made this week by members of the local Women's Business and Professional Association in observance of National Business Women's Week, October 8 to 14, has shown seventeen occupations.

These included secretarial, stenography, bookkeeping, social service work, educational supervision, educational administration, teaching, telephone operation, nursing, beauty culture, public office, home demonstration work, recreational supervision, shop keeping, dressmaking, mortician, restaurant, hotel, and rooming house proprietorship.

Teaching here affords opportunity for the greatest number of women, followed by stenography, secretarial, and bookkeeping positions.

The theme of the week is "one hundred years of women's progress in the United States." It was pointed out that one hundred years ago Harriet Martineau, English journalist, visiting this country and found women engaged in seven gainful occupations, domestic science, keeping boarders, teaching young children, needlework, weaving, typesetting and bookbinding. In 1830, a census was taken by the National Business and Professional Women's Association of occupations and they found that out of 535 classifications of occupations listed women were engaged in 501.

Women's occupational progress in the future will depend upon two factors, competition of men, so many of whom are out of employment, and the traditional sex discrimination.

September Shows Reduction In Traffic Deaths

The monthly report of the Safety Department of the Commissioners of Motor Vehicles discloses that the first nine months of this year show eight more deaths than the corresponding period of 1938, an increase of 2.8 per cent. However, there were 12 less deaths for the month of September compared with the same moath of last year.

There were 15 pedestrians killed during September, 5 of them children, and 15 more of those killed were passengers in vehicles.

Kitzmiller Soccerites Ahead

Kitzmiller High school is almost sure of the southern half championship of the county in soccer. The team of that town defeated Kempton last Friday 10 to 3 and previously defeated Oakland 6 to 1. Kempton and Oakland tied Tuesday at Kempton 0-0.

A large part of Garrett county has been fortunate this year in not having a killing frost as yet, although there are indications that it will not be long before such is the case. Usually the growing season here is not much over 100 days but this year there have been at least 165 days without a killing frost. That doesn't include any days in April. Although leaves have turned in many instances there are still some trees waiting for the frost to give added color to the foliage. Flowers continue to bloom in abundance, and in a number of instances tomato and bean vines have revived to produce more food for the table.

Mrs. Charles E. Duckworth, of the Gorman community, will offer at public auction at her farm home on Saturday, October 21, household goods, implements, etc., and the Thompson-Hilleary farm consisting of 476 acres of excellent land.

JULY FOURTH PRANK IS COSTLY TO TWO YOUTHS

R. Utterback And Guy Gregg Each Fined $150 In Federal Court

A Fourth of July prank cost two local young men $150 each, they found out in the United States district court in Baltimore last Thursday.

The fines were imposed on Robert B. Utterback, Mt. Lake Park, and Guy Gregg, of Deer Park, by Judge William C. Coleman.

Both young men had pleaded guilty to charges of "blowing up" a mailbox and destroying mail. Federal officers testified they deliberately placed a lighted firecracker in an Oakland mailbox, corner of Green and Second streets, on the morning of July 4.

As a result the mailbox, letters and checks were blown in several directions. Fortunately nothing was destroyed that could not be duplicated, it was found upon examination by postal authorities. Enough of the letters remained that could be pieced together. The mailbox, however, was completely demolished.

Students' League of Many Lands Coming To Mountain Lake

The Students' League of Many Nations, a group of sixteen people, are coming to the Baptist church at Mountain Lake Park on Saturday evening, October 14, at 7:30 o'clock, for a union service.

The Students' League was organized several years ago by Dr. John A. Davis, founder and late president of the Practical Bible Training School of Binghampton, New York. Dr. Davis chose this means of advertising the school which has prepared many for the Christian ministry.

The union meeting in Mountain Lake is made possible by cooperation between Rev. E. A. Crites, pastor of the U. B. church, and Rev. William B. Orndorff, pastor of the Baptist circuit. The group will break up on Sunday morning and go two by two into the different Sunday schools and services of the several community churches.

The members will be entertained in the homes of church members at the Park. The students are in charge of Rev. M. C. Patterson, vice-president of the Training school.

State Legion Commander To Be At Special Meeting Here

A special meeting which will be a joint affair for both the Kitzmiller and Oakland Legion Posts, has been called for Friday evening, October 20, at 8 o'clock at the Manhattan Hotel, Oakland, according to F. R. Shaffer, commander of Proctor Kildow Post No. 71, American Legion.

The meeting has been called by Wesley H. Abrams, district vice-commander, Cumberland, for the purpose of becoming acquainted with the State officers who are to attend. James B. Fitzgerald, department commander of Maryland, and J. Nelson Tribby, department adjutant, will be at the meeting.

Mr. Shaffer is urging all ex-service men, whether members of the Legion or not, to attend this meeting.

Has Big Potato Yield

Apparently verifying statements made in The Republican recently concerning the superlative qualities of Garrett county potatoes and the fact that Maryland soil is productive for this crop, is the announcement this week that on the modern farm of Lloyd Kamp, near Grantsville, there was a yield of 3,185 bushels of potatoes from eight acres, or almost 400 bushels to the acre.

Mr. Kamp has been one of the county's leading potato producers for a number of years.

An outing of unusual interest was enjoyed by members of the Men's Bible class of the Methodist church last Sunday when, upon invitation of Joseph J. Davis, they visited Meadow Mountain CCC camp and were guests for dinner. The visitors were shown thru the various buildings composing the reservation and saw the work done by the boys in remodeling and decorating, the reading room and the wood-working shop. The commander told of the work being done and ambitions for the future. After the dinner the visitors were taken in trucks to the various working projects, to the picnic ground, camping grounds, week-end cabins and other recreational facilities. An impression left on the visitors was the cleanliness of the kitchen, dining hall and entire surroundings.
